(13) The Secretary of State on receipt of the certificate of the appointed medical practitioner or, as the case may be, of the medical referee under sub-paragraph (12) above may, if the pensioner's degree of disablement has altered, reassess the amount of the pension accordingly subject to the limits prescribed by paragraph 4 of the First Schedule to the Act of 1921 and, if the pensioner's incapacity has permanently ceased, reduce the pension of a reversionary member of a home police force to the pension that would have been payable to him on Scale No. 6 in the Table subjoined to Part I of the First Schedule to the Act of 1921 and may end the pension of any other person.

(14) If a claimant or, as the case may be, a pensioner refuses or wilfully or negligently fails to submit himself for examination by an appointed medical practitioner or a medical referee under this paragraph or refuses or wilfully or negligently fails in connection with such examination to supply the practitioner or referee with any information, the Secretary of State may deal with him in all respects as if certificates under sub-paragraphs (5) and (8) of this paragraph of such a nature as the Secretary of State may determine had been issued.

7. Appeals other than medical.—(1) Subsection (1) of section 17 of the Act of 1921 shall not apply to a grant payable or claimed to be payable by the Secretary of State under these Regulations.

(2) Where—

(a) a pension or allowance granted by the Secretary of State under these Regulations is subsequently, in pursuance of the Act of 1921 as applied by these Regulations, declared by him to have been forfeited.

(b) any person claims as of right from the Secretary of State a grant under these Regulations and the Secretary of State does not admit the claim, or

(c) any person claims as of right from the Secretary of State a grant under these Regulations larger than that granted to that person, the person aggrieved may apply to the Secretary of State for a reconsideration of the case and, if aggrieved by his decision upon such reconsideration, may appeal to an appeal tribunal.

(3) An appeal tribunal shall be appointed by the Secretary of State if any person notifies him of his desire to appeal to such a tribunal under sub-paragraph (2) and may be appointed either to hear all appeals under the said sub-paragraph or to hear any particular appeal or class or description of appeal.

(5) If the appeal tribunal decide that the evidence before the appointed medical practitioner or, if there has been an appeal to a medical referee, before that referee was inaccurate or inadequate, they may refer the matter again to the practitioner or, as the case may be, the referee to consider the matter again and issue any amended certificate he thinks proper.

(6) Subject to any general or special directions of the Secretary of State an appeal tribunal shall determine its own procedure.

(7) The provisions of subsection (2) of section 17 of the Act of 1921 shall have effect in relation to any decision of an appeal tribunal with the substitution for references to quarter sessions of references to the appeal tribunal.

(3) Where a person who was in receipt of a special pension which has ceased under the provisions of sub-paragraph (2) above subsequently becomes incapacitated for the performance of his duty or dies, his rights under the Act of 1921 and the rights of any other person in respect of him under that Act against the police authority of any force of which he was a member after ceasing to be a member of the Corps shall be determined as if the injury on account of which he received the special pension which has ceased had been received otherwise than in the execution of his duty.

9. Application of sections 29 (3) and 31 of Act of 1921.—The references in subsection (3) of section 29 and in section 31 of the Act of 1921 to the provisions of that Act shall have effect in relation to the Corps and service in the Corps as references to the provisions of that Act as applied by these Regulations.

10. Averaging of pay for pension in case of recent promotion.—(1) For the purposes of paragraphs 6 and 10 of the First Schedule to the Act of 1921 the ranks of Police Staff Officer Grade III and Police Staff Officer Grade IV shall be deemed to be the rank of inspector, and all higher ranks in the Corps shall be deemed to be ranks higher than that of inspector.

(2) For the purpose of proviso (i) to sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph 20 of the First Schedule to the Act of 1921 an appointment to the Corps shall, in the case of a reversionary member of a home police force, be deemed to be a promotion.

(3) Sub-paragraph (b) of the said paragraph 20 shall not apply to the Corps.

11. Interpretation.—In this Schedule the expression "disabled" means disabled by infirmity of mind or body to such an extent as would incapacitate a

19. The decision of the chief officer of police shall be written upon the misconduct form and at once notified to the accused, who shall write on the misconduct form his acknowledgment of his having read the decision. [3243]

20B.—(1) The chief officer of police may suspend from duty a member of the force against whom a report or complaint suggesting the commission of an offence against discipline is made. Such suspension from duty may continue until the disciplinary proceedings arising out of the said report or complaint have been concluded.

(2) A reduction in pay, without reduction in rank, shall not reduce a man's pay below the minimum of the scale of pay for his rank in the force. [3248]

23. The infliction of a fine shall not cause any advance in pay (except any additional or any special increment which is subject to good conduct as provided in the Regulations relating to pay) to be retarded or withheld. [3249]

24. The amount of a fine imposed by way of punishment for any one offence shall not exceed one week's pay and shall be recovered by stoppage of pay in amounts not exceeding one day's pay in any week, except in the event of a man leaving the force, when the whole amount of any fine then unpaid may be deducted from any pay then due. [3262]

36. When the normal period of duty of any member of a police force is so extended, or he is recalled to do duty after his normal hours, so that in any week the aggregate of any periods of duty in excess of the normal period of duty amounts to half an hour or more, he shall be granted, if and as soon as the exigencies of duty will permit, time off from duty equal to the said aggregate:

(2) If in the opinion of the chief officer of police the exigencies of duty do not permit the grant of leave under the preceding paragraph within such reasonable time (not exceeding three months) as he may fix, the man, provided he is below the rank of superintendent, shall be granted a non-pensionable payment for each such day on which he was required to perform duty at the rate prescribed by paragraph (1) of Regulation 37 or, in any case to which that paragraph does not apply, either at the rate of one-sixth of his pay in respect of the week in which such day fell or the sum of £2, whichever amount is the greater. [3267]

(b) dispense with the period of probation if the constable has transferred with the written consent of the chief officer of police from another force to which the Police Act, 1919, applies or applied after having completed the required period of probation in that force, or

(c) dispense with the period of probation if the constable has served in a relevant auxiliary capacity for a period of not less than two years. [3332]

6. During the period of probation the services of any constable may be dispensed with at any time if the chief officer of police considers that she is not fitted, physically or mentally, to perform the duties of her office, or that she is not likely to become an efficient and well conducted constable :

Provided that a constable whose services are dispensed with under this Regulation shall be entitled to receive one week's notice or one week's pay in lieu thereof. [3333]

DISCIPLINE

7. Every woman member of the force against whom a report or complaint suggesting the commission of an offence against discipline is made shall, as soon as possible, be informed in writing of the exact charge against her. [3334]

8. The written charge must disclose an offence against discipline as defined in the code of offences against discipline of the force, with such details of time and place as will leave the accused under no misapprehension as to the offence with which she is charged. [3335]

9. The written charge, which shall be entered on a form provided for the purpose (hereinafter referred to as the misconduct form), together with the report or complaint on which the charge is founded, and all reports thereon (whether confidential or otherwise) or copies thereof, shall be handed or sent as soon as practicable to the accused, who shall initial them to show that she has seen them. She shall either be allowed to retain for purposes of her defence the copies of the reports which are handed to her or shall be given a reasonable opportunity to make copies of the reports for that purpose. [3336]

10. The accused shall be directed to state in writing upon the misconduct form whether she admits or denies the charge and shall be allowed to give any explanation which she may wish to offer in writing. She shall also be allowed to state whether she desires to offer her explanation personally to the chief officer of police and shall, if she desires it, be given an opportunity of so doing. [3337]

11. The accused shall also be allowed to state the names of any witnesses to material facts whom she desires to be present when the charge is heard. Any such witnesses who are members of the police force shall be ordered to attend, and any witnesses who are not members of the force shall be given due notice that their attendance is desired and of the place and time of the hearing. [3338]

12. If the accused denies the charge, she shall, unless the chief officer of police is satisfied with the explanation she has offered, be ordered to appear before the chief officer of police and shall have an opportunity of hearing the evidence against her and of cross-examining the witnesses and of calling witnesses in her defence. [3339]

13. The decision of the chief officer of police shall be written upon the misconduct form and at once notified to the accused, who shall write on the misconduct form her acknowledgment of her having read the decision. [3340]

14.—(1) In the case of the metropolitan police the procedure in discipline cases shall be as specially approved by the Secretary of State and published in the General Orders of that force.

(2) In the case of a borough police force, the decision of the chief officer of police shall, subject to any general directions of the watch committee, be either—

(i) to dismiss the case, or

(ii) to remit the case to the watch committee for further hearing, or

(iii) to award a punishment as provided in Regulation 15 :

Provided that any punishment other than a caution shall be subject to confirmation by the watch committee, and any woman member of the force who feels aggrieved by a decision of the chief officer of police awarding a punishment shall be entitled to appear before the watch committee upon giving notice in writing to the chief officer of police forthwith or at any later date not less than three clear days before her case is to be laid before the committee. [3341]

14A. The following provisions shall have effect with respect to disciplinary proceedings before the chief officer of police and also to proceedings before the watch committee :—

(1) if the accused so desires, she shall be allowed to have a serving member of a police force, selected by herself, to assist her in presenting her case :

(2) if the accused absconds or refuses or neglects without good and sufficient cause to attend the proceedings at the time and place appointed, or is serving a sentence of imprisonment or penal servitude, the case may be decided in her absence. [3342]

14B.—(1) The chief officer of police may suspend from duty a woman member of the force against whom a report or complaint suggesting the commission of an offence against discipline is made. Such suspension from duty may continue until the disciplinary proceedings arising out of the said report or complaint have been concluded.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Regulation, these Regulations shall continue to apply to a woman member of the force who is suspended from duty.

(3) A woman member of the force who has been suspended from duty shall not be entitled in respect of the period of suspension to pay or to uniform allowance, plain-clothes allowance, detective allowance, extra duty allowance or temporary duty allowance, but shall be paid a suspension allowance at such rate not less than one-half and not exceeding two-thirds of her pay as the chief officer of police may determine :

Provided that in the case of a member of the force who has been convicted of an offence summarily or on indictment no suspension allowance shall be payable in respect of any period of imprisonment or penal servitude.

(4) A member of the force who, having been suspended from duty, returns to duty without having been found guilty of any offence shall receive, as from the date of her suspension from duty, her pay and any of the said allowances of which she was in receipt immediately prior to her suspension from duty, less any amount paid to her by way of suspension allowance. [3343]

15. An offence against discipline may be punished by—

(1) dismissal;
(2) being required to resign forthwith, or at such date as may be ordered (as an alternative to dismissal);
(3) reduction in rank;
(4) reduction in rate of pay;
(5) forfeiture of merit or good conduct badges (except such as have been granted for an act of courage or bravery);
(6) fine;
(7) reprimand;
(8) caution.

Every punishment, except a caution, shall be entered on the woman's personal record. A caution shall not be so entered. [3344]

16.—(1) A reduction in pay, without reduction in rank, shall be limited to a definite period, which shall be stated in the order by which the punishment is inflicted and shall not exceed twelve months, and at the end of the stated period the woman shall be advanced to the rate of pay to which she would have been entitled but for the punishment awarded her, unless the period of reduction has in the meantime been extended by way of punishment for a further offence against discipline.

(2) A reduction in pay, without reduction in rank, shall not reduce a woman's pay below the minimum of the scale of pay for her rank in the force. [3345]

17. The infliction of a fine shall not cause any advance in pay (except any additional or any special increment which is subject to good conduct as provided in the Regulations relating to pay) to be retarded or withheld. [3346]

18. The amount of a fine imposed by way of punishment for any one offence shall not exceed one week's pay and shall be recovered by stoppage of pay in amounts not exceeding one day's pay in any week, except in the event of a woman leaving the force when the whole amount of any fine then unpaid may be deducted from any pay then due. [3347]

19. Every report or complaint alleging the commission of any offence against discipline by a woman member of the force (other than an anonymous allegation unsupported by evidence) shall be duly entered, together with particulars of the action taken thereon, in the disciplinary report book of the force or the divisional disciplinary report book, as the case may be. [3348]

PROMOTION

20. Promotion up to the rank of inspector shall, subject to qualifying examinations in police duties and educational subjects, be by selection, and every woman member of a police force who is promoted to the rank of sergeant or inspector shall be on probation in that rank for a period of one year. [3349]

20A.—(1) A woman member of a police force who is required to perform the duties of a higher rank may be promoted temporarily to that rank.

(2) A woman member of a police force who is promoted substantively or temporarily and has, less than two years before the date of promotion, held the same rank on a temporary promotion thereto shall, for the purpose of increments in the scale of pay for that rank, be entitled to aggregate all her former service in that rank on temporary promotion. [3350]

21.—(1) No woman member of a police force shall be promoted to the rank of sergeant or inspector, unless—

(a) if a constable, she has completed five years' service and has for the last two years been free from punishment other than reprimand or caution, and if a sergeant, she has completed two years in that rank free from punishment other than reprimand or caution;

(b) she has passed the examination in educational subjects and, after having completed not less than four years' service, the examination in police duties for promotion to sergeant or inspector, as the case may be:

Provided that—

(i) a woman member of a police force may be promoted before she has completed five years' service, or may be permitted to take the qualifying examinations before she has completed four years' service, if the chief officer of police, or in the case of a borough police force the watch committee, is satisfied that she possesses special qualifications for the performance of the particular duties on which she is to be employed;

(ii) the chief officer of police may dispense with the examination in educational subjects if he is satisfied that the sergeant or constable has passed an examination of an equivalent or higher standard.

(2) For the purposes of this Regulation, the expression "years' service" means, subject to the provisions of paragraph (4) of Regulation 80A, years of pensionable service and service in a relevant auxiliary capacity. [3351]

22. The examinations shall be conducted by means of written papers or oral examinations, or both, upon the following subjects:—

(3) The papers on the educational subjects (b), (c), (d) and (e) shall be set and marked by a central examining authority approved by the Secretary of State, or such other competent examining body as the police authority of the force may select. The examinations in police duties and, where necessary, the educational subjects (a) and

(f) shall be conducted by the chief officer of police or, where the size of the force permits, a board of officers acting under his directions.

(4) The examinations shall be held as often as may be required, and, subject to the provisions of Regulation 25, any woman member of a police force who has given due notice to the chief officer of police shall be entitled to sit—

(a) for either examination in educational subjects, and

(b) after she has completed four years' service within the meaning of Regulation 21 for the examination in police duties for promotion to sergeant or inspector, as the case may be. [3352]

23. The object of the required examinations is to test the educational and theoretical knowledge of the candidate, and the fact that she has passed them shall not entitle her to promotion or to promotion before another member of the force who has passed the examination at a later date. [3353]

24. After each examination a list giving the names of the candidates who have passed shall be published to the force or forces concerned. The result of each examination shall be marked on the record of each candidate so as to show that, on the date in question, she passed or failed to pass, and a list shall be kept of all members of the force who have passed the respective examinations. [3354]

25. A candidate who fails to pass the examination in educational subjects or police duties shall be informed of the subject or subjects in which she has failed to pass, and failure to pass shall not disqualify a candidate from presenting herself at a future examination after an interval of not less than one year. [3355]

HOURS OF DUTY

26. Every woman member of a police force shall carry out all lawful orders and shall at all times punctually and promptly perform all appointed duties and attend to all matters within the scope of her office as a constable. [3356]

27.—(1) The normal daily period for which constables, sergeants and inspectors shall be required to perform their appointed police duties, shall be eight hours, exclusive of time occupied in parading for relief, waiting for relief and returning to station after relief:

Provided that where the duties performed are wholly or mainly patrol duty, the police authority may prescribe a period of seven hours or seven and a half hours as the normal daily duty period.

(2) Where the duties are performed in one tour an interval for refreshment shall be allowed which shall be one hour if the duties are wholly or mainly patrol duty and the duty period is seven and a half hours or more and otherwise shall be thirty minutes. [3357]

28. The normal period of duty may be extended by or under the directions of the chief officer of police on any particular day or for a specified period, as respects any woman member or members of the force; and nothing in these Regulations shall affect the obligation of any constable to carry out any lawful orders or to attend at any time to any matter to which it is her duty as a constable to attend. [3358]

29. When the normal period of duty of any woman member of a police force is so extended, or she is recalled to do duty after her normal hours, so that in any week the aggregate of any periods of duty in excess of the normal period of duty amounts to half an hour or more, she shall be granted, if and as soon as the exigencies of duty will permit, time off from duty equal to the said aggregate:

Provided that when a woman after returning home is recalled for any specific duty (including attendance at court) the period allowed as " time-off " shall cover, in addition to the actual period of duty, the time occupied in going from and returning to her home, not exceeding such reasonable limit as may be fixed by the chief officer of police; and in the case of a woman who has worked a full tour of night duty and is summoned from her home to do duty before 3.30 p.m., the period allowed as " time-off " under this Regulation shall be not less than four hours.

In this Regulation " week " means that period of seven days beginning and ending at the same times as those on which the pay of constables in the force in question is normally calculated. [3359]

30.—(1) Where, in the opinion of the chief officer of police, the exigencies of duty do not permit of any sergeant or constable being granted the whole period of " time-off " from duty under the preceding Regulation within such reasonable period (not exceeding three months) as the chief officer of police may fix, the woman shall be granted in lieu of so much of the period of " time-off " as has not been granted to her, being not less than one hour, a non-pensionable payment at the rate of 3s. 9d. an hour for a sergeant and 3s. 3d. an hour for a constable.

(2) Where a sergeant or constable is engaged on duty involving her employment for irregular periods beyond the normal duty period so that the extension thereof cannot be definitely assessed and " time-off " cannot be granted, she may be granted, in lieu of all payments under paragraph (1) of this Regulation, a non-pensionable commuted payment at the rate provided in Regulation 63. [3360]

31. The provisions of Regulations 29 and 30 shall not apply—

(a) if a woman is warned to be in readiness for duty if required, but is not actually recalled to duty;

(b) if she is paid in respect of the same incident of duty a detective allowance, a detachment duty allowance, an extra duty allowance, or any other allowance granted in respect of her being engaged beyond the normal duty period:

Provided that the hours of duty of a detective shall be subject to such adjustments as may be approved by the chief officer of police to meet occasions when exceptionally long hours of duty have been worked;

(c) if she is engaged on casual escort duty. [3361]

32. Where a woman member of a police force to whom the Police (Weekly Rest Day) Act, 1910, applies is required to perform duty on a day which would otherwise have been a rest day, she shall be granted another rest day in lieu if and as soon as the exigencies of duty will permit; and if, in the opinion of the chief officer of police, the exigencies of duty do not permit of the grant of another rest day within such reasonable period (not exceeding three months) as he may fix, the woman shall be granted a non-pensionable payment at the rate prescribed by paragraph (1) of Regulation 30 or, in any case to which that paragraph does not apply, either at the rate of one-sixth of her pay in respect of the week in which the rest day on which she was required to do duty fell, or the sum of 35s., whichever amount is the greater. [3362]

32A.—(1) Every woman member of a police force shall so far as the exigencies of duty permit be granted a day's leave on each of the following days, namely, Christmas Day, Good Friday and the Bank Holidays as defined in the Bank Holidays Act, 1871, and if owing to the exigencies of duty a woman is required to perform duty on any of the aforesaid days she shall be granted a day's leave in lieu of each such day if and as soon as the exigencies of duty permit.

(2) If in the opinion of the chief officer of police the exigencies of duty do not permit the grant of leave under the preceding paragraph within such reasonable time (not exceeding three months) as he may fix, the woman, provided she is of the rank of chief inspector or sub-divisional inspector (if such ranks are adopted under Regulation 1) or of the rank of inspector or any lower rank, shall be granted a non-pensionable payment for each such day on which she was required to perform duty at the rate prescribed by paragraph (1) of Regulation 30 or, in any case to which that paragraph does not apply, either at the rate of one-sixth of her pay in respect of the week in which such day fell, or the sum of 35s., whichever amount is the greater. [3363]

32B. On any occasion or occasions of emergency within the meaning of the Police (Weekly Rest Day) Act, 1910, the Secretary of State may direct that the provisions of Regulations 29, 30, 31, 32 and 32A shall apply only to such extent and under such conditions as he may prescribe. [3364]

34. Any officers not entitled to a weekly rest day shall, so far as the exigencies of duty permit, be granted in each complete calendar year leave of absence of not less than forty-two days, with an additional six days in each year after completing ten years' service in the rank, and shall also be allowed leave for one day and a half in each calendar month. force, shall, on retiring from the force of which he is a member, be entitled to an award under these Regulations.

(2) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations, every man or woman who is permanently disabled as the result of any injury or disease whether of body or mind (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as " an injury ") received in the execution of his duty as a member of a police force without his own default shall be entitled to an award under these Regulations on retiring from the police force or, where he has retired before becoming disabled, on the date when he becomes so disabled which, if it cannot be ascertained, shall be taken to be the date when the claim that he is disabled is first made known to the police authority.

(3) The widow of a man who has been a member of a police force shall, in the circumstances specified in these Regulations, be entitled to an award.

(4) The child, step-child, illegitimate child and adopted child (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as the " child ") of a man or woman who has been a member of a police force and has died shall be entitled on the death of that man or woman to an award in the circumstances specified in these Regulations :

3. Duration, amount and payment of awards.—(1) A pension shall be for life unless it is forfeited under the Act or varied, suspended or terminated under these Regulations.

PART II

(2) The amount of the said pension or gratuity shall be determined in accordance with Parts II and III of the First Schedule to these Regulations. [3433]

Act, for the purpose of making the assessment by reference to which the gratuity became payable. [3435]

If after becoming entitled on giving due notice to retire and receive an ordinary pension a regular policeman is dismissed otherwise than for a cause for which a pension granted to him could have been forfeited, he shall for the purposes of these Regulations be treated as if he had retired on the date on which he is dismissed and had given one month's written notice of his intention so to do. [3437]

10. Awards to servicemen.—(1) If a serviceman at the end of his relevant period of service in the armed forces of the Crown is permanently disabled, he shall be entitled to the same award on the same conditions in all respects as if he had retired at the end of the said period on the ground of disablement.

(2) If a serviceman within one month from the end of the said period does not resume service in the force in circumstances in which no award is payable to him under these Regulations and does not become a regular policeman in another force with the written consent of the chief officer of police of the former force or if he was immediately before the beginning of the said period the chief officer of police of the former force the written consent of the police authority of that force, these Regulations shall have effect as if he had retired from the force at the end of the said period. (2) If a serviceman (1939–1945) becomes entitled to an award under paragraph (1), the police authority may, in their discretion, pay him a pension in lieu of a gratuity at a rate not less than the amount, which shall be increased in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (6) of Regulation 69, of one-twelfth of his pensionable pay and may, in their discretion, increase any pension subject to and in accordance with Part V of the First Schedule to these Regulations.

(3) If a serviceman (1939–1945) resumes or has resumed his service as a regular policeman and is permanently disabled as a result of an injury received while serving in His Majesty's forces, the police authority may exercise the same discretion as is conferred on them by paragraph (2).

(4) If a serviceman (1939–1945) not being prevented, within the meaning of paragraph 1, from resuming service does not resume service, these Regulations shall have effect as if he had retired at the end of the period mentioned in the said paragraph for reasons other than disablement. [3439]

7. Policeman's supplemental pension.—(1) Where a member of a police force or a person who has been a member of a police force is permanently disabled as a result of an injury received in the execution of his duty without his own default, the award shall include a supplemental pension in respect of any week in respect of which—

(a) none of the payments described in paragraph (3) is payable to him, or

(2) The amount of the supplemental pension in respect of any week shall—

(a) if none of the said payments is payable in respect of that week, be equal to the said appropriate standard amount, and

(b) if one or more of the said payments is payable in respect of that week, be equal to the difference between that payment or, as the case may be, the aggregate of those payments and the said appropriate standard amount.

(3) The payments referred to in paragraph (1) are—

(a) any injury benefit or disablement pension payable under the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946,

(b) any sickness benefit payable under the National Insurance Act, 1946, until the first day after his retirement which is not or is deemed not to be a day of incapacity for work under section eleven of the last-mentioned Act or regulations made thereunder, and

Act, for the purpose of making the assessment by reference to which the gratuity became payable. [3435]

8. If after becoming entitled on giving due notice to retire and receive an ordinary pension a regular policeman is dismissed otherwise than for a cause for which a pension granted to him could have been forfeited, he shall for the purposes of these Regulations be treated as if he had retired on the date on which he is dismissed and had given one month's written notice of his intention so to do. [3437]

10. Awards to servicemen.—(1) If a serviceman at the end of his relevant period of service in the armed forces of the Crown is permanently disabled, he shall be entitled to the same award on the same conditions in all respects as if he had retired at the end of the said period on the ground of disablement.

(2) If a serviceman within one month from the end of the said period does not resume service in the force in circumstances in which no award is payable to him under these Regulations and does not become a regular policeman in another force with the written consent of the chief officer of police of the former force or if he was immediately before the beginning of the said period the chief officer of police of the former force the written consent of the police authority of that force, these Regulations shall have effect as if he had retired from the force at the end of the said period. 45. Withdrawal of pension during re-employment.—A police authority by whom a pension is payable under these Regulations may, in their discretion, withdraw the whole or any part of the pension for any period during which the pensioner is employed as a regular policeman in any police force. [3473]

(4) The certificate of the selected medical practitioner on the questions referred to him under the preceding provisions of this Regulation shall, subject to the provisions of Regulations 48 and 49, be final. [3475]

Appeal to medical referee.—(1) Where a person has been informed of the determination of the police authority on any question which involves the reference of questions under Regulation 47 to a selected medical practitioner, he shall, if, within fourteen days after being so informed or such further period as the police authority may in any case allow, he applies to the police authority for a copy of the certificate of the selected medical practitioner, be supplied with such a copy.

(2) If the person concerned is dissatisfied with the decision of the selected medical practitioner as set out in his certificate, he may, within fourteen days after being supplied with the certificate or such longer period as the police authority may allow and subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the Fourth Schedule to these Regulations, give notice to the police authority that he appeals against the said decision, and the police authority shall notify the Secretary of State accordingly, and the Secretary of State shall appoint an independent person or persons (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as the " medical referee ") to decide the appeal.

Further reference to medical referee.—(1) A court hearing an appeal under section five of the Act or a tribunal hearing an appeal under Regulation 51 may, if they consider that the evidence before the medical authority who has given the final decision was inaccurate or inadequate, refer the decision of that authority to him for resonsideration in the light of such facts as the court or the tribunal may direct, and the medical authority shall accordingly reconsider his decision and, if necessary, issue a fresh certificate which, subject to any further reconsideration under this paragraph, shall be final.

(2) The police authority and the claimant may, by agreement, refer any final decision of a medical authority who has given such a decision to him for reconsideration on fresh evidence and he shall accordingly reconsider his decision and, if necessary, issue a fresh certificate which, subject to any further reconsideration under this paragraph or paragraph (1), shall be final.

(3) If a court or tribunal decide, or a claimant and the police authority agree, to refer a decision to the medical authority for reconsideration under this Regulation and that medical authority is unable or unwilling to act, the decision may be referred to a duly qualified medical practitioner selected by the court or tribunal or, as the case may be, agreed upon by the claimant and the police authority, and his decision shall have effect as if it were that of the medical authority who gave the decision which is to be reconsidered.

(4) In this Regulation references to a medical authority who has given a final decision mean the selected medical practitioner if the time for appeal from his decision has expired without an appeal to a medical referee being made and the medical referee, if there has been such an appeal. [3477]

(b) if the question arises on an appeal to a medical referee, the appeal shall be deemed to be withdrawn. [3478]

51. (2) The Secretary of State, on receiving such a notice of appeal, shall appoint an appeal tribunal consisting of a barrister or solicitor of not less than seven years' standing, a duly qualified medical practitioner of not less than seven years' standing and a retired member of an overseas corps or of a home police force who, before he retired, held a rank not lower than that of Deputy Assistant Inspector-General or, as the case may be, of superintendent.

(3) Subject to any general or special directions of the Secretary of State, the appeal tribunal shall determine its own procedure.

Payment of awards.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations, every pension or allowance payable thereunder shall, subject to such delay as may be necessary for the purpose of determining any question as to the liability of the police authority in respect thereof, be discharged by payments in advance at such reasonable intervals as the police authority may, in their discretion, determine.

(2) If it appears to the police authority that a pensioner is insane or otherwise incapable of managing his affairs, the authority may in their discretion pay the pension or any part thereof to any person having the care of the pensioner, and, in so far as they do not dispose of the pension in that manner, may apply it in such manner as they think fit for the benefit of the pensioner or his dependants.

(3) On the death of a pensioner to whom a sum not exceeding two hundred pounds is due on account of a pension, the police authority may, without probate, confirmation or any other formality or proof of title, pay the said sum to the persons appearing to the authority to be beneficially entitled to the personal estate of the deceased or, as the authority think fit, pay the said sum to one or more of those persons or distribute it among all or any of those persons in such proportions as the authority may determine.

(4) Where any sum is payable to a minor on account of a pension, the authority may, if they think fit, in lieu of paying the said sum to the minor, pay it to such other person as they may determine.

A person who receives any sum paid under this paragraph shall, subject to and in accordance with any directions of the police authority, apply the said sum for the minor's benefit.

(5) This Regulation shall apply with respect to other awards payable under these Regulations as it applies with respect to pensions, and accordingly any reference in this Regulation to a pension shall be construed as including a reference to any other award, and any reference therein to a pensioner shall be construed as including a reference to a person to whom any award is payable.

(2) The time at which, under paragraph (1), a person shall be required to retire may be postponed, if the person concerned holds a rank above that of superintendent, by the police authority and, if he holds the rank of superintendent or any lower rank, by the chief officer of police with the approval of the police authority in a borough force and by the chief officer of police in any other force :

Provided that no such postponement or postponements shall extend beyond five years from the time at which under paragraph (1) he would have been required to retire. [3482]

55. [3483]

56. Compulsory retirement on grounds of disablement.—Every regular policeman may be required to retire on the date on which the police authority determine that he ought so to retire on the ground that he is permanently disabled for the performance of his duty :

57. Effect of requirement to retire.—Where a person is required to retire under this Part of these Regulations he shall be deemed to retire on the date on which he is so required to retire. [3485] is entitled to reckon pensionable service or, as the case may be, approved service in the former force as such service in the latter, the police authority of the latter force shall be entitled, if they become liable to make any award under these Regulations to or in respect of that person, to a contribution of a proportionate part of such award from the police authority of the former force reckoned according to his service and pay while a member of the former force of an amount to be agreed between the authorities, or in default of agreement to be settled by arbitration.

(2) Where a regular policeman transfers or has transferred from a police force to which these Regulations apply to a police force to which the Police Pensions (Scotland) Regulations, 1948, apply in such circumstances that he is entitled to reckon pensionable service or, as the case may be, approved service in the former force as pensionable service within the meaning of the said Regulations, the police authority of the latter force shall be entitled, if they become liable to make an award under the said Regulations to or in respect of that person, to a contribution of a proportionate part of such award from the police authority of the former force reckoned according to his service and pay while a member of the former force of an amount to be agreed between the authorities or in default of agreement to be settled by arbitration.

(5) Where a regular policeman leaves a police force and joins the Royal Ulster Constabulary in such circumstances that, if the said Constabulary were a home police force, his so leaving and joining would be a transfer and the Government of Northern Ireland become liable to make payments under any legislation for the time being in force in Northern Ireland relating to pensions, allowances, gratuities, return of pension contributions or similar awards to or in respect of persons who have been members of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, the said Government shall be entitled to a contribution from the police authority of the said police force of such an amount as may be agreed between the said Government and the said police authority, or in default of such agreement settled by arbitration, and the arbitrator the pension shall be reduced accordingly, and after his death the police authority shall pay to the person so nominated, if that person survives him, a pension of such amount as, according to tables from time to time prepared by the Government Actuary, is actuarially equivalent, as at the time when the ordinary or short service pension first became payable, to that part of the pension which he has surrendered.

(2) A regular policeman shall not be entitled under this Regulation to surrender a part of his pension in favour of any person other than his wife or her husband unless the police authority are satisfied that that person is dependent to a substantial extent on the regular policeman when he gives notice of his desire so to surrender part of his pension. [3489]

62. Minimum pension of ex-reversionary member of home police force.—Where a person who has been a reversionary member of a home police force becomes a regular policeman in a home police force and an award becomes payable to or in respect of him by reason of his having received an injury in the execution of his duty as a member of an oversea corps without his own default, the award shall not be less than it would have been if he had not after being a reversionary member of a home police force become such a regular policeman. [3491]

63. Special arrangements for pensions in respect of members of overseas corps with previous police service outside Great Britain.—Notwithstanding anything in these Regulations, where the Secretary of State is satisfied that a member of an overseas corps before becoming such a member had been engaged in the performance of police duties in any country or territory outside Great Britain, and that under legislation in force in that country or territory grants were, at the time he became such a member, payable to or in respect of persons similarly engaged on their retirement or, as the case may be, death, the Secretary of State may, in accordance with any agreement made with that person in consideration of his becoming a member of the overseas corps, make awards, in addition to any award payable under these Regulations, to or in respect of that person payable to such persons on such conditions and of such a nature and amount as will ensure that the awards and any grants under the said legislation taken together are on the whole not less favourable to the persons concerned than they would have been if the said police duties had been performed as a regular member of a home police force and the member of the overseas corps had been a reversionary member of a home police force. [3492]

64. Pensionable service in respect of certain members of overseas corps.—Where a reversionary member of a home police force has served in an overseas corps for one year or less he shall be treated for all purposes of reckoning pensionable service as if the condition as to completion of not less than one year's approved service contained in subsection (1) of section eight of the Police Pensions Act, 1921, had not been applied by any regulations made under the Police (Overseas Service) Act, 1945. [3493]

65. Lincolnshire.—Notwithstanding anything in these Regulations—

(a) the Lincolnshire joint police superannuation fund shall continue to be maintained and managed in the same manner as it was immediately before the appointed day until the police authorities for the three divisions of Lincolnshire otherwise agree or until any one of the three forces ceases to have the same chief constable as the other two, whichever shall first happen ;

(b) the police authorities of any two of the three police forces which have the same chief constable may maintain a joint police superannuation fund to be managed and maintained as may be agreed from time to time between them ;

(c) as long as there is a joint police superannuation fund for any two or more of the said divisions the forces of the divisions with the said joint fund shall be treated for the purposes of these Regulations as one force, and the fund out of and into which all payments which under these Regulations or the Police Pensions Acts are to be made out of or into the police fund shall be the joint fund :

Provided that in the case of any insufficiency in the joint fund nothing in this Regulation shall relieve the police authority of any liability in respect of the award to which they would be subject if this Regulation had not been made ;

(d) if a joint fund comes to an end the assets of the fund shall be distributed among the police authorities concerned in such manner as they may agree or, if they fail to agree, in such manner as may be decided by arbitration. [3494]

[(1) The pensionable pay of a member of a police force shall be his pay at the rate to which he was entitled immediately before the relevant date for the purposes of calculation.

(1A) The relevant date in the case of calculations for the purposes of pension contributions is the date on which the contribution falls due and in the case of calculations for the purposes of awards—

CASES

Police—Metropolitan Police Force—Receiver for Metropolitan Police District—Treasurer of fund for the purposes of the police—Power to sue—Accident to police officer through negligence of third party—Hospital charges and officer's wages during illness paid by Receiver—Right of Receiver to recover expenses from third party—Metropolitan Police Act, 1829 (c. 44), s. 12—Metropolitan Police (Receiver) Act, 1861 (c. 124), s. 1.

Under the Metropolitan Police Act, 1829, ss. 10 and 12, the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District is appointed by the Crown as treasurer of the fund for the purposes of the police and is an agent and servant of the Crown, his duties being (inter alia) to pay the wages and allowances of members of the police force and " all other charges and expenses " as directed by a Secretary of State. By the Metropolitan Police (Receiver) Act, 1861, s. 1, the person holding the office of Receiver is a corporation sole with perpetual succession and with power to sue and be sued and " to do all other acts necessary or expedient to be done in the execution of the duties of his office."

Owing to the negligence of the defendant, a police officer was injured in an accident while on duty and had to be in hospital for some months. Under regulations made by the Home Secretary, the Receiver paid the hospital charges and the officer's pay and allowances while he was ill. In an action by the Receiver to recover these expenses from the defendant, it was contended by the defendant (i) that the claim for the hospital expenses should have been brought by the Attorney-General and not by the Receiver, and (ii) that the Receiver was not entitled to recover the pay and allowances paid to the officer while ill because such a claim must be based on the loss of a servant's services and the police officer was the servant, not of the Receiver, but of the Crown :—

Held : (i) the hospital charges resulting from the defendant's negligence were an expense which the Receiver was legally bound to incur and which he was, therefore, entitled to recover from the defendant, and, since the expenses were paid out of the fund of which the Receiver was the custodian on behalf of the Crown, he alone could bring the action.

(ii) the claim to recover the pay and allowances paid to the police officer during his illness was based, not on loss of service, but on the fact that the Receiver had been compelled by the defendant's negligence to pay the sums in question, and, therefore, the Receiver was entitled to recover.

Police—Pension—Widow's special pension—" Non-accidental injury "—" Special risks "—Heart disease aggravated by duty—Police Pensions Act, 1921 (c. 31), ss. 3 (b), 33 (3).

By the Police Pensions Act, 1921, s. 3 (b) : " Where . . . a member of a police force dies whilst serving in the force from the effects of an injury received in the execution of his duty . . . his widow shall be entitled, where the injury was accidental to a widow's ordinary pension, and where the injury was non-accidental to a widow's special pension." By s. 33 (3) : " Any injury intentionally inflicted, or incurred in the performance of a duty involving special risks, shall be deemed to be a non-accidental injury." By previous decisions of the Divisional Court, a disease can be an injury within the meaning of the Act.

A police officer died from the effects of heart disease which was aggravated by his duty, and his widow claimed a special pension under s. 3 (b), on the ground that his death was caused by a " non-accidental injury " :—

Held : although the definition in s. 33 (3) of the Act was not comprehensive, a " non-accidental injury " must be, or must be sui generis with, an injury intentionally inflicted, or incurred in the performance of a duty involving special risks, and the special risks must be risks special to the duty which the police officer was called on to perform and not risks special to the officer, and, therefore, the widow was not entitled to a special pension.—GORDON v. BARNSLEY POLICE AUTHORITY, [1948] 2 All E. NATIONAL ASSISTANCE ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 29)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

This Act, which received the Royal Assent on May 13, 1948, forms part of the new social security group of Acts which were introduced by the Family Allowances Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 340), and include the two National Insurance Acts, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 322, 412), and the National Health Service Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 515). The present Act is intended to provide for all those residual social needs not covered by the other Acts of the group and, except for ss. 37–40, relating to disabled and old persons' homes, came into force simultaneously with the Acts of 1946 on July 5, 1948 (see S.I. 1948 No. 1218).

The Act applies to all persons in Great Britain other than children under sixteen years of age who are without parents or guardians, who are protected by the Children Act, 1948 (see title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante).

The principal effect of the Act is to replace the existing poor law, finally abolished by Part I, and other public assistance services with a comprehensive system consisting of : (a) financial and other forms of assistance by the National Assistance Board, as the Assistance Board is re-named (Part II) ; and (b) accommodation and welfare services by the major local authorities (Part III).

The Act contains, in addition, a number of general and supplementary provisions (Part IV), including provision for the compulsory registration of disabled and old persons' homes (not yet brought into force) and a provision bringing the administration of the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1051), into line with the general scheme of the present Act.

The financial assistance provided by the National Assistance Board supersedes :

(1) Unemployment allowances paid by the Board under the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 786), as extended by the Unemployment Assistance (Emergency Powers) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1117), and under the Polish Resettlement Act, 1947, s. 2 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 671) ;

(2) Supplementary pensions paid by the Board under the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 511), as extended by the Pensions and Determination of Needs Act, 1943 (36 Halsbury's Statutes 323) ;

(3) Outdoor relief provided by local authorities under the Poor Law Act, 1930 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 968), as amended by the Poor Law Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 457) ;

(4) Payments to blind persons made by local authorities under the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938 (20 Halsbury's Statutes 593 ; 31 Halsbury's Statutes 812) ; and

(5) Allowances payable by local authorities under the war-time scheme to persons undergoing approved treatment for tuberculosis.

The Board, whose duties have hitherto been confined to assisting the special categories of persons to whom the enactments mentioned in (1) and (2), supra, relate, are now broadly required to provide assistance for all persons in need. Children under sixteen years of age without parents or guardians, however, are the responsibility of local authorities under the Children Act, 1948 (title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante), since their need is for personal care and protection rather than financial assistance.

Assistance from the Board will usually take the form of cash assistance grants (s. 8 (1)), though in special circumstances assistance in kind may be given (s. 12 (1)). Rules for computing the requirements and resources of applicants are contained in the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1334), made under the Act. These Regulations follow the general pattern of the corresponding regulations which previously governed the Board's administration of unemployment assistance and supplementary pensions. As required by the Act, the regulations make special provision for blind persons and for persons who suffer a loss of income to undergo treatment for tuberculosis of the respiratory system (s. 5 (3)).

The new uniform scale of assistance is, in general, more favourable to an applicant than the various scales under any of the Acts superseded by this Act, and special provision is made to safeguard a person previously in receipt of any form of assistance against loss of income resulting from the introduction of the new scale (Sched. VI, para. 3).

A person who persistently refuses or neglects to maintain himself or any person he is liable under the Act to maintain may be required to attend an approved course of instruction or training as a condition of receiving an assistance grant, or, in lieu of a grant, may be maintained in a re-establishment centre (s. 10). The Board are allowed a wide measure of discretion to deal with cases of urgency (s. 11).

Appeals from decisions of the Board with regard to assistance lie to the Appeal Tribunals constituted under the Act (s. 14). Each tribunal has jurisdiction in a particular district and consists of three persons, one appointed by the Board and two (including the chairman) appointed by the Minister of National Insurance (s. 53, Sched. V).

In addition to the making of assistance grants, the Board have functions with regard to (a) re-establishment centres, and (b) reception centres. Re-establishment centres are centres which the Board may, with the Minister's approval, provide, where persons in need of re-establishment through lack of regular occupation, training or instruction may be re-fitted for return to regular employment (s. 16). On the other hand, reception centres, which it is the duty of the Board to provide, will take the place of the former casual wards and afford temporary board and lodging for tramps and vagrants. Local authorities may be required to maintain reception centres on behalf of the Board, and casual wards in use on July 5, 1948, which remained vested in the local authority, became reception centres maintainable by the authority (s. 17, Sched. VI, para. 4).

The Board is, as formerly, to be advised by area advisory committees (s. 3); the committees constituted under the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 35 (3) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 787) will, until superseded, continue to act as if appointed under the present Act (Sched. VI, para. 2).

The Board is to make an annual report which the Minister is to lay before Parliament (s. 2 (4)).

The assistance to be provided by local authorities (county councils and county borough councils; s. 33 (1)), which is dealt with in Part III of the Act, consists in the provision of accommodation and of welfare services.

Residential accommodation is to be provided for persons who by reason of age, infirmity or any other circumstances are in need of care and attention not otherwise available to them, and temporary accommodation is to be available to meet emergencies (s. 21). It is the Government's intention that Local Authority homes should be free from the workhouse atmosphere of charity and similar, as far as possible, to private residential hotels. Accordingly, charges are to be made for the accommodation provided (s. 22). A standard charge is to be fixed by the authority calculated so as, generally, to reimburse the authority's expenditure without providing a profit. Charges may be reduced in the case of an applicant who is unable to pay in full, but in no case may they be reduced below 21*s.* a week (s. 22 (3) and the National Assistance (Charges for Accommodation) Regulations, 1948 ; S.I. 1948 No. 1385, post). This sum is calculated by reference to the amount of old age pension (see the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936 ; 29 Halsbury's Statutes 1052 ; and S. R. & O., 1946, No. 1400), and of retirement pension (see the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 20, Sched. II ; 39 Halsbury's Statutes 439, 493), which is in both cases 26*s.* a week. A person is entitled, after paying for his accommodation, to have left a prescribed weekly sum for his personal requirements (s. 22 (4)). The prescribed sum is 5*s.* (see the National Assistance (Charges for Accommodation) Regulations, 1948, supra). A person drawing old age or retirement pension will thus have exactly the sum required to pay the local authority the minimum charge and retain 5*s.* a week for his own use. Any person in a local authority home whose resources, calculated in accordance with the Act, are less than 26*s.* a week can apply to the National Assistance Board for an assistance grant to bring them up to that amount (see the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948, Sched., Part I, para. 5 ; S.I. 1948 No. 1334).

The local authority liable to provide residential accommodation is normally the authority in whose area the person is ordinarily resident, but in cases of urgent need accommodation must be provided by the authority in whose area the person actually is (ss. 24, 25). Any question concerning the ordinary residence of a person will be determined by the Minister of Health (s. 32 (3)).

Local authorities may make arrangements with voluntary organisations to provide accommodation in lieu or in supplementation of accommodation provided by them (s. 26).

Annual exchequer contributions, similar to the housing subsidy payable under the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 640), will be paid to local authorities in respect of premises in which approved accommodation under the Act is provided. These contributions will apply to premises acquired or constructed after October 31, 1947, and are designed to divide the cost involved between the Exchequer and the local authority in the ratio of three to one (s. 28).

Under the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938 (20 Halsbury's Statutes 593 ; 31 Halsbury's Statutes 812), which, so far as they affect local authorities, are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, it was the duty of local authorities to promote the welfare of blind persons. They now have power to provide welfare services not only for the blind but also for the deaf and dumb and other substantially and permanently handicapped persons. To such extent as the Minister may direct, and such a direction has been made in the case of blind persons, a local authority is under a duty of providing such services for persons ordinarily resident in its area. Welfare services may include instruction in handicapped persons' homes in methods of overcoming the effects of their disabilities, the provision of workshops and of hostels for persons employed in them, and the provision of recreational facilities (s. 29). Instead of themselves providing welfare services, local authorities may employ voluntary organisations as their agents for that purpose (s. 30).

Local authorities are to submit to the Minister of Health schemes for the exercise of their functions in connection with the provision of accommodation and welfare services (s. 34). Subject to the provisions of schemes, local authorities are to act under the general guidance of the Minister (s. 35 (2)), who is given power to secure the proper discharge of their duties in cases of default (s. 36).

Part IV of the Act contains a number of general and supplementary provisions. Provision is made for the compulsory registration of disabled persons' and old persons' homes by county councils and county borough councils (s. 37), and for the inspection and conduct of such homes (ss. 39, 40). Regulations may be made empowering a registration authority to limit the number of persons who may be received into a home (s. 40 (1)). These provisions were specifically excluded from the National Assistance Act (Appointed Day) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1218), post, which brought the rest of the Act into force on July 5, 1948, and no order bringing them into force had been made at the date of going to press.

Charities for disabled persons are also to be registered, the War Charities Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 47), which provided for the registration of war charities being extended and adapted for this purpose (s. 41).

For the purposes of the Act, liability for maintenance is limited to wife or husband and children, including illegitimate children (s. 42). The National Assistance Board and local authorities are empowered to recover the cost of assistance, including accommodation, from any person liable to maintain the person assisted

(s. 43), and affiliation orders may be made or varied to provide for the recovery of assistance given to illegitimate children (s. 44).

The Old Age Pensions Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1051), is amended so as to provide for the determination of claims and questions by the National Assistance Board instead of by local pension committees, and for a right of appeal to the Appeal Tribunal constituted under the present Act instead of to the Minister of National Insurance (s. 46).

Provision of general application is made, similar to that hitherto made in the case of London by the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, s. 224 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 566), under which persons in need of care and attention may be removed to suitable premises (s. 47). In addition, duties are placed on local authorities to provide protection for the moveable property of persons admitted to hospitals and homes (s. 48), and to dispose of the bodies of dead persons in their area in cases where no other suitable arrangements are made for that purpose (s. 50).

Other sections of the Act deal with failure to maintain (s. 51), legal proceedings (s. 56), the requisition of land (s. 58) and compensation for displaced officers (s. 60).

On the question of cost, the Financial Memorandum annexed to the Bill stated that it was not possible to estimate the cost of the accommodation to be provided by local authorities or the amount of the Exchequer grants payable in respect thereof. With regard to the welfare services for handicapped persons, it was estimated that the expenditure thereon falling to be met out of local rates might be of the order of £1,000,000 per annum. [3528]

PART I

INTRODUCTORY

1. Supersession of existing poor law.—The existing poor law shall cease to have effect, and shall be replaced by the provisions of Part II of this Act as to the rendering, out of moneys provided by Parliament, of assistance to persons in need, the provisions of Part III of this Act as to accommodation and other services to be provided by local authorities, and the related provisions of Part IV of this Act. [3530]

The existing poor law.—The poor law originated in the Poor Relief Act, 1601 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 477), and a multiplicity of enactments were subsequently passed which together with judicial decisions and regulations gave rise to a very complicated system of poor relief.

During the present century it has been generally recognised that the poor law system was a harsh one, and much progress was made, both by Act of Parliament and by administrative action in mitigating its harshness.

By the Local Government Act, 1929, s. 1 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 883), and the Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 1, 2 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 968, 969), the functions of the old poor law authorities, the Boards of Guardians, were transferred to county and county borough councils, acting under the central authority and control of the Minister of Health. The Act of 1930 was a consolidating measure, and was followed by two amending Acts, of 1934 and 1938 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 457 ; 31 Halsbury's Statutes 553).

As to the poor law, generally, see 12 Halsbury's Statutes 901 et seq., and 25 Halsbury's Laws (2nd Edn.) 365 et seq.

For definition of " existing poor law ", see s. 64 (1), post.

General note.—The present section abolishes the existing poor law and replaces it with the dual system established by the present Act under which the National Assistance Board are made responsible for the provision of financial and other forms of assistance and county and county borough councils for the provision of accommodation and welfare services for handicapped persons.

Public assistance committees, accordingly, cease to exist. Subject to any direction of the Minister under Sched. III, para. 7, the functions of local authorities under Part III of the Act are to be discharged by new committees established for that purpose (Sched. III, para. 7).

The enactments embodying the existing poor law are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

Local authorities.—" Local authority ", for the purposes of Part III of the Act, means a county council or county borough council (see s. 33 (1), post).

PART II

NATIONAL ASSISTANCE

The National Assistance Board

2. The National Assistance Board.—(1) The Assistance Board shall be known as the National Assistance Board, and in addition to the functions for the time being exercisable under any other enactment shall exercise the functions conferred on them by the following provisions of this Act. [3531]

(2) The National Assistance Board (hereafter in this Act referred to as " the Board ") shall exercise their functions in such manner as shall best promote the welfare of persons affected by the exercise thereof. [3532]

(3) For the purpose of securing the prompt discharge of their functions under this Act, the Board shall by regulations provide for the local administration of their said functions, and in particular, but subject to any arrangements for the discharge thereof by officers of another Government department or of a local authority, for the discharge by local officers of the Board of the functions of the Board in relation to applications for assistance and the decision of all questions arising thereon. [3533]

(4) Annual reports on the activities of the Board shall be made by the Board to the Minister of National Insurance, and the said Minister shall lay each report of the Board under this subsection before Parliament. [3534]

(5) The constitution and proceedings of the Board shall continue to be governed by the provisions set out in the First Schedule to this Act, being the provisions in that behalf of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934. [3535]

Assistance Board.—The Assistance Board was originally constituted as the Unemployment Assistance Board by s. 35 of the Unemployment Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 786), and was renamed the Assistance Board by s. 10 of the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 517). By sub-s. (1), supra, it now becomes the National Assistance Board. Its previous functions were concerned with unemployment allowances (see s. 35 (2) of the Act of 1934) and supplementary pensions (see s. 10 (3) of the Act of 1940). The Acts of 1934 and 1940 are now repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Regulations.—Regulations of the Board require confirmation by the Minister of National Insurance (s. 63 (1), post).

Under sub-s. (3), supra, and ss. 8 (3), 9 (1), 15, post, the Board have made the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations, 1948, and these are contained in the Schedule to the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations Confirmation Instrument, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1482), made by the Minister under s. 63, post.

Local administration.—Local education authorities operating a youth employment scheme under the Employment and Training Act, 1948, s. 10 (see title EDUCATION, ante) are required to perform such functions as may be prescribed in connection with the grant of assistance under the present Act to persons covered by the scheme ; see s. 11 of the said Act.

Annual report.—As to the first annual report of the Board, see Sched. VI, para. 1, post.

Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934.—For that Act, which consists of Part II of, and Scheds. VI–VIII to, the Unemployment Act, 1934 (see s. 57 (2) thereof), see 27 Halsbury's Statutes 786 et seq. The provisions of the Act of 1934 governing the constitution and proceedings of the Board which are reproduced by Sched. I, post, were contained in Sched. VI thereto (27 Halsbury's Statutes 820). The Unemployment Act, 1934, is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Definitions.—For definitions of " functions " and " local authority ", see s. 64 (1), post.

3. Advisory Committees.—(1) For the purpose of securing that full use is made of the advice and assistance, both on general questions and on difficult individual cases, of persons having local knowledge and experience in matters affecting the functions of the Board, the Board shall arrange for the establishment of advisory committees throughout Great Britain to act for such areas as the Board think fit. [3536]

(2) The Board shall pay to members of advisory committees appointed by the Board such travelling and other allowances (including compensation for loss of remunerative time) as the Board, after consultation with the Minister of National Insurance and with the consent of the Treasury, may determine. [3537]

Advisory committees.—Advisory committees appointed under this section will take the place of the advisory committees appointed by the Board under s. 35 (3) of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 787), which is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post. Unless and until the Board otherwise determine, the committees appointed under that section are to be deemed to be committees appointed under the present section (Sched. VI, para. 2 (1), post).

The new advisory committees will be closely linked, possibly by the overlapping of membership, with the local advisory committees appointed under s. 42 of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 456) and with the local employment committees of the Ministry of Labour and National Service, since in many cases their work will overlap. The administrative areas of the advisory committees will generally be coterminous with those of the committees under the 1946 Act, though it may be found advantageous to vary them slightly in certain localities (see H. of C. Official Report S.C.C., December 11, 1947, cols. 47, 55).

The Minister of National Insurance has stated his intention of drawing the attention of the Board to the desirability of appointing to the advisory committees former members of the local pension committees set up under s. 10 of the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1057), which are superseded (see s. 46, post) by the Appeal Tribunals established by the present Act (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 11, 1947, col. 56).

Persons having local knowledge and experience.—The Minister of National Insurance opposed an amendment moved on the committee stage designed to make it obligatory to include in every advisory committee at least one local government representative, on the ground that it might be interpreted as requiring the inclusion of only one such representative. He stated that on the 83 main advisory committees appointed under the Act of 1934 (see preceding note) there were 371 members nominated by local authorities, and gave an assurance that local authority representation was likely to increase rather than to diminish (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 11, 1947, col. 50).

Giving of Assistance by Board

4. Duty of Board to assist persons in need.—It shall be the duty of the Board in accordance with the following provisions of this Part of this Act to assist persons in Great Britain who are without resources to meet their requirements, or whose resources (including benefits receivable under the National Insurance Acts, 1946) must be supplemented in order to meet their requirements. [3538]

National Insurance Acts, 1946.—These are the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 412), and the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 322). The collective title was given by s. 80 of the former Act (39 Halsbury's Statutes 490).

The benefits receivable under the National Insurance Act, 1946, are (1) unemployment benefit; (2) sickness benefit; (3) maternity benefit; (4) widow's benefit; (5) guardian's allowance; (6) retirement pension; and (7) death grant.

The benefits receivable under the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, are (1) injury benefit; (2) disablement benefit; and (3) death benefit.

Requirements.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.

5. Determination of need for assistance.—(1) The question whether a person is in need of assistance, and the nature and extent of any assistance to be given to him, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act as to appeals, be decided by the Board. [3539]

(2) The Minister of National Insurance shall in accordance with the provisions of the next following section make regulations as to the computation of requirements and resources for the purposes of this Part of this Act and as to the decision of any such question as aforesaid, and the Board shall give effect to the relevant provisions of the regulations. [3540]

(3) Regulations under this section may make different provision for different classes of cases, and in particular shall make special provision for blind persons and persons who have suffered a loss of income in order to undergo treatment for tuberculosis of the respiratory system. [3541]

(4) Regulations under this section shall include provision for securing that the rules as to disregarding certain assets set out in the Second Schedule to this Act shall be observed in computing resources. [3542]

Regulations.—The National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1334). These Regulations, which follow the general pattern of the regulations relating to unemployment assistance (S. R. & O., 1943, No. 1759; 1946, No. 2011) and supplementary pensions (S. R. & O., 1943, No. 1737; 1946, No. 2072), lay down scales of general application with provision for adjustment to meet special circumstances. The new scales are generally more favourable to an applicant than those previously administered by the Board or by local authorities in respect of poor relief. Special provision is made by the Act to safeguard a person against loss of income resulting from the introduction of the new scales (see Sched. VI, para. 3, post).

The Board have power to disregard regulations in urgent cases (see s. 11 (1), post).

Nature and extent of any assistance.—Assistance will normally take the form of assistance grants (see s. 8 (1), post), but in special circumstances assistance in kind may be given (see s. 12 (1), post). See also s. 10 (3), post.

Requirements and resources.—As to the aggregation of requirements and resources, see s. 7, post. For definition of "requirements", see s. 64 (1), post.

Special provision.—Sub-s. (3) provides that regulations may make different provision for different classes of cases, and that in two classes, special provision must be made. The Minister of National Insurance at the committee stage of the Bill explained that two classes only had been specified for whom special provision must be made, since differential scales were difficult to operate owing to the danger of appearing unfairly discriminatory, and, moreover, a multiplicity of special scales made the general scale useless (H. of C. Official Report, S.S.C., December 11, 1947, col. 67).

The two special classes of cases are both cases for which special provision was previously made (vide infra).

Blind persons.—Assistance for blind persons was formerly provided by local authorities under the Blind Persons Act, 1920 and 1938 (20 Halsbury's Statutes 593; 31 Halsbury's Statutes 812). Consequent upon the provisions of the present Act, the 1920 Act in its entirety, and the 1938 Act so far as it affects local authorities, are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post. Special financial provision for blind persons is now made by the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948, supra. As to welfare arrangements for such persons, see s. 29, post. For the definition of "blind person", see s. 64 (1), post.

Persons undergoing treatment for tuberculosis of the respiratory system.—In order to curb the war-time growth of tuberculosis, a scheme was introduced by the Minister of Health in 1943 under which a special measure of Exchequer assistance was granted to tuberculosis authorities to enable them to make maintenance grants to persons suffering loss of income as a result of undergoing approved treatment for pulmonary tuberculosis (see Ministry of Health Memorandum 266/T; Vol. XX, p. 66). The National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948, supra, provide for the continuation of this scheme in a revised form, the payments being made by the National Assistance Board instead of by local authorities. In two respects, the revised scheme will be of wider application. First, under the war-time scheme, the grants payable by the local authority in respect of an individual ceased when it was established that there was no hope of a cure in his case. The Minister of National Insurance on the committee stage of the Bill gave an assurance that under the revised scheme if a man had been induced to undergo treatment and was subsequently pronounced to be beyond recovery, the special scale would not, for that reason, stop (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 11, 1947, col. 68). Secondly, by an amendment made on the committee stage in the House of Lords, the words "tuberculosis of the respiratory system" were substituted for the words "pulmonary tuberculosis" used both in the war-time scheme and the original Bill. This makes it clear that the scheme will cover tuberculosis of the larynx, which had previously been in doubt.

As to the Government's reasons for excluding other forms of tuberculosis from the scheme, see 155 H. of L. Official Report 168.

The Financial Memorandum issued with the Bill stated that it was estimated that on the basis of the previous regulations governing the scheme, the cost to the Exchequer in a full year from July, 1948, would be £1,150,000.

6. Preparation, making and coming into operation of regulations under section five.—(1) The Board shall as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, and thereafter from time to time as occasion may require, prepare and submit to the Minister of National Insurance (in this section referred to as "the Minister") draft regulations under the last foregoing section. [3543]

(2) The Minister shall consider any draft submitted to him under the last foregoing subsection and shall make draft regulations either in the form of the draft as submitted or with such variations and amendments as he thinks fit. [3544]

(3) Where the Minister makes any draft regulations otherwise than in the form of the draft submitted to him, then before making the draft regulations he shall inform the Board of the variations and amendments which he intends to make, the Board shall report to him thereon, and he shall consider the report. [3545]

(4) Any draft regulations made by the Minister under this section shall be laid before Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and, if the draft regulations so laid are made otherwise than in the form submitted to the Minister, there shall also be laid before Parliament a statement of the Minister's reasons for, and a copy of the report of the Board on, the variations and amendments made by him. [3546]

(5) If each House resolves that draft regulations made by the Minister under this section be approved, the Minister shall in the terms of the draft make regulations under the last foregoing section to take effect on such date as may be specified in the regulations. [3547]

General note.—This section reproduces the procedure laid down by s. 52 (2)–(4) of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 800), for the making of regulations for the determination of need and assessment of needs under that Act.

Draft regulations are to be prepared by the Assistance Board, submitted to the Minister and laid before Parliament for approval. Variations proposed by the Minister in the draft submitted to him are to be reported upon by the Board, and the Minister is to consider their report before laying his draft before Parliament. When the Minister makes such variations, a statement of his reasons and a copy of the Board's report is to accompany the laying of the draft. On the draft regulations being approved by both Houses of Parliament, the Minister is to make regulations in the terms thereof.

Regulations.—The power of making regulations is exerciseable by statutory instrument (see s. 63 (2), post). Regulations made under s. 5, ante, are an exception to the general rule that statutory instruments under this Act are subject to the negative resolution procedure (see s. 63 (3), post).

Under this section and s. 5, ante, the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1334), have been made; see the notes to s. 5, ante.

7. Aggregation of requirements and resources.—(1) Where it appears to the Board that an applicant for assistance has to provide for requirements of some other person being a member of the same household, the Board shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, give assistance by reference to the aggregate requirements and aggregate resources of the applicant and the said other person. [3548]

(2) Where in the giving of assistance to an applicant therefor the requirements of another person are taken into account, that person is in this Act referred to as a dependant of the applicant. [3549]

(3) Where a husband and wife are members of the same household, their requirements and resources shall in all cases be aggregated for the purposes of this Part of this Act. [3550]

(4) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this section, where it appears to the Board expedient so to do for the purpose of giving assistance in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3) of section eight or the provisions of section ten of this Act, the Board may decline to treat as a dependant of an applicant for assistance any person who has attained the age of sixteen years. [3551]

(5) No application for assistance shall be made by a person who has not attained the age of sixteen years, but nothing in this subsection shall prejudice the giving of assistance by reference to the requirements of any such person as a dependant of another person. [3552]

(6) Regulations under section five of this Act shall include provision for securing, in the case of a person being a member of a household,—

(a) that the resources of any other member of the household, not being the husband or wife, or a dependant, of the said person, shall not be treated as resources of the said person ;

(b) that if he is the householder his resources shall, unless exceptional circumstances are shown, be deemed to include contributions at the prescribed rate towards the expenses of the household from members thereof who are not dependants of his :

Provided that paragraph (b) of this subsection shall not have effect in relation to a householder who is a blind person or the husband or wife of a blind person. [3553]

Assistance.—Assistance will normally take the form of assistance grants (see s. 8 (1), post), but in special circumstances may be given in kind (see s. 12 (1), post). See also s. 10 (3), post.

Aggregation of requirements and resources.—As to the aggregation of requirements and resources, see respectively Part I, para. 1, and Part II, para. 1, of the Schedule to the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1334).

The age of sixteen years.—Applications for assistance in respect of a child under sixteen years of age must be made by the person on whom he or she is dependant. Where there is no such person, or no such person able and willing to act, there is no power to make an application under this Act, but it becomes the duty of the local authority to assume care of the child under the Children Act, 1948, title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante.

As to when a person is to be deemed to have attained sixteen, see s. 64 (3), post.

Determination of resources and needs of members of households.—Rules governing the making of regulations for determining the resources and needs of members of households who applied for unemployment assistance or supplementary pensions were laid down in the Determination of Needs Act, 1941, Sched. I (34 Halsbury's Statutes 438), and extended to apply to applications for outdoor relief or under the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938, by the Pensions and Determination of Needs Act, 1943, s. 3 (36 Halsbury's Statutes 326). These Acts, so far as relevant, are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post. Sub-s. (6), supra, substantially reproduces, in relation to assistance under this Act, paras. 1 and 2 of the Schedule to the Act of 1941 as so applied.

Para. 3 of Sched. I to the Act of 1941 is not reproduced by the present section. The general effect of that paragraph was, inter alia, to provide that where an applicant was the son or daughter, or the mother or father of the householder and had no members of the household dependent on him, his needs were not to be considered as including the needs to constitute to the household expenses where the householder's income exceeded a prescribed amount. The amount prescribed was, in the usual case, £6 a week plus 15*s*. in respect of each additional dependent member of the household after the first. The Minister of National Insurance at the Committee Stage of the Bill stated that no such limitation would be imposed in the future (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 11, 1947, col. 73).

Prescribed rate.—The rate prescribed for contributions to household expenses from independent members thereof is 7*s*. a week or such lesser amount as may be reasonable having regard to the member's circumstances and personal responsibilities, provided that where the member's resources consist solely of earnings and—

(i) are under 70*s*. but more than 45*s*. a week : the contribution may not exceed 5*s*. a week, or

(ii) are 45*s*. or less but more than 25*s*. a week : the contribution may not exceed 2*s*. 6*d*. a week, or

(iii) are 25*s*. a week or less : no contribution shall be assumed (see the National Assistance (Determination of Need) Regulations, 1948 ; S.I. 1948 No. 1334).

Definitions.—For definitions of "blind person", "prescribed" and "requirements", see s. 64 (1), post.

8. Assistance grants.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, the Board shall discharge their duty to give assistance by the making of grants in money (hereafter in this Act referred to as "assistance grants"). [3554]

(2) Where it appears to the Board that it is necessary for protecting the interests of an applicant for an assistance grant or of his dependants that the whole or any part of the grant should be issued to some person other than the applicant, the Board may issue the grant accordingly. [3555]

(3) The Board may require, as a condition of the making of an assistance grant to a person, that he shall be registered for employment in such manner as may be prescribed by the Board. [3556]

(4) Stamp duty shall not be chargeable on any receipt for an assistance grant. [3557]

"Subject to the provisions of this Part of the Act."—Assistance will normally take the form of a money grant. These words presumably refer to s. 12 (1), post, under which, in special circumstances, assistance in kind may be given, and to s. 10 (3), post, under which assistance may take the form of maintenance in a reception centre or other similar centre supplemented, if need be, by "pocket money".

Sub-s. (2).—This subsection may be compared with s. 40 (2) (a) of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 792), under which where an officer of the Board (or, on an appeal, the appeal tribunal) decided that an application was one of special difficulty, the Board (or the tribunal) might determine that the whole or any part of the allowance granted under that Act should be issued to such member of the applicant's household as might be specified in the determination.

An applicant may appeal to the Appeal Tribunal against the issuing of an assistance grant to some other person (see s. 14 (1) (c), post).

Sub-s. (3).—This subsection reproduces s. 38 (1) (a) of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 789).

Registered for employment in prescribed manner.—As to the manner prescribed by the Board for registration for employment, see regs. 9–11 of the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations, 1948, which are contained in the Schedule to S.I. 1948 No. 1482.

Sub-s. (4).—This subsection reproduces s. 50 (4) of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 799). Cf. the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, s. 64 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 382), and the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 51 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 465), which exempt documents under those Acts from stamp duty.

Definitions.—For definitions of "dependant" and "prescribed", see s. 64 (1), post.

9. Disqualifications for assistance grants.—(1) An assistance grant shall not be made to meet the requirements of a person (including requirements to provide for any other person) for any period during which that person is engaged in remunerative full-time work, and where a husband and wife are members of the same household no assistance grant shall be made to meet the requirements of the wife for any period during which the husband is so engaged:

Provided that this subsection shall not, where regulations of the Board so provide, apply until the expiration of such time from the beginning of the engagement as may be prescribed by the regulations. [3558]

(2) The last foregoing subsection shall not apply in the case of work otherwise than under a contract of service where the earning power of the person engaged in the work is, by reason of a disability, substantially reduced in comparison with that of other persons similarly occupied. [3559]

(3) An assistance grant shall not be made to meet the requirements of a person, other than requirements to provide for any other person, for any period during which he is without employment by reason of a stoppage of work which was due to a trade dispute at his place of employment and during which the stoppage of work continues, unless during the stoppage of work he has become bona fide employed elsewhere in the occupation which he usually follows or has become regularly engaged in some other occupation:

Provided that this subsection shall not apply in the case of a person who proves—

(a) that he is not participating in or financing or directly interested in the trade dispute which caused the stoppage of work; and

(b) that he does not belong to a grade or class of workers of which, immediately before the commencement of the stoppage, there were members employed at his place of employment any of whom are participating in or financing or directly interested in the dispute. [3560]

General note.—This section lays down disqualifications for assistance grants. Disqualification is not, however, to prevent the giving of assistance in cases of urgency (see s. 11, post).

From a refusal to give assistance, an appeal lies to the Appeal Tribunal (see s. 14 (1) (a), post).

Sub-s. (1).—Sub-s. (1) of this section lays down the general principle that an assistance grant shall not be paid to a person who is engaged in remunerative full-time work, either to meet his needs or those of his dependants. By a proviso inserted by amendment on the Committee Stage of the Bill in the House of Lords, it is, however, provided that sub-s. (1) shall not apply until after the expiration of such time from the beginning of the engagement as may be prescribed by regulation (reg. 12 of the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations, 1948; see S.I. 1948 No. 1482), which will enable the hiatus between the starting of a new job and the receipt of the first wage packet to be covered by an assistance grant, where necessary.

Sub-s. (2).—The application of sub-s. (1) is further excluded in the case of work otherwise than under a contract of service where the worker's earning power is substantially reduced by reason of a disability. This will enable assistance grants to be given to self-employed disabled persons, such as, for example, blind piano-tuners or basket-makers, even though they are engaged in full-time work.

This exception to the general rule that remunerative full-time employment disqualifies a person for an assistance grant is limited to the case of disabled persons employed otherwise than under a contract of service, since, in the Government's view, to include disabled persons employed under a contract of service would, in effect, be to subsidise the employment of persons under the Disabled Persons (Employment) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 346), which imposes an obligation upon large-scale employers of labour to employ a quota of disabled persons registered under that Act.

Contract of service.—This term is not defined by the Act. By the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 78 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 488), however, it is defined to mean any contract of service or apprenticeship, whether written or oral, and whether expressed or implied; and the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, Sched. I, Part I, para. 1 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 401), contains a similar definition.

Sub-s. (3).—Sub-s. (3) applies to assistance grants the disqualifications imposed in regard to unemployment benefit by the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 13 (1) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 432), in the case of a person participating in, financing or having a direct interest in a stoppage of work due to a trade dispute, i.e. a strike or lock-out. As to determining the question whether a person is disqualified under this subsection, see s. 14 (3), post.

Definitions.—For definition of "disability", "prescribed", "requirements" and "trade dispute", see s. 64 (1), post.

10. Assistance in special cases.—(1) Where it appears to the Board that an applicant for assistance, being a person who is not in receipt of unemployment benefit under the National Insurance Act, 1946, refuses or neglects to maintain himself or any person whom for the purposes of this Act he is liable to maintain, the Board may make a report to the Appeal Tribunal, and the Tribunal, after giving the applicant an opportunity of being heard, may direct that during such period as may be specified in the direction he shall be subject to the following provisions of this section. [3561]

(2) The Board may require, as a condition of the making of an assistance grant in respect of any such period as aforesaid, that the applicant shall attend such course of instruction or training approved by the Minister of National Insurance for the purpose of this section as the Board may specify and that he shall comply with the rules there in force. [3562]

(3) The Board may, in lieu of giving assistance in respect of any period specified in a direction under subsection (1) of this section by the making of assistance grants, give assistance by maintaining the applicant in a re-establishment centre provided under this Part of this Act or in accordance with arrangements under subsection (4) of this section, or subsection (5) thereof so long as it is in force, and by making to him such payments (if any) for meeting his personal requirements as the Board think fit. [3563]

(4) The Board may enter into arrangements with another Government department or with a voluntary organisation for the maintenance of persons in whose case directions under subsection (1) of this section are in force in a centre provided by the department or organisation for purposes similar to the purposes of a re-establishment centre. [3564]

(5) The Board may make arrangements with a local authority managing premises in which accommodation is provided under Part III of this Act for the maintenance of such persons as aforesaid in accommodation provided in the premises for the purposes of this subsection. [3565]

(6) Where a person in whose case a direction under subsection (1) of this section is in force represents to the Appeal Tribunal that there has been a change of circumstances and that by reason thereof the direction ought to be revoked, the Tribunal, after giving the Board an opportunity of being heard, may if they think fit revoke the direction. [3566]

(7) Subsection (5) of this section shall continue in force for two years and no longer. [3567]

General note.—This section replaces, with modifications, s. 41 of the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 793), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post. That section provided that an officer of the Unemployment Assistance Board on being satisfied, inter alia, that an applicant had persistently refused or neglected to maintain himself or his family, was to make a special report to the Appeal Tribunal established under that Act, and the tribunal might, in effect, direct the disqualification of the applicant for a specified period.

The present section substitutes for disqualification (1) making an assistance grant conditional upon attendance at a course of instruction or training approved by the Minister of National Insurance; and (2) maintenance of the applicant in a re-establishment or similar centre instead of making him assistance grants.

Failure to maintain.—Failure to maintain may constitute an offence; see s. 51, post.

National Insurance Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 412. For the right to unemployment benefit, see ss. 11–13 of that Act (39 Halsbury's Statutes 429–432).

Any person whom, for the purposes of this Act, he is liable to maintain.—As to these persons, see s. 42, post.

Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post.

Rules.—Rules of the Board do not take effect until confirmed by the Minister of National Insurance, see s. 63 (1), post.

Re-establishment centres.—As to re-establishment centres, see ss. 16, 18, post.

Arrangements with a local authority.—The arrangements to be made by the Board with local authorities under sub-s. (5), which, by sub-s. (7), is limited to two years, are intended as provisional arrangements until such time as the Board are able themselves to provide re-establishment centres. As to the provision of accommodation by local authorities (i.e. county councils and county borough councils; see s. 33 (1), post) under Part III of the Act, see s. 21, post. As to penalties for contravention of the local authority's rules for the preservation of order on premises in which accommodation is provided, see s. 19 (3), post.

Definitions.—For definitions of "requirements" and "voluntary organisation", see s. 64 (1), post.

11. Disqualification, etc., not to prevent assistance in cases of urgency.—(1) Nothing in the two last foregoing sections nor any disqualification or condition attaching thereunder shall prevent the Board's making an assistance grant in an urgent case, and in the making of a grant by virtue of this subsection the Board shall not be bound by any regulations under this Part of this Act which appear to them inappropriate in the circumstances of the case. [3568]

(2) Where by virtue only of the last foregoing subsection the Board make an assistance grant to meet the requirements of a person engaged in remunerative full-time work, they may recover from him the whole or part of the assistance grant if they are satisfied that the circumstances are such that it is equitable so to do. [3569]

General note.—As to poor law relief in cases of sudden or urgent necessity, see the Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 17, 79 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 978, 1007), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

As to accommodation in urgent cases, see ss. 24 (3), 25, post.

Regulations.—As to regulations, generally, see s. 63, post.

Recovery of assistance grant.—Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Board under sub-s. (2) to recover the whole or part of an assistance grant may appeal to the Appeal Tribunal (see s. 14 (1) (f), post).

Requirements.—For definition of "requirements", see s. 64 (1), post.

12. Assistance in kind.—(1) Where it appears to the Board that by reason of special circumstances the requirements of a person can best be met by giving in kind the whole or part of assistance of which he is in need, the Board may so give assistance instead of giving assistance in money. [3570]

(2) References in this Part of this Act to the giving of assistance in kind include references to the issuing of orders for the free provision of goods or services. [3571]

(3) Notwithstanding anything in this Part of this Act or regulations made thereunder, in giving assistance in accordance with this section to meet sudden and urgent need the Board may dispense with inquiry into resources or other circumstances and with compliance with any regulations of the Board. [3572]

(4) Subject to the last foregoing subsection, the provisions of this Act other than this section shall apply to assistance given in accordance with this section as they apply to assistance grants, but with the substitution for references to the amount of the grant of references to the value of the assistance. [3573]

General note.—Assistance will normally take the form of assistance grants (see s. 8 (1), ante). The present section, however, authorises the giving of assistance in kind where, by reason of special circumstances an applicant's requirements can thereby best be met.

Dealing with the way in which it was intended to operate the section, the Minister of National Insurance, at the Committee Stage of the Bill, gave two assurances :

> " One of the features which we all deplored under the old Poor Law was the fact that the emphasis was so much upon relief in kind and not upon relief in cash. . . . Clearly there are circumstances in which the best thing to do is to give relief in kind, but they are exceptional circumstances, and in normal circumstances relief must always be in cash. . . . I give the undertaking that it is the intention of myself and the Government that this clause shall be looked upon as dealing with exceptional, and not normal, cases, and that in the ordinary way relief shall be in cash.
> " My hon. Friend . . . asked whether this was intended to be a penal clause. I can give an undertaking that it is not intended to use it as such. There are only two circumstances I can think of in which relief in kind might be said to be approaching anything that could be described as penal. Yesterday, we discussed the question of sanctions against the kind of man who might be called a dodger. It may be that in a case of that kind, as a kind of final sanction, relief may be given in kind. The other case I have in mind is that very exceptional kind . . . in which the officer may find that relief in cash is being badly used. . . . I do not regard cases of the kind I have mentioned as justifying this clause being described as a penal clause " (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 18, 1947, col. 126).

A person aggrieved by the giving of assistance in kind or the nature or extent of that assistance, may appeal to the Appeal Tribunal (see s. 14 (1) (c), post).

This section may be compared with the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 40 (2) (b) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 792), which provided that in a case of special difficulty, an allowance might be issued otherwise than in cash. That Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Sub-s. (3).—This subsection enlarges the discretionary power of granting assistance in urgent cases (see s. 11 (1), ante) so far as assistance in kind is concerned.

Requirements.—For definition of this term, see s. 64 (1), post.

13. Prevention of duplication of payments.—(1) Where payments in respect of—

(a) unemployment, sickness, maternity, or widow's benefit, guardian's allowance, or retirement pension under the National Insurance Act, 1946,

(b) benefit under the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946,

(c) pension under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, or

are in arrears for any period and assistance grants have been made for that period by reference to the requirements of the person to whom the payments are due, the payments may, at the discretion of the authority administering the benefit, pension or allowances in question, be abated to the extent to which the actual amount of those assistance grants exceeds what would have been their amount, as decided by the Board, if the said payments had not fallen into arrears. [3574]

(2) Where the liabilities of any fund are reduced by virtue of the last foregoing subsection, there shall be paid out of that fund into the Exchequer an amount equal to the reduction. [3575]

General note.—This section authorises the abatement of arrears of payments due under certain other social security Acts by the amount by which assistance grants have been augmented as a result of such payments being in arrears.

Compare the provisions of the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, ss. 30, 31 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 352, 353) ; the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 30 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 450), and the Family Allowances Act, 1945, s. 15 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 350). S. 31 of the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, and sub-ss. (1) (c) and (5) (a) of s. 30 of the National Insurance Act, 1946, which deal with adjustments in respect of outdoor relief, are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

A person aggrieved by the amount of an abatement may appeal to the Appeal Tribunal (see s. 14 (1) (g), post). Notwithstanding anything in the above-mentioned Acts, the Board's decision as to the amount of any abatement is, subject to any appeal under s. 14, post, to be conclusive for the purposes of those Acts (see s. 14 (5), post).

Requirements.—For definition of this term, see s. 64 (1), post.

14. Appeals under Part II.—(1) Where a person applying for, or in receipt of, assistance is aggrieved by a decision of the Board with respect to any of the following matters, that is to say—

(a) a refusal to give assistance;
(b) the amount of an assistance grant;
(c) the issuing of an assistance grant to a person other than the applicant therefor;
(d) any condition subject to which an assistance grant is made;
(e) the giving of assistance in kind or the nature or extent of assistance in kind;
(f) a decision under subsection (2) of section eleven of this Act to recover the whole or part of an assistance grant;
(g) the amount of an abatement under subsection (1) of section thirteen of this Act, he may appeal to the Appeal Tribunal. [3576]

(2) A notice stating the effect of subsection (1) of this section shall be conspicuously displayed in every office where assistance grants are made. [3577]

(3) Where on an appeal under this section any question arises whether a person is disqualified for an assistance grant by virtue of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to trade disputes, that question shall be referred by the Appeal Tribunal for determination in the manner provided under section forty-three of the National Insurance Act, 1946, and the provisions of the said section forty-three shall have effect accordingly with respect to any question so referred. [3578]

(4) On an appeal under this section the Appeal Tribunal may confirm the decision of the Board appealed against or substitute therefor any decision which the Board could have made under this Part of this Act, and any decision of the Tribunal shall be conclusive for all purposes. [3579]

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the enactments referred to in subsection (1) of section thirteen of this Act, a decision of the Board as to the amount of any abatement under the said subsection (1) shall, subject to any appeal under this section, be conclusive for the purposes of the said enactments. [3580]

Issuing of an assistance grant to a person other than the applicant.—As to when the Board may issue an assistance grant to some person other than the applicant, see s. 8 (2), ante.

Giving of assistance in kind.—As to this, see s. 12, ante.

Provisions relating to trade disputes.—For the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to trade disputes, see s. 9 (3), ante.

National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 43.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 457.

Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post. The Appeal Tribunals appointed under this Act replace the Appeal Tribunals appointed under s. 39 (3) of, and Sched. VII to, the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 791, 820), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, post. See, however, Sched. VI, para. 2 (2), post.

15. Supplementary provisions as to assistance.—(1) The Board may by regulations make provision for carrying this Part of this Act into effect, and in particular (but without prejudice to the generality of this subsection) as to the manner in which applications for assistance are to be made, in which evidence is to be provided of matters relevant to the giving of assistance, and in which assistance grants are to be issued. [3581]

(2) In so far as regulations under this section provide for the issuing of assistance grants through the Post Office, the regulations shall not have effect unless confirmed by the Postmaster General. [3582]

(3) Regulations under this section shall have effect subject to the provisions of regulations under section five of this Act. [3583]

Regulations.—Regulations of the Board require confirmation by the Minister of National Insurance (s. 63 (1), post).

Under this section and ss. 2 (3), 8 (3), 9 (1), ante, the Board have made the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations, 1948, which are contained in the Schedule to the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations Confirmation Instrument, 1948 (S.I. 1948, No. 1482) made by the Minister of National Insurance under s. 63, post.

Issuing of grants through the Post Office.—No regulations for the issuing of grants through the Post Office had been made at the date of going to press. As to when rules made by the former Assistance Board could authorise the payment of unemployment allowances and supplementary pensions through the Post Office, see the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 42 (1), proviso (27 Halsbury's Statutes 793), and the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940, s. 9 (4) (33 Halsbury's Statutes 517), respectively.

Re-establishment Centres and Reception Centres

16. Re-establishment centres.—For the re-establishment of persons in need thereof through lack of regular occupation or of instruction or training the Board may subject to the approval of the Minister of National Insurance provide centres, to be known as re-establishment centres, where (whether in consequence of a decision of the Board under section ten of this Act or otherwise) such persons may attend or may be maintained by the Board, and in either case may be afforded by the Board the occupation, instruction or training requisite to fit them for entry into or return to regular employment. [3584]

General note.—The Act does not lay down any detailed provisions in regard to re-establishment centres, since they are experimental and the Government desire to leave the Board free to develop them in the light of experience. They are intended primarily for the rehabilitation of young persons who have received no proper training and must be distinguished from reception centres (see s. 17, post), which provide temporary board and lodging for " casuals " and tramps.

The purpose of the re-establishment centres is rehabilitation and not punishment, and the Board have no power to direct a person to attend a centre. Such a direction may only be made by the Appeal Tribunal under s. 10, ante, in the case of a person who refuses or neglects to maintain himself or any person whom under this Act he is liable to maintain.

As to the management of re-establishment centres, see s. 19, post. Contributions may be made by the Board to voluntary organisations maintaining similar centres (see s. 20, post).

17. Reception centres.—(1) It shall be the duty of the Board to make provision whereby persons without a settled way of living may be influenced to lead a more settled life, and the Board shall provide and maintain centres, to be known as reception centres, for the provision of temporary board and lodging for such persons. [3585]

(2) The Board may require the councils of counties, county boroughs and large burghs to exercise on behalf of, and in accordance with any directions given by, the Board the functions of the Board under the last foregoing subsection of providing and maintaining reception centres. [3586]

(3) A council may recover from the Board any expenditure under the last foregoing subsection incurred by them with the approval of the Board, given either as respects that expenditure or generally as respects expenditure up to a specified amount. [3587]

(4) Before giving directions under subsection (2) of this section the Board shall consult with such local authorities or associations of local authorities as appear to the Board to be concerned. [3588]

General note.—This section transfers the responsibility for the casual poor, which formerly rested under the poor law upon local authorities, to the National Assistance Board, and replaces the casual ward with the reception centre. Local authorities under Part III may, however, be required to provide and maintain reception centres on the Board's behalf.

Any premises being used immediately before the appointed day for the reception or relief of casual poor persons will, for an indefinite period, continue to be used as a reception centre (see Sched. VI, paras. 4, 8 (3), post).

As to the management of reception centres, see s. 19, post. The Board may contribute to voluntary organisations maintaining similar centres (s. 20, post).

As to the provision of residential accommodation for persons with no settled residence, see s. 24 (3), post.

Provision of reception centres by local authorities.—The Board's power to arrange for the provision by local authorities of " re-establishment centres " is limited to two years (see s. 10 (5), (7), ante). The Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of National Insurance opposed an amendment, moved at the Committee Stage of the Bill, similarly to limit the period within which local authorities may be required to provide and maintain reception centres on behalf of the Board, but he gave an assurance that the obligations placed on local authorities by this section were only intended to be transitional. The Parliamentary Secretary added: "My right hon. Friend is prepared to give a complete undertaking that he will ask the Board to report to him within three or four years of the introduction of the scheme, that the report will be published, and that, on its publication, the administration will be reconsidered in the light of the experience gained during that time" (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., December 18, 1947, col. 154).

Recovery of expenditure.—As to recovery of expenditure, see s. 56, post.

18. Accommodation in reception centres in special cases.—(1) This section applies to reception centres (hereinafter referred to as "designated reception centres") designated by the Minister of National Insurance for the purposes of this section on the application of the Board. [3589]

(2) Where a person seeks lodging in a designated reception centre and it appears to the Board, or if the centre is being provided by a local authority to the local authority, that the said person persistently resorts to reception centres when capable of maintaining himself, the Board or local authority may direct that he shall only be received into the centre subject to the conditions specified in subsection (4) of this section. [3590]

(3) On a direction being given under the last foregoing subsection the person to whom it relates may require that the matter shall be referred to the Appeal Tribunal, and if he so requires—

(a) the direction shall not have effect until the matter has been determined by the Tribunal, and

(b) on any such reference the Tribunal may either quash the direction or order that during such period as may be specified in the order he shall only be admitted to a designated reception centre subject to the conditions specified in the next following subsection. [3591]

(4) The conditions hereinbefore referred to are—

(a) that the person in question shall remain at the centre for at least such period from the time he entered it, not exceeding forty-eight hours, as the Board or the local authority providing the centre may require, and

(b) that while the person in question is at the centre he shall do such suitable work within the curtilage thereof as the Board or local authority may require. [3592]

(5) A person received into a centre subject to the said conditions shall, if he fails to comply therewith, be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month. [3593]

General note.—This section, which was added in the Committee Stage of the Bill in the House of Lords, arose out of representations made by associations of local authorities. It is designed to enable disciplinary measures to be taken against able-bodied persons who persistently resort to reception centres. No action, however, can be taken except in reception centres designated by the Minister of National Insurance. Compare the provisions governing discipline in, and discharge from, casual wards under the Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 42, 44 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 989), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post.

Failure to comply with conditions.—An inmate of a casual ward who absconded therefrom or failed to do the work or observe the regulations prescribed was by virtue of the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 151 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1042), an idle and disorderly person within the meaning of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 3 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 913), and accordingly punishable, if brought before a single justice or at an occasional court house, with imprisonment with or without hard labour up to fourteen days (or a fine not exceeding £1), or, if before a petty sessional court, with imprisonment up to one calendar month (or a fine not exceeding £5) (see the Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 3; 12 Halsbury's Statutes 914; and the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, ss. 4, 5, 20 (7); 11 Halsbury's Statutes 323, 324, 331).

Work.—The work that inmates of reception centres may, in the normal case, be required to do is limited to such work for assisting in the running of the centre as may be specified by or under regulations made by the Board (s. 19 (2), post; and the National Assistance (Reception Centres) Regulations, 1948, for which see S.I. 1948 No. 1481).

19. Management of re-establishment and reception centres.—(1) The Board may by regulations make provision for the management of, and preservation of order in, re-establishment centres maintained by the Board and reception centres maintained by them or on their behalf, and such regulations may provide that any person who contravenes or fails to comply with any specified provision thereof shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month. [3594]

(2) Regulations under the last foregoing subsection may include provision requiring persons accommodated or received in centres, or specified classes of such persons, to do such work for assisting in the running of the centres as may be specified by or under the regulations. [3595]

(3) Rules made by a local authority under Part III of this Act for the preservation of order in premises in which accommodation is provided under the said Part III may provide that this subsection shall apply in relation to any provision of the rules, and where such rules so provide any person to whom under subsection (5) of section ten of this Act assistance is given by maintenance in the premises and who contravenes or fails to comply with the provision in question shall be liable on summary conviction to such a fine or to such imprisonment as aforesaid. [3596]

Regulations.—Regulations of the Board required confirmation by the Minister of National Insurance (see s. 63 (1), post). Under this section the Board have made the National Assistance (Reception Centres) Regulations, 1948, which are contained in the Schedule to the National Assistance (Reception Centres) Regulations Confirmation Instrument, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1481), made by the Minister of National Insurance under s. 63, post. No regulations relating to re-establishment centres had been made at the date of going to press.

Re-establishment centres.—See s. 16, ante.

Reception centres.—See s. 17, ante.

Accommodation provided under Part III.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), post.

20. Contributions to centres maintained by voluntary organisations.—The Board may make contributions to the funds of any voluntary organisation maintaining centres for purposes similar to the purposes of re-establishment centres or reception centres maintained by the Board. [3597]

General note.—The Board are empowered to arrange with voluntary organisations providing centres similar to re-establishment centres for the maintenance of persons therein (see s. 10 (4), ante).

Re-establishment centres.—See s. 16, ante.

Reception centres.—See s. 17, ante.

Voluntary organisation.—For definition of this term, see s. 64 (1), post.

PART III

LOCAL AUTHORITY SERVICES

Provision of Accommodation

21. Duty of local authorities to provide accommodation.—(1) It shall be the duty of every local authority, subject to and in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act, to provide—

(a) residential accommodation for persons who by reason of age, infirmity or any other circumstances are in need of care and attention which is not otherwise available to them ;

(b) temporary accommodation for persons who are in urgent need thereof, being need arising in circumstances which could not reasonably have been foreseen or in such other circumstances as the authority may in any particular case determine. [3598]

(2) In the exercise of their said duty a local authority shall have regard to the welfare of all persons for whom accommodation is provided, and in particular to the need for providing accommodation of different descriptions suited to different descriptions of such persons as are mentioned in the last foregoing subsection. [3599]

(3) A local authority shall exercise their functions under this section in accordance with a scheme made thereunder. [3600]

(4) Accommodation provided by a local authority in the exercise of their said functions shall be provided in premises managed by the authority or, to such extent as may be specified in the scheme under this section, in such premises managed by another local authority as may be agreed between the two authorities and on such terms, including terms as to the reimbursement of expenditure incurred by the said other authority, as may be so agreed. [3601]

(5) References in this Act to accommodation provided under this Part thereof shall be construed as references to accommodation provided in accordance with this and the five next following sections, and as including references to board and other services, amenities and requisites provided in connection with the accommodation except where in the opinion of the authority managing the premises their provision is unnecessary. [3602]

(6) References in this Act to a local authority providing accommodation shall be construed, in any case where a local authority agree with another local authority for the provision of accommodation in premises managed by the said other authority, as references to the first-mentioned local authority. [3603]

(7) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions of this section, a local authority may—

(a) provide, in such cases as they may consider appropriate, for the conveyance of persons to and from premises in which accommodation is provided for them under this Part of the Act;

(b) themselves provide on the premises in which accommodation is being provided such health services, not being specialist services or services of a kind normally provided only on admission to a hospital, as appear to the authority requisite and as may be specified in the scheme under this section;

(c) arrange for the provision on the premises of local health services.

In this subsection the expression "local health services" means the like services as are provided under Part III of the National Health Service Act, 1946, or of the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947, for persons in their own homes; and a local health authority for the purposes of the said Part III shall by virtue of this subsection have power to provide any local health services to which arrangements under this subsection relate. [3604]

(8) Save as provided in the last foregoing subsection, nothing in this section shall authorise or require a local authority to make any provision authorised or required to be made (whether by that or by any other authority) by or under any enactment not contained in this Part of this Act. [3605]

General note.—This section must be read in conjunction with the five following sections (see sub-s. (5), supra).

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post). Note also the provisions of sub-s. (6), supra.

Or any other circumstances.—At the Committee Stage of the Bill objection was taken to these words on the ground of indefiniteness, and the fear was expressed that they would involve local authorities in constant references to the Ministry of Health for clarification. The Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, however, gave an assurance that the words were designed solely to cover marginal cases, and that it was not intended to place an indefinite responsibility on local authorities (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 21, 1948, col. 166).

Schemes.—As to schemes made under this section, see s. 34, post.

Local health services.—Local health services which local health authorities are required or empowered to provide under Part III of the National Health Service Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 537–542) consist of:

(a) The provision of health centres (s. 21 of the 1946 Act);
(b) The care of mothers and young children (s. 22);
(c) Midwifery services (s. 23);
(d) Health visiting (s. 24);
(e) Home nursing (s. 25);

(f) Vaccination and immunisation (s. 26);
(g) Ambulance services (s. 27); and
(h) The prevention of illness, care and after-care (s. 28).

Local health authorities are the same authorities, namely county councils and county borough councils, as exercise functions under this Part of this Act (see the National Health Service Act, 1946, s. 19 (1); 39 Halsbury's Statutes 537).

A local authority is enabled, by sub-s. (7) (c), supra, to provide the same health services for inmates of local authority hostels as the authority provides for persons in their own homes.

Definitions.—For definitions of "functions" and "hospital", see s. 64 (1), post.

22. Charges to be made for accommodation.—(1) Persons for whom accommodation is provided under this Part of this Act shall pay for the accommodation in accordance with the following provisions of this section. [3606]

(2) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the payment for any such accommodation shall be in accordance with a standard rate fixed for that accommodation by the authority managing the premises in which it is provided. [3607]

(3) Where a person for whom accommodation in premises managed by any local authority is provided, or proposed to be provided, under this Part of this Act satisfies the local authority that he is unable to pay therefor at the standard rate, the authority shall assess his ability to pay (apart from any supplementation of his resources which he will receive under Part II of this Act), and accordingly determine at what lower rate he shall be liable to pay for the accommodation:

Provided that the liability shall in no case be reduced below such sum per week as may be prescribed by the Minister. [3608]

(4) In assessing for the purposes of the last foregoing subsection a person's ability to pay, a local authority shall assume that he will need for his personal requirements such sum per week as may be prescribed by the Minister, or such other sum as in special circumstances the authority may consider appropriate. [3609]

(5) In assessing as aforesaid a person's ability to pay, a local authority shall give effect to the relevant provisions of the Second Schedule to this Act. [3610]

(6) Where temporary accommodation is provided for a person for less than a week, or it appears to the authority managing the premises in which temporary accommodation is being provided for a person that by reason of special circumstances charges therefor cannot appropriately be made in accordance with the provisions of subsections (2) and (3) of this section, those provisions shall not apply but the said person shall pay for the accommodation at such rate as the local authority may determine. [3611]

(7) Where accommodation is provided for a child accompanied by a person over the age of sixteen, the foregoing provisions of this section shall have effect subject to the following modifications:—

(a) in respect of the accommodation provided for the child payment shall be made by the person by whom the child is accompanied,

(b) the personal requirements of the child shall be treated as personal requirements of the person by whom the child is accompanied, and for the purposes of subsection (4) of this section the fact that that person is accompanying the child may be treated as special circumstances. [3612]

(8) Where accommodation is provided by a local authority in premises managed by another local authority, the payment therefor under this section shall be made to the authority managing the premises and not to the authority providing accommodation, but the authority managing the premises shall account for the payment to the authority providing the accommodation. [3613]

(9) Where the whole or part of a liability arising under this section is taken into account by the Board in making an assistance grant, and the person receiving the grant fails to pay any sum due from him under this section, the Board may, in lieu of issuing the whole of the grant to the person to whom it is made, issue to the local authority concerned, in or towards the satisfaction of the liability, so much of the grant as relates to that liability. [3614]

Accommodation provided under this Part of this Act.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), ante.

Standard rate.—The Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health at the Committee Stage of the Bill stated that regulations would require the standard rate to be fixed so as to reimburse local authorities their expenditure incurred in providing accommodation without providing a profit. It was intended that as a matter of principle local authorities should fix a standard charge for each establishment calculated by reference to the running costs plus overheads, the overheads being assessed by reference to the local authority's service as a whole (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 21, 1948, cols. 194–95).

Minimum charge for accommodation.—The minimum charge for an adult is 21*s.* a week, and for a child accompanied by an adult, 7*s.* 6*d.*, 9*s.* or 10*s.* 6*d.* according to age (see the National Assistance (Charges for Accommodation) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1385), post. The sum of 21*s.* is arrived at on the assumption that the majority of persons admitted to residential accommodation will have at least a retirement pension or other insurance benefit of 26*s.* a week, which will leave them 5*s.* a week, the sum prescribed for personal requirements (see para. 25 of the White Paper summarising the Bill; Cmd. 7248).

Sum presented for personal requirements.—The sum prescribed is 5*s.* a week (see the National Assistance (Charges for Accommodation) Regulations, 1948), post.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post). See also s. 21 (6), ante.

Person over the age of sixteen.—As to when a person is to be deemed to have attained sixteen, see s. 64 (3), post. Children not cared for by parents or guardians are outside the scope of this Act; as to the duties of local authorities with respect to such children, see the Children Act, 1948, title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante.

"The Minister."—The Minister of Health in England and Wales (see s. 35 (1), post).

Recovery of sums due.—As to the recovery of sums due under this section, see s. 56, post.

Definitions.—For definitions of "prescribed" and "requirements", see s. 64 (1), post.

23. Management of premises in which accommodation provided.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, a local authority may make rules as to the conduct of premises under their management in which accommodation is provided under this Part of this Act and as to the preservation of order in the premises. [3615]

(2) Rules under this section may provide that where by reason of any change in a person's circumstances he is no longer qualified to receive accommodation under this Part of this Act or where a person has otherwise become unsuitable therefor, he may be required by the local authority managing the premises to leave the premises in which the accommodation is provided. [3616]

(3) Rules under this section may provide for the waiving of part of the payments due under the last foregoing section where in compliance with the rules persons for whom accommodation is provided assist in the running of the premises. [3617]

General note.—This section may be contrasted with the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 23 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 982), which dealt with the management of workhouses and the preservation of order therein. That Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post).

Rules.—Regulations may prescribe requirements as to the provision to be made in rules under this section (see s. 35 (3) (b), post). Rules, etc., for the regulation of workhouses were made by the Minister of Health (see the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 23, supra); rules for the conduct of premises under this section will, however, subject to any requirements prescribed as aforesaid, be made by the local authority.

Qualifications for receipt of accommodation.—See s. 21 (1), ante.

Accommodation provided under this Part of this Act.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), ante.

Persons assisting in the running of the premises.—Compare the provisions of s. 19 (2), ante, under which residents of re-establishment centres and reception centres may be required to assist in running them.

24. Authority liable for provision of accommodation.—(1) The local authority liable under this Part of this Act to provide residential accommodation for any person shall subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act be the authority in whose area the person is ordinarily resident. [3618]

(2) The local authority liable under this Part of this Act to provide temporary accommodation for any person shall be the authority in whose area the person is. [3619]

(3) Where a person in the area of a local authority—

(a) is a person with no settled residence, or

(b) not being ordinarily resident in the area of the local authority, is in urgent need of residential accommodation under this Part of this Act, the authority shall have the like duty to provide residential accommodation for him as if he were ordinarily resident in their area. [3620]

(4) Subject to and in accordance with the scheme under section twenty-one of this Act, a local authority shall have power, as respects a person ordinarily resident in the area of another local authority, with the consent of that other authority to provide residential accommodation for him in any case where the authority would have a duty to provide such accommodation if he were ordinarily resident in their area. [3621]

(5) Where a person is provided with residential accommodation under this Part of this Act, he shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to continue to be ordinarily resident in the area in which he was ordinarily resident immediately before the residential accommodation was provided for him. [3622]

General note.—As to poor law relief for persons belonging to another county or county borough, see the Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 79–83 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1007–1008); and as to such relief in cases of urgent necessity, see ss. 17 and 79 thereof (12 Halsbury's Statutes 978, 1007). That Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

Note the provisions of s. 32, post, dealing with the recovery of expenditure where accommodation is provided by one local authority for a person ordinarily resident in the area of another local authority.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post). See also s. 21 (6), ante.

Ordinarily resident.—Any question as to a person's ordinary residence will be determined by the Minister of Health (s. 32 (3), post). The Minister's determination will, thus, take the place of the old law of settlement. As to that law, see the Poor Law Act, 1930, Part III (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1009 et seq.), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post; see also 25 Halsbury's Laws (2nd Edn.) 408 et seq.

No settled residence.—It is the duty of the Board to make provision whereby persons without a settled way of living may be influenced to lead a more settled way of life, and to maintain reception centres for their temporary accommodation (see s. 17, ante).

25. Power of Board to require provision of accommodation in urgent cases.—(1) Where the Board are satisfied that a person in the area of a local authority is in urgent need of accommodation under this Part of this Act, the Board may require the local authority to provide such accommodation for him. [3623]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in section twenty-three of this Act or the rules made thereunder, where accommodation is being provided for a person in compliance with a requirement under the last foregoing subsection, he shall not be required to leave the premises in which the accommodation is provided except with the consent of the Board or, where the Board refuse to give consent, with the consent of the Appeal Tribunal. [3624]

(3) Where a local authority are aggrieved by any requirement made by the Board under subsection (1) of this section, the authority may, but without prejudice to their duty to comply with the requirement in the meanwhile, appeal to the Appeal Tribunal, and on any such appeal the Tribunal may cancel or confirm the requirement of the Board. [3625]

General note.—The Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of National Insurance at the Committee Stage of the Bill gave an assurance that the Board's power under this section would apply only to persons seeking assistance from the Board or those in receipt of such assistance. It was not intended that the Board should use its power to compel people to enter local authority accommodation against their will. If an applicant for assistance who ought to be in an institution, insisted on remaining in his or her home, the proper course for the Board would be to notify the local authority and then the medical officer of health would take any necessary action (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 22, 1948, col. 209). As to the power of removal following a medical officer of health's certificate, see s. 47, post.

As to assistance grants in urgent cases, see s. 11, ante.

As to relief in cases of urgent necessity under the poor law, see the Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 17, 79 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 978, 1007), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post.

Accommodation under this Part of this Act.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), ante.

Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post.

26. Provision of accommodation in premises maintained by voluntary organisations.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act, a scheme under section twenty-one thereof may provide for the making by a local authority in lieu or in supplementation of the provision of accommodation in premises managed by them or another local authority, of arrangements with a voluntary organisation managing any premises for the provision of accommodation in those premises. [3626]

(2) Any such arrangements as aforesaid shall provide for the making by the local authority to the organisation of payments in respect of the accommodation provided at such rates as may be determined by or under the arrangements. [3627]

(3) A person for whom accommodation is provided under any such arrangements shall, in lieu of being liable to make payment therefor in accordance with section twenty-two of this Act, refund to the local authority any payments made in respect of him under the last foregoing subsection:

Provided that where a person for whom accommodation is provided, or proposed to be provided, under any such arrangements satisfies the local authority that he is unable to make a refund at the full rate determined under that subsection, subsections (3) to (5) of section twenty-two of this Act shall, with the necessary modifications, apply as they apply where a person satisfies the local authority of his inability to pay at the standard rate as mentioned in the said subsection (3). [3628]

(4) Subsections (6), (7) and (9) of the said section twenty-two shall, with the necessary modifications, apply for the purposes of the last foregoing subsection as they apply for the purposes of the said section twenty-two. [3629]

(5) Where in any premises accommodation is being provided under subsection (1) of this section in accordance with arrangements made by any local authority, any person authorised in that behalf by the authority may at all reasonable times enter and inspect the premises. [3630]

(6) A local authority may make contributions to the funds of any voluntary organisation providing, or proposing to provide, accommodation for the like purposes as accommodation provided by a local authority under the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act. [3631]

(7) In this section the expression "voluntary organisation" includes any association which is a housing association for the purposes of the Housing Act, 1936, or the Housing (Scotland) Acts, 1925 to 1946. [3632]

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post).

Arrangements with voluntary organisations.—The Minister may make regulations specifying the qualifications of officers employed by voluntary organisations acting under arrangements with a local authority (s. 35 (3) (c), post).

Contributions to voluntary organisations.—Contributions to the funds of certain voluntary organisations may also be made by local authorities under ss. 30 (2) and 31, post, and by the National Assistance Board under s. 20, ante. See also s. 28 (6), post.

Housing Act, 1936.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 565. For definition of "housing association", see s. 188 of that Act (29 Halsbury's Statutes 681).

Definition.—For definition of "voluntary organisation", see s. 64 (1), post.

27. Investigation of resources, etc., by Board.—A local authority may refer to the Board for investigation any question arising as to the resources or other circumstances of a person applying for accommodation under this Part of this Act or for whom such accommodation is being provided. [3633]

General note.—An applicant for accommodation under this Part of the Act will generally also be an applicant for financial assistance from the National Assistance Board, who will investigate his resources, etc. This section is designed to avoid the duplication of such investigation by the local authority by enabling them to refer for information to the Board.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (see s. 33 (1), post).

Accommodation provided under this Part of this Act.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), ante.

28. Exchequer contributions to local authorities.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the Minister shall make annual contributions to local authorities in respect of premises provided by them for the purposes of the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act, being premises provided in accordance with proposals approved by the Minister and used in accordance with any conditions subject to which the proposals were approved. [3634]

(2) It shall be a condition of the making of contributions under this section in respect of any premises—

(a) that the premises are for the time being used or available for the provision therein of accommodation under this Part of this Act; and either

(b) that the construction of the premises, and of any other premises forming part of the same building, was begun on or after the thirty-first day of October, 1947; or

(c) that the premises were acquired on or after that day. [3635]

(3) Annual contributions under this section in respect of any premises falling within paragraph (b) of the last foregoing subsection shall be made for such period not exceeding sixty years as the Minister may determine, being a period beginning with the completion of the premises, and shall be of the following amounts, that is to say—

(a) in respect of each single bedroom comprised in the premises which is intended for the provision of accommodation under this Part of this Act, the sum of seven pounds ten shillings;

(b) in respect of each other bedroom comprised in the premises which is intended for the provision of accommodation under this Part of this Act, such sum not exceeding six pounds ten shillings as may be prescribed by the Minister, multiplied by the number of persons for whose occupation the room is intended. [3636]

(4) Annual contributions under this section in respect of any premises falling within paragraph (c) of subsection (2) thereof shall be made for such period not exceeding sixty years as the Minister may determine, being a period beginning with the time when the adaptation of the premises was completed, or if no adaptation was required with the date of the acquisition of the premises, and shall be of an amount not exceeding the amount specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of the last foregoing subsection and not exceeding two-thirds of the difference between—

(a) the estimated average annual payments falling to be made by the local authority in question in respect of the charges on account of loans raised by the authority for the purpose of acquiring or adapting the premises, or which would have fallen to be so made if the sums expended by the local authority for the said purpose had been raised by means of loans, and

(b) such sum as may be prescribed by the Minister multiplied by the number of persons for whose accommodation under this Part of this Act provision is made in the premises.

The sum to be prescribed for the purposes of paragraph (b) of this subsection shall be of an amount equal to fifty-two times such part of the sum prescribed under the proviso to subsection (3) of section twenty-two of this Act as may be determined by the Minister to represent payment in respect of the use of the premises. [3637]

(5) In the last foregoing subsection references to adaptation are references to adaptation for the provision of accommodation under this Part of this Act, and do not include references to any adaptation carried out after the premises in question have been brought into use for the provision of such accommodation. [3638]

(6) Where a local authority enters into arrangements under section twenty-six of this Act with any such association as is mentioned in subsection (7) of that section, the local authority shall be entitled to receive the like contributions (if any) under this section in respect of any premises to which the arrangements relate as if the premises had been provided by the local authority, but where a local authority receive contributions by virtue of this subsection as respects any year the local authority shall as respects that year make under subsection (6) of the said section twenty-six contributions to the association of amounts not less than the contributions under this section received by the authority. [3639]

(7) Where at any time after the coming into operation of this section the Minister proposes to make an order under section sixteen of the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946 (which provides for the periodical review of contributions under the Housing Acts, 1936 to 1946) he shall consider the relation of the foregoing provisions of this section to the provisions as to contributions of the Housing Acts, 1936 to 1946, and an order under the said section sixteen may provide, in relation to contributions under this section or any class of such contributions, for reducing the amount of the contributions or the period for which they are payable, or both that amount and that period, to such extent, if any, as appears to the Minister to be requisite having regard to any reduction to be effected by the order of contributions under the said Acts of 1936 to 1946 and of the number of years for which those contributions are to be paid. [3640]

(8) In the application of this section to Scotland—

(a) subsection (1) shall have effect as if at the end thereof there were added the following proviso—

"Provided that no contribution shall be payable under this subsection in respect of any premises in respect of which a contribution is payable by the Secretary of State under any other enactment";

(b) for the references in subsection (3) to seven pounds ten shillings and to six pounds ten shillings there shall be substituted respectively references to eleven pounds and to nine pounds ten shillings;

(c) for the references to the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946, and to section sixteen thereof there shall be respectively substituted references to the Housing (Financial Provisions) (Scotland) Act, 1946, and to section fourteen thereof;

(d) for the references to the Housing Acts, 1936 to 1946, there shall be substituted references to the Housing (Scotland) Acts, 1925 to 1946. [3641]

General note.—This section provides for annual Exchequer contributions to local authorities in respect of premises in which accommodation is provided, on lines similar to the contributions under the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 640). These contributions will be payable only in respect of newly-constructed premises begun on or after October 31, 1947, or existing premises acquired on or after that date. In respect of newly-constructed premises, the subsidy is payable for a period not exceeding sixty years from completion of the premises at a rate (a) in respect of single bedrooms of £7 10*s.* per bedroom, and (b) in respect of other bedrooms, of a sum not exceeding £6 10*s.* multiplied by the number of intended occupants. In respect of existing premises, the subsidy is payable for a period not exceeding sixty years from the acquisition or conversion of the premises and will be an amount not exceeding the amount which would have been payable for newly-constructed premises, and not exceeding two-thirds of the difference between the annual loan charge falling on the local authority in respect of the premises (or, if the acquisition or conversion of the premises was defrayed out of revenue, the amount which would have fallen on the local authority if these expenses had been met by loan) and a prescribed sum determined by the Minister to represent the local authority's receipts in respect of the use of the premises.

The Financial Memorandum annexed to the Bill stated that it was estimated that the number of additional beds required in England and Wales in the next five years would be 20,000, of which about 60 per cent. will have to be provided in new buildings. On the assumption that one-third of all new accommodation is provided in single bedrooms the annual cost to the Exchequer on completion of the programme, so far as new accommodation is concerned, is estimated at about £82,000 in respect of England and Wales. No estimate was given in the Financial Memorandum of the cost of the contributions payable in respect of existing premises, since the subsidy did not cover such premises in the Bill as originally introduced, but was extended thereto by amendment made at the Committee Stage.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (see s. 33 (1), post). See also s. 21 (6), ante.

Accommodation under this Part of this Act.—As to the construction of this expression, see s. 21 (5), ante.

October 31, 1947.—This is the day following the First Reading of the Bill.

Sum prescribed for the purposes of sub-s. (4) (b).—"Prescribed" means prescribed by regulations under the Act (s. 64 (1), post). The sum proposed to be prescribed for the purposes of sub-s. (4) (b), is £7 16s. per year. Explaining how this amount was arrived at, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, at the Committee Stage of the Bill, said:

> "The limitation to two-thirds of the difference, which I have just described, arises from the basis on which the amounts of £7 10 and not exceeding £6 10—referred to in subsection (3)—have been calculated. These sums have been worked out in relation to the subsidy payable under the Housing Acts in respect of ordinary housing on the basis, first, that the ratio of Exchequer-borne expenditure to rate-borne expenditure shall be as two is to one; and, secondly, that the minimum charge to be paid by the residents for the accommodation—which has to be prescribed by regulations under the proviso of clause 21 (3)—is inclusive of an item for rent as well as for board, attendance, and maintenance. The Committee already know that it is intended to prescribe 21/- per week as the total minimum charge. . . . It has been assumed that 3/- of this 21/- represents rent. It is proposed, therefore, that the sum to be prescribed for the purpose of paragraph (b) . . . shall be 52 times 3/-, that is to say, £7 16 per year. That is how the figure is arrived at" (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 22, 1948, col. 219).

Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946, s. 16.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 652.

Housing Acts, 1936 to 1946.—These are the Housing Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 565); the Housing (Financial Provisions) Act, 1938 (31 Halsbury's Statutes 569); the Housing (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 412); and the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1946, supra.

Welfare Services

29. Welfare arrangements for blind, deaf, dumb and crippled persons, etc.—(1) A local authority shall have power to make arrangements for promoting the welfare of persons to whom this section applies, that is to say persons who are blind, deaf or dumb, and other persons who are substantially and permanently handicapped by illness, injury, or congenital deformity or such other disabilities as may be prescribed by the Minister. [3642]

(2) In relation to persons ordinarily resident in the area of a local authority the authority shall, to such extent as the Minister may direct, be under a duty to exercise their powers under this section. [3643]

(3) The arrangements made by a local authority under this section shall be carried into effect in accordance with a scheme made thereunder. [3644]

(4) Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, arrangements may be made thereunder—

(a) for informing persons to whom arrangements under that subsection relate of the services available for them thereunder;

(b) for giving such persons instruction in their own homes or elsewhere in methods of overcoming the effects of their disabilities;

(c) for providing workshops where such persons may be engaged (whether under a contract of service or otherwise) in suitable work, and hostels where persons engaged in the workshops, and other persons to whom arrangements under subsection (1) of this section relate and for whom work or training is being provided in pursuance of the Disabled Persons (Employment) Act, 1944, may live;

(d) for providing persons to whom arrangements under subsection (1) of this section relate with suitable work (whether under a contract of service or otherwise) in their own homes or elsewhere;

(e) for helping such persons in disposing of the produce of their work;

(f) for providing such persons with recreational facilities in their own homes or elsewhere;

(g) for compiling and maintaining classified registers of the persons to whom arrangements under subsection (1) of this section relate. [3645]

(5) A local authority may recover from persons availing themselves of any service provided under this section such charges (if any) as, having regard to the cost of the service, the authority may determine, whether generally or in the circumstances of any particular case. [3646]

(6) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this section shall authorise or require—

(a) the payment of money to persons to whom this section applies, other than persons for whom work is provided under arrangements made by virtue of paragraph (c) or paragraph (d) of subsection (4) of this section or who are engaged in work which they are enabled to perform in consequence of anything done in pursuance of arrangements made under this section; or

(b) the provision of any accommodation or services required to be provided under the National Health Service Act, 1946, or the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947. [3647]

(7) A person engaged in work in a workshop provided under paragraph (c) of subsection (4) of this section, or a person in receipt of a superannuation allowance granted on his retirement from engagement in any such workshop, shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to continue to be ordinarily resident in the area in which he was ordinarily resident immediately before he became engaged in the work. [3648]

General note.—A duty of making welfare arrangements for blind persons was formerly imposed on local authorities by the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938 (20 Halsbury's Statutes 593 and 21 Halsbury's Statutes 812). These provisions are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post, as a result of the wider provision made by the present section which covers the making of welfare arrangements not only for the blind but for deaf, dumb and other persons substantially and permanently handicapped by mental or physical disabilities. As to homes for such persons, see ss. 37-40, post. As to the registration of charities for such persons, see s. 41, post.

The welfare services to be provided under this section are in addition to the vocational training and industrial rehabilitation courses for disabled persons provided under the Disabled Persons (Employment) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 346).

As to inspection of premises provided under this section by officers of the Minister, see s. 35 (3), post, and the National Assistance (Powers of Inspection) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1445), made thereunder.

The expenditure on welfare services falling to be met out of the rates has been estimated to be approximately £1,000,000 per annum (Financial Memorandum annexed to the Bill).

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (see s. 33 (1), post).

"The Minister."—The Minister of Health in England and Wales (s. 35 (1), post).

Scheme.—As to schemes under this section, see s. 34, post.

Contract of service.—As to the meaning of this expression, see note to s. 9, ante. Note that by s. 9 (2), ante, the general rule that remunerative full-time work disqualifies a person from receiving an assistance grant, does not apply in the case of a disabled person employed otherwise than under a contract of service whose earning power is substantially reduced by reason of his disability.

Disabled Persons (Employment) Act, 1944.—37 Halsbury's Statutes 346.

Classified registers.—Classified registers of blind persons have hitherto been maintained by local authorities under the Blind Persons Act, 1920 and 1938, supra, and the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health at the Committee Stage of the Bill gave an assurance that it was intended to ensure the continuance of these registers (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 22, 1948, col. 235).

Charges.—Owing to the varied nature of the welfare services which may be provided under this section, it is considered desirable that local authorities should have a wide discretion in exercising their power of recovering charges, and guidance from the Central Authority will be of a negative, rather than a positive, nature. It is intended, for example, to make regulations forbidding the recovery of charges for permission to work either in workshops or, apart from charges for the supply of materials, under any homeworkers' scheme.

There will be many other services, for example instruction given to persons in their own homes or elsewhere in methods of overcoming the effects of their disabilities in which local authorities will be expected to follow the pattern of the existing services for the welfare of the blind, and not seek to recover charges. On the other hand, there may be persons not only well able to afford to pay but desirous of doing so and it is therefore desirable that local authorities should have a wide discretion as to the making of charges (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 22, 1948, cols. 237–238).

Arrangements made by virtue of sub-s. (4) (c) or (d).—These include arrangements made under the corresponding provisions of the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938, supra (see Sched. VII, para. 5 (2), post).

National Health Service Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 515.

Ordinarily resident.—Any question as to a person's ordinary residence will be determined by the Minister (s. 32 (3), post).

Definitions.—For definitions of " blind person " and " disability", see s. 64 (1), post.

30. Voluntary organisations for disabled persons' welfare.—(1) A local authority may, if the scheme under the last foregoing section so provides, employ as their agent for the purposes of that section any voluntary organisation for the time being registered in accordance with this Act being an organisation having for its sole or principal object or among its principal objects the promotion of the welfare of persons to whom the last foregoing section applies. [3649]

(2) A local authority may make contributions to the funds of any such organisation as is referred to in the last foregoing subsection. [3650]

(3) Section one hundred and two of the Local Government Act, 1929, and section sixty-four of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1929 (which sections so far as still in force provide for the making of schemes for contribution by local authorities to voluntary associations providing services for the welfare of the blind) shall cease to have effect. [3651]

Local authority.—The council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (s. 33 (1), post).

War Charities Act, 1940.—33 Halsbury's Statutes 47. The scope of that Act is extended to cover charities for disabled persons by s. 41, post.

Contributions to voluntary organisations.—Contributions to the funds of certain voluntary organisations may also be made by local authorities under s. 26 (6), ante, and s. 31, post, and by the National Assistance Board under s. 20, ante. See also s. 28 (6), ante.

Local authorities have hitherto made contributions to voluntary organisations providing services for the blind under schemes made by the Minister of Health under the Local Government Act, 1929, s. 102 (1), infra. Such contributions were recovered as part of the general Exchequer grant payable to a local authority under that Act. With the abolition of the block grant system by the Local Government Act, 1948, Part I (title FINANCE, ante), it was considered inappropriate for the Minister to make schemes directing local authorities to make contributions in respect of which no recoupment was to be made by the Exchequer. The Local Government Act, 1929, s. 102 (1) is, accordingly, repealed (vide infra) and replaced by sub-s. (2), supra, under which local authorities are empowered to make contributions to the wider range of voluntary organisations referred to in sub-s. (1), supra.

Arrangements have been made to mitigate any resulting loss of income to the voluntary organisations. The Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health stated at the Committee Stage of the Bill :

> " The Government have decided, after careful consideration, that the amounts at present being paid by local authorities in respect of Braille production and the holding of examinations for home teachers should, under arrangements which are now being considered by my department, be replaced by grants from the Exchequer " (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 28, 1948, col. 258).

Local Government Act, 1929, s. 102.—10 Halsbury's Statutes 948. Sub-ss. (2) and (3) of that section were repealed as from July 5, 1948, by the National Health Service Act, 1946, s. 76, Sched. X, Part II (39 Halsbury's Statutes 570, 590) and S.I. 1948 No. 112. The whole section is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Inspection.—As to the inspection of premises provided by voluntary organisations under this section, see s. 35 (3), post, and the National Assistance (Powers of Inspection) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1445), made thereunder.

Definition.—For definition of " voluntary organisation", see s. 64 (1), post.

31. Contributions to old people's organisations.—A local authority may make contributions to the funds of any voluntary organisation whose activities consist in or include the provision of recreation or meals for old people. [3652]

Local authority.—In this section the expression " local authority " includes the council of a county, county borough, county district or metropolitan borough or the Common Council of the City of London (ss. 33 (1), proviso, and 64 (1), post). In the rest of Part III the expression is confined to the council of a county or county borough.

Contributions to voluntary organisations.—Contributions to the funds of certain voluntary organisations may also be made by local authorities under ss. 22 (6) and 30 (2), ante, and by the National Assistance Board under s. 20, ante. See also s. 28 (6), ante.

Inspection.—Officers of the Minister have power to inspect arrangements for the provision of recreation or meals made by a voluntary organisation where a local authority are making contributions under this section (see the National Assistance (Powers of Inspection) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1445), made under s. 35, post).

Definition.—For definition of "voluntary organisation", see s. 64 (1), post.

Financial adjustments between Local Authorities

32. Adjustments between authority providing accommodation, etc., and authority of area of residence.—(1) Any expenditure which apart from this section would fall to be borne by a local authority—

(a) in the provision under this Part of this Act of accommodation for a person ordinarily resident in the area of another local authority, or

(b) in the provision under section twenty-nine of this Act of services for a person ordinarily so resident, or

(c) in providing under paragraph (a) of subsection (7) of section twenty-one of this Act for the conveyance of a person ordinarily resident as aforesaid, shall be recoverable from the said other local authority. [3653]

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (a) of the last foregoing subsection it shall be assumed that the expenditure incurred by a local authority in providing accommodation for any person is, as respects accommodation provided in premises managed by a local authority, at the rate for the time being fixed for that accommodation under subsection (2) of section twenty-two of this Act, and, as respects accommodation provided pursuant to an arrangement made under section twenty-six of this Act, at the rate referred to in subsection (2) of that section. [3654]

(3) Any question arising under this Part of this Act as to the ordinary residence of a person shall be determined by the Minister. [3655]

General note.—Sub-s. (1) of this section, which should be read in conjunction with s. 24, ante, enables a local authority to recover expenditure incurred in providing: (1) accommodation for a person ordinarily resident in the area of another local authority when that accommodation is provided either by agreement between the two authorities or in a case of urgent need; (2) welfare services for such a person; and (3) the conveyance of that person to his home area.

Sub-s. (2) lays down the rate at which expenditure in providing accommodation is deemed to have been incurred.

Local authority.—The council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (s. 33 (1), post).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health in England and Wales (s. 35 (1)).

Local and Central Authorities

33. Local authorities for purposes of Part III.—(1) In this Part of this Act the expression "local authority" means the council of a county or county borough in England or Wales, and the council of a county or of a large burgh in Scotland:

Provided that in section thirty-one of this Act the said expression means as respects England and Wales any such council as is specified in the definition of the said expression in section sixty-four of this Act, and as respects Scotland a county, town or district council. [3656]

(2) The provisions of the Third Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the establishment of committees and joint boards for the purposes of this Part of this Act. [3657]

34. Provisions as to local authority schemes.—(1) The following provisions of this section shall have effect as to schemes made under section twenty-one or twenty-nine of this Act. [3658]

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section, any such scheme shall be made by the local authority and submitted to the Minister, and shall come into force when approved by him. [3659]

(3) Not later than the date on which any such scheme is submitted to the Minister by the council of a county, that council shall send a copy of the scheme—

(a) in the case of London to the Common Council of the City of London and to the council of each metropolitan borough;

(b) in the case of any other county, to the council of each county district in the county; and the Minister before approving the scheme shall take into consideration any representations by any such council as is referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection made with respect to the scheme within one month from the date on which it was submitted to the Minister. [3660]

(4) The Minister may approve any such scheme submitted to him either in the form in which it is submitted or with such modifications as he thinks fit. [3661]

(5) Any scheme under either of the said sections may be varied or revoked by a subsequent scheme thereunder, and the provisions of the three last foregoing subsections shall apply to such a varying or revoking scheme. [3662]

(6) Where in the case of any local authority no scheme is for the time being in force for the exercise of their functions under section twenty-one of this Act, or for the exercise of any powers under section twenty-nine of this Act which the authority are under a duty to exercise, the Minister may require the authority, within such time as he may specify, to submit such a scheme to him for his approval, and if the authority—

(a) fail to comply with the requirement, or

(b) submit a scheme which appears to the Minister not proper to be approved by him either as submitted or with modifications, the Minister may himself make a scheme for the exercise of the said functions or powers by the local authority. [3663]

(7) Where it appears to the Minister that by reason of a change of circumstances it is expedient that any scheme for the exercise by a local authority of their functions under section twenty-one or twenty-nine of this Act should be varied, the Minister may require the authority, within such time as he may specify, to submit to him for his approval a scheme for varying the first-mentioned scheme in such respects as may be specified in the requirement, and if the local authority fail to comply with the requirement the Minister may himself make the varying scheme. [3664]

(8) This section shall have effect in its application to Scotland as if for subsection (3) the following subsection were substituted:—

> "(3) Not later than the date on which any scheme made under section twenty-one of this Act is submitted to the Minister by the council of a county, the council shall send a copy of the scheme to the town council of each small burgh in the county and the Minister before approving the scheme shall take into consideration any representations by any such town council made with respect to the scheme within one month from the date on which it was submitted to the Minister." [3665]

General note.—Schemes must be made to come into force within six months from the appointed day or such longer period not exceeding twelve months as the Minister may allow (Sched. VI, para. 5 (1), post).

Local authority.—The council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (s. 33 (1), ante).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health in England and Wales (s. 35 (1), post).

Representations by other local authorities.—The local authorities referred to in sub-s. (3) (a) and (b) are the local housing authorities (see the Housing Act, 1936, s. 1; 29 Halsbury's Statutes 565), who will thus be in a position to assist county councils by furnishing information as to the need for residential accommodation for old people and other persons in need of care and attention.

Functions.—"Functions" includes powers and duties (s. 64 (1), post).

35. Central Authority for purposes of Part III.—(1) For the purposes of this Part of this Act the expression "the Minister" means the Minister of Health as respects England and Wales, and the Secretary of State as respects Scotland. [3666]

43. Recovery of cost of assistance from persons liable for maintenance.—(1) Where assistance is given or applied for by reference to the requirements of any person (in this section referred to as a person assisted), the Board or the local authority concerned may make a complaint to the court against any other person who for the purposes of this Act is liable to maintain the person assisted. [3702]

(2) On a complaint under this section the court shall have regard to all the circumstances and in particular to the resources of the defendant, and may order the defendant to pay such sum, weekly or otherwise, as the court may consider appropriate. [3703]

(3) For the purposes of the application of the last foregoing subsection to payments in respect of assistance given before the complaint was made, a person shall not be treated as having at the time when the complaint is heard any greater resources than he had at the time when the assistance was given. [3704]

(4) In this section the expression "assistance" means an assistance grant, assistance in kind or assistance given under section ten of this Act (hereinafter referred to as "assistance under Part II of this Act"), or the provision of accommodation under Part III of this Act (hereinafter referred to as "assistance under Part III of this Act"); and the expression "the court" means a court of summary jurisdiction having jurisdiction in the place where the assistance was given or applied for. [3705]

(5) Payments under subsection (2) of this section shall be made—

(b) to the applicant for assistance or any other person being a person assisted, or

(c) to such other person as appears to the court expedient in the interests of the person assisted, or as to part in one such manner and as to part in another, as may be provided by the order. [3706]

(6) The payments to be made to the Board or a local authority under this section shall (irrespective of the recipient thereof) be applied as follows, that is to say—

(a) payments in respect of any period during which the person assisted was in receipt of assistance both under Part II of this Act and also under Part III thereof shall inure for the benefit of the Board up to an amount equal to the cost of the assistance under Part II of this Act, and the balance, if any, shall inure for the benefit of the local authority giving the assistance under Part III of this Act,

(b) payments in respect of any other period shall inure for the benefit of the Board or local authority giving assistance, and such adjustments shall be made between the Board and local authorities as may be requisite for giving effect to the foregoing provisions of this subsection. [3707]

General note.—As to the making of maintenance orders against relatives liable for maintenance under the poor law, see the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 19 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 979) and the Pensions and Determination of Needs Act, 1943, s. 3 (2) (36 Halsbury's Statutes 326), which enactments are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, post.

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (s. 33 (1), ante).

Persons liable.—As to the persons liable for maintenance for the purposes of this Act, see s. 42, ante.

Definition.—For the definition of " requirements", see s. 64 (1), post.

44. Affiliation orders.—(1) The following provisions of this section shall have effect where—

(a) assistance is given under Part II of this Act by reference to the requirements of an illegitimate child, or

(b) accommodation is provided for an illegitimate child by, or by arrangement with, a local authority under Part III of this Act, and the provisions of the last foregoing section shall not apply in relation to the father of the child. [3708]

(2) If no affiliation order is in force, the Board or local authority may within three years from the time when the assistance was given or accommodation provided make application to a court of summary jurisdiction having jurisdiction in the place where the mother of the child resides for a summons to be served under section three of the Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872. [3709]

(3) In any proceedings on an application under the last foregoing subsection the court shall hear such evidence as the Board or local authority may produce, in addition to the evidence required to be heard by section four of the said Act of 1872, and shall in all other respects, but subject to the provisions of the next following subsection, proceed as on an application made by the mother under the said section three. [3710]

(4) An order under section four of the said Act of 1872 made on an application under subsection (2) of this section may be made so as to provide that the payments, or a part of the payments, to be made thereunder shall, in lieu of being made to the mother or a person appointed to have the custody of the child, be made to the Board or local authority or to such other person as the court may direct. [3711]

(5) On an application by the Board or local authority in any proceedings under the said section three brought by the mother of the child an order under the said section four may be made so as to provide as aforesaid. [3712]

(6) Any order under the said section four, whether made before or after the commencement of this Act, may on the application of the Board or local authority be varied so as to provide as aforesaid ; and any order under the said section four which provides as aforesaid may on the application of the mother of the child be varied so as to provide that the payments thereunder shall be made to the mother or a person appointed to have the custody of the child. [3713]

(7) In the application of this section to Scotland, subsection (1) shall have effect as if all the words after " Part III of this Act " were omitted and the following provisions shall have effect in substitution for the five last foregoing subsections :—

(a) the Board or the local authority shall have the like right as the mother to raise an action of affiliation and aliment concluding for payment of aliment for the child ;

(b) where in any action of affiliation and aliment in respect of the child, whether at the instance of the Board or the local authority under the last foregoing paragraph or at the instance of the mother, the court grants or has granted decree against any person for payment of aliment for the child, the court may, at the time of granting the decree or at any subsequent time, on the application of the Board or the local authority, order that the sums due under the decree or any part thereof shall in lieu of being paid to the mother of the child be paid to the Board or the local authority or such other person as the court may direct ;

(c) the Board, or local authority or other person in whose favour any such order as aforesaid is made shall have the like right to enforce the decree (so far as relating to the said sums) by diligence, including the right to take proceedings under the Civil Imprisonment (Scotland) Act, 1882, as if the decree were a decree in favour of the Board or authority or person. [3714]

(8) Subsection (6) of the last foregoing section shall apply to payments recovered by the Board or local authority under an order made in pursuance of subsections (4) to (7) of this section as it applies to payments recovered by the Board or local authority under that section. [3715]

(9) The Secretary of State may issue such new or altered forms of proceedings as he may deem necessary or expedient for giving effect to the foregoing provisions of this section, so far as they apply to England and Wales. [3716]

General note.—The provisions of this section may be compared with (a) the Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1873, s. 5, as amended by the Affiliation Orders Act, 1914, s. 5 (2 Halsbury's Statutes 19), under which a local authority as successor to the Board of Guardians might obtain an affiliation order against the putative father of a bastard child who had become chargeable to the authority ; and (b) the Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872, s. 7 (2 Halsbury's Statutes 17), under which payments due under an affiliation order might become recoverable by a local authority during any period when the bastard child was chargeable to the authority.

The two sections of the Bastardy Laws Amendments Acts above mentioned are repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

By arrangement with.—These words cover the case of accommodation provided by a voluntary organisation on behalf of a local authority (see s. 26, ante).

Local authority.—A council of a county or county borough in England and Wales (s. 33 (1), ante).

Child.—This means a person under the age of sixteen (s. 64 (1), post).

Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872, ss. 3, 4.—2 Halsbury's Statutes 14, 15. As to proceedings in an application under s. 3, see, generally, Stone's Justices' Manual (80th Edn.) 458 et seq.

45. Recovery in cases of misrepresentation or non-disclosure.—(1) If, whether fraudulently or otherwise, any person misrepresents or fails to disclose any material fact, and in consequence of the misrepresentaton or failure—

(a) the Board or a local authority incur any expenditure under Part II or Part III of this Act, or

(b) any sum recoverable under this Act by the Board or a local authority is not recovered, the Board or authority shall be entitled to recover the amount thereof from the said person. [3717]

(2) If any question arises, whether in or in connection with any legal proceedings or otherwise, as to the amount which the Board are entitled in any case to recover under the last foregoing subsection, the question shall be referred to the Appeal Tribunal. [3718]

(3) On any reference under the last foregoing subsection a certificate signed by the clerk of the Appeal Tribunal setting forth the decision of the Tribunal upon the question referred shall be conclusive evidence of the amount recoverable under subsection (1) of this section. [3719]

(4) For the purposes of this section, any certificate purporting to be signed by the clerk of the Appeal Tribunal shall be deemed to be so signed unless the contrary is proved. [3720]

General note.—This section provides simply for the recovery of expenditure incurred in the provision of assistance or of accommodation under the Act in cases of misrepresentation or non-disclosure of a material fact. It is in no way concerned with criminal proceedings arising in such circumstances, as to which see s. 52, post.

Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post.

Miscellaneous

46. Amendments of Old Age Pensions Act, 1936.—(1) In calculating the means of a person for the purposes of the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, no account shall be taken—

(a) of any assistance grant, or

(b) of the value to that person of accommodation provided by, or by arrangement with, a local authority under Part III of this Act. [3721]

(2) Regulations under section twelve of the said Act of 1936 may provide that where a person is undergoing medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution no account shall be taken, in calculating his means for the purposes of the First Schedule to that Act, of the value to him of the accommodation, maintenance and services provided in the hospital or institution, but that his pension under that Act shall be adjusted to such extent as may be specified in the regulations. [3722]

(3) All such claims for old age pensions and questions relating thereto as are mentioned in subsection (1) of section eight of the said Act of 1936 shall be decided by the Board, subject however to the right of a person aggrieved by a decision of the Board to refer the decision to the Appeal Tribunal; and accordingly for the words in the said subsection (1) from "shall be considered and determined as follows" to the end of the subsection there shall be substituted—

"shall be decided by the National Assistance Board.

(1A) Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Board under the last foregoing subsection may refer the claim or question to which the decision relates for decision by the Appeal Tribunal constituted under the National Assistance Act, 1948." [3723]

(4) The said Act of 1936 shall have effect subject to the amendments specified in the Fourth Schedule to this Act, being minor amendments and amendments consequential on the foregoing provisions of this section. [3724]

General note.—This section assimilates the machinery for determining claims to pensions under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1051), with that laid down for dealing with applications for assistance under the present Act. The local pensions committees appointed under s. 10 of that Act which determined any claim or question in the first instance are abolished and replaced by the National Assistance Board, and for the right of appeal to the central pension authority (the Minister of National Insurance) there is substituted a right of appeal to the Appeal Tribunal constituted under the present Act.

In addition, the section provides, in calculating means under the 1936 Act, for disregarding the value of (a) assistance grants; (b) local authority accommodation; and (c) hospital accommodation, maintenance and services.

Under the 1936 Act as amended, there have been made the Non-Contributory Old Age Pensions Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1564).

As to compensation for members of pension committees established under the 1936 Act who suffer loss of employment attributable to the passing of this Act, see s. 60 (2), post.

Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, ss. 8 (1), 12.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 1055, 1059.
Assistance grant.—This includes the value of any assistance given in kind (s. 12 (4), ante).
By arrangement with.—Local authorities are empowered to make arrangements with voluntary organisations for the provision of accommodation under Part III of the Act (see s. 26, ante), and these words make it clear that, in calculating means for the purposes of the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, supra, the value of any such accommodation is to be disregarded.
Local authority.—The council of a county or county borough in England or Wales (s. 33 (1), ante).
Regulations.—See the Non-Contributory Old Age Pensions Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1564). As to regulations generally, see s. 63, post.
Hospital.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.
Appeal Tribunal.—As to the Appeal Tribunal, see s. 53 and Sched. V, post.

47. Removal to suitable premises of persons in need of care and attention.—(1) The following provisions of this section shall have effect for the purposes of securing the necessary care and attention for persons who—

(a) are suffering from grave chronic disease or, being aged, infirm or physically incapacitated, are living in insanitary conditions, and

(b) are unable to devote to themselves, and are not receiving from other persons, proper care and attention. [3725]

(2) If the medical officer of health certifies in writing to the appropriate authority that he is satisfied after thorough inquiry and consideration that in the interests of any such person as aforesaid residing in the area of the authority, or for preventing injury to the health of, or serious nuisance to, other persons, it is necessary to remove any such person as aforesaid from the premises in which he is residing, the appropriate authority may apply to a court of summary jurisdiction having jurisdiction in the place where the premises are situated for an order under the next following subsection. [3726]

(3) On any such application the court may, if satisfied on oral evidence of the allegations in the certificate, and that it is expedient so to do, order the removal of the person to whom the application relates, by such officer of the appropriate authority as may be specified in the order, to a suitable hospital or other place in, or within convenient distance of, the area of the appropriate authority, and his detention and maintenance therein:

Provided that the court shall not order the removal of a person to any premises, unless either the person managing the premises has been heard in the proceedings or seven clear days' notice has been given to him of the intended application and of the time and place at which it is proposed to be made. [3727]

(4) An order under the last foregoing subsection may be made so as to authorise a person's detention for any period not exceeding three months, and the court may from time to time by order extend that period for such further period, not exceeding three months, as the court may determine. [3728]

(5) An order under subsection (3) of this section may be varied by an order of the court so as to substitute for the place referred to in that subsection such other suitable place in, or within convenient distance of, the area of the appropriate authority as the court may determine, so however that the proviso to the said subsection (3) shall with the necessary modification apply to any proceedings under this subsection. [3729]

(6) At any time after the expiration of six clear weeks from the making of an order under subsection (3) or (4) of this section an application may be made to the court by or on behalf of the person in respect of whom the order was made, and on any such application the court may, if in the circumstances it appears expedient so to do, revoke the order. [3730]

(7) No application under this section shall be entertained by the court unless, seven clear days before the making of the application, notice has been given of the intended application and of the time and place at which it is proposed to be made—

(a) where the application is for an order under subsection (3) or (4) of this section, to the person in respect of whom the application is made or to some person in charge of him;

(b) where the application is for the revocation of such an order, to the medical officer of health. [3731]

(8) Where in pursuance of an order under this section a person is maintained neither in hospital accommodation provided by the Minister of Health under the National Health Service Act, 1946, or by the Secretary of State under the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947, nor in premises where accommodation is provided by, or by arrangement with, a local authority under Part III of this Act, the cost of his maintenance shall be borne by the appropriate authority. [3732]

(9) Any expenditure incurred under the last foregoing subsection shall be recoverable from the person maintained or from any person who for the purposes of this Act is liable to maintain that person; and any expenditure incurred by virtue of this section in connection with the maintenance of a person in premises where accommodation is provided under Part III of this Act shall be recoverable in like manner as expenditure incurred in providing accommodation under the said Part III. [3733]

(10) The provisions of section twenty-seven of the National Health Service Act, 1946, and of section sixteen of the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947 (which respectively require local health authorities and the Secretary of State to secure that ambulances and other means of transport are available for the conveyance of certain persons) shall apply to the conveyance of persons in respect of whom an order is made under this section as they apply to the conveyance of the persons specified in the said sections twenty-seven and sixteen. [3734]

(11) Any person who wilfully disobeys, or obstructs the execution of, an order under this section shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds. [3735]

(12) For the purposes of this section, the appropriate authorities shall be the councils of county boroughs and county districts and the authorities which are sanitary authorities for the purposes of the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, and in Scotland the councils of counties and large burghs. [3736]

(13) The foregoing provisions of this section shall have effect in substitution for any provisions for the like purposes contained in, or having effect under, any public general or local Act passed before the passing of this Act:

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall be construed as affecting any enactment providing for the removal to, or detention in, hospital of persons suffering from notifiable or infectious diseases. [3737]

(14) Any notice under this section may be served by post. [3738]

General note.—This section, which is modelled on local Act sections: see clause 72 in the Standard Clauses published in 1937 by H.M. Stationery Office, and the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, s. 224 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 566), makes provision of general application empowering the removal to suitable premises of diseased and infirm persons in need of care and attention. See sub-s. (13), supra; the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, s. 224, is consequentially repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Medical Officer of Health.—Medical officers of health are appointed by county borough and district councils under ss. 106 and 107, respectively of the Local Government Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 361, 362), and by the sanitary authorities for the purposes of the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, under s. 8 of the Act of 1936 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 449).

Appropriate authority.—See sub-s. (12), supra.

Hospital.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.

National Health Service Act, 1946, s. 27.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 541. As to hospital accommodation provided by the Minister of Health under that Act, see ss. 3–5 thereof.

By arrangement with.—These words refer to accommodation provided by voluntary organisations under arrangements made by local authorities (see s. 26, ante).

Public Health (London) Act, 1936.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 437. By s. 1 (2) thereof the sanitary authorities for the purposes of that Act are: (a) as respects the City of London, the Common Council, (b) as respects the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple, the respective overseers thereof, and (c) as respects a metropolitan borough, the council of the borough.

48. Duty of councils to provide temporary protection for property of persons admitted to hospitals, etc.—(1) Where a person—

(a) is admitted as a patient to any hospital, or

(b) is admitted to accommodation provided under Part III of this Act, or

(c) is removed to any other place under an order made under subsection (3) of the last foregoing section, and it appears to the council that there is danger of loss of, or damage to, any movable property of his by reason of his temporary or permanent inability to protect or deal with the property, and that no other suitable arrangements have been or are being made for the purposes of this subsection, it shall be the duty of the council to take reasonable steps to prevent or mitigate the loss or damage. [3739]

(2) For the purpose of discharging the said duty, the council shall have power at all reasonable times to enter any premises which immediately before the person was admitted or removed as aforesaid were his place of residence or usual place of residence, and to deal with any movable property of his in any way which is reasonably necessary to prevent or mitigate loss thereof or damage thereto. [3740]

(3) A council may recover from a person admitted or removed as aforesaid, or from any person who for the purposes of this Act is liable to maintain him, any reasonable expenses incurred by the council in relation to him under the foregoing provisions of this section. [3741]

(4) In this section the expression "council" means in relation to any property the council of the county, county borough or large burgh in the area of which the property is for the time being situated. [3742]

General note.—Under the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 20 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 980), a local authority could recover the cost of relief from any property of the person relieved, and the practice accordingly grew up for local authorities to provide protection for the property of persons admitted to poor law institutes. The present section makes the giving of such protection obligatory in certain comparable circumstances under the new system of assistance set up under the Act.

The section relates only to moveable property. Any steps which the Government consider it desirable a local authority should take with regard to immoveable property will be notified by Ministry of Health circular.

Hospital.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.

Recovery of expenses.—As to recovery of expenses, see s. 56, post.

Persons liable for maintenance.—As to persons liable for maintenance, see s. 42, ante.

Power of entry.—For provisions as to entry, see s. 55, post.

49. Expenses of council officers acting as Receivers.—Where an officer of the council of a county or county borough with the permission of the council applies for appointment under section one of the Lunacy Act, 1908, to exercise the powers of management of property referred to in that section, the council may defray any expenses incurred by him in connection with the application or the exercise of the said powers, in so far as those expenses are not recoverable by him from any other source. [3743]

Lunacy Act, 1908, s. 1.—11 Halsbury's Statutes 151.

50. Burial or cremation of the dead.—(1) It shall be the duty of every authority to which this subsection applies to cause to be buried or cremated the body of any person who has died or been found dead in their area, in any case where it appears to the authority that no suitable arrangements for the disposal of the body have been or are being made otherwise than by the authority. [3744]

(2) The authorities to which the last foregoing subsection applies are the councils of county boroughs and county districts and the authorities which are sanitary authorities for the purposes of the Public Health (London) Act, 1936, and in Scotland county and town councils. [3745]

(3) The council of a county, county borough or large burgh may cause to be buried or cremated the body of any deceased person who immediately before his death was being provided with accommodation under Part III of this Act by, or by arrangement with, the council or was living in a hostel provided by the council under section twenty-nine of this Act. [3746]

(4) An authority may recover from the estate of the deceased person or from any person who for the purposes of this Act was liable to maintain the deceased person immediately before his death expenses incurred under subsection (1) or subsection (3) of this section and not reimbursed under the next following subsection. [3747]

(5) The provisions of subsection (5) of section twenty-two of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (which enable the Minister of National Insurance to make payments to certain authorities out of the National Insurance Fund in respect of the cost of burial or cremation of certain persons) shall apply to all authorities to which subsection (1) of this section applies. [3748]

(6) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this section shall affect any enactment regulating or authorising the burial, cremation or anatomical examination of the body of a deceased person; and an authority shall not cause a body to be cremated under this section where they have reason to believe that cremation would be contrary to the wishes of the deceased. [3749]

(7) The Burial of Drowned Persons Act, 1808, and the Burial of Drowned Persons Act, 1886, shall cease to have effect. [3750]

General note.—Under this section it becomes the duty of a local authority, in the absence of any other suitable arrangements, to see to the disposal of any dead body within their area.

The section may be compared, first, with s. 75 of the Poor Law Act, 1930 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1005), which empowered local authorities to bury poor persons, and secondly, with s. 76 thereof providing for the recovery of the cost of such burials.

The duty of disposal of a dead body rests largely on Common Law (see, generally, 3 Halsbury's Laws (2nd Edn.) 456 et seq.). In the case of persons found drowned, however, the Burial of Drowned Persons Acts, 1808 and 1886 (2 Halsbury's Statutes 273, 279), imposed a duty of burial on police constables within the parish in which the body was found. As a consequence of the wider provision made by the present Act these Acts are repealed by sub-s. (7), supra, and by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Public Health (London) Act, 1936.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 437. By s. 1 (2) thereof, the sanitary authorities for the purposes of that Act are: (a) as respects the City of London, the Common Council, (b) as respects the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple, the respective overseers thereof, and (c) as respects a metropolitan borough, the council of the borough.

Recovery of expenses.—As to the recovery of expenses, see s. 56, post.

Persons liable for maintenance.—As to persons liable for maintenance, see s. 42, ante.

National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 22 (5).—39 Halsbury's Statutes 443.

Enactments regulating burials, etc.—As to enactments dealing with burial, see the Burial Acts, 1852 to 1906 (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 697–764); as to cremation, see the Cremation Act, 1902 (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 795); and as to anatomical examination, see the Anatomy Acts, 1832 and 1871 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 658, 694).

51. Failure to maintain.—(1) Where a person persistently refuses or neglects to maintain himself or any person whom he is liable to maintain for the purposes of this Act, and in consequence of his refusal or neglect assistance under Part II of this Act is given to, or accommodation under Part III thereof is provided for, himself or any other person, he shall be guilty of an offence. [3751]

(2) For the purposes of this section, a person shall not be deemed to refuse or neglect to maintain himself or any other person by reason only of anything done or omitted in furtherance of a trade dispute. [3752]

(3) A person guilty of an offence under this section shall be liable on summary conviction—

(a) where the assistance was given to him, or the accommodation provided for him, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months;

(b) in any other case, to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such imprisonment and such fine. [3753]

General note.—The Minister of National Insurance has stated that the powers provided by this section will only be invoked in very bad cases (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., February 4, 1948, col. 366).

Persons liable for maintenance.—As to the persons liable for maintenance, see s. 42, ante.

Trade dispute.—For definition of this term, see s. 64 (1), post. Sub-s. (2), supra, was inserted by amendment made on the report stage of the Bill in order to over-rule the law laid down in A.-G. v. Merthyr Tydfil Union, [1900] 1 Ch. 516, in which it was held that able-bodied men able to obtain work which would enable them to maintain themselves and their family who, by reason of a strike, refused that work, were not entitled to relief.

52. False statements.—(1) If any person—

(a) for the purpose of obtaining, either for himself or for another person, any benefit under Part II or Part III of this Act; or

makes any statement or representation which he knows to be false, he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such imprisonment and such fine. [3754]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment, proceedings for an offence under this section may be begun at any time within three months from the date on which evidence sufficient in the opinion of the Board or the local authority concerned to justify a prosecution for the offence comes to the knowledge of the Board or local authority, or within twelve months from the commission of the offence, whichever period is the longer. [3755]

(3) For the purposes of the last foregoing subsection, a certificate of the Board or of the local authority as to the date on which such evidence as aforesaid came to the knowledge of the Board or the local authority, as the case may be, shall be conclusive proof thereof. [3756]

(4) In the application of this section to Scotland, for the references to evidence sufficient to justify a prosecution there shall be substituted references to evidence sufficient to justify a report to the Lord Advocate with a view to consideration of the question of prosecution. [3757]

General note.—A person who obtained relief by means of a false statement was, under the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 150 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1042), deemed an idle and disorderly person within the meaning of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 3 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 913). As such, he became liable on conviction before one justice or at an occasional court-house to imprisonment with hard labour for fourteen days, or before two justices at a petty sessional court for one month; with the alternative of a fine not exceeding £5 (see the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, ss. 4, 20 (7); 11 Halsbury's Statutes 323, 331).

As to the recovery of expenditure incurred as a result of misrepresentation, see s. 45, ante.

Liability.—Liabilities under this Act include: (a) liability to maintain husband or wife and children (s. 42, ante); and (b) liability to pay for local authority accommodation (s. 22, ante).

Definition.—For definition of "local authority", see s. 64 (1), post.

Supplementary

53. The Appeal Tribunal.—For the purposes of this Act, the Appeal Tribunal shall be such of the tribunals constituted in accordance with the provisions of the Fifth Schedule to this Act as under that Schedule has jurisdiction in the case in question. [3758]

54. Inquiries.—The Minister of Health, or as respects Scotland the Secretary of State, may cause such inquiries to be held as he may deem necessary or desirable for the purposes of this Act. [3759]

General note.—This section reproduces s. 160 (1) of the Poor Law Act, 1930 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1045), which is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part I, post. The remaining subsections of s. 160 dealing with the power of summoning witnesses and paying their expenses, etc., is not reproduced, since these matters are covered by the Local Government Act, 1933, s. 290 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 459).

55. Provisions as to entry and inspection.—(1) A person who proposes to exercise any power of entry or inspection conferred by this Act shall if so required produce some duly authenticated document showing his authority to exercise the power. [3760]

(2) Any person who obstructs the exercise of any such power as aforesaid shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds in the case of a first offence or twenty pounds in the case of a second or any subsequent offence. [3761]

Entry and inspection.—Powers of entry or inspection under this Act are conferred by s. 39 (2), ante (disabled persons' or old persons' homes) and by s. 48 (2), ante (protection of the moveable property of persons admitted to hospital, etc.). See also s. 35 (3) (a), ante.

56. Legal proceedings.—(1) Without prejudice to any other method of recovery, any sum due under this Act to the Board or to a local authority shall be recoverable summarily as a civil debt. [3762]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any Act, proceedings for the recovery of any sum in the manner provided by the last foregoing subsection may be brought at any time within three years after the sum became due. [3763]

(3) The council of a county or county borough may prosecute for any offence under this Act. [3764]

(4) Where the Board are a party to any proceedings under this Act before a court of summary jurisdiction, any officer of the Board authorised in that behalf by a general or special direction of the Board may appear on behalf of the Board notwithstanding that he is not of counsel or a solicitor. [3765]

(5) This section shall apply to Scotland with the omission in subsection (1) thereof of the word "summarily", with the substitution for subsection (2) thereof of the following subsection—

> "(2) Proceedings for the recovery of any such sum as aforesaid shall not be competent after the expiry of three years after the date when the sum became due."

and with the omission of subsection (3) thereof. [3766]

Definition.—For definition of "local authority", see s. 64 (1), post.

57. Ascertainment of war savings.—(1) The Treasury may make regulations authorising or requiring the Postmaster-General and his officers and any officers of a savings bank to make such disclosure of holdings of Government stock on the Post Office Register and National Savings Certificates and of deposits in the bank as may appear necessary for the purpose of ascertaining the war savings of a person under the provisions of the Second Schedule to this Act or any corresponding enactment of the Parliament of Northern Ireland, notwithstanding that such disclosure is prohibited by or under any Act or by the rules of the bank in question. [3767]

(2) This section shall extend to Northern Ireland. [3768]

General note.—The Determination of Needs Act, 1941, s. 3 (4) (34 Halsbury's Statutes 436), which is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post, similarly authorised the making of regulations for the ascertainment of war savings. No such regulations were ever made, and it is not intended to make any under the present section so long as sufficient information can be obtained from applicants for assistance. It was thought desirable, however, to have the power in reserve (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., February 5, 1948, col. 379).

War savings.—For definition of "war savings", see Sched. II, para. (7), post.

58. Acquisition of land.—(1) The council of a county borough may be authorised by the Minister of Health to purchase compulsorily any land, whether situate within or without the area of the council, for the purpose of any of their functions under Part III of this Act, and the council of a county or large burgh in Scotland may be authorised by the Secretary of State to purchase compulsorily any land, whether situated within or outside the county or burgh, for the purpose of any of their functions under the said Part III. [3769]

(2) The Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946, shall apply in relation to the compulsory purchase of land by the council of a county borough under this section as, by virtue of subsection (1) of section one hundred and fifty-nine of the Local Government Act, 1933, it applies to the compulsory purchase of land by a county council for the purpose of their functions under Part III of this Act; and accordingly for the purposes of the said Act of 1946 subsection (1) of this section shall be deemed to have been in force immediately before the commencement of that Act. [3770]

(3) Section two of the said Act of 1946 (which confers temporary powers for the speedy acquisition of land in urgent cases) shall not apply to the acquisition of land for the purposes of this Act, whether by a county council or by a county borough council. [3771]

(4) The provisions of the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) (Scotland) Act, 1947 (other than section two thereof) shall apply in relation to the compulsory purchase of land under this section as if subsection (1) thereof had been in force immediately before the commencement of the said Act. [3772]

General note.—This section, in effect, reproduces the Poor Law Act, 1930, s. 110 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 1028). As to land held on the appointed day for the purpose of a repealed Act, see Sched. VI, para. 6, post.

Sub-s. (1).—The Local Government Act, 1933, s. 159, infra, which deals with the power of local authorities to purchase land compulsorily, draws a distinction between county councils and the councils of other authorities. Whereas by sub-s. (1) of that section a compulsory purchase by a county council may be authorised for the purpose of any of their functions under any public general Act, in the case of other councils, such authorisation is, by sub-s. (2) thereof, confined to certain purposes of the Public Health Acts before 1936. Accordingly, while s. 159 (1) authorises county councils to make compulsory purchases of land for the purpose of any of their functions under Part III of the present Act, the provision made by sub-s. (1), supra, is necessary to put borough councils on a like footing.

Other local authorities are not concerned, since county councils and county borough councils are the only authorities in England and Wales exercising functions under Part III.

Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 52. The effect of sub-s. (2), supra, is to make the uniform procedure for authorising the compulsory purchase of land by local authorities provided by s. 1 (1) of, and Sched. I to, the Act of 1946, applicable to purchases by county boroughs under sub-s. (1), supra.

It should be noted that sub-s. (3), supra, specifically excludes the temporary power for speedy acquisition provided by s. 2 of the Act of 1946 from applying to any purchase of land under the present Act.

Local Government Act, 1933, s. 159.—26 Halsbury's Statutes 562. That section has been amended by the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 346, Sched. V (29 Halsbury's Statutes 541, 550), and the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946, s. 6, Sched. IV (39 Halsbury's Statutes 60, 73).

59. Accounts of councils of county boroughs.—(1) The council of every county borough shall keep accounts of the sums received and expended by them in the exercise of their functions under this Act, and those accounts shall be made up and audited in like manner as the accounts of a county council and shall be kept separately from their other accounts. [3773]

(2) The enactments relating to the audit of accounts by a district auditor and to the matters incidental to such audit and consequential thereon shall have effect in relation to the accounts which the council of a county borough are required to keep under this section as they have effect in relation to the accounts of a county council. [3774]

General note.—The accounts of county councils are subject to district audit, while borough councils may adopt either that system, an elective audit or a professional audit (see the Local Government Act, 1933, ss. 219, 237, 239; 26 Halsbury's Statutes 424, 433, 434). In the case of a county borough's accounts under the present Act, however, this section makes a district audit obligatory.

As to district audit generally, see Part X of the Act of 1933, supra.

Functions.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.

60. Compensation of displaced officers.—(1) The Minister of Health, or as respects Scotland the Secretary of State, may by regulations provide for the payment by councils of counties, county boroughs and large burghs, subject to any prescribed exceptions or conditions, of compensation—

(a) to persons of such descriptions as may be prescribed who immediately before such date as may be prescribed in relation to the description of persons in question were employed or engaged in such full-time work as may be prescribed and who suffer loss of employment or loss or diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the passing of the National Insurance Acts, 1946, the National Health Service Act, 1946, the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947, or this Act ; and

(b) to persons of such descriptions as may be prescribed who, having before such date as aforesaid been employed or engaged in such full-time work as may be prescribed and being persons who would have been so employed or engaged immediately before that date but for any national service (as defined in the regulations) in which they have been engaged, lose the prospect of their re-employment or re-engagement in any such work in consequence of the passing of any of the said Acts, in so far as provision is not made in that behalf by or under any other enactment. [3775]

(2) The Treasury may by regulations provide for the payment out of moneys provided by Parliament of compensation, subject to any prescribed exceptions or conditions, to persons employed for the purposes of pension committees established under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, who suffer loss of employment attributable to the passing of this Act, being persons who are in full-time employment in service which is either wholly for the said purposes or mainly for those purposes and as to the remainder for the purposes of the council of any county, borough or urban district or of any county or town council in Scotland. [3776]

(3) Regulations under either of the two last foregoing subsections may provide for the determination of questions arising under the regulations. [3777]

General note.—The number of displaced officers to be compensated under this section is likely to be small. There were approximately 7,500 full-time officers employed by local authorities under the poor law. Their staff requirements under this Act are estimated at between 2,000 and 2,500, while the National Assistance Board is prepared to engage between 1,000 and 1,500 and the Ministry of National Insurance to engage the remainder (see 445 H. of C. Official Report 841). As to former members of pension committees under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, infra, it is hoped to include a number of them on the advisory committees to be established under s. 3, ante, and, possibly, on the Appeal Tribunals (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., January 9, 1948, col. 323).

As to the safeguarding of pension rights on a transfer of employment, see the Superannuation (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1948, s. 2.

Regulations.—Under sub-s. (1), supra, the Minister of Health has made the National Assistance (Compensation) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1457), post, as amended by S.I. 1949 No. 490. No regulations under sub-s. (2) had been made at the time of going to press.

As to regulations generally, see s. 63, post.

Prescribed.—"Prescribed" means prescribed by regulations under this Act (s. 64 (1), post).

Full-time.—It is a matter of general Government policy that displaced officers who were engaged only in part-time service shall not be entitled to compensation for loss of employment (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., February 5, 1948, col. 386).

National Insurance Acts, 1946.—These are the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 322), and the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 412). Provisions for the compensation of displaced employees are contained in s. 67 of the latter Act.

National Health Service Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 515. Provisions for the compensation of officers are contained in s. 68 of that Act (39 Halsbury's Statutes 567).

Old Age Pensions Act, 1936.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 1051. Pension committees were established under s. 10 thereof which is repealed by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

61. Expenses and receipts.—(1) There shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament—

(a) the expenses of the Board incurred in giving assistance under this Act (including the defraying of travelling expenses of persons applying for or receiving assistance and other expenses of the Board incurred for purposes incidental to the giving of assistance), in the provision and management of re-establishment centres and reception centres, and in making contributions to voluntary organisations maintaining centres for purposes similar to the purposes of re-establishment centres and reception centres, and any other expenses of the Board being administrative expenses incurred under or by virtue of this Act;

(b) the salaries and allowances of the secretary, other officers and servants of the Board and any expenses incurred under the provisions of this Act relating to payments to members of advisory committees and of the Appeal Tribunal and to persons attending proceedings before the Appeal Tribunal;

(c) any expenses of the Minister of Health or the Secretary of State incurred under section twenty-eight or thirty-six of this Act;

(d) any increase attributable to this Act in the sums payable out of moneys provided by Parliament under the Old Age Pensions Act, 1936, the National Health Service Act, 1946, or the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947;

(e) the administrative expenses incurred under this Act of any Government department. [3778]

(2) All receipts under this Act of the Minister of Health, the Secretary of State or the Board shall be paid into the Exchequer. [3779]

General note.—The Financial Memorandum annexed to the Bill stated that the total cost to the Exchequer of national assistance, including the cost of re-establishment centres and reception centres could not be estimated with any precision, but might well exceed the sum of £29,650,000, which was the figure for the combined cost of domiciliary assistance administered before this Act by local authorities and the State. The additional cost to the Exchequer for the administration of national assistance was estimated to be of the order of £750,000.

Old Age Pensions Act, 1936.—20 Halsbury's Statutes 1051. The Act is amended by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

National Health Service Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 515. The Act is amended both by s. 46, ante, and Sched. IV, post, and by s. 62 (3) and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Re-establishment centres.—As to re-establishment centres, see s. 16, ante.

Reception centres.—As to reception centres, see s. 17, ante.

Voluntary organisation.—For definition, see s. 64 (1), post.

62. Transitional provisions, consequential adaptation of enactments and repeals.—(1) The transitional provisions set out in the Sixth Schedule to this Act shall have effect for the purposes of this Act. [3780]

(2) Any enactment passed before the passing of this Act which refers to or is dependent on any provision of the existing poor law or the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, shall have effect subject to such adaptations as may be provided by regulations of the Minister of Health, or as respects Scotland the Secretary of State, made not later than the expiration of five years from the coming into operation of this section, being adaptations appearing to him consequential on the cesser of the existing poor law or of the provisions of the said Act of 1934 and the replacement thereof by provisions of this Act or of any other Act of the present Session. [3781]

(3) The enactments specified in the Seventh Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column of that Schedule. [3782]

(4) Regulations made under subsection (2) of this section shall be of no effect unless approved by resolution of each House of Parliament. [3783]

Existing poor law.—For definition of this expression, see s. 64 (1), post.

Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934.—For that Act, which consisted of Part II of, and Scheds. VI–VIII to, the Unemployment Act, 1934, see 27 Halsbury's Statutes 786 et seq. The Act is repealed by sub-s. (3), supra, and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

Regulations.—As to regulations generally, see s. 63, post. No regulations under this section had been made up to the time of going to press.

63. Regulations, rules and orders.—(1) No regulations or rules of the Board under this Act shall take effect unless confirmed by the Minister of National Insurance. [3784]

(2) Any power conferred by this Act on a Minister of the Crown or the Treasury to make or confirm regulations or rules, and the powers conferred by the following provisions of this Act on the Minister of Health and the Secretary of State to make orders, shall be exercisable by statutory instrument. [3785]

(3) Any statutory instrument for exercising a power to make or confirm regulations or rules under this Act, other than an instrument for exercising the power to make regulations under section five of this Act or under the last foregoing section, shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of resolution of either House of Parliament. [3786]

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make an order shall, save where the context otherwise requires, be construed as including a power, exercisable in the like manner and subject to the like conditions, to vary or revoke the order. [3787]

Statutory instrument.—As to statutory instruments generally, see the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 783), which came into full operation on January 1, 1948 (see S.I. 1948 No. 3).

Rules or regulations.—Rules made by the Board required the same authorisation under the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 52 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 800), as is laid down in this section, except that the confirming Minister was originally the Minister of Labour.

Under this section the Minister of National Insurance has confirmed the following rules and regulations made by the Board: (1) the National Assistance (Appeal Tribunal) Rules, 1948, made under Sched. V, para. 6, post (see S.I. 1948 No. 1454); (2) the National Assistance (Reception Centres) Regulations, 1948, made under s. 16, ante (see S.I. 1948 No. 1481); and (3) the National Assistance (Administration of Assistance) Regulations, 1948, made under ss. 2 (3), 8 (3), 9 (1) and 15, ante (see S.I. 1948 No. 1482).

64. Interpretation.—(1) In this Act, except where the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say:—

"blind person" means a person so blind as to be unable to perform any work for which eyesight is essential;

"child" means a person under the age of sixteen;

"dependant" has the meaning assigned to it by section seven of this Act;

"disability" includes mental as well as physical disability;

"disabled persons' or old persons' home" has the meaning assigned to it by section thirty-seven of this Act;

"existing poor law" means the enactments specified in Part I of the Seventh Schedule to this Act or, as respects Scotland, such of those enactments as apply to Scotland together with the enactments specified in Part II of that Schedule;

"functions" includes powers and duties;

"hospital" has the meaning assigned to it by section seventy-nine of the National Health Service Act, 1946, or as respects Scotland by section eighty of the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947;

"large burgh" has the same meaning as in the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1947;

"local authority", save as provided in Part III of this Act, means the council of a county, county borough, county district or metropolitan borough or the Common Council of the City of London;

"place of employment" has the same meaning as in section thirteen of the National Insurance Act, 1946;

"prescribed" means prescribed by regulations under this Act;

" requirements " does not include any medical, surgical, optical, aural or dental requirements ;

" trade dispute " has the same meaning as in section thirteen of the National Insurance Act, 1946 ;

" voluntary organisation " means a body the activities of which are carried on otherwise than for profit, but does not include any public or local authority. [3788]

(2) References in this Act to any enactment shall, except where the context otherwise requires, be construed as references to that enactment as amended by or under any enactment, including this Act. [3789]

(3) For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be deemed, according to the law in England and Wales as well as according to the law in Scotland, not to have attained the age of sixteen years until the commencement of the sixteenth anniversary of the day of his birth. [3790]

" Blind person."—The definition here given is that in the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938, see s. 5 of the latter Act (31 Halsbury's Statutes 814).

" Child."—This term is diversely defined in the social security Acts. In the Family Allowances Act, 1945, s. 2 (1) (38 Halsbury's Statutes 342), its meaning is related to the upper limit of the compulsory school age, which is at present fifteen (see the Education Act, 1944, s. 35 ; 37 Halsbury's Statutes 165). The National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, s. 88 (2) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 399), and the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 78 (2) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 489), adopt a similar definition. While the Children Act, 1948, s. 58 (1) title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante, defines " child " to mean a person under the age of eighteen, and the present section to mean a person under the age of sixteen.

" Hospital."—" Hospital " is defined by the National Health Service Act, 1946, s. 79 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 572), to mean any institution for the reception and treatment of persons suffering from illness or mental defectiveness, any maternity home, and any institution for the reception and treatment of persons during convalescence or persons requiring medical rehabilitation, and to include clinics, dispensaries and out-patient departments maintained in connection with any such institution or home as aforesaid.

" Place of employment."—" Place of employment " is defined by the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 13 (6) (a) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 433), to mean, in relation to any person, the factory, workshop, farm or other premises or place at which he is employed, so, however, that, where separate branches of work which are commonly carried on as separate businesses in separate premises or at separate places are in any case carried on in separate departments on the same premises or at the same place, each of those departments is for the purposes of that paragraph to be deemed to be a separate factory or workshop or farm or separate premises or a separate place, as the case may be.

" Requirements."—Medical, etc., requirements are excluded, since they are provided free of charge under the National Health Service Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 515).

" Trade dispute."—" Trade dispute " is defined by the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 13 (6) (b) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 433), to mean any dispute between employers and employees or between employees and employees which is connected with the employment or non-employment or the terms of employment or the conditions of employment of any persons, whether employees in the employment of the employer with whom the dispute arises or not.

65. General provisions as to application to Scotland. [3791]

66. Application to Isles of Scilly.—This Act shall, in its application to the Isles of Scilly, have effect subject to such exceptions, adaptations and modifications as the Minister of Health may by order direct. [3792]

Order.—See the Isles of Scilly (National Assistance) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1589).

67. Provisions as to Northern Ireland. [3793]

68. Short title and commencement.—(1) This Act may be cited as the National Assistance Act, 1948. [3794]

(2) This Act shall come into operation on such day as the Minister of Health, or as respects Scotland the Secretary of State, may by order appoint, and different days may be appointed in relation to different provisions of this Act. [3795]

Commencement.—Under sub-s. (2), the Minister of Health has made the National Assistance Act (Appointed Day) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1218), post, bringing the Act (except for ss. 37–40, ante) into operation as respects England and Wales on July 5, 1948.

Section 5

(2) The payments and parts of payments hereinbefore referred to are :—

(a) the first ten shillings and sixpence a week of any payment of sick pay received from a friendly society or trade union ;

(b) the first ten shillings and sixpence a week of any superannuation payment or superannuation payments in respect of previous service or employment from which the recipient has retired or resigned (whether payable by a former employer or not), not being a payment or payments—

(iv) any payment by way of disablement benefit under section twelve of the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946.

6. Where under section seven of this Act the resources of two or more persons are to be aggregated, paragraph 2 of this Schedule shall apply to the resources of each of the said persons severally and paragraphs 3 and 5 thereof shall apply to the aggregate of the resources of both or all the said persons.

7.—(1) For the purposes of this Schedule the amount of the war savings of a person shall subject to the provisions of this paragraph be taken to be the aggregate amount of assets of any description specified in the next following sub-paragraph owned by him at the relevant date, reduced by the aggregate amount of any such assets owned by him immediately before the third day of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine.

(2) The assets referred to in the last foregoing sub-paragraph are—

(a) Government stock held on the Post Office register issued after the second day of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine and acquired by the person in question by subscription at the time of issue or by inheritance ;

(b) National Savings Certificates and Ulster Savings Certificates ;

(c) money on loan to the Treasury without interest ;

(d) amounts standing to the credit of any account in the Post Office Savings Bank or a Trustee Savings Bank or any other savings bank prescribed for the purposes of this Schedule.

(3) In this paragraph the expression " the relevant date " means the earlier of the following dates, that is to say—

(a) the date at which the resources of the person in question are being computed ;

(b) such date as His Majesty may by Order in Council determine (hereinafter in this paragraph referred to as " the determined date ").

(4) Where at any time after the determined date a person receives payment in respect of an income-tax credit, then, subject to the condition specified in sub-paragraph (6) of this paragraph, in computing his resources at any time after the making of the payment the amount of his war savings shall be taken to include, or if apart from this sub-paragraph he would not be treated as having any war savings shall be taken to be, the amount of the payment.

(5) In computing the resources of a person after the expiration of the prescribed period beginning with the determined date, the provisions of paragraph 2 of this Schedule shall have effect in relation to any assets referred to in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph subject to the condition specified in the next following sub-paragraph.

(6) The condition hereinbefore referred to is that either—

(a) there is produced to the authority computing resources a certificate in the prescribed form certifying that within the prescribed period application was made in the prescribed manner claiming that the provisions of paragraph 2 of this Schedule should apply to the payment or assets in question, or

(b) the said authority are satisfied that within the said period application was made for such a certificate.

(7) Where assets referred to in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph owned by a person at the relevant date were acquired with the proceeds of the realisation after the fourteenth day of August, nineteen hundred and forty, of any investments of that person, not being investments acquired by him by inheritance after the said fourteenth day of August, then in ascertaining the amount of his war savings there shall be deducted the sum applied out of the said proceeds of realisation in acquiring the said assets :

Provided that in so far as the investments realised consisted of assets of any description specified in sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, a deduction shall only be made under this paragraph in so far as a deduction would have been required to be made thereunder if the person in question had not realised the said assets but had continued to retain them.

8.—(1) In this Schedule—

(a) the expression " by inheritance " means as a beneficiary under a will or intestacy or under the nomination of a deceased person ;

(b) the expression " Government stock " has the same meaning as in the Savings Bank Act, 1893 ;

(c) the expression " income-tax credit " means a payment or credit received by a person by virtue of section seven of the Finance Act, 1941 (which provides for the crediting of certain amounts of income tax), or of that section as applied or extended by any subsequent enactment ;

(d) the expression " investment " includes any deposit or loan, being a deposit or loan bearing interest ;

(e) the expression " Trustee Savings Bank " means a bank in the United Kingdom or the Channel Islands certified under the Trustee Savings Bank Act, 1863 ;

(f) references to the amounts standing to the credit of an account in a Trustee Savings Bank include any sums received in respect of special investments ;

(g) references to the amount at any date of any Government stock or National or Ulster Savings Certificates shall be treated as references, in the case of any such stock to the amount originally subscribed therefor, and in the case of any such certificates to the amount for which those certificates could be encashed on that date.

(2) For the purposes of this Schedule a person shall be deemed, subject to the next following sub-paragraph, to own any asset if he is absolutely entitled in possession to the whole beneficial interest therein, and not otherwise.

(3) Where two or more persons are beneficially entitled in possession to any asset they shall be treated for the purposes of this Schedule as if they were each entitled in possession to the whole beneficial interest in an equal share in the asset:

Provided that if it appears to the authority computing resources that their respective beneficial interests in the asset are not equal the said persons shall be treated for the purposes of this Schedule as if they were respectively entitled in possession to the whole beneficial interest in such share in the asset as appears to the said authority to be just.

(4) References in this Schedule to the acquisition of an asset shall be construed in accordance with the two last foregoing sub-paragraphs.

(5) Sub-paragraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph shall have effect in their application to Scotland as if the words "in possession" were omitted wherever they occur.

9. Anything to be prescribed for the purpose of this Schedule shall be prescribed by the Treasury. [3797]

General note.—This Schedule specifies the assets to be disregarded by the National Assistance Board (see s. 5 (4), ante) and local authorities (see s. 22 (5), ante) in the computation of an applicant's resources.

The Minister of National Insurance has stated that the Board will, in addition, exercise its discretion to disregard small lump sum payments from charitable sources in toto, and periodical payments up to at least 10*s.* 6*d.* a week (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., February 11, 1948, cols. 425, 429).

Para. 1.—This paragraph re-enacts the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (e) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 790), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3), ante, and Sched. VII, Part III, post.

War savings.—The provisions of the Schedule for disregarding war savings (see paras. 2, 6, 7, 8) reproduce in slightly different form the Determination of Needs Act, 1941, s. 3 (1)–(3) and Sched. II (34 Halsbury's Statutes 435, 439), which Act is repealed by s. 62 (3), ante, and Sched. VII, Part III, post. The provision made by para. 7 (4), supra, whereby payments of income tax credits received after "the determined date" will be treated as war savings is, however, new. The determined date will be fixed by Order in Council (see para. 7 (3), supra), which will, in effect, delimit the period, beginning on September 3, 1939, within which savings will be deemed war savings for the purpose of the Schedule. No such Order in Council had been made at the date of going to press.

Regulations may authorise the Postmaster-General to disclose holdings in the Post Office Savings Bank, etc., for the purpose of ascertaining a person's war savings (see s. 57, ante).

Para. 3.—This paragraph corresponds to the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (d) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 790). That paragraph originally provided for a total disregard of capital assets up to £25 and for treating the value of any excess up to £300 as equivalent to a weekly income of one shilling for each complete £25. The Pensions and Determination of Needs Act, 1943, s. 1 (1) (36 Halsbury's Statutes 326) amended the paragraph by substituting £400 for £300 and sixpence for one shilling.

The effect of para. 3, supra, is, accordingly, to retain the previous provision for calculating the income equivalent of capital assets, while raising the amount of the total disregard to £50.

National Insurance Act, 1946, ss. 14, 15, 22.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 434, 435, 442. It will be noted that while a maternity grant (£4) is wholly disregarded (para. 4 (b)), attendance allowance (£1 a week for four weeks) and maternity allowance (£1 16*s.* a week for thirteen weeks) are disregarded only up to a maximum disregard of £1 a week (para. 5 (2) (c)). Maternity grant under the 1946 Act is similar to the maternity benefit formerly payable under the National Health Insurance Act, 1936, s. 57 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1099), which (exclusive of increases) was wholly disregarded under the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (a) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 790). No corresponding provision was made in the case of attendance allowance and maternity allowance, which are alternatives, since these are both new benefits introduced by the 1946 Act.

As to retirement pensions, see the National Insurance Act, 1946, ss. 20, 21 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 439, 441).

Sick pay.—The Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (a) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 790), provided for a disregard of 5*s.* a week of any sick pay from a friendly society. The original Bill enlarged this disregard to include payments from trade unions and raised the amount to 7*s.* 6*d.* By an amendment made in committee the amount was further raised to 10*s.* 6*d.* (para. 5 (2) (a)).

In addition, by s. 38 (3) (g) of the Act of 1934, which was added by the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940, s. 10, Sched. II (33 Halsbury's Statutes 517, 525), the first 7*s.* 6*d.* a week of any sickness payment under the 1940 Act, Part I was to be disregarded. No corresponding disregard of sickness benefit under the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Statutes 412) is laid down by the present Act.

Superannuation payments.—Provision for disregarding 7*s.* 6*d.* a week of superannuation payments was made by the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (f), which was added by the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940, s. 10, Sched. II (33 Halsbury's Statutes 517, 525). The amount was raised to 10*s.* 6*d.* a week by the Pensions and Determination of Needs Act, 1943, s. 1 (2) (36 Halsbury's Statutes 324) subject to the proviso thereto.

The effect of para. 5 (2) (b), supra, is substantially to continue the previous provisions.

Old Age Pensions Act, 1936.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 1051.

Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pensions Acts, 1936 to 1941.—The Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pensions Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 1198); the Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pensions (Voluntary Contributors) Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 997); the National Health Insurance and Contributory Pensions (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1939, Part III and the applicable provisions of Part I (32 Statutes 1076); the Old Age and Widows' Pension Act, 1940, Part I (33 Halsbury's Statutes 512); the National Health Insurance, Contributory Pensions and Workmen's Compensation Act, 1941, the applicable provisions of Part I (34 Halsbury's Statutes 440).

Finance Act, 1919, s. 16.—9 Halsbury's Statutes 612. That section exempts wounds and disability pensions from income tax.

Para. 5 (2) (d) (i), supra, corresponds with the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934 s. 38 (3) (b) (27 Halsbury's Statutes 790).

Personal Injuries (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1939.—32 Halsbury's Statutes 1061.

Workmen's compensation.—Under the Unemployment Assistance Act, 1934, s. 38 (3) (c) there was a disregard of one half of any weekly payment of workmen's compensation. Now the disregard, both of workmen's compensation and of its modern counterpart, disablement benefit (see para. 5 (2) (d) (iv), supra), will be £1. In the case of persons entitled to more than £2 a week workmen's compensation, the amount of the disregard will, thus, be reduced. The Minister of National Insurance, however, on the Committee Stage of the Bill gave an assurance that the power conferred on the Board by Sched. VI, para. 3 (2), to increase the amounts of assistance grants in respect of persons in receipt of assistance before the appointed day, will be invoked to prevent such persons suffering any loss.

National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 322. As to disablement benefit, see s. 12 thereof.

Savings Bank Act, 1893.—17 Halsbury's Statutes 756. Sched. I to that Act, which defines Government Stock, has been enlarged by the Finance Act, 1935, s. 30 (6) (28 Halsbury's Statutes 322) and the Tithe Act, 1936, s. 24 (8) (29 Halsbury's Statutes 949).

Finance Act, 1941, s. 7.—34 Halsbury's Statutes 105.

Trustee Savings Bank Act, 1863.—17 Halsbury's Statutes 711.

THIRD SCHEDULE

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS AS TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES

PART I

Committees

1.—(1) For the purposes of their functions under Part III of this Act every local authority shall establish a committee, and all matters relating to the discharge of any of the said functions shall stand referred to that committee.

(2) Before exercising any such functions a local authority shall, unless the matter is urgent, consider a report of the committee with respect thereto.

2. A local authority may authorise a committee established in pursuance of this Schedule (hereinafter referred to as "the committee") to exercise on their behalf any of their functions under Part III of this Act except the power to borrow money or to levy or to issue a precept for a rate.

3.—(1) The committee shall be so constituted as to include persons having special experience of the matters to which the functions discharged by the committee relate, and to consist of women as well as men.

(2) At least a majority of the committee shall be members of the local authority.

4. The minutes of proceedings of the committee shall be open to the inspection of any local government elector for the area on payment of a fee not exceeding one shilling, and any such local government elector may make a copy thereof or extracts therefrom.

5.—(1) The committee may, subject to any restrictions imposed by the local authority, establish such sub-committees as the committee may determine, and any sub-committee established under this paragraph shall be constituted in such manner as the committee establishing it may, subject to any restrictions imposed by the local authority, determine:

Provided that—

(i) in the case of a sub-committee established only for one or more of the following purposes, that is to say, the managing, visiting or inspecting of particular premises used for the purposes of the provision of accommodation under Part III of this Act, at least one of the members shall be a member of the local authority or of the committee ;

(ii) in the case of any other sub-committee at least a majority of the members shall be members of the local authority or of the council of a county district forming part of the area of the local authority.

(2) The committee may, subject to any restrictions imposed by the local authority, authorise any sub-committee to exercise on their behalf any functions of the committee.

6. Every person appointed to be a member of the committee or a sub-committee thereof who at the time of his appointment was a member of the local authority appointing the committee, and every person appointed to be a member of such a sub-committee who at the time of his appointment was a member of the council of a county district in the area of the said local authority, shall, upon ceasing to be a member of the local authority or council, also cease to be a member of the committee or sub-committee, unless he has been re-elected to be a member of the authority or council not later than the date of his retirement.

7.—(1) If it appears to the Minister, on the representation of a local authority, that in the interests of the efficient discharge of all or any of the authority's functions under Part III of this Act it is expedient so to do, the Minister may direct that all matters relating to the discharge thereof shall, instead of being referred to a committee established in pursuance of this Schedule, stand referred to some other committee established by the local authority.

(2) Where such a direction has effect paragraphs 2 and 5 of this Schedule, and paragraph 6 thereof so far as it relates to sub-committees, shall apply with respect to the functions in question with the substitution for references to the committee established in pursuance of this Schedule of references to the said other committee.

8. The foregoing provisions of this Schedule shall not prevent a local authority from referring to any committee appointed by them any matter arising out of, and incidental to, their functions under Part III of this Act which, by reason that it relates also to a general service of the authority, ought in the opinion of the authority to be so referred, and the foregoing provisions of this Schedule shall not apply to any matter which is so referred. [3798]

PART II

Joint Boards

9.—(1) Where it appears to the Minister to be expedient in the interests of the efficiency of any services provided under Part III of this Act that a joint board should be established for the purpose of performing all or any of the functions under the said Part III of two or more local authorities, the Minister may by order constitute a joint board consisting of members appointed by those authorities and provide for the exercise by the board in lieu of the authorities of such of the said functions as may be specified in the order.

(2) An order under this paragraph shall not be made except after a local inquiry, unless all the authorities concerned have consented to the making of the order.

(3) Part I of this Schedule shall not have effect in relation to any functions of a local authority under Part III of this Act as respects any period during which those functions are being exercised by a joint board.

10. A joint board constituted for the purposes of Part III of this Act shall be a body corporate with a common seal and power to hold land without licence in mortmain.

11. An order constituting such a joint board—

(a) may, without prejudice to the provisions of section two hundred and ninety-three of the Local Government Act, 1933, and section one hundred and ninety-six of the London Government Act, 1939 (which authorise the application of the provisions of those Acts to joint boards), provide for regulating the appointment, tenure of office and vacation of office of members of the board, for regulating the meetings and proceedings of the board, and for the payment of the expenses of the board by the constituent local authorities ;

(b) may provide for the transfer and compensation of officers, the transfer of property and liabilities, and the adjustment of accounts and the apportionment of liabilities ;

(c) may confer on the board the like powers for the compulsory purchase of land as are exercisable by local authorities ;

(d) may provide for the application, with such adaptations as may be specified, of any enactments relating to functions transferred to the board ;

(e) may contain such other provisions as appear to the Minister to be expedient for enabling the board to exercise their functions ;

(f) may apply to the board, with any necessary modifications and adaptations, any of the provisions of Part I of this Schedule. [3799]

(a) payable in respect of outdoor relief under the Poor Law Act, 1930, or

(b) payable under the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938, or

(c) receivable by him as a person undergoing treatment for pulmonary tuberculosis, or

(d) payable by the Assistance Board under any enactment repealed by this Act, the Board may continue payment thereof for any period not exceeding two months from the appointed day during which the said person is in need thereof, and for the purposes of this Act any payments made by virtue of this sub-paragraph shall be deemed to be assistance grants.

(2) Where assistance grants are made in respect of a person who at any time during the month ending with the appointed day was in receipt of any such sums as are mentioned in the last foregoing sub-paragraph, the Board may take into consideration the rate at which any such sums were paid to him at any time during the period of six months ending with the appointed day, and may increase the amount of the grants accordingly notwithstanding anything in Part II of this Act or regulations made thereunder.

(3) Any authority responsible for the making of payments falling within heads (a) to (c) of sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph shall on a requisition in that behalf made by the Board not later than six months after the appointed day transfer to the Board any documents specified in the requisition which are under the control of the authority and relate to the payments.

4.—(1) Where immediately before the appointed day any premises vested in a local authority were being used for the reception or relief of casual poor persons under the provisions of the Poor Law Act, 1930, then if on the appointed day the premises remain so vested the local authority shall maintain therein, until such time as the Board may determine, a centre for the like purposes as a reception centre maintained by the Board.

(2) For the purposes of sections seventeen and eighteen of this Act, any centre maintained by a local authority under this paragraph shall be deemed to be a reception centre maintained on behalf of the Board.

Provided that the local authority shall not exercise any function under the said Part III otherwise than in accordance with a scheme thereunder after a scheme relating to the exercise of that function has come into force.

(2) The references in subsection (6) of section twenty-nine of this Act to arrangements made by virtue of paragraph (c) or paragraph (d) of subsection (4) of that section, and to arrangements made under that section, shall be construed as including references to arrangements made under the corresponding provisions of the Blind Persons Acts, 1920 and 1938.

6.—(1) Any land which immediately before the appointed day was held by the council of a county or county borough for the purposes of any enactment repealed by this Act, or which on the appointed day vests in or thereafter is transferred to the council of a county or county borough by virtue of this Schedule, shall save as otherwise provided in this Schedule be deemed to have been appropriated for such of the purposes of this Act as the council may determine.

(2) Any right of a council of a county or county borough subsisting immediately before the appointed day to use land for the purposes of any enactment repealed by this Act shall on and after the appointed day continue to subsist as a right to use the land for such of the purposes of this Act as the council may determine, subject however to the cesser of the right in any event (other than the repeal of the said enactment) in which it would have ceased apart from this sub-paragraph.

(3) Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the provisions of the National Health Service Act, 1946, or the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947, as to the transfer and vesting of hospitals.

(4) In this paragraph the expression " land " includes any interest in land and any easement, servitude or right in, to or over land.

7.—(1) Where immediately before the appointed day any premises being part of a workhouse were being used for hospital purposes but the workhouse as a whole was mainly being used for other purposes, subsection (2) of section six of the Act, of 1946 (which provides for the transfer to the Minister of Health of hospitals and property and liabilities connected therewith) shall not apply in relation to the premises, but—

(a) the local authority by which the workhouse was provided shall to the satisfaction of the Minister of Health enter into arrangements with the Regional Hospital Board whereby, until the said Minister otherwise determines, the like accommodation shall be available for the provision of hospital and specialist services under the Act of 1946 as was available for hospital purposes immediately before the appointed day, and such facilities in relation to the accommodation made available shall be afforded by the local authority as may be necessary for the purposes of the Act of 1946 ;

(b) the Regional Hospital Board shall make to the local authority such payments in respect of accommodation and facilities as may be agreed between the authority and the Board, or in default of agreement as may be determined by the Minister of Health.

(2) Where immediately before the appointed day any person was by virtue of a lunacy order or a mental deficiency order detained in any such premises as are mentioned in the last foregoing sub-paragraph,—

(a) the premises shall be deemed, until the time determined under head (a) of that sub-paragraph, to be a mental hospital or institution for defectives, as the case may be ; and

(b) the lunacy order shall have effect as if it were an order made on the appointed day under section sixteen of the Lunacy Act, 1890, for the detention of the said person in the premises.

(3) Subsection (4) of section fifty of the Act of 1946 shall not have effect.

(4) Regulations as to the transfer of officers made under section sixty-eight of the Act of 1946 shall provide for the transfer of officers and servants of local authorities who immediately before the appointed day were employed solely or mainly at or for purposes of such premises as are mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph to the Regional Hospital Board for the area in which the premises are situated.

(5) Any expenditure of a Regional Hospital Board under head (b) of sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph shall be deemed for the purposes of section fifty-four of the Act of 1946 to be expenditure of the Regional Hospital Board incurred under that Act and approved as mentioned in that section.

8.—(1) Where any premises being part of a workhouse were immediately before the appointed day being used otherwise than for hospital purposes, but the workhouse as a whole was mainly being used for hospital purposes, the entirety of the workhouse shall be treated as a hospital for the purposes of the Act of 1946, and shall be transferred to and vest in the Minister of Health under that Act accordingly, and no apportionment of interests shall be made under paragraph (a) of subsection (5) of section six of that Act :

Provided that nothing in this sub-paragraph shall extend the operation of the provisions of section sixty-eight of that Act or regulations made thereunder as to the transfer of officers.

(2) Where a workhouse is transferred to and vests in the Minister under the Act of 1946, and immediately before it so vested accommodation was being used therein for the relief under the Poor Law Act, 1930, of persons not in need of reception into hospital,—

(a) the Regional Hospital Board shall to the satisfaction of the Minister of Health enter into arrangements with the local authority by which the workhouse was provided whereby, until the Minister otherwise determines, the like accommodation shall be available for the purposes of section twenty-one of this Act as was immediately before the appointed day available for the relief of persons not in need of reception into hospital, and such facilities in relation to the accommodation shall be afforded as may be requisite for those purposes, and

(b) the local authority shall make to the Regional Hospital Board such payments in respect of the accommodation and facilities as may be agreed between the authority and the Board or, in default of agreement, as may be determined by the Minister of Health.

(3) Where any part of the accommodation first referred to in the last foregoing sub-paragraph was being used immediately before the appointed day for the reception or relief of casual poor persons, then, if the Minister of Health after consultation with the National Assistance Board so directs, that sub-paragraph shall apply separately in relation to that part of the accommodation, and shall so apply with the substitution for the reference to section twenty-one of this Act of a reference to section seventeen thereof; and where the Minister gives a direction under this sub-paragraph—

(a) he shall not determine the arrangements made in pursuance of the direction except after consultation with the National Assistance Board;

(b) so long as those arrangements continue in force the local authority shall maintain in the accommodation provided in pursuance of the arrangements a centre for the like purposes as a reception centre maintained by the National Assistance Board, and the centre shall be deemed to be provided by the local authority in pursuance of a requirement under subsection (2) of section seventeen of this Act;

(c) expenditure incurred by the local authority in making payments in accordance with head (b) of sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph shall be deemed for the purposes of subsection (3) of the said section seventeen to have been incurred with the approval of the National Assistance Board.

(4) Accommodation provided under section twenty-one of this Act in pursuance of arrangements under this paragraph shall be deemed to be provided by the local authority in premises managed by them.

9.—(1) In this and the two last foregoing paragraphs the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively:—

"hospital purposes", in relation to any premises, means purposes such that if the premises were a separate institution they would be a hospital as defined by section seventy-nine of the Act of 1946;

"lunacy order" and "mental hospital" mean respectively an order under the Lunacy and Mental Treatment Acts, 1890 to 1930, and a mental hospital for the purposes of those Acts;

"mental deficiency order" and "institution for defectives" mean respectively an order under the Mental Deficiency Acts, 1913 to 1938, and an institution for defectives for the purposes of those Acts;

"the Act of 1946" means the National Health Service Act, 1946;

"workhouse" means a workhouse, as defined in the Poor Law Act, 1930, provided by a local authority.

(2) The question whether any premises fall within sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph 7 or sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph 8 of this Schedule shall be determined by agreement between the local authority and the Regional Hospital Board, or in default of agreement by the Minister of Health.

(3) Application to Scotland.

10.—(1) Where immediately before the appointed day a person was receiving relief in a workhouse within the meaning of the Poor Law Act, 1930, then, if he is in need of accommodation under Part III of this Act, the authority liable to provide the accommodation shall, so long as the need continues, be the authority by which the relief was given.

(2) If immediately before the appointed day the cost of the relief referred to in the last foregoing sub-paragraph was recoverable from another authority, the authority giving relief shall have the like right to recover from the other authority the cost of any accommodation provided by virtue only of the last foregoing sub-paragraph.

(3) In respect of accommodation provided as aforesaid an authority shall be entitled to recover cost from another authority in accordance with the last foregoing sub-paragraph and not otherwise, but nothing in this paragraph shall affect any right of recovery from any other person.

(4) References in the foregoing provisions of this paragraph to the authority giving relief shall be construed, where the authority to whom application for relief was made and the authority managing the workhouse were not the same, as references to the authority to whom the application was made.

11. And Whereas by section 41 of the said Act it is enacted :

9. Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding regulation, if an officer on national service ceases to be engaged in national service and in consequence of the passing of any of the Acts—

(a) is not given or offered by his former employer re-employment in his former office, or in any reasonably comparable office; or

(b) is so re-employed with reduced emoluments,

he shall be deemed for the purposes of these regulations, in the former case, to have suffered loss of employment which is attributable to the passing of that Act owing to the abolition of his office at the date of the refusal to re-employ him or employ him as aforesaid, and, in the latter case, to have suffered diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the passing of that Act. [3834]

10. No person shall, by virtue of the last preceding regulation, be entitled to have his case considered for compensation for any loss suffered by him by reason of his not being re-employed as therein mentioned unless within a period of two months after the date on which he ceased to be engaged in national service he gives notice in writing that he is available for employment to the authority or body by whom he was employed before becoming engaged in national service or, if that authority or body ceases to exist by virtue of any of the Acts, to the compensating authority in relation to officers of the first mentioned authority or body :

Provided that if the person is prevented from giving notice within the said period by his sickness or other reasonable cause, the notice may be given as soon as reasonably may be after the expiration of that period. [3835]

11. For the purpose of ascertaining the net emoluments of a person to whom regulation 9 applies such person shall be deemed to have continued to follow his former employment until the cause of claim arose and to have been entitled to the emoluments thereof. [3836]

12. In relation to a pensionable officer to whom sub-paragraph (a) of regulation 9 applies, the expression " accrued pension " means the pension to which he would have become entitled according to the method of calculation, as modified by paragraph 17 of the schedule to these regulations, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was subject before becoming engaged in national service, if at the date on which he ceased to be engaged in national service he had been serving in his civil capacity and had attained normal retiring age, having complied with any requirement of the said pension scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service. [3837]

(3) The payments shall be made at intervals equivalent to those at which the said emoluments were previously payable, and the payments shall be reduced or terminated if the claimant obtains other employment or the compensating authority are satisfied that he is not actively seeking employment or has unreasonably refused suitable employment which has been offered to him.

(4) If the claimant obtains other employment, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(5) The compensating authority may require, as a condition of making or continuing to make interim payments, that the claimant should be registered for employment at an Employment Exchange or the Appointments Department of the Ministry of Labour and National Service, at the option of the claimant.

B. Assessment of Compensation

6. Having determined the amount of the interim payments (if any) to be made under the preceding provisions of this schedule to a claimant whose claim has been accepted, the compensating authority shall, within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim, assess the just amount (if any) of the compensation payable under the succeeding provisions of this schedule, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

7.—(1) The compensating authority shall, within a period of two years after the date on which any decision is notified to a claimant under paragraph 6 of this schedule, or if the claimant has referred any such decision to the tribunal under regulation 6, within a period of two years after the date of the decision of the tribunal, review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, at intervals of not more than six months, and on any review the compensating authority may, in the light of any material change in the circumstances of the case, award compensation or increase or reduce the amount of any compensation awarded.

(2) If the claimant obtains other employment within the said period of two years, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(3) A claimant to whom a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule has been notified may, within the like period as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, require the compensating authority to review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, if he considers that there has been a material change in the circumstances of his case.

(4) The compensating authority shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision on any review under the preceding provisions of this paragraph, and if the claimant is aggrieved by such decision he may refer the matter to the tribunal within three months after the date on which he receives notice of the decision, and the tribunal shall determine any matter so referred, and the compensating authority shall give effect to the determination of the tribunal.

Compensation payable, subject to earlier cesser in certain cases, until normal retiring age

8. For the purpose of determining whether any compensation, apart from any interim compensation paid under paragraphs 4 and 5 of this schedule, is payable to any person for loss of employment, and if so the amount of the compensation to be paid, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, the compensating authority shall have regard to—

(a) the conditions upon which his appointment was made;

(b) the nature of his office ;
(c) the extent to which he has sought suitable alternative employment ; and
(d) all the other circumstances of his case :

Provided that no compensation shall be payable to such a claimant as is mentioned in proviso (i) to sub-paragraph (2) of the next succeeding paragraph if the security of tenure of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as therein mentioned is substantially similar to that of the employment lost and the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment lost does not exceed the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as aforesaid by more than five per cent. of the first mentioned amount.

9.—(1) Compensation for loss of employment shall be an annual sum, calculated in accordance with the provisions of sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, and shall be payable, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case, as from the date on which the claim was made or from such earlier date not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

(2) The said annual sum shall, subject as hereinafter provided, be the aggregate of the following sums, namely—

(a) for every completed year of the claimant's service, one-sixtieth of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost ; and
(b) in the case of a claimant over the age of forty-five years at the date of loss, a further one-sixtieth of the said net emoluments for every completed year of service since he attained the age of forty-five :

Provided that—

(i) where the claimant has undertaken or obtained other work or employment in place of the employment he has lost or has been offered other suitable employment, the said annual sum shall be calculated by reference only to the amount (if any) by which the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the annual rate of the emoluments of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered to him as aforesaid ;
(ii) if the said annual sum is required to be calculated in accordance with proviso (i) to this sub-paragraph, it shall be reduced or increased by such amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit, having regard to the relative security of tenure of the employment lost and the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as aforesaid, so however, that the said annual sum shall not by virtue of any such increase as aforesaid be greater than if it were calculated without reference to proviso (i) and this proviso ;
(iii) the said annual sum shall be reduced by such an amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit having regard to the matters to which they are required to have regard by the last preceding paragraph and to any compensation payable to the claimant under the Re-instatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944, or under or in pursuance of any other enactment ; and
(iv) the said annual sum shall in no case exceed two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant has lost.

10. There shall be deducted from any payments made under paragraph 9 of this schedule in respect of any period in respect of which interim payments have been made under paragraphs 4 and 5 the amount of such payments, so far as they do not exceed the payments due under paragraph 9 in respect of that period.

Compensation payable to pensionable officer on his becoming incapacitated or reaching pensionable age

11.—(1) If the claimant was a pensionable officer, and before attaining normal retiring age—

(a) he becomes incapacitated in circumstances in which if he had continued in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment ; or

(b) he attains an age at which had he continued to serve in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to retire with a pension on the ground of having attained that age and completed a prescribed period of service, and compensation is not then payable to him under these regulations, or compensation by way of annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension or his accrued pension, as the case may be, together with the annual value of his accrued retiring allowance (if any), would be greater than the annual amount of any compensation to which he may then be entitled under these regulations, he shall be entitled, if he so requests at any time thereafter by notice in writing to the compensating authority, as from the date on which the compensating authority receive such notice, in lieu of any compensation to which he would otherwise be entitled under these regulations—

(i) in the case mentioned in head (a) of this sub-paragraph, to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) ; and

(ii) in the case mentioned in head (b) of this sub-paragraph, to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) :

Provided that if in calculating the amount of compensation payable to a person who has given such notice as aforesaid, the compensating authority, by virtue of paragraph 19 of this schedule, have credited him with additional years of service or contributions, no account shall be taken for the purpose of the foregoing provision of any number of such additional years beyond the number of years which he could have served, had he not lost his employment, before the date on which such notice as aforesaid was received by the compensating authority.

(2) On receipt of a notice under the last preceding sub-paragraph, the compensating authority shall consider forthwith whether the person giving the notice is a person to whom that sub-paragraph applies, and within three months after the date of the receipt of the notice—

(a) if they are satisfied that he is not such a person, they shall notify him in writing accordingly ; and

(b) if they accept the notice, they shall assess the amount of compensation payable to the person, and notify him in writing accordingly,

and any such notification shall, for the purposes of these regulations, be deemed to be a notification by the authority of a decision on a claim to compensation.

(3) A compensating authority may require any such person as is mentioned in head (a) of sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, who gives a notice under that sub-paragraph, to submit himself to a medical examination by a registered medical practitioner selected by that authority, and, if they do so, they shall also offer the person an opportunity of submitting a report from his own medical adviser as a result of an examination by him, and the authority shall take that report into consideration, together with the report of the medical practitioner selected by them.

Compensation payable to a pensionable officer on attainment of normal retiring age

12. Subject as hereinafter provided, the compensation payable to a claimant who was a pensionable officer (not being a person to whom paragraph 11 has been applied) on his attaining normal retiring age shall be—

(a) an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension ; and

(b) a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any).

Supplementary provisions as to compensation payable to pensionable officer

13.—(1) Where a claimant, after suffering loss of employment, enters employment in which he participates in the benefits of the pension scheme associated with the employment he has lost, or becomes entitled to participate in any other pension scheme, in circumstances in which he is entitled to reckon for the purposes

thereof service which falls to be taken into account for the purpose of assessing compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, no compensation under either of those paragraphs shall be payable unless the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments to which he becomes entitled on entering such employment as aforesaid by more than five per cent. of the first-mentioned amount, and any compensation payable thereunder shall be calculated by reference only to the amount of the difference.

(2) If a claimant has unreasonably refused a suitable offer of such employment as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph, he shall be deemed for the purposes of that sub-paragraph to have entered the employment so offered to him.

14.—(1) If the claimant was a person in respect of whose service a widow's pension might have become payable under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of widow's pension, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to the person who as his widow might have become entitled to such widow's pension as aforesaid in the event of her surviving him—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled had he, immediately before he died, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme on grounds of ill-health of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 16; and

(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age, or after giving a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled in accordance with the method of calculation prescribed by the pension scheme had he, at the date on which he attained normal retiring age, or gave the said notice, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, as the case may be, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 16.

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the annual sum payable to a widow under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 19 of this schedule:

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

(3) Any sum payable to a widow under this paragraph shall cease to be payable or shall be suspended in any circumstances in which a widow's pension under the aforesaid pension scheme would have ceased to be payable or would have been suspended.

15. If under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, the claimant would have been entitled to surrender a proportion of any pension which might have become payable to him in favour of his spouse or any dependent, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly within one month after becoming entitled to compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, he may surrender a proportion of so much of the said compensation as is payable by way of an annual sum on the like terms and conditions and in consideration of the like payments by the compensating authority as if the said annual sum were a pension to which he had become entitled under the said pension scheme.

scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires, and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of the said benefit, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to his legal personal representatives—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum equal to the amount of any death benefit which would have become payable in accordance with the method of calculation, as modified by the next succeeding paragraph, prescribed by the pensions scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, and he died immediately before the date on which he lost his employment and complied with any requirement of the said scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service ; or

(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age or after giving a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum equal to the amount of any such death benefit as aforesaid, less a sum equal to the aggregate amount of any payments made to him by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule.

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the sum payable under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 19 of this schedule :

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

17. For the purposes of these regulations—

(a) the amount of any accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, if the number of years of service by reference to which the pension is to be calculated is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme, shall, notwithstanding any minimum benefit prescribed by the pension scheme, not exceed such proportion of such minimum benefit as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service ; and

(b) if the amount of any death benefit falls to be ascertained, by virtue of any pension scheme, wholly or partly by reference to the emoluments or average emoluments of a pensionable officer, and the number of years of his pensionable service is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme for the receipt of a death benefit, the said amount shall not exceed such proportion of the emoluments or average emoluments of the officer as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service.

18. If under the pension scheme to which the claimant was last subject before suffering loss of employment the amount of any pension to which he might have become entitled might have been increased at the discretion of the authority administering the pension scheme or of any other body, the compensating authority may increase the compensation payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule by an annual sum not exceeding the amount by which his accrued incapacity pension or accrued pension might have been increased or the annual value of the payments which might have been made to him by way of addition to or supplementation of his accrued pension.

19. If the claimant had attained the age of forty years at the date on which he lost his employment, the compensating authority in calculating the amount of the compensation payable to him under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may credit him with additional years of service or additional contributions not exceeding one year of service or one year's contributions for each completed year between the date on which he attained the age of forty years and the date on which he lost his employment, but not in any case exceeding ten years or such number of years as the claimant could have served had he continued in his employment until attaining normal retiring age, whichever is the less.

20. In deciding whether to add any number of years under the last preceding paragraph, the compensating authority shall have regard to the considerations set out in paragraph 8 of this schedule, and also to the claimant's rights under any pension scheme associated with any employment which he may have obtained in place of the employment he has lost.

21.—(1) Compensation shall not be payable or shall cease to be payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule to a person who has received any sum by way of a return of contributions under the pension scheme to which he was last subject on his ceasing to be subject thereto, unless forthwith on receiving such sum he pays to the compensating authority an amount equivalent thereto, such amount to be held by the compensating authority subject to the condition that if the pension scheme made no provision for death benefit and he dies before he has received in the aggregate by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule a sum equal to the amount so paid as aforesaid to the compensating authority, together with compound interest thereon, calculated at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, with half-yearly rests, up to the date of his death, as from the first day of April or the first day of October following the half year in which the amount was paid, there shall be paid to his legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount received by way of compensation and the said sum :

Provided that—

(a) if a sum becomes payable to his widow on his death under paragraph 14 of this schedule and on her death or re-marriage the sum ceases to be payable, and the aggregate amount of the payments which were made to her or her husband under these regulations is less than a sum equal to the amount so paid to the compensating authority by her husband as aforesaid on account of contributions, after the addition thereto of interest thereon as aforesaid, there shall be paid to her or her legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount of the payments made to her or her husband as aforesaid and the said sum ;

(b) this paragraph shall not apply to a person to whom paragraph 13 of this schedule applies, and in the event of a claimant becoming such a person after having made a payment under this paragraph, the amount of the sum so paid shall be returned to him by the compensating authority ; and

(c) this paragraph shall not apply to a person who has been an officer on national service to whom regulation 9 applies, and who received a return of contributions before ceasing to be engaged in national service.

(2) A person to whom paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may become applicable shall on or before the date on which compensation may become payable to him thereunder be entitled, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority in writing accordingly, to receive from the compensating authority in lieu of any such compensation—

(a) if the person has paid any sum to the compensating authority under sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, an amount equivalent thereto, together with interest thereon, calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme as from the date of payment of the said sum ; and

(b) if the person has not received a return of contributions under the pension scheme, and if, being entitled to such a return he has relinquished that right, an amount equivalent to the amount of such contributions together with interest thereon, calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme ; and any liability of the compensating authority under paragraph 14 or 16 of this schedule shall cease in the event of his giving such notice as aforesaid.

Compensation payable to non-pensionable officer after attainment of normal retiring age

22.—(1) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer, the compensating authority may, on his attaining normal retiring age, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a substantial period beyond that age, continue to pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half its former rate.

(2) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer and suffers loss of employment on or after attaining normal retiring age, the compensating authority may, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a further substantial period, pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half the rate to which he would have been entitled under paragraph 9 of this schedule had he not attained normal retiring age at the date on which he lost his employment.

III. Compensation for diminution of emoluments

23. On receipt of a claim for compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment the compensating authority shall within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim decide whether any compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

24. A decision under the last preceding paragraph shall be subject to review in like manner as a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule :

Provided that—

(a) no review shall take place after the date on which the claimant loses that employment, except a review as at that date ; and

(b) while the claimant continues to hold that employment, there shall be no limit to the period within which a review may take place.

25. In determining whether compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, the compensating authority shall have regard to the conditions upon which the claimant's appointment was made, the nature of his office, and all the other circumstances of the case. No compensation shall be payable where the diminution is less than five per cent. of the net emoluments of the claimant.

26. Compensation for diminution of emoluments shall be an annual sum payable as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case as from the date on which the claim was made, or from such earlier date, not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

27. Compensation to a person for diminution of the emoluments of any employment shall be payable for the same period or periods as compensation for loss of employment and shall not during any period exceed a sum bearing the same proportion to the maximum amount of compensation which could have been awarded in respect of that period had he lost his employment as the amount by which his net emoluments are diminished bears to their amount before diminution :

Provided that the compensation shall cease if the person voluntarily relinquishes his employment without the consent of his employer otherwise than on reaching pensionable age.

28. A person entitled to compensation for diminution of emoluments shall have the like rights in relation to such compensation as are conferred by paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 upon a person entitled to compensation for loss of employment.

IV. Miscellaneous

29. Any dispute as to who are the compensating authority for the purposes of these regulations shall, in default of agreement, be determined by the Minister.

30.—(1) A notification of a decision by a compensating authority to a claimant for compensation under these regulations shall contain a statement directing the attention of the claimant to his right, if he is aggrieved by the decision, to refer the matter to the tribunal, and giving him the address of the office to which the reference should be sent.

(2) The proceedings on any reference under these regulations to the tribunal shall not be deemed to be an arbitration to which anything in the Arbitration Acts, 1889 to 1934, applies.

(3) On any such reference the tribunal may, if it thinks fit, appoint a person having special knowledge or experience in relation to the subject matter of the reference to sit with the tribunal as an assessor.

31. For the purpose of determining the amount of any compensation payable in respect of the loss of a whole-time office or of any two or more offices which in the aggregate involved the whole-time employment of an officer, any previous period of part-time employment shall be treated as though it were whole-time employment for a proportionately reduced period.

32. For the purpose of making any calculation under these regulations in respect of the service of an officer all periods of his service shall be aggregated, and if the aggregated service includes a fraction of a year, that fraction shall, if it equals or exceeds six months, be treated as a year, and in any other case be disregarded.

33. If in determining the amount of any compensation payable to a person under these regulations account is taken of any employment prior to the first world war and that person was temporarily absent from that employment during that war whilst serving in His Majesty's Forces or the Forces of the Allied or Associated Powers, either compulsorily or with the sanction or permission of the authority in whose employment he was immediately before such temporary absence, such period of temporary absence shall be reckoned as a period of service:

Provided that, in the case of a person who after the 11th day of November, 1918, voluntarily extended his term of service in such Forces, no period of absence during any such extension shall be reckoned.

34.—(1) Where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of the employment he has lost otherwise than on losing such employment or where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment or diminution of emoluments has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of any employment the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and in calculating the amount of such pension account is taken of any service which was taken into account in calculating the compensation payable, then, if the compensation does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the compensation shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(2) Where a claimant's widow to whom an annual sum is payable under paragraph 14 or 28 of this schedule has become or becomes entitled to a widow's pension in respect of any employment of her husband the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and any part of such widow's pension is attributable to service of her husband of which account was taken in calculating his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension by reference to which the said annual sum was calculated, then if the said annual sum does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the said annual sum shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(3) Where a claimant's legal personal representatives to whom a sum is payable on the claimant's death under paragraph 16 or 28 of this schedule have become entitled to receive a death benefit under a pension scheme associated with any employment of the claimant the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and as one of the factors in the calculation of the amount of such benefit account fell to be taken of any service which fell to be taken into account as one of the factors in the calculation of the said sum, the said sum shall be reduced by an amount equal to such proportion of the amount of the death benefit as the number of years of the said service bears to the total number of years of service of which account fell to be taken as aforesaid in the calculation of the death benefit.

(4) Where any compensation, annual sum or lump sum is reduced in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, such compensation, annual sum or lump sum shall be further reduced by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any additional years of service or contributions credited in accordance with paragraph 19 of this schedule and by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any minimum benefit prescribed by a pension scheme.

(5) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person in whose case paragraph 13 of this schedule has been applied, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit to which the person, his widow or his legal personal representatives have become or becomes entitled as aforesaid is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments to which the person became entitled on entering the employment referred to in that paragraph.

(6) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person to whom compensation is or was payable for diminution of emoluments and who has become entitled to a pension in respect of employment which he had obtained in place of the employment the emoluments of which were diminished or whose widow has become entitled to a widow's pension or whose legal personal representatives have become entitled to a death benefit in respect of such employment, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments of the person's former employment after their diminution.

35.—(1) If a person receiving compensation for loss of employment obtains other employment in place of the employment he has lost and the remuneration thereof is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation in respect of such loss than would make up the amount (if any) by which the net emoluments of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost.

(2) If a person receiving compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment loses that employment in circumstances in which he does not become entitled to compensation in respect of that loss and thereupon or thereafter he obtains in place of that employment other employment the remuneration of which is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation than would make up the amount (if any) by which the net emoluments of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the former employment before diminution.

36.—(1) If a person becomes subject to the provisions of either of the two last preceding paragraphs he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(2) A person who has become subject to the provisions of the last preceding paragraph shall also notify the compensating authority in writing of any increase in the remuneration of the employment he has obtained in place of the employment he lost.

37.—(1) Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this schedule, if the annual sum which has been or might be awarded under those provisions does not exceed twenty-six pounds, the compensating authority may at their discretion discharge their liability in respect thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of the annual sum, and if any lump sum has been or might be awarded in addition to such annual sum under the provisions of paragraph 12 of this schedule, the compensating authority may likewise discharge their liability in respect thereof by an immediate lump sum payment.

(2) If the annual sum which has been or might be so awarded exceeds twenty-six pounds, and the claimant is not entitled to any lump sum in respect of accrued retiring allowance under these regulations, the compensating authority, if so requested by the claimant, may discharge their liability in respect of one quarter thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of one quarter of the annual sum :

Provided that if the remaining three-quarters thereof does not exceed twenty-six pounds the compensating authority may discharge their liability as aforesaid in respect of the whole of the said sum.

(3) Any lump sum payable under the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall be of such amount as shall be certified by an actuary to be appropriate. [3838]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations provide for the payment of compensation to persons who suffer loss of employment or remuneration which is attributable to the passing of the National Insurance Acts, 1946, the National Health Service Act, 1946, or the National Assistance Act, 1948, in so far as provision is not made by or under any other enactment.

To be eligible for compensation the claimant must have had eight years' full-time service in central or local government or with some authority or body the functions of which cease or are transferred in consequence of any of the Acts mentioned, and to have been employed immediately before the 5th July, 1948, by an authority or body whose functions are so affected (see definition of " existing officer " in regulation 2). If he has not refused a reasonably comparable post (regulation 5) he can receive an interim award of compensation of two-thirds of his net emoluments payable for a period of up to three months whilst his award is assessed but subject to reduction if he gets other employment or unemployment insurance benefit or if he fails to look for or take other suitable employment (paragraphs 4 and 5 of the Schedule). Compensation will be payable to him up to normal retiring age and will be an annual sum based on a percentage of his net emoluments and the length of his service (paragraph 9). The amount may be adjusted by reference to the factors mentioned in paragraphs 8 and 9 (e.g. any other emoluments which have or could have been obtained), and will be subject to review for a period of two years. If pensionable in his old employment, the claimant, on reaching retiring age or otherwise becoming qualified will be entitled to a payment equivalent to his accrued pension rights. In the assessment of this payment, account will be taken of any rights in respect of incapacity pension, widow's pension, or death benefit that may have been provided for by the pension scheme (paragraphs 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16). These rights may be increased in the case of an officer over 40 on displacement to take account of his loss of opportunity to earn more pension (paragraph 19). If he was not pensionable, compensation will cease on his reaching normal retiring age, unless it is clear that he would have been allowed to continue in his employment for a substantial period after that age, in which case compensation will be paid to him for the rest of his life at half the previous rate (paragraph 22). Overlap with pension or remuneration from public funds is avoided (paragraphs 13, 34 and 35). A claimant who is aggrieved by a decision of a compensating authority may appeal to referees appointed by the Minister of Labour and National Service, after consultation with the Lord Chancellor (regulation 6).

SIR,

NATIONAL ASSISTANCE ACT, 1948

Winding-up of Joint Vagrancy Committees

I am directed by the Minister of Health to draw your attention to paragraphs 12 and 13 of the Sixth Schedule to the National Assistance Act, 1948, which has now received the Royal Assent, and is to be brought into operation on the 5th July, 1948.

As from that date the Orders made under Section 3 of the Poor Law Act, 1930, establishing joint vagrancy committees will cease to have effect. Paragraph 12 of the Sixth Schedule to the Act of 1948 provides that any property, right or liability which, immediately before the appointed day, was vested in such a committee shall on the appointed day vest jointly in the councils which were combined for the purposes of the order. Paragraph 13 of the Sixth Schedule provides that Section 151 of the Local Government Act, 1933, shall apply to local authorities affected by this provision as it applies to the adjustment of property and liabilities between public bodies affected by an alteration of areas or authorities made by an order under Part VI of that Act. Thus the arrangements for winding up the joint committee will fall to be made on financial and other terms to be agreed by the constituent authorities or, as Section 151 of the Act of 1933 provides, to be settled by arbitration.

The Minister understands that some joint committees have already met and discussed how best to wind up their affairs, and he suggests that where this has not been done, the Committee should meet for the purpose at an early date.

The Committee will no doubt appoint one of their officers, with suitable remuneration, to be responsible for collecting any debts and settling any liabilities outstanding on 5th July, 1948, and—subject to the limitations imposed by Section 151 of the Act of 1933—for disposing of any balance of assets in accordance with the agreement. The final accounts will, of course, be subject to examination and certification by the District Auditor.

The Minister would like to take this opportunity of expressing his appreciation of the work of joint vagrancy committees in recent years in the promotion of schemes for the reduction of vagrancy throughout the country. He is confident that the experience derived from the committee's work, particularly in the establishment of reception centres in accordance with the arrangements outlined in Circular 136/46 of 28th June, 1946, will be of great value to the Assistance Board when they assume their responsibilities under the new Act.

Any correspondence from Welsh Authorities regarding this Circular should be addressed to the Welsh Board of Health. [3839]

I am, Sir, etc.

CASES

Public health—Dustbin—Provision—Owner of building required by local authority to provide—House subject to Rent Restrictions Acts—Dustbin originally provided by owner—No contractual obligation to provide—Owner's appeal to justices allowed—Transfer of " burden of liability " from landlord to tenant—Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Act, 1920 (c. 17), s. 2 (3)—Public Health Act, 1936 (c. 49), s. 75 (1).

By the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 75 (1): " A local authority who, as respects their district or any part thereof, have undertaken the removal of house refuse may by notice require the owner or occupier of any building within the district, or, as the case may be, within that part of the district, to provide such number of covered dustbins for the reception of house refuse of such material, size and construction as the authority may approve. . . . Any person aggrieved by a requirement of the local authority under this subsection may appeal to a court of summary jurisdiction."

The owners of certain houses to which the Rent Restrictions Acts applied provided a dustbin in each house when it was first let, although they were under no contractual obligation to do so. On notices being served by the local authority under the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 75 (1), requiring the owners to replace the dustbins by new ones of specified material, size and construction, the owners appealed to a court of summary jurisdiction under the subsection on the ground that the notices were unreasonable because in the circumstances the occupiers of the premises, and not the owners, should have been required to replace the dustbins. The justices allowed the appeal on the ground that the notices were unreasonable in the circumstances. It was contended by the local authority that the effect of the justices' decision was to put the burden of replacing the dustbins on the tenants, which was contrary to the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Act, 1920, s. 2 (3), prohibiting the " transfer to a tenant of any burden or liability previously borne by the landlord," and, therefore, the justices had no jurisdiction to come to such a decision :—

Held: (i) the words " burden or liability " in s. 2 (3) of the Act of 1920 referred to a burden or liability imposed by a contractual term or a term imported by statute, and did not affect the landlord's power to discontinue a privilege, facility or benefit which the tenant had previously enjoyed, but which was not included in the terms of the tenancy.

(ii) the decision of the justices in allowing the owners' appeal did not mean that the justices had put on the occupiers the burden of replacing the dustbins, and the decision was within the jurisdiction of the justices under s. 75 (1) of the Act of 1936.

CASES

Negligence—Presumption of negligence—Highway—Skid—Omnibus mounting pavement and falling down embankment—Accident due to tyre-burst—Impact fracture of tyre—No evidence when or how caused—Reasonable system of tyre maintenance by defendants.

At about 6.30 a.m. on February 27, 1943, a motor omnibus belonging to the defendants, and carrying fifty-three passengers among whom was the plaintiff's husband, was passing through a village when the off-side front tyre burst, the omnibus went over to the off-side of the road, mounted the pavement, crashed into some railings, and fell down an embankment, killing four of the passengers, including the plaintiff's husband, and injuring others. The tyre-burst was caused by an impact fracture of the cord of the outer tyre, but there was no evidence when the fracture occurred. Evidence was given that an impact fracture was caused by a severe blow which could happen without leaving any visible mark on the outer surface of the tyre and might not be visible even if the tyre were removed from the rim and examined.

The tyre, while fixed on the rim, had been examined periodically by an expert tyre fitter employed by the defendants, the last examination being three days before the accident, and it was the practice of the defendants to have tyres examined internally after every 25,000 miles when they had been running on fairly bad roads. The tyre in question had run about 23,545 miles, and about 21,750 miles since it was last taken off for examination. Before the accident occurred the driver of the omnibus had been driving at an average speed of thirty-two miles an hour, and was, therefore, guilty of a breach of statutory duty as the maximum speed for an omnibus of that type in the "black-out" (which then existed) was twenty miles an hour. He was, however, not driving at an excessive speed just before the accident occurred and the tyre-burst was not caused by his driving too fast. The plaintiff claimed damages from the defendants on the ground that her husband's death was caused by the negligence of the defendants or their servants :—

Held : (i) the fact that the omnibus left the road and fell down the embankment raised a presumption of negligence against the defendants, requiring them to prove affirmatively that they had exercised all reasonable care ; to displace the presumption it was not sufficient for the defendants to show that the immediate cause of the accident was a tyre-burst, since a tyre-burst per se was equally consistent with negligence or due diligence on their part ; but it was necessary for the defendants to prove either that the burst itself was due to a specific cause which did not connote negligence, or, if they could point to no such specific cause, that they had used all reasonable care in the management of their tyres.

Laurie v. Raglan Building Co., Ltd., [1941] 3 All E. R. 332 ; Principle in Scott v. London Dock Co. (1865), 3 H. & C. 596 ; and Woods v. Duncan ; Duncan v. Hambrook ; Duncan v. Cammell Laird & Co., Ltd., [1946] A. C. 401, applied.

(ii) [BUCKNILL, L.J., dissenting] on the facts, the defendants had discharged the burden on them by proving that they had maintained a reasonable system of inspection in regard to their tyres and that they were not guilty of negligence with regard to the maintenance of the tyre in question.

(iii) [BUCKNILL, L.J., dissenting] since the driver of the omnibus was unaware of the defect in the tyre and the burst was not caused by fast driving, the defendants had not failed to discharge the presumption of negligence arising from the fact that the driver of the omnibus exceeded the legal speed limit on the journey before the accident occurred.—BARKWAY v. SOUTH WALES TRANSPORT CO., LTD., [1949] 1 K. Stage carriage—Electric tramway car—"Injuring property of owner" —Negligence not amounting to "wanton and furious driving"—Stage Carriages Act, 1832 (c. 120), s. 48.

The appellant was driving an electric tramway car, the property of his employers. Owing to lack of care and skill amounting to negligence, but not to wanton and furious driving, the car collided with a lorry and was damaged. The appellant was found guilty of the offence, under s. 48 of the Stage Carriages Act, 1832, of injuring the property of the owner of a stage carriage :—

Held : (i) an electric tramcar, being a vehicle which proceeds from stage to stage at regular, or more or less regular, intervals, and carries passengers who pay separate fares, was a stage carriage.

(ii) it was sufficient to render the appellant liable to conviction under s. 48 of the Act, if he was proved through negligence to have caused injury to the property of the owner of the vehicle, it not being necessary to prove that he had been guilty of wanton and furious driving.—CHAPMAN v. KIRKE, [1948] 2 K. STATUTES

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 26)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

This Act, which received the Royal Assent on March 24, 1948, deals with a variety of subjects, but much of its provisions relates to rates and rating.

Part III (ss. 33–73) of the Act is concerned with valuation and rating procedure ; Part IV (ss. 74–84) lays down a new procedure for ascertaining the gross value of dwelling-houses ; Part V (ss. 85–110) relates to the rating of transport and electricity authorities ; and Part VII (ss. 120–139) and Part VIII (ss. 140–148) contain miscellaneous and general provisions. Most of the provisions of Part III and the repeal of the enactments specified in Part II of Sched. II will only take effect on the dates appointed in that behalf by the Local Government Act, 1948 (Appointed Days) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 434), made by the Minister of Health (hereafter called " the Minister ") under s. 72 (1) ; all other provisions of the Act are already in operation.

Part III largely replaces the existing law as to valuation and rating procedure.

Assessment committees, county valuation committees and the Central Valuation Committee are to be abolished. Rating authorities are to be deprived of most of their functions in relation to the preparation and amendment of valuation lists, their place being taken by officers of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue to be called " valuation officers " (s. 33).

The system of quinquennial valuation lists is to be retained or, more strictly, to be re-established. Outside London the first new lists are to come into force on April 1, 1952, and in London on April 6, 1952, but power is taken to postpone the coming into operation of all the lists for one year; there is also power to postpone the coming into force of the list for a particular rating area for one year beyond the date on which it would otherwise come into force, that is to say, outside London until April 1, 1953, or April 1, 1954, and in London until April 6, 1953, or April 6, 1954. The valuation lists superseding the first new valuation lists are to come into force everywhere on April 1, 1957, or, if the coming into force of the first lists is generally postponed, on April 1, 1958. Thereafter new valuation lists will come into force exactly five years after the coming into force of the lists which they replace (s. 34).

The preparation of a new valuation list is to begin with the making of a draft list by the valuation officer. In such a list no hereditament is to be treated as an agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament unless (a) it was so treated for the purposes of the last preceding list, or (b) a claim that it ought to be so treated has been made by the owner or occupier in the prescribed form (s. 35). Objections may be made to a draft list within a time-limit of twenty-five days by serving on the valuation officer a notice of objection. They may, however, only be made by a person who is aggrieved (a) by the inclusion of any hereditament in the draft list, or (b) by any value ascribed in the draft list to a hereditament or by any other statement made or omitted to be made in the draft list with respect to a hereditament, or (c) by the valuation in the list of a building or portion of a building occupied in parts as a single hereditament (s. 36).

After the expiration of the period for the lodging of such notices, the valuation officer is to revise the draft list and may, on that revision, make such alterations as he thinks proper. But here again he may not treat a hereditament as an agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament unless (a) it was so treated for the purposes of the last preceding list, or (b) a claim that it ought to be so treated has been made by the owner or occupier in the prescribed form, or (c) an objection has been made on the ground that it ought to be so treated. Where an alteration is made, or where an objection is not met, on revision, the persons interested (including the rating authority) may appeal to one of the local valuation courts mentioned below within a time-limit of twenty-one days by serving a notice of appeal on the valuation officer (s. 37).

At or about, and in any case not later than, the end of December preceding the date on which a new valuation list is to come into force, the valuation officer is to settle and sign the list and transmit it to the rating authority. Before settling and signing the list, the valuation officer is to make such alterations as are necessary to give effect to any decisions on appeal or as the result of an agreement by which an appeal has been settled, and he is also to cause to be ascertained and inserted in the list such particulars with respect to totals of values as may be prescribed. He may further correct any clerical or arithmetical errors, but otherwise the list as settled and signed is to be identical with the draft list as revised. On the other hand, he is not required to await the determination of outstanding appeals, which are to be dealt with as if they were appeals against objections to proposals for alteration of the current valuation list (see infra). Any failure on the part of the valuation officer to complete any proceedings with respect to the preparation, revision or settling and signing of the list within the time required, or any omission of matters to be included in the list, is not to invalidate the list, which, until the contrary is proved, is to be deemed to have been duly made in accordance with this Part of the Act (s. 38).

On receiving the list, the rating authority are to deposit it at their offices. The authority are also to give effect to directions given by the valuation officer in pursuance of this Part of the Act with respect to alterations to be made in the list (s. 39).

Alterations of current valuation lists may be effected in pursuance of "proposals," which may be made by the valuation officer and by any person who is aggrieved (a) by the inclusion of any hereditament in the list, or (b) by any value ascribed in the list to a hereditament or by any other statement made or omitted to be made in the list with respect to a hereditament, or (c) by the valuation in the list of a building or portion of a building occupied in parts as a single hereditament. On such a proposal being made, the owner or occupier of the whole or any part of a hereditament to which a proposal relates, the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament is situated, and the valuation officer (if he has not himself made the proposal), may within time-limits of twenty-one days serve notice of objection to the proposal. If, on the expiration of these time-limits, no such notice has been served or if every notice has been unconditionally withdrawn, the valuation officer must cause such alteration of the valuation list to be made as will give effect to the proposal. Otherwise the list may only be altered in pursuance of the proposal if notice of appeal against the objection is given and the alteration is either directed to be made by a court or arbitrator on the appeal or is agreed upon by all persons entitled to be heard on the appeal. Notice of appeal may, however, only be given by the person who made the proposal and must be served within a time-limit of twenty-one days (ss. 40 and 41).

Broadly speaking any alteration in the valuation list made in pursuance of a proposal relates back to the commencement of the period in respect of which the rate current at the time of the proposal was made, and provision is made for the adjustment of any difference between the amount of any rate to be paid in accordance with the alteration and the amount actually paid (s. 42). Provision is made by s. 43 for the correction of clerical or arithmetical errors in a valuation list.

Appeals against draft valuation lists and against objections to proposals are to be heard and determined by a " local valuation court " consisting of the chairman or deputy-chairman (or one of the deputy-chairmen) and two other members of a " local valuation panel," and these panels in turn are to be constituted in accordance with schemes made by county and county borough councils and approved by the Minister or, in default of the submission of a scheme within a time-limit laid down by the Act, made by the Minister (ss. 44 et seq.).

Under the Act a further appeal lies from a local valuation court to the county court (s. 49). But under the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42), this appeal will, as from the appointed day, be replaced by a reference to the Lands Tribunal (see ss. 1 (3) (e) and 10 (2) of that Act).

Instead of being heard and determined by a local valuation court or the county court, a matter may, by agreement in writing between the persons who would be entitled to appear and be heard before the court in question, be referred to arbitration (s. 50).

As a general rule, the fact that an appeal is pending does not prevent the collection and recovery of a rate made and levied in accordance with the valuation list in force for the time being (s. 51).

By s. 52 provision is also made for the amendment of the current or last preceding rate so as to make the rate conform with the enactments relating thereto.

No appeal against a rate is to lie to Quarter Sessions on any matter in respect of which relief might have been obtained by means of an objection to, or an appeal against, the draft valuation list, or by means of a proposal for amendment of the current valuation list, or of an objection to such a proposal, or of an appeal against such an objection (s. 53).

In London, as elsewhere, every rate made by a rating authority is to be deemed to be made on the date on which it is approved by the authority, and no rate need any longer be allowed by justices. Also ss. 6 and 15 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 626, 639), which relate to the publication of rates and the recovery of arrears of rates from tenants and lodgers respectively, are extended to London. But there is a saving relating to the making of rates in the City of London (s. 54).

The limits on the rateable value of hereditaments in respect of which owners may be rated in lieu of occupiers are raised outside London to £18 or, in certain cases £25, and in London to £25 (s. 55).

There are also new provisions (ss. 56 and 57) as to the treatment of advertising stations as separate hereditaments in certain cases, and as to the assessment of certain buildings occupied in parts.

Auxiliary and miscellaneous provisions in Part III of the Act relate to returns which may be required by valuation officers (s. 58); information to be given to valuation officers by surveyors of taxes and local authorities (s. 59); powers of entry (s. 60); the proof of the contents of a valuation list or an extract from such a list (s. 61 (1)); the inspection of documents by ratepayers (s. 61 (2)); appeals as to water rates (s. 62); the service of notices, etc. (s. 63); the inclusion in one proceeding of separate hereditaments (s. 64); the extension to London of s. 64 (8) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 684), which regulates the manner in which Crown property is to be dealt with in valuation lists (s. 65); the treatment of owners as occupiers in certain cases (s. 66); questions of disqualification arising from membership of an authority deriving revenue from rates or from owning or occupying property (s. 67); the transfer of valuation offices, etc. (s. 68); the use of certain rooms by valuation officers, etc. (s. 69); the application of the existing law as to the principles on which hereditaments are to be valued, privileges and the making of valuations on exceptional principles (s. 70 (1)); consequential amendments (s. 70 (2) and Sched. I); the adaptation of local Acts (s. 70 (3)); the making of regulations for the purposes of this Part of the Act (s. 71); and the commencement of this Part (see supra) and transitional matters (s. 72).

The next principal subject dealt with in the Act is the ascertainment of the gross value of dwelling-houses (that is to say, hereditaments used wholly or mainly for the purposes of a private dwelling or private dwellings, with or without any garage, outhouse, garden, yard, court, forecourt or other appurtenances other than dwelling-houses to which s. 52 of the Pluralities Act, 1838 (7 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 437), applies, which is put on a new basis by Part IV of the Act (s. 74).

The gross value of what the Act calls "post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses" is to be ascertained by reference to the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" and the "hypothetical 1938 site cost," and the gross value of what the Act terms "small post-1918 dwelling-houses" being neither "local authority or housing association dwelling-houses" nor "flats or maisonettes" is to be assessed by reference to the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" and the 1949 site value. This does not, however, apply to dwelling-houses to which s. 72 of the Local Government Act, 1929 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 931), which relates to agricultural dwelling-houses, applies (s. 75, in conjunction with s. 80).

In each particular case the "1938 hypothetical cost of construction" is to be estimated on the basis of a statement prepared by the Minister. Such statements are to be prepared for all rating areas, after consultation with the rating authority for the area in question, embodying specifications of houses and buildings and determining, in relation to each specification, the sum which is to be taken as the 1938 cost of constructing a house or building conforming to that specification; and in the compilation of the statements s. 76 provides that regard is to be had to costs actually incurred by local authorities in either or both of the years 1937 and 1938 in constructing houses and buildings. Similarly, for the purpose of estimating the "hypothetical 1938 site cost," the Minister is to prepare for all rating areas, after consultation with the rating authority for the area in question, statements specifying a particular site or particular sites in or near the area and determining, in relation to that site or, as the case may be, each of those sites, the sum which is to be taken as the 1938 cost of providing that site, developed as respects roads, drainage, water, electricity and gas to the extent specified in the statement. In compiling the statements regard is to be had to costs actually incurred by local authorities in 1938, or any other comparable period, in providing sites used for erecting dwelling-houses or buildings thereon, or other comparable sites. However, in estimating on the basis of any such statement the "1938 hypothetical site cost" in any particular case, any excess over £1,500 per acre is to be disregarded (s. 77).

On principle, the gross value of a "post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house," not being a flat or maisonette, is to be taken as 5 per cent. of the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" of the dwelling-house plus 5 per cent. of the "hypothetical 1938 site cost" (s. 78); and the gross value of any such dwelling-house which is a flat or maisonette is on principle to be taken as 5 per cent. of so much of the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" of the building of which the flat or maisonette forms part and of the "hypothetical 1938 site cost" of that buildings as appears, on a just apportionment, to be properly attributable to the flat or maisonette in question (s. 79).

The gross value of a "small 1918 dwelling-house" which is neither a "local authority or housing association dwelling-house" nor a flat or maisonette is on principle to be taken as 5 per cent. of the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" of the dwelling-house plus 5 per cent. of the value of the site on April 1, 1949, estimated on a basis laid down by the Act (s. 80).

By the succeeding section, provision is made for the increase of gross values ascertained in accordance with any of the foregoing provisions where any parts of dwelling-houses have been specially constructed or adapted for use for the purposes of any trade, business or profession.

The gross value of a dwelling-house which does not fall to be ascertained under any of the preceding provisions, i.e. which is to be valued neither as a " post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house " nor as a " small 1918 dwelling-house," is to be estimated by reference to the rents for comparable dwelling-houses which were being paid on August 31, 1939, under lettings then in force. However, if the gross value cannot be ascertained in this way owing to the lack of comparable dwelling-houses actually the subject of lettings at the end of August, 1939, or if the dwelling-house is one to which s. 72 of the Local Government Act, 1929, mentioned above applies, the gross value is to be estimated as if Part IV of the Act had not been passed except that regard is to be had to the levels of values prevailing in 1938 instead of to those prevailing for the time being and that any amount to be deducted from a rent (whether actual or hypothetical) for services provided by the landlord is to be estimated by reference to the cost to the landlord of providing those services, exclusive of profit (s. 82).

The provisions of s. 2 (1)–(3) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 709, 710), which provides increased scales of deduction for arriving at the rateable value of certain houses and buildings, are extended so as to apply to the making and alteration of the first valuation lists made after the passing of the Act and such subsequent valuation lists as may be prescribed ; and power is also taken to substitute, in relation to hereditaments consisting of houses or buildings without land other than gardens, other provisions for those laid down in Sched. II, Part I, to the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 1692), and in Sched. III to the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 584), for the deduction or maximum deduction to be made from the gross annual value for arriving at the net annual value (s. 83).

Part V of the Act then provides entirely new provisions as to the rating of transport and electricity authorities. On principle, no premises which are or form part of (a) a " railway or canal hereditament," or (b) a hereditament occupied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board, are to be rated or included in any valuation list. However, by s. 85, the British Transport Commission, the British Electricity Authority and the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board are in 1948–1949 and all subsequent years to make payments for the benefit of local authorities in lieu of the rates which would otherwise be payable to rating authorities in respect of the hereditaments in question.

The expression " railway or canal hereditament " is defined as a hereditament occupied for what the Act calls the " non-rateable purposes," i.e. roughly the purposes of transport by rail or inland waterway, of the British Transport Commission. Premises occupied as a dwelling-house, hotel or place of public refreshment and premises so let out as to be capable of separate assessment are, however, excluded (s. 86).

The general exemption in favour of railway or canal hereditaments and hereditaments occupied by electricity authorities does not apply to railway or canal hereditaments used partly for non-rateable purposes and partly for other purposes (s. 87 (1) (a)) or to premises occupied by an electricity authority as a dwelling-house (s. 91). But where a railway or canal hereditament is accordingly non-exempted, there is to be attributed thereto only such net annual value as may be just having regard to the extent to which it is occupied for purposes other than " non-rateable purposes " and any deductions to be made from the net annual value in arriving at the rateable value are to be calculated with regard only to those other purposes (s. 87 (1) (b), (c)).

The payments to be made in lieu of rates by the British Transport Commission for the benefit of local authorities are to be calculated by reference to a standard amount. The payment to be made for the benefit of local authorites in England and Wales in the year 1948–1949 is to be a payment of the standard amount, i.e. £1,810,000, increased by £600,000. The payments so to be made for the years 1949–1950 and 1950–1951 are to be payments of the standard amount adjusted so as to take into account changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales, and the payments to be made in subsequent years are to be payments of the standard amount adjusted as just mentioned and further adjusted so as to take into account changes in the circumstances of the British Transport Commission (ss. 93–95).

The payments to be made in the lieu of rates by the British Electricity Authority for the benefit of local authorities are also to be calculated by reference to a standard amount. The payment to be made for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales in the year 1948–1949 is to be a payment of the standard amount, i.e. £11,250,000. The payments to be made in subsequent years are to be payments of the standard amount adjusted so as to take into account changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales and changes in the amount of electricity supplied (ss. 96–98).

All payments to be made in this way for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales are to be paid to the Minister, and, subject to certain deductions in respect of liabilities of the Railway Assessment Authority and the Anglo-Scottish Railway Assessment Authority, are to be allocated among the rating authorities in England and Wales in proportion to the rateable values for their respective areas for the relevant year. Amounts thus allocated to the council of a county borough are to be paid to that council, while amounts allocated to any other rating authority are to be paid as to one-third to that authority and as to two-thirds to the council of the county of which the area of that authority forms part (s. 100).

Other provisions in Part V of the Act relate to the determination of water-rates in respect of railway or canal hereditaments occupied partly for non-rateable purposes and partly for other purposes (s. 87 (2), (3)); the repeal of certain provisions of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930 (23 Halsbury's Statutes 455), and the abolition of the Railway Assessment Authority and the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority mentioned above (s. 88); the commencement of provisions as to railway or canal hereditaments and as to electricity hereditaments and transitional matters (ss. 89, 90 and 92); the treatment of payments for the benefit of local authorities for certain purposes (s. 102); contributions from Area Electricity Boards to the British Electricity Authority (s. 103); the stabilisation of payments by the British Transport Commission to the Railway Freight Rebates Fund (s. 104); temporary grants by county councils to county district councils, parish councils, etc., in certain circumstances (s. 105); the duties of rating authorities (s. 106); the variations of certain provisions of this Part by order (s. 109); and the making of regulations for the purposes of this Part of the Act (s. 110).

Next, of the miscellaneous provisions contained in Part VII only the following are material to the subject of this title: provisions as to precepts (ss. 120 and 121); a retrospective amendment of s. 11 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 632), concerning the allowance to be made to owners rated instead of the occupiers and replacing the temporary provisions to the same effect of s. 3 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 710), as amended (s. 122); and an explanation of the meaning of "rating area" in relation to London (s. 123).

Finally, the general provisions contained in Part VIII of the Act, so far as they are material for present purposes, relate to the compensation of officers (s. 140); the treatment of receipts by local authorities under Part V of the Act as receipts for general expenditure (s. 141); statutory instruments (s. 142); expenses (s. 143); the interpretation of the Act (s. 144); the application of the Act to the Isles of Scilly (s. 146); repeals (s. 147 and Sched. II); and the short title and extent of the Act (s. 148 (1)).

Provisions of the Act falling outside the scope of this title are dealt with in the titles ELECTRICITY SUPPLY; FINANCE; HIGHWAYS; MEMORIALS, WAR AND OTHER; and MUNICIPAL HOSPITALITY, ante. [3857]

PART III

VALUATION AND RATING PROCEDURE

General

33. Valuations to be made by Inland Revenue officers.—(1) Valuation lists shall, instead of being prepared and amended by the bodies and at the times, in accordance with the conditions and subject to the rights as to objection and appeal specified in the Rating and Valuation Acts, 1925 to 1940, and the Rating and Valuation (Metropolis) Acts, 1869 to 1940, be prepared and amended by valuation officers of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue at the times, in accordance with the conditions and subject to the rights as to objection and appeal specified in this Part of this Act; and

(a) assessment committees, county valuation committees and the central valuation committee shall cease to exist; and

(b) save as hereafter provided in this Part of this Act, rating authorities shall have no functions in relation to the preparation and amendment of valuation lists. [3859]

(2) Nothing in this section affects any rights of a rating authority as a person who is aggrieved by anything done or omitted to be done by the valuation officer in a valuation list or draft valuation list in relation to any hereditament. [3860]

(3) In this Part of this Act, the expression "the valuation officer", in relation to a valuation list, means such officer of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue as may for the time being be authorised by the Commissioners to act (either generally or for the particular purpose in question) as the valuation officer in relation to that list. [3861]

General note.—This section provides for the abolition of assessment committees, county valuation committees and the Central Valuation Committee and relieves rating authorities of their functions in connection with the preparation and amendment of valuation lists, though it preserves the rights of rating authorities as persons aggrieved by anything done or omitted to be done in relation to valuation lists. Valuation lists are henceforth to be prepared and amended by valuation officers of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue in accordance with the procedure laid down in subsequent provisions of Part III of the present Act. As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post; and for repeals consequential on the provisions of Part III, see s. 147 (1), (3), Sched. II, Part II, post.

Valuation lists.—As to the application of the existing law to valuation lists made under this Part of the Act, see s. 70, post.

Rating and Valuation Acts, 1925 to 1940.—The Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 617), as amended by any subsequent amendment; the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 713); Part V of the Local Government Act, 1929 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 927); the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930 (23 Halsbury's Statutes 455); the Rating and Valuation Act, 1932 (25 Halsbury's Statutes 537); the Rating and Valuation (No. 2) Act, 1932 (25 Halsbury's Statutes 538); the Rating and Valuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 735); the Rating and Valuation (Postponement of Valuations) Act, 1938 (31 Halsbury's Statutes 613); the Rating and Valuation (Air-Raid Works) Act, 1938 (31 Halsbury's Statutes 614); and the Rating and Valuation (Postponement of Valuations) Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 361).

Rating and Valuation (Metropolis) Acts, 1869 to 1940.—The Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 552), as amended by any subsequent enactment; the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928 (supra); Part V of the Local Government Act, 1929 (supra); the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930 (supra); the Rating and Valuation (Air-Raid Works) Act, 1938 (supra); and the Rating and Valuation (Postponement of Valuations) Act, 1940 (supra).

Rights as to objection and appeal.—As to rights of objection, see s. 36 (to draft valuation list), s. 41 (3), (4) (to a proposal for alteration of current list), s. 43 (to the correction of a clerical error. As to rights of appeal, see s. 37 (4) (against draft valuation list), s. 41 (6) (against notice of objection to a proposal for alteration of current list), s. 49 (against a decision of a local valuation court).

Assessment committees.—These committees are constituted outside London under s. 17 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, as amended by s. 15 of the Local Government Act, 1929 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 641), and in London under s. 18 (h) of the second-mentioned Act (10 Halsbury's Statutes 895).

County valuation committees.—These committees are constituted (outside London) under s. 18 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 642).

Central valuation committee.—This committee is constituted under s. 57 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 678).

Rating authority.—Outside London, the rating authorities are the county borough councils and urban and rural district councils (Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 1 (1); 14 Halsbury's Statutes 617). Urban district councils include here non-county borough councils (cf. the Local Government Act, 1894, s. 21 (3); 10 Halsbury's Statutes 792), although non-county boroughs are now no longer regarded as urban districts (see the Local Government Act, 1933, s. 1 (1); 26 Halsbury's Statutes 306).

In relation to London, the expression "rating authority" means (a) as respects the City of London, the common council; (b) as respects any parish in a metropolitan borough, the council of the borough; and (c) as respects the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple, the Sub-Treasurer and the Under-Treasurer thereof respectively (Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, s. 7 (2); 14 Halsbury's Statutes 723).

Functions.—The functions of rating authorities which are discontinued by virtue of this section are laid down in Part II of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 640 et seq.), the bulk of which is prospectively repealed by s. 147 (1), (3) and Sched. II, Part II, post.

As a person who is aggrieved, etc.—See ss. 36 and 40, post; and cf. ss. 37 (4), 41 (3), (6), 48 (3) and 49 (1), post.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Preparation of new lists

34. New valuation lists to be made in 1952, etc.—(1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section, a new valuation list shall be made for every rating area so as to come into force—

(a) outside London, on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-two; and

(b) inside London, on the sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-two, and the periods for which the valuation lists in force at the date of the passing of this Act are to remain in force shall be extended accordingly:

Provided that the Minister may by order, on the application of the valuation officer and after consultation with the rating authority for the area and, where the rating area forms part of a county, with the council of the county, direct that this subsection shall have effect in relation to any such rating area, as is specified in the direction as if for references to the year nineteen hundred and fifty-two there were substituted references to the year nineteen hundred and fifty-three. [3862]

(2) Thereafter new valuation lists shall, subject to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section, be made for all rating areas, whether within or outside London, so as to come into force on the first day of April in the following years, that is to say, the year nineteen hundred and fifty-seven and each fifth subsequent year. [3863]

(3) If the Minister by order so directs, the preceding provisions of this section shall have effect as if for the words "nineteen hundred and fifty-two", "nineteen hundred and fifty-three" and "nineteen hundred and fifty-seven", in all places where those words occur, there were substituted the words "nineteen hundred and fifty-three", "nineteen hundred and fifty-four" and "nineteen hundred and fifty-eight", respectively. [3864]

(4) Every valuation list shall remain in force until it is superseded by a new valuation list. [3865]

General note.—New valuation lists are to be made so as to come into force outside London on April 1, 1952, and inside London on April 6, 1952 (though "1953" may on application be substituted for "1952"), and existing valuation lists are to continue in force until those dates. Subsequent valuation lists are to be made for all rating areas (including London), so as to come into force on April 1, 1957, and each fifth year thereafter. All these dates may be postponed by one year, if the Minister by order so directs. As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Valuation list.—All existing enactments relating to the contents or form of valuation lists and the effect of such lists when made apply, with necessary modifications, to the new valuation lists made under this Act as they applied to valuation lists under the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, and the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 552, 617) (see s. 70 (1), post). As to procedure in connection with the making of valuation lists under the present Act, see ss. 35 et seq., post.

Passing of the Act.—March 24, 1948.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 144 (1), post).

Order.—See s. 142 (2), post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Each fifth subsequent year.—Quinquennial re-valuations were instituted in the provinces by the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 19 (1) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 644); and in London by the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, s. 46 (2) and (6) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 571–572). In most areas in the provinces new valuation lists were due to come into force in 1939, but the re-valuation was postponed for two years by the Rating and Valuation (Postponement of Valuations) Act, 1938 (31 Halsbury's Statutes 613). Further, preparation of those lists, and the lists due to come into force in London in 1941, was postponed during the war period and until not more than two years after the end of the war emergency as declared under the Courts (Emergency Powers) Act, 1939 (Rating and Valuation (Postponement of Valuations) Act, 1940; 33 Halsbury's Statutes 361). These provisions are all repealed by s. 147 (1), (3) and Sched. II, Part II, post, and quinquennial re-valuations are restored by the present section.

35. Draft lists.—(1) Where a new valuation list is to be made for a rating area, the valuation officer shall—

(a) prepare a draft valuation list;

(b) when the draft is completed, transmit three copies thereof to the rating authority;

(c) forthwith publish in the prescribed manner notice that the draft has been completed;

(d) where there is included in the draft as completed some hereditament not previously assessed, send, within the seven days following that of the completion of the draft, to the occupier of that hereditament a notice of the gross, net annual and rateable values of the hereditament inserted in the draft list. [3866]

(2) For the period beginning with the date on which the copies of the completed draft are received by the rating authority and ending twenty-one days after the date on which the notice of the completion of the draft list is published as aforesaid, one of the said copies shall be open to inspection during ordinary business hours at the offices of the rating authority, and the said notice shall include a statement that a copy of the draft list is open to inspection as aforesaid and a statement of the right of objection conferred by the next succeeding section. [3867]

(3) Notwithstanding anything in the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, the valuation officer, in preparing the draft of a valuation list, shall not treat any hereditament as an agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament unless either—

(a) it was so treated for the purposes of the last preceding list; or

(b) a claim that it ought to be so treated has been made to him by the owner or occupier of the hereditament in the prescribed form. [3868]

General note.—The valuation list on completion is a draft valuation list and remains so until it is finally settled by the valuation officer under s. 38, post, when it becomes a valuation list. It is the valuation list for the rating area as from the date it comes into force (s. 38 (6), post). As to the commencement of the section, see s. 72 (1), post.

New valuation list.—See s. 34, ante.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.
Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.
Prescribed.—I.e. by regulations (see s. 71 (b), post).
Notice.—The notice must comply with sub-s. (2), supra, in conjunction with s. 63 (2), post.
Hereditament; owner.—See s. 144 (1), post.
Send.—See s. 63 (1), post.
Within the seven days.—Excluding the day on which the notice is published, but including the day on which the notice is received by the occupier of the hereditament (Williams v. Burgess (1840), 12 Ad. & El. 635; Robinson v. Waddington (1849), 13 Q. B. 753.
Occupier.—The occupier is the person liable for rates as being the person in occupation of the hereditament (see the Poor Relief Act, 1601; 14 Halsbury's Statutes 477). For the purpose of this provision and other provisions of the Act relating to occupiers, the term would seem to include the purser, secretary or chief managing agent of a tin, lead or copper mine under s. 7 of the Rating Act, 1874 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 588); the owner (as defined) or lessee of rights of sporting severed from the occupation of the land under s. 6 of that Act; the owner of payments in lieu of tithe where rateable therefor; the person entitled to a right of advertising constituting a separate rateable hereditament under s. 56, post; the person permitting land to be used for advertising or the owner of land so used under s. 3 of the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 597); and the person receiving the rents of parts of a building let in parts and assessed as one hereditament under s. 57, post. Where there is no occupier, the owner is treated as standing in the position of the occupier for the purposes of this Part of the Act, and where in such a case he is unknown, a notice addressed to "the occupier" and validly served will be deemed to be served on the owner (s. 66 (2), post). Where the owner is liable for the rates by agreement with the rating authority or under compulsory rating under ss. 3 and 4 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, or s. 11 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 546, 632), both the owner and the occupier will be entitled to all the notices to which the occupier is entitled (s. 66 (1), post), and have identical right in regard to instituting and appearing at the hearing of proceedings.
Gross values.—See the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 68 (1) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 680); the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, s. 4 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 553); and ss. 74 et seq., post. See also, as to agricultural land, the Local Government Act, 1929, s. 72 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 931).
Net annual values.—See the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 22 (1) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 646), and the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, ss. 4, 52 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 553, 577), in conjunction with the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, s. 7 (1) (a) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 723). See also, as to tin, lead and copper mines, the Rating Act, 1874, ss. 7, 13 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 588, 590). See further ss. 83 (2)–(4) and 87 (1) (b), post.
Rateable values.—See the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 22 (1) (c), (d) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 647); the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, ss. 4, 52 (supra), in conjunction with the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, s. 7 (1) (a) (supra); the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928, s. 2 (1)–(3) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 709, 710), in conjunction with s. 83 (1), post; and the Local Government Act, 1929, s. 68 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 928). See also, as to tin, lead and copper mines, the Rating Act, 1874, ss. 7, 13 (supra).
Twenty-one days after.—Cf. the note headed "Within the seven days", supra.
Statement of right of objection.—See s. 63 (2), post, as to further matters to be included in the notice.
Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 713.
Agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament.—"Agricultural hereditament", "industrial hereditament" and "freight transport hereditament" are defined respectively in ss. 2, 3 and s. 5 of the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 714, 715, 719).
Last preceding list.—I.e. the valuation list in force at the time of the preparation of the new list.

36. Objections to draft lists.—(1) Any person who is aggrieved—

(a) by the inclusion of any hereditament in the draft list; or

(b) by any value ascribed in the draft list to a hereditament or by any other statement made or omitted to be made in the draft list with respect to a hereditament; or

(c) in the case of a building or portion of a building occupied in parts, by the valuation in the list of that building or portion of a building as a single hereditament,

may, at any time before the expiration of twenty-five days from the date of the publication of notice of the completion of the draft list, serve on the valuation officer notice of objection to the draft list so far as it relates to that hereditament. [3869]

(2) Every notice of objection under this section shall be in writing and state the grounds on which the objection is made and the amendments desired to remove the objection. [3870]

General note.—This section makes provision for the service upon the valuation officer of written notice of objection to a draft valuation list. The description of the persons entitled to object to a draft valuation list is identical with that of a person entitled under s. 40, post, to make a proposal for the alteration of a current valuation list, except that the present section is concerned with the draft list whereas s. 40 is concerned with the settled list. As to commencement of the present section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Any person.—It is clear from the proviso to s. 37 (1), post, that a person may be "aggrieved" by a failure to treat a hereditament as an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament, although by virtue of s. 35 (3), ante, it could not be so treated in preparing the draft list.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Draft list.—See s. 35, ante.

Occupied in parts.—This would seem to refer to the occupation of different parts by different persons.

Notice of completion of draft list.—See s. 35 (1) (c), ante.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante. As to service of notice on the valuation officer, see also s. 63, post.

Notice of objection.—This notice must be distinguished from a notice of objection to a proposal under s. 41 (3), post.

As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one objection, see s. 64, post.

Writing.—This includes printing, lithography, photography and other modes of representing or reproducing words in a visible form (Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 20; 18 Halsbury's Statutes 1001).

Grounds.—It seems clear that the grounds of objection must fall within paras. (a) to (c) of sub-s. (1), supra; cf. s. 40, post.

37. Revision of draft lists.—(1) After the expiration of the period limited for the lodging of notices of objection to a draft valuation list, the valuation officer shall revise the draft and may, on that revision, make such alterations in the list, whether for the purpose of meeting an objection or for any other reason, as he thinks proper:

Provided that, in revising the draft, the valuation officer shall not treat any hereditament as an agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament unless either—

(a) it was so treated for the purposes of the last preceding list; or

(b) a claim that it ought to be so treated has been made to him by the owner or occupier of the hereditament in the prescribed form; or

(c) an objection has been made on the ground that it ought to be so treated. [3871]

(2) Where, on his revision, the valuation officer makes any alteration in the list, whether for the purpose of meeting an objection or for some other reason, he shall forthwith serve notice of the alteration on the occupier of the hereditament to which the alteration relates and on the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament is situated:

Provided that no notice need be served on the occupier (not being the rating authority) under this subsection where the occupier has not served notice of objection under the last preceding section with respect to the hereditament and the alteration consists only in a reduction in any value ascribed to the hereditament. [3872]

(3) Where notice of objection has been served under the last preceding section, then, whether or not the valuation officer makes, on his revision, any alteration in the list for the purpose of meeting the objection, he shall, on the completion of the revision, forthwith serve on the person who made the objection a notice stating whether he has made any and if so what alteration in the list with respect to the hereditament to which the objection relates:

Provided that no notice need be served under this subsection on any person on whom a notice with respect to the hereditament falls to be served under subsection (2) of this section. [3873]

(4) Any person on whom a notice is served under the last preceding subsection, the rating authority for the area within which the hereditament is situated and, where a notice is served on the occupier under subsection (2) of this section, any person who is the owner or occupier of the whole or any part of the hereditament in question, may, by notice of appeal served on the valuation officer, appeal to a local valuation court with respect to the hereditament in question. [3874]

(5) A notice of appeal shall be in writing and shall be served—

(a) in the case of a person on whom notice has been served under subsection (3) of this section, before the expiration of the twenty-one days following that of the service on him of that notice;

(b) in the case of the rating authority, where they do not receive notice under subsection (3) of this section, before the expiration of the twenty-one days following that of the service on the authority of the notice specified in subsection (2) of this section;

(c) in any other case, before the expiration of the twenty-one days following that of the service on the occupier of the hereditament of the notice specified in subsection (2) of this section, and shall contain a statement of the grounds of the appeal. [3875]

(6) The valuation officer shall, within seven days after the date on which a notice of appeal is served upon him under this section, transmit a copy thereof to each of the following persons, not being the appellant, that is to say—

(a) to the occupier of the hereditament in question; and

(b) to the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament in question is situated. [3876]

(7) Any notice served under subsection (2) or subsection (3) of this section shall be in writing and shall include a statement of the rights of appeal conferred by this section. [3877]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Period for lodging notices of objection.—See s. 36 (1), ante.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Shall revise the draft.—This procedure follows the precedent laid down for re-valuations in s. 14 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 556), and s. 27 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 654). But the revision is now by the valuation officer, who is in the position held by the rating authority under those Acts, whereas under those Acts the revision is in each case carried out by the assessment committee.

Alterations.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post.

Agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament; last preceding list; occupier.—See the notes to s. 35, ante.

Prescribed.—I.e. by regulations (s. 71 (b), post).

An objection has been made, etc.—The power to give notice of objection on this ground is presumably conferred by s. 36 (1) (b), ante.

Serve; served.—See s. 63 (1), post.

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Notice of appeal.—As to service of a notice upon the valuation officer, see also s. 63, post. As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one appeal, see s. 64, post.

Appeal to a local valuation court.—See ss. 44 et seq., post. As to reference to arbitration in lieu of appealing to a local valuation court, see s. 50, post.

As to appeals outstanding when valuation list is settled and signed, see s. 38 (5), post.

Writing.—See notes to s. 36, ante.

Grounds of appeal.—Where the appeal arises out of a notice from the valuation officer to an objector stating whether he has made any, and if so, what alteration in a list under sub-s. (3), supra, it would seem that the grounds of appeal are limited to the grounds of objection (Williams v. Bedminster Union (1874), 39 J. P. 117; R. v. London JJ., [1897] 1 Q. B. 433). On the same principle it would seem that the grounds of appeal against an alteration in a draft list, of which notice has been given under sub-s. (2), supra, are confined to the alteration made. An appeal against a reduction in the assessment would thus, in general, be impossible in the latter case. Where, however, a person has given notice of objection and receives notice under sub-s. (2), supra, he would seem to be entitled to give notice of appeal either on grounds specified in his notice of objection or in respect of the alteration of the assessment, since he will not receive a second notice in respect of his objection under sub-s. (3), supra (see the proviso thereto). These rules would seem to apply to a rating authority as to any other party.

The grounds of appeal depend on the ways in which a person may be aggrieved (see s. 36 (1), ante).

Shall include a statement, etc.—As to a further requirement, see s. 63 (2), post.

38. Settling of valuation list.—(1) The valuation officer shall, at or about, and in any case not later than, the end of December preceding the date on which a new valuation list is to come into force, settle the list, sign it, and transmit it to the rating authority, and transmit to the clerk of the local valuation panel a notification of the settling and signing of the list and of the date of the settling and signing thereof. [3878]

(2) Before settling and signing the list, the valuation officer shall make such alterations therein as are necessary to give effect to any decisions given on appeal with respect to the list before the date of the settling thereof and, where a notice of appeal has been given with respect to a hereditament and has been withdrawn as the result of an agreement made between the valuation officer, the appellant and any other person entitled to be heard on the appeal, such alterations, if any, as are necessary to give effect to the agreement. [3879]

(3) Before settling and signing the list, the valuation officer shall cause such particulars with respect to totals of values as may be prescribed, both in respect of the whole rating area and in respect of any parish or other area which is liable to be charged separately under any precept or to bear any special expenses, to be ascertained and inserted in the list. [3880]

(4) Save as aforesaid, and subject to any alteration made for the purpose of correcting any clerical or arithmetical error, the list as settled and signed shall be identical with the draft list as revised under the last preceding section. [3881]

(5) The valuation officer shall not be required to await the hearing and determination of all appeals before settling and signing the list, and if any appeal is not heard and determined before the list is settled and signed, it shall, unless withdrawn, be heard and determined as soon as possible thereafter, and with the like consequences as if it had been an appeal against an objection to a proposal duly made in accordance with the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act for the alteration of the current valuation list and served on the valuation officer on the date on which that list comes into force. [3882]

(6) The list for any rating area settled, signed and sent to the rating authority as aforesaid shall, as from the date when it comes into force and subject to any alterations made in accordance with this Part of this Act, be the valuation list for the rating area, and any failure on the part of a valuation officer to complete any proceedings with respect to the preparation, revision or settling and signing of the list within the time required by this Part of this Act, or any omission from the list of any matters required by law to be included therein, shall not of itself render the list invalid; and, until the contrary is proved, the list shall be deemed to have been duly made in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act. [3883]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

The date on which a new valuation list is to come into force.—See s. 34, ante.

Settle the list.—The procedure of settling the list corresponds to the approval of the draft list under s. 28 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 655), or ss. 14 and 42 (8) of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 556, 568).

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Clerk of the local valuation panel.—For definition of "clerk", see s. 144 (1), post. Provision for the appointment of a clerk to a local valuation panel is made by s. 47 (1), post.

As to local valuation panels, see ss. 44, 45 and 46, post.

Appeal with respect to the list.—I.e. under s. 37 (4) and (5), ante. As to hearing and determination of such an appeal by the local valuation court, see s. 48, post. As to appeals to the county court from a local valuation court, see s. 49, post, and as to reference to arbitration in lieu of appealing, see s. 50, post.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Any other person entitled to be heard, etc.—The persons entitled to be heard on appeal to a local valuation court are specified in s. 48 (3), post.

Prescribed.—I.e. by regulations (see s. 71 (b), post).

Rating area.—For definitions, see s. 144 (1), post; and cf. s. 123, post.

Parish.—For definition, see Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 68 (4) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 688).

Clerical or arithmetical error.—Cf. s. 43, post, which confers upon the valuation officer express powers to correct a clerical or arithmetical error in a valuation list at any time.

Objection to a proposal.—See s. 41 (3), (4) for right of objection to a proposal to alter a current list; as to appeal against such an objection, see s. 41 (6), (7), post.

Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (0), post. As to alteration of current lists, see ss. 40 et seq., post.

This would seem to refer to all alterations made during the life of the list, rather than to alterations made between the date of settling the list and the date of its coming into force.

39. Duty of rating authority as respects valuation list.—(1) The rating authority on receiving a valuation list shall deposit it at the offices of the authority. [3884]

(2) The rating authority shall give effect to any directions which may from time to time be given to them by the valuation officer in pursuance of the provisions of this Part of this Act authorising or requiring the valuation officer to cause alterations to be made in valuation lists. [3885]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.
Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.
On receiving a valuation list.—See s. 38 (1), ante.
Shall deposit it, etc.—The object of depositing the list at the offices of the authority is to enable it to be inspected under s. 60 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 681), as extended by s. 61 (2), post.
Directions.—Such directions will be given as a result of alterations under ss. 41 (5), (6), 43, 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), post.
Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Alteration of current valuation lists

40. Proposals for alteration of lists.—(1) Any person who is aggrieved—

(a) by the inclusion of any hereditament in the list; or
(b) by any value ascribed in the list to a hereditament or by any other statement made or omitted to be made in the list with respect to a hereditament; or may at any time make a proposal for the alteration of the list so far as it relates to that hereditament. [3886]

(2) The valuation officer may at any time make a proposal for any alteration of a valuation list. [3887]

(3) Any such proposal as is mentioned in the previous provisions of this section is in this Part of this Act referred to as " a proposal ". [3888]

General note.—A proposal for alteration of a current valuation list may be made either by the valuation officer or by a person aggrieved by any of the circumstances specified in paras. (a), (b) and (c) of sub-s. (1), supra. It should be noted that the persons entitled to make a proposal are described in practically the same terms are those who, under s. 36, ante, are entitled to object to a draft valuation list. The present section, which may be compared with s. 37 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 664), must be read in conjunction with the transitional provisions contained in s. 72, post. As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post.
Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.
The list.—I.e. the list settled under s. 38, ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.
Occupied in parts.—See note to s. 36, ante.
Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post. As to proceedings on a proposal, including notice of objection thereto, and appeal against such objection, see s. 41, post, and as to the effect of alterations made in pursuance of proposals under this section, see s. 42, post. As to alterations necessary to correct clerical or arithmetical errors, see s. 43, post.
Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante. He is to be served with every proposal for alteration, except where made by him (see s. 41 (1) (a), post).
A valuation list.—I.e. a list settled under s. 38, ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.

41. Proceedings on proposals.—(1) Every proposal must—

(a) be made in writing and, except where it is made by the valuation officer, be served on the valuation officer;
(b) specify the grounds on which the proposed alteration is supported;
(c) comply with any requirements of any regulations made by the Minister with respect to the form of proposals and otherwise with respect to the making thereof. [3889]

(2) The valuation officer shall, within seven days after the date on which a proposal is made by or served on him, transmit a copy thereof, together with a statement in writing of the right of objection conferred by the subsequent provisions of this section, to each of the following persons, not being the maker of the proposal, that is to say—

(a) the occupier of the hereditament to which the proposal relates ; and

(b) the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament in question is situated :

Provided that a copy of the proposal need not be transmitted under this subsection to the occupier of the hereditament (not being the rating authority) where the proposal is made otherwise than by the valuation officer and the alteration asked for by the proposal consists only of a reduction in any value ascribed to the hereditament. [3890]

(3) Any of the following persons, that is to say, the owner or occupier of the whole or any part of a hereditament to which a proposal relates or the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament is situated may, within twenty-one days from the date on which notice is served under subsection (2) of this section on the occupier or, in the case of the rating authority (where they are not the occupier), on the rating authority, serve on the valuation officer notice in writing of objection to the proposal, and the valuation officer shall, within seven days of the date on which a notice of objection is served on him, transmit a copy thereof to the maker of the proposal. [3891]

(4) Where the proposal is made otherwise than by the valuation officer, the valuation officer may, within twenty-one days from the date on which the proposal is served on him, serve on the maker of the proposal notice in writing of objection to the proposal. [3892]

(5) Where, on the expiration of the times limited by subsections (3) and (4) of this section for the service of notice of objection, no such notice has been served or where every such notice is unconditionally withdrawn, the valuation officer shall cause such alteration to be made in the list as will give effect to the proposal. [3893]

(6) Where notice of objection is made and is not unconditionally withdrawn—

(a) the person making the proposal may, by notice of appeal served within the time and on the persons hereinafter mentioned, appeal against the objection to a local valuation court ; and

(b) no alteration shall be made in the list in pursuance of the proposal except where notice of appeal is given as aforesaid and then only either—

(i) in pursuance of the directions of a court or arbitrator given under the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act ; or

(ii) by agreement between all the persons entitled to be heard on the appeal. [3894]

(7) A notice of appeal under this section shall be in writing, shall be served within twenty-one days from the date when a copy of the notice of objection is received by the appellant or, as the case may be, from the service on the appellant of the notice of objection, and shall be so served—

(a) on the person making the objection ; and

(b) where the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament in question is situated have neither made the objection nor are themselves the appellant, on that authority ; and

(c) where the valuation officer has neither made the objection nor is himself the appellant, on the valuation officer. [3895]

General note.—This section lays down the procedure in connection with proposals under s. 40, ante, for alteration of valuation lists, and provides for the making of objections to such proposals and for appeals against such objections. Appeals are to local valuation courts constituted under s. 44, post, and there is a right of appeal therefrom under s. 49, post, to a county court. Alternatively to these appeals there may be a reference to arbitration by agreement under s. 50, post.

As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Proposal.—For meaning, see s. 40 (3), ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.
As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one proposal, see s. 64, post.
Writing.—See the notes to s. 36, ante.
Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.
Served; serve.—See s. 63, post.
Specify the grounds, etc.—It seems clear from s. 40, ante, that, while the valuation officer may make a proposal on any grounds, any other person may make a proposal only on the grounds specified in sub-s. (1) of that section.
There is authority for saying that the proposal need not state what alteration is proposed, although the person making the proposal may be required to state this at the hearing (R. v. West Norfolk Assessment Committee, Ex parte Ward (1930), 94 J. P. 201; R. v. Thanet and District Assessment Committee and Kent County Valuation Committee, Ex parte Isle of Thanet Gas Light and Coke Co., [1939] 2 K. B. 640; [1939] 2 All E. R. 489; R. v. Heston and Isleworth Rating Authority, Ex parte Conti, [1941] 2 All E. R. 116).

Shall cause.—Cf. s. 39 (2), ante.
Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post.
As to the effect of an alteration made in pursuance of a proposal, see s. 42, post.
Appeal to a local valuation court.—See ss. 44 et seq., post. Appeal lies from a decision of a local valuation court to the county court under s. 49, post; and in lieu of both classes of appeal the parties may, under s. 50, post, agree to a reference to arbitration.
As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one appeal, see s. 64, post.
Except where notice of appeal is given as aforesaid.—But see s. 38 (5), ante.
Directions given by a court or arbitrator, etc.—See ss. 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), post.
All the persons entitled to be heard on the appeal.—See the notes to s. 38, ante.

42. Effect of alterations made in pursuance of proposals.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, an alteration made in the valuation list in pursuance of a proposal (whether under the last preceding section or under the directions of a court or arbitrator given by virtue of the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act) shall, in relation to any rate current at the date when the proposal in pursuance of which the amendment so made was served on the valuation officer, or, where the proposal was made by the valuation officer, current at the date when notice of the proposal was served on the occupier of the hereditament in question, be deemed to have had effect as from the commencement of the period in respect of which the rate was made, and shall, subject to the provisions of this section, have effect for the purposes of any subsequent rate. [3896]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (1) of this section, an alteration in the valuation list which either—

(a) consists of the inclusion in the valuation list of a newly erected or newly constructed hereditament or an altered hereditament which has been out of occupation on account of structural alterations; or

(b) is made by reason of a change in the value of a hereditament caused by the making of structural alterations or by the total or partial destruction of any building or other erection by fire or any other physical cause; or

(c) is made by reason of any hereditament having become or ceased to be an agricultural, industrial or freight transport hereditament, or of a change in the proportion in which an industrial or freight transport hereditament is occupied and used for industrial or, as the case may be, transport purposes and for other purposes respectively; or

(d) is made by reason of any hereditament becoming or ceasing to be a hereditament which, under Part V of this Act, is not liable to be rated; or

(e) is made by reason of any change in the extent to which a railway or canal hereditament, as defined for the purposes of Part V of this Act, is occupied for non-rateable purposes, as so defined; or

(f) is made by reason of any property previously rated as a single hereditament becoming liable to be rated in parts; or

(g) is made by reason of any property previously rated in parts becoming liable to be rated as a single hereditament, shall have effect only as from the date when the new or altered hereditament comes into occupation, or as from the happening of the event by reason of which the alteration is made, as the case may be. [3897]

(3) Where in pursuance of a proposal an alteration is made in the valuation list which affects the amount of any rate levied in respect of any hereditament in accordance with the list, the difference, if too much has been paid, shall be repaid or allowed or, if too little has been paid, shall be paid and may be recovered as if it were arrears of the rate. [3898]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.
Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post.
Proposal.—For meaning, see s. 40 (3), ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.
Directions of a court or arbitrator, etc.—See ss. 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), post. The effect of this provision is that an alteration made as a result of an appeal has the same effect as one made in pursuance of a proposal under s. 41 (5), ante.
Rate; hereditament.—For definitions, see s. 144 (1), post.
Served on the valuation officer.—See s. 41 (1) (a), ante, and for the meaning of "served", see s. 63, post.
Service of notice of proposal on occupier.—This expression must refer to the transmission of a copy of a proposal to the occupier together with a statement of the right of objection thereto under s. 41 (2), ante, since actually there is no provision for service on the occupier of notice of a proposal.
Deemed to have had effect.—It would seem that the rating authority and the ratepayer must both be placed in the same position as if the alteration had been incorporated in the rate when originally made, increases or reductions in the rate being payable by or re-payable to the ratepayer under sub-s. (3), supra. If, as a result of an alteration made in pursuance of a proposal, the amount due in respect of a particular hereditament is increased, the extra sum will be deemed to have become due and payable on the day on which the rate was actually made in the same way as the sum originally due under the rate and must be given the same preference in cases of bankruptcy, etc. (Re Airedale Garage Co., Anglo-South American Bank v. Airedale Garage Co., [1933] Ch. 64).
The period in respect of which the rate was made.—Cf. the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 4 (2), (3) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 623), and, as respects London, the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, s. 14 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 550).
Agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament.—See the notes to s. 35, ante.
Railway or canal hereditament.—As defined in s. 86 (1), post; and see also ss. 86 (2), (3), 87, 89 (3), post.

43. Clerical and arithmetical errors.—The valuation officer may at any time cause to be made in a valuation list any alteration which is necessary to correct any clerical or arithmetical error therein and the list shall have effect accordingly, but if the alteration is made in respect of any matter other than totals, the officer shall, before causing the alteration to be made, send notice thereof to the occupier of the hereditament affected and to the rating authority of the rating area, and shall allow fourteen days to elapse during which any person concerned may object to the proposed alteration. Cause to be made.—I.e. by directions to the rating authority under s. 39 (2), ante.

Fourteen days.—Excluding the day on which notice is given but including the day on which any objection is made (see the note headed "Within the seven days" to s. 35, ante).
May object.—As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one objection, see s. 64, post.

Appeals

44. Local valuation courts.—(1) Local valuation courts constituted as hereinafter provided shall be convened as often as may be necessary for the purpose of hearing and determining appeals under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act against draft valuation lists and against objections to proposals for the alteration of valuation lists. [3900]

(2) The local valuation court which hears and determines an appeal with respect to a hereditament shall consist of members of a local valuation panel constituted under such a scheme as is mentioned in the next succeeding section, being the panel for the area within which that hereditament is situated:

Provided that regulations made by the Minister may provide, in relation to hereditaments the value of which is or may be ascertained by reference to the accounts, receipts or profits of an undertaking carried on thereon, that jurisdiction as respects all or any of the hereditaments occupied for the purposes of a particular undertaking shall be exercised by a local valuation court consisting of members of such one of the local valuation panels within whose areas any of those hereditaments are situated as may be specified by or under the regulations. [3901]

(3) Every such court shall consist of—

(a) either the chairman of the local valuation panel or the deputy chairman (or, if more than one, one of the deputy chairmen) thereof; and

(b) two other members of the panel selected in accordance with the scheme under which the panel is constituted. [3902]

General note.—This section provides for the constitution of local valuation courts for hearing and determining appeals against draft valuation lists and against objections to proposals for the alteration of valuation lists. These courts take the place of the assessment committees abolished by s. 33 (1), ante, but in contrast to those committees they have no administrative functions. As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Constituted as hereinafter provided.—See ss. 45 and 46, post, and sub-ss. (2), (3), supra. See also as to staff, expenses, etc., s. 47, post.

Shall be convened.—Cf. s. 48 (1), post.

For the purpose of hearing and determining appeals, etc.—As to appeals against draft valuation lists, see s. 37 (4), ante, and as to appeals against objections to proposals for the alteration of valuation lists, see s. 41 (6), ante. See also s. 38 (5), ante, and s. 72 (2), post.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Members of a local valuation panel.—As to the setting up of panels, see ss. 45 and 46, post.

Regulations.—See s. 142 (1), post.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

Chairman, deputy chairman.—As to appointment, see s. 46 (1) (b), post.

Two other members.—See s. 46 (1) (c), post.

45. Submission and approval of schemes.—(1) It shall be the duty of the council of every county and county borough to make and submit to the Minister a scheme for the constitution of a local valuation panel for the county or county borough or two or more local valuation panels for areas which together comprise the whole of the county or county borough:

Provided that any two or more councils, whether councils of counties or of county boroughs, may, and, if so directed by the Minister, shall, make and submit to the Minister a joint scheme for the constitution of a local valuation panel or local valuation panels for the whole of their respective areas, or for areas which together comprise the whole of their respective areas. [3903]

(2) As soon as a scheme has been submitted to the Minister under this section, the council or councils submitting the scheme shall publish in one or more newspapers circulating in their area or areas a notice stating that the scheme has been so submitted and that a copy is open to inspection at a specified place; and, where the said area or areas or either of them are counties, the council or councils submitting the scheme shall, at the same time as they submit it, send a copy thereof to each of the rating authorities within that county or, as the case may be, those counties. [3904]

(3) No scheme submitted to the Minister under this section shall be of any effect unless and until it is approved by the Minister, and the Minister, after considering any objections to the scheme which may be submitted to him by persons appearing to him to be interested, may approve the scheme with or without modifications. [3905]

(4) If, on the expiration of nine months from the date of the coming into force of this section, there remains any area which is not covered by any of the schemes which have by then been submitted under this section, or which is covered only by a scheme which the Minister is not prepared to approve, the Minister may himself make a scheme for the constitution of a local valuation panel or local valuation panels for that area, and the scheme when so made shall have effect as if it had been submitted by the council of the county or county borough in question or, as the case may be, by the councils of all the counties and county boroughs in question, and had been approved by the Minister. [3906]

(5) Any scheme made under this section may be revoked or varied—

(a) by a new scheme made and submitted to and approved by the Minister in accordance with the provisions (subject to any necessary modification) of subsections (1) to (3) of this section; or

(b) by a new scheme made by the Minister on a representation made by any local valuation panel or valuation officer and after consultation with the council of any county or county borough concerned. [3907]

(6) Before a scheme is made by the Minister under this section, he shall publish in one or more newspapers circulating in the area to which the scheme relates a notice stating his proposal to make the scheme, and that a copy of a draft of the scheme is open to inspection at a specified place, and specifying a date by which any person may send to him any representations respecting the draft. [3908]

General note.—This section, which supplements s. 44, ante, must also be read in conjunction with ss. 46 and 47, post. It places upon county and county borough councils the duty of preparing and submitting to the Minister schemes for the constitution of the local valuation panels from which are selected the members of local valuation courts established by s. 44, ante. Schemes so prepared and submitted must be approved by the Minister before they can take effect, and in certain circumstances the Minister may himself make a scheme, which shall when made have the same effect as if it had been duly submitted and approved as above.

This section and ss. 46 and 47, post, came into force in all rating areas in England and Wales, other than the Isles of Scilly, on May 1, 1948, by virtue of the Local Government Act, 1948 (Appointed Days) (No. 1) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 823), post. They will come into force in the Isles of Scilly on February 1, 1950, by virtue of the Local Government Act, 1948 (Appointed Days) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 434).

County: county borough.—As defined in s. 1 of the Local Government Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 306), and s. 1 of the London Government Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 267). See also the definition of "local authority" in s. 144 (1), post.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

Joint scheme.—The Ministry of Health favour county borough councils joining with county councils in making combined schemes (see Circular 68/48, post).

Publish a notice.—In Circular 68/48, post, it is suggested that the notice should state that objections might be made to the Minister within one month after the date of the notice.

Rating authorities.—See note to s. 33, ante, and see also s. 144 (8), post.

Objections.—The Minister is bound to consider objections to a scheme, but is not under a duty to give objectors an opportunity of being heard; nor is he bound to give any special effect to objections. As to the time for submitting objections, see the note headed "Publish a notice," supra.

Valuation officer.—See s. 33 (3), ante.

46. Membership of panels.—(1) Schemes under the last preceding section shall provide as respects the panels to which those schemes respectively, relate—

(a) for fixing the number of members of the panel and for determining their respective tenures of office and the persons by whom they are to be appointed respectively;

(b) for the appointment of one of those members as chairman of the panel and not more than two of the other members as deputy chairmen thereof;

(c) subject to the provisions of the last but one preceding section, for the manner in which members of local valuation courts are to be selected from members of the panel. [3909]

(2) A person shall be disqualified from being appointed or being a member of any local valuation panel as aforesaid if he is a person who has been adjudged bankrupt, or made a composition or arrangement with his creditors, or has within the five years immediately preceding his appointment or since his appointment been convicted in the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man of any offence and ordered to be imprisoned for a period of not less than three months without the option of a fine :

Provided that—

(a) a disqualification attaching to a person under this subsection by reason of his having been adjudged bankrupt shall cease—

(i) if the bankruptcy is annulled on the ground that he ought not to have been adjudged bankrupt or that his debts have been paid in full, on the date of the annulment ; or

(ii) if he is discharged with a certificate that the bankruptcy was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part, on the date of his discharge ; or

(iii) in any other case, on the expiration of five years from the date of his discharge ;

(b) a disqualification attaching to a person under this section by reason of his having made a composition or arrangement with his creditors shall cease—

(i) if he pays his debts in full, on the date on which the payment is completed ; or

(ii) in any other case, on the expiration of five years from the date on which the terms of the deed of composition or arrangement are fulfilled ;

(c) for the purposes of this subsection, the ordinary date on which the period allowed for making appeal from the conviction expires, or, if such appeal is made, the date on which it is finally disposed of or abandoned or fails by reason of the non-prosecution thereof, shall be deemed to be the date of the conviction. [3910]

Commencement of section.—See the General note to s. 45, ante.

Number of members.—In Circular 68/48 it is suggested that " while the membership should be sufficient to provide courts (. . .) to deal with appeals with reasonable expedition, and without making unduly heavy calls on the time of individual members, the number of persons appointed should be kept as low as possible to reduce the risk of varying decisions and to secure the maximum of experience to each member."

Tenures of office.—In the draft model scheme sent to local authorities with Circular 68/48, supra, it is suggested that the persons first appointed to be members of the panel and the first chairman and deputy chairmen should come into office on January 1, 1949, and continue in office until April 1, 1954, when the chairman and deputy chairmen and one-half of the number should retire, the other half continuing in office until April 1, 1957. The term of office of members appointed in place of retiring members suggested is six years.

Persons by whom . . . appointed.—In the draft model scheme, supra, the members of the panel are appointed by the county councils and the county borough councils making the scheme in proportions to be specified in the scheme and naturally expected to differ according to the numbers and size of the areas of the councils concerned.

Chairman of the panel : deputy chairmen.—The draft model scheme, supra, provides for the chairman and deputy chairmen of the panel being appointed by the councils or, in default of agreement, by the Minister of Health.

Manner in which . . . selected.—For a suggested manner of selection, see art. 13 of the draft model scheme, supra.

Disqualified.—The provisions relating to disqualification are derived from s. 59 of the Local Government Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 334). It would seem that a person disqualified cannot resign (Hardwick v. Brown (1873), L. R. 8 C. P. 406).

Being a member.—The effect of these words is that disqualification will attach after an appointment as soon as the disqualifying circumstances arise.

Adjudged bankrupt.—See the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, s. 18 (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 345).

Made a composition or arrangement, etc.—There must be an agreement with the creditors, and a mere assignment of a debtor's property in favour of his creditors is not, therefore, within the present provision (R. v. Cooban (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 269). Moreover, nothing done or suffered under the Liabilities (War-Time Adjustment) Acts, 1941 and 1944 (i.e. the Liabilities (War-Time Adjustment) Act, 1941 (34 Halsbury's Statutes 20), and the Liabilities (War-Time Adjustment) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 12)), disqualifies under the present provision (see s. 21 (1) of the Act of 1941 ; 34 Halsbury's Statutes 47 ; in conjunction with s. 22 of the Act of 1944 ; 37 Halsbury's Statutes 24). On the other hand, there is authority for saying that a person who obtains an administration order under Part VII of the County Courts Act, 1934 (5 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 110) (which replaces s. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 ; 1 Halsbury's Statutes 583), makes a composition with his creditors (Bradfield v. Cheltenham Guardians, [1906] 2 Ch. 371).

Has been convicted.—This disqualification does not appear to apply where a free pardon has been granted by the Crown (Hay v. Tower Division of London JJ. (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 561).

United Kingdom.—Great Britain and Northern Ireland (Royal and Parliamentary Titles Act, 1927, s. 2 (2) ; 4 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 192).

If the bankruptcy is annulled, etc.—See the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, s. 29 (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 362).

If he is discharged, etc.—See the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, s. 26 (4) (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 359).

On the expiration of five years, etc.—See the Bankruptcy Act, 1914, s. 26, as amended by the Bankruptcy (Amendment) Act, 1926, s. 1 (2 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 354).

It is thought that, where the discharge is suspended, the five year period does not begin to run until the discharge has taken effect.

If he pays his debts in full.—There is no payment in full where certain creditors have released their debts and the debtor pays only the remainder in full (Re Keet, [1905] 2 K. B. 666).

47. Staff, expenses, etc. of local valuation panels and courts.—(1) To assist the panel, the chairman thereof and the local valuation courts constituted from members thereof in the performance of their functions under this Part of this Act, every local valuation panel shall appoint a person to be their clerk and may appoint such other officers and servants as they may, with the approval of the Minister, determine, and may pay to them such salaries, allowances and other remuneration as they may, with the approval of the Minister and the Treasury, determine, and every such panel shall be deemed for the purposes of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, to be a local authority included in Part I of the First Schedule to that Act :

Provided that the functions of the officers and servants appointed under this subsection shall not extend to the valuation of hereditaments, and the power to appoint officers and servants conferred by this subsection shall be exercised accordingly. [3911]

(2) The expenses of every such panel, including the expenses of the local valuation courts from time to time constituted from the members thereof, shall be defrayed by the Minister out of moneys provided by Parliament. [3912]

(3) Minutes of the proceedings of a valuation panel and of the local valuation courts constituted from members thereof shall be kept in books provided for that purpose, and a minute of any such proceedings signed—

(a) in the case of a meeting of the panel, at the same or the next subsequent meeting of the panel, by the person acting as chairman at the meeting at which the minute is signed ; and

(b) in the case of a meeting of a local valuation court, at or not later than two days after the date of the meeting to which the minute relates, by the person acting as chairman at the meeting to which the minute relates, shall be received in evidence without further proof. [3913]

Commencement of section.—See the General note to s. 45, ante.

Panel.—This is the local valuation panel set up under s. 45, ante.

Chairman.—As to the appointment of a chairman of a local valuation panel, see s. 46 (1) (b), ante. His position as chairman of a local valuation court is provided for by s. 44 (3), ante.

Local valuation court.—See s. 44, ante.

Clerk.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post. The clerk receives notice of appeal to a local valuation court from a valuation officer under s. 48 (1), post.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 385. For Sched. I, Part I, thereto, see 30 Halsbury's Statutes 419.

Hereditaments.—For meaning, see s. 144 (1), post.

Minute of any such proceedings signed.—It is apparently sufficient in the case of an adjournment if the minutes of the adjourned meeting only are signed (Inglis v. Great Northern Rail. Co. (1852), 19 L. T. O. S. 149.

Not later than two days.—Excluding the day on which the meeting of the local valuation court was held but including the day on which the minutes are signed (see the note to s. 35, ante, headed "Within the seven days".

Received in evidence.—The minutes, even though signed in the case of the proceedings of a local valuation court by the chairman without any resolution of the court, will be prima facie evidence against all who attended the meeting and the onus will be on any person impugning them (Re Llanharry Hematite Iron Ore Co., Ltd., Roney's Case, Stock's Case (1864), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 426). They are per se evidence that the proceedings recorded therein were transacted and there is no need to prove the signature of the chairman (Miles v. Bough (1842), 3 Q. B. 845; Inglis v. Great Northern Rail. Co. (1852), 19 L. T. (O. S.) 149; Sheffield, Ashton-under-Lyne and Manchester Railway Co. v. Woodcock (1841), 7 M. & W. 574). The minutes are not conclusive evidence of the proceedings, however, and evidence may be given that a resolution passed differed in its terms from that actually recorded, and that a resolution, not appearing on the minutes, was in fact passed (Re Pyle Works (No. 2), [1891] 1 Ch. 173; Re Fireproof Doors, Ltd., Umney v. Fireproof Doors, Ltd., [1916] 2 Ch. 142), while in Re North Hallenbeagle Mining Co., Knight's Case (1867), 2 Ch. App. 321, where a company's officer had recorded a forfeiture as if it had been passed by the directors, it was held that it must be presumed that he had acted in accordance with the law and that the resolution, though not entered on the minutes, had in fact been passed. A chairman has been permitted to give evidence that the primary object of a committee in providing conveniences was for sanitary purposes and not as an underground passage crossing under the street (Westminster Corporation v. London and North Western Rail. Co., [1905] A. C. 426); and similar evidence has been permitted in the case of an ambiguous resolution (Clanricarde (Marquess) v. Congested Districts Board for Ireland (1914), 79 J. P. 481). But evidence of what was said at the meeting and of the views of some of those present at it, given in order to explain a resolution, will not in general be admitted (R. v. Pembridge (Inhabitants) (1841), Car. & M. 157; Re Magrath, [1934] 2 K. B. 415).

48. Sittings, procedure and powers of local valuation courts.—(1) Where notice of appeal to a local valuation court is served under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act by or on the valuation officer, the valuation officer shall forthwith notify the clerk to the local valuation panel from the members of which the local valuation court which is to hear the appeal falls to be constituted, and it shall be the duty of the chairman of that panel to arrange for the convening of such a court. [3914]

(2) The procedure of local valuation courts shall, subject to such regulations, if any, as may be made in that behalf by the Minister, be such as the court in question may determine, and every such court—

(a) shall, unless the court otherwise order, on the application of any party to the appeal and upon being satisfied that the interests of either party would be prejudically affected, sit in public;

(b) may take evidence on oath and shall have power for that purpose to administer oaths. [3915]

(3) On the hearing of an appeal to a local valuation court—

(a) the appellant; and

(b) the valuation officer, when he is not the appellant; and

(c) the owner or occupier of the hereditament to which the appeal relates, when he is not the appellant; and

(d) the rating authority for the area in which the hereditament in question is situated, when that authority is not the appellant; and

(e) in the case of an appeal against an objection, the objector, where he is not one of the persons aforesaid, shall be entitled to appear and be heard as parties to the appeal and to examine any witness before the court and to call witnesses. [3916]

(4) After hearing the persons mentioned in the past preceding subsection, or such of them as desire to be heard, the local valuation court shall give such directions with respect to the manner in which the hereditament in question is to be treated in the valuation list as appear to them to be necessary to give effect to the contention of the appellant if and so far as that contention appears to the court to be well founded, and the valuation officer shall incorporate in the list as settled, or, as the case may be, cause to be made in the list, such alterations as are necessary to give effect to those directions. [3917]

General note.—This section relates to sittings, powers and procedure of local valuation courts. It must, however, be read in the light of s. 50, post, which deals with arbitration. As to appeals from a local valuation court, see also s. 49, post and the notes thereto. As to commencement of the present section, see s. 72 (1), post.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

May determine.—The procedure determined by the court must conform to the principles of natural justice, and must not abridge the rights of the parties or the powers of the court or fetter the court's discretion in a matter which it has to decide judicially. Several cases have laid down these principles in relation to proceedings at quarter sessions. Thus, general rules of practice will not be interfered with unless they are unreasonable (R. v. Pawlett (1873), L. R. 8 Q. B. 491). But a rule may be held to be invalid if it imposes an extra condition on a party's appearance such as the giving of an additional notice of appeal or entry of an appeal at quarter sessions three days beforehand (R. v. Norfolk JJ. (1834), 5 B. & Ad. 990; R. v. Bird, Ex parte Needes, [1898] 2 Q. B. 340; R. v. Pawlett, supra; R. v. Derbyshire JJ. (1852), Bail Ct. Cas. 113); though mere adjournment of the proceedings through non-compliance will apparently not initiate them (R. v. Pawlett; R. v. Bird, supra). As to illegal practices, see R. v. West Riding of Yorkshire JJ. (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 667 and R. v. Wiltshire JJ. (1808), 10 East, 404.

Oath.—In the case of persons allowed by law to affirm or declare instead of swearing, this includes affirmation and declaration (Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 3; 18 Halsbury's Statutes 993).

Objector.—In order to be entitled to appear the objector must have given notice of objection within the twenty-one days allowed after service of the copy of the proposal on the occupier or the rating authority, as the case may be. Service of the notice a day late will debar the objector from appearing as an objector, and admission of the objector (unless, perhaps, all parties consent) will invalidate the determination of the appeal (R. v. No. 7 Mid-Norfolk Assessment Committee, Ex parte Norfolk County Valuation Committee (1946), 39 R. & I. T. 243). This will apply even where some other person has given notice of objection in time (no question will arise otherwise, since the valuation list will have been amended automatically in accordance with the proposal and there will be no appeal). A person who has failed to object may appear in another capacity, however, provided an appeal has resulted from somebody else's objection and provided he can qualify under the provisions of sub-s. (3), supra. He may also appear for or against the appellant as he thinks fit. The objector must be a person entitled to object within the terms of s. 41 (3), ante, and a person who has received a copy of a proposal and has objected to it when not entitled will not be able to appear even though his objection has been accepted (Upper Agbrigg Assessment Committee v. Bents Brewery Co., Ltd., [1945] 1 K. B. 196; [1945] 1 All E. R. 338).

Appeal.—Under ss. 37 (4) and 41 (6), ante. The appellant will be one of the persons specified in s. 37 (4), ante, or a person who has made a proposal under s. 40 (1), ante. See also s. 38 (5), ante.

Owner: occupier.—For definition of "owner", see s. 144 (1), post, and as to occupier, see note to s. 35, ante.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Rating authority.—See notes to s. 33, ante.

Appeal against an objection.—See s. 41 (6), ante.

Or such of them as desire to be heard.—It would seem from these words that a person may appear without being heard. This is an important point in view of the provisions of s. 49 (1), post.

The list as settled.—See s. 38 (1), ante. If the list is not yet settled, s. 38 (2), ante, applies. See also s. 72 (2), post.

Cause to be made, etc.—I.e. by directions to the rating authority under s. 39 (2), ante.

Alterations.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), ante.

49. Appeal to county court.—(1) Any person who, in pursuance of the last preceding section, appeared before a local valuation court on the hearing of an appeal and is aggrieved by the decision of the court thereon may, within twenty-one days from the date of the decision, appeal to the county court for the county court district in which the hereditament in question is situated, or, where the hereditament extends into more than one county court district, to the county court for any one of the county court districts in which any part of the hereditament is situated, and the court, after hearing such of the persons as appeared as aforesaid as desire to be heard, may give any directions which the local valuation court might have given. [3918]

(2) The Lord Chancellor may by order—

(a) combine two or more county court districts for the purposes of this section or direct that the whole or any part of a county court district shall for those purposes be deemed to be included in another county court district;

(b) where he combines two or more county court districts as aforesaid, make such provision as he thinks fit as to the judge who is to exercise the jurisdiction conferred by this section with respect to the combined districts, and as to the place at which the court for the combined districts is to be held.

Any order made under this subsection may contain such consequential and incidental provisions as appear to the Lord Chancellor to be necessary or expedient and may be revoked or varied by a subsequent order. [3919]

(3) The Minister may by regulations provide, in relation to hereditaments the value of which is or may be ascertained by reference to accounts, receipts or profits of an undertaking carried on thereon, that jurisdiction under this section shall, to such extent as may be specified in the regulations, be exercised, as respects all or any of the hereditaments occupied for the purposes of the undertaking, by such one of the county courts within whose districts any of those hereditaments are situated as may be specified by or under the regulations. [3920]

(4) In any proceedings under this section, the power of a judge under subsection (1) of section eighty-eight of the County Courts Act, 1934, to summon one or more persons to act as assessors may be exercised notwithstanding that no application is made in that behalf by any party to the proceedings. [3921]

Sub-ss. (2)–(4), supra, are repealed as from the appointed day by s. 10 of, and Sched. II to, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42).

General note.—This section confers a right of appeal from a local valuation court to a county court. This provision constitutes a treaty with the long-standing practice under which all proceedings relating to rating have gone to the justices whether sitting as a court of summary jurisdiction in proceedings for recovery of rates or as a court of quarter sessions in connection with appeals against a rate or with respect to a valuation list. The jurisdiction of justices in relation to appeals against a rate and the recovery of a rate is not affected, but in future all appeals in connection with the valuation list go to the county court. Appeals to quarter sessions from an assessment committee were provided for by s. 31 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 657), which is repealed by s. 147 (1), (3) (f) and Sched. II, Part II, post. As to commencement of the present section, see s. 72 (1), post.

As to arbitration, see s. 50, post.

Appeared before a local valuation court.—See s. 48 (3), ante.

Aggrieved.—It does not follow that a person appealing will be aggrieved only in one of the ways specified in s. 40 (1), ante; because he may be appealing against a decision of the local valuation court given in favour of the valuation officer on a proposal made by the valuation officer, in which case the grievance of the rate-payer might lie outside the terms of that subsection. Where, however, the appellant was the objector in the first place to a draft valuation list (s. 36, ante), or made the proposal for the alteration of the valuation list out of which the appeal arose, it would seem that his appeal will be confined to the grounds of the objection or proposal.

Within twenty-one days, etc.—See note "Within the seven days" to s. 35, ante.

Appeal.—As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one appeal, see s. 64, post.

County court.—As from the appointed day, a reference to the Lands Tribunal will take the place of the appeal to the county court; see the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42), ss. 1 (3) (e) and 10 (2).

Any directions, etc.—See s. 48 (4), ante.

50. Arbitration.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act, the persons who would be entitled to appear and be heard before any local valuation court or any county court may by agreement in writing agree to refer to arbitration any matter which would but for the agreement fall to be heard or determined by that local valuation court or county court, and the matter shall be referred to arbitration accordingly. [3922]

(2) The Arbitration Acts, 1889 to 1934, shall apply to any such arbitration. [3923]

(3) The award in any such arbitration may include any directions which might under this Part of this Act have been given by the local valuation court or county court and effect shall be given to those directions as if they had been given by that court. [3924]

The words in italics in sub-ss. (1) and (3), supra, are repealed as from the appointed day by s. 10 of, and Sched. II to, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42).

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Who would be entitled to appear and be heard.—As to the persons entitled to appear and be heard before a local valuation court, see s. 48 (3), ante.

Which would but for the agreement fall, etc.—Quære whether notice of appeal must have been served under s. 37 (4) or 41 (6), ante.

Writing.—See the notes to s. 36, ante.

Refer to arbitration.—As to the inclusion of separate hereditaments in one arbitration, see s. 64, post. See also as to arbitration by the Lands Tribunal, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42), ss. 1 (5) and 10 (2).

Effect shall be given, etc.—See ss. 38 (2), 48 (4) and 49 (1), ante.

Provisions as to Rates

51. Rate to be levied notwithstanding appeal against valuation list.—Any rate in respect of which the valuation list is conclusive shall be made and levied in accordance with the valuation list in force for the time being, and shall be collected and be recoverable notwithstanding any appeal which may be pending with respect to the list:

Provided that where in the case of any hereditament the value questioned by the appeal exceeds the value of that hereditament as last previously determined, whether under this Part of this Act or under the enactments repealed by this Act, the amount recoverable pending the decision of the appeal shall not, unless the hereditament has been substantially altered since its value was last previously determined, exceed the amount which would have been recoverable if its value had not been so increased. [3925]

General note.—This section corresponds with s. 36 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 663), which is repealed by s. 147 (1), (3) and Sched. II, Part II, post. As to commencement of the present section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Rate.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Valuation list in force for the time being, etc.—See s. 34, ante, and cf. s. 38 (6), ante. See also s. 72 (2), post.

Appeal.—This clearly comprises a reference to the Lands Tribunal (see the note headed "County court" to s. 49, ante) or a reference to arbitration under s. 50, ante.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

52. Amendment of rate.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the rating authority may at any time make such amendments in a rate (being either the current or the last preceding rate) as appear to them necessary in order to make the rate conform with the enactments relating thereto, and in particular may—

(a) correct any clerical or arithmetical error in the rate; or

(b) correct any erroneous insertions or omissions, or misdescriptions; or

(c) make such additions to or corrections in the rate as appear to the authority to be necessary by reason of—

(i) any newly erected hereditament or any hereditament which was unoccupied at the time of the making of the rate coming into occupation; or

(ii) any change in the occupation of any hereditament; or

(iii) any property previously rated as a single hereditament becoming liable to be rated in parts. [3926]

(2) Where the effect of the amendment would be either—

(a) to alter, otherwise than by way of correction of a clerical or arithmetical error, the value on which a hereditament is rated; or

(b) to charge to the rate a hereditament not shown, or not separately shown, in the valuation list, the rating authority shall not make any amendment of the rate unless either the amendment is necessary to bring the rate into conformity with the valuation list or a proposal for a corresponding alteration of the valuation list has been made by the valuation officer; and if effect, or full effect, is ultimately not given to such a proposal, and the amount of the rate levied in pursuance of the amendment is affected, the difference, if too much has been paid, shall be repaid or allowed, or, if too little has been paid, shall be paid and may be recovered as if it were arrears of the rate. [3927]

(3) Every amendment made under paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section shall have effect as if it had been contained in the rate as originally made. [3928]

General note.—This section corresponds, as far as concerns the provinces, with s. 5 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 625), which is repealed by s. 147 (1), (3), and Sched. II, Part II, post. As to London, see s. 72 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 582) (also repealed by the above provisions) which empowered overseers, on the application of two justices or a magistrate, to alter the rate where a person's name was omitted from or misdescribed in that rate. As to commencement of this section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Rate; hereditament.—For definitions, see s. 144 (1), post.

Proposal.—For meaning, see s. 40 (3), ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.

Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

53. Limits of right to appeal at quarter sessions against rate.—No appeal against a rate shall lie to quarter sessions in respect of any matter in respect of which relief might have been obtained under this Part of this Act by means of an objection to the draft valuation list, or an appeal against that list, or by means of a proposal for the amendment of the current valuation list, or by means of an objection to such a proposal, or by means of an appeal against such an objection. [3929]

General note.—This section corresponds with s. 14 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 638), which is repealed by s. 147 (1), (4) and Sched. II, Part II, post. It applies both to London and the provinces, whereas s. 14 of the 1925 Act applied only to the provinces. Further restrictions on appeals are contained in s. 45 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 569), as amended by s. 147 and Sched. II, Part II, post, and in s. 20 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 645), which, by making valuation lists conclusive evidence as to the values of hereditaments included therein eliminate questions of values from appeals against rates. As to commencement of section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Appeal against a rate.—In both the provinces and the Metropolis a right of appeal to quarter sessions against a rate is conferred upon any person "aggrieved by any rate made . . ." or having "any material objection to any person or persons being put on or left out of such rate, or to the sum charged on any person or persons therein, or . . . aggrieved by any neglect, act, or thing done or omitted by" the rating authority (Poor Relief Act 1743, s. 4; 14 Halsbury's Statutes 486, as amended by Statute Law (Revision Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 62), s. 1 and Sched. I). For definition of "rate", see s. 144 (1), post.

Objection to the draft valuation list.—See s. 36, ante.

Appeal against that list.—See s. 37 (4), ante; and see also s. 38 (5), ante.

Proposal for the amendment of the current valuation list.—See ss. 40 and 41, ante, and s. 72 (2), post.

Objection to such a proposal.—See s. 41 (3), (4), ante, and s. 72 (2), post.

Appeal against such an objection.—See s. 41 (6) (a), ante, and s. 72 (2), post.

54. Rates in London.—(1) In London, as elsewhere, every rate made by a rating authority shall be deemed to be made on the date on which it is approved by the authority, and any enactments requiring that rates must be allowed by justices shall cease to have effect. [3930]

(2) Section six of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relates to the publication of rates) and section fifteen of that Act (which relates to the recovery of arrears of rates from tenants and lodgers) shall extend to London. [3931]

(3) Nothing in this section affects the provisions of section twenty of the City of London (Union of Parishes) Act, 1907, relating to the signature of rates made by the Common Council of the City of London the publicaton of such rates and the date on which such rates are to be deemed to be made. [3932]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.
London.—The administrative county of London, as defined in the London Government Act, 1939, s. 1 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 267).
As elsewhere.—Corresponding provision outside London was already made by s. 4 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 623).
Rate.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Provisions as to Rating

55. Rating of owners instead of occupiers.—(1) [In] subsection (1) of section eleven of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which imposes a limit on the rateable value of hereditaments outside London in respect of which owners may be rated instead of occupiers of thirteen pounds or, where at the passing of that Act a higher limit was in certain circumstances in force, that higher limit) for the words " thirteen pounds " there shall be substituted the words " eighteen pounds " and for the words " that higher limit " there shall be substituted the words " twenty-five pounds". [3933]

(2) The Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, shall have effect as if in section three of that Act (which imposes a limit of twenty pounds in the corresponding provisions relating to London) for the words " twenty pounds " there were substituted the words " twenty-five pounds". [3934]

General note.—This section increases the limit of rateable value of hereditaments in respect of which owner may be rated instead of occupiers from £13 to £18 in the provinces, from a higher limit than £13 applicable in any particular case to £25, and from £20 to £25 in London. As to commencement of the section, see s. 72 (1), post.
The word " in", which appears in square brackets in sub-s. (1), supra, does not appear in the King's Printer's copy of the Act, but is obviously required.
Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 11 (1).—14 Halsbury's Statutes 632.
Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, s. 3.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 546.

56. Advertising stations to be separate hereditaments in certain cases.—Where the right to use any land (including any hoarding, frame, post, wall or structure erected or to be erected on the land, and including also any wall or other part of a building) for the purpose of exhibiting advertisements is let out or reserved to any person other than the occupier of the land, or, when the land is not occupied for any other purpose, to any person other than the owner of the land, that right shall be deemed for rating purposes to be a separate hereditament in the occupation of the person for the time being entitled to the right, and shall be included in the valuation list as a separate hereditament accordingly, and, notwithstanding anything in section three or section four of the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889, in estimating the value of the land for rating purposes no account shall be taken of any value or, as the case may be, of any increased value arising from the use of the land for the purpose of exhibiting advertisements in accordance with that right. [3935]

General note.—An advertising station which is let out or reserved to any person other than the occupier of land, or the owner of otherwise unoccupied land, is to be treated in the valuation list as a separate hereditament in the occupation of the person entitled to the right, and no account is to be taken of any value or increased value of the land under ss. 3 or 4 of the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 597, 598), arising from its use for advertising.

The section supplements and to an extent replaces ss. 3 and 4 of the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889 (supra).

Hoarding, frame, post, wall or structure.—These words are taken from ss. 3 and 4 of the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889 (supra).

As to the commencement of the section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Advertisements.—These mean posters, bills, announcements on hoardings, etc., but do not include goods exhibited by way of advertisement in show cases on sites in railway stations. The sites occupied by the show cases will be in separate rateable occupation (Westminster Corpn. v. Southern Rail. Co., [1936] A. C. 511).

Let out.—These words can be applied to licences (Westminster Corpn. v. Southern Rail. Co., supra).

Reserved.—I.e. normally on the letting of the land. The letting in this case need not be by deed (Cleobury Mortimer Rural District Council v. Childe, [1933] 2 K. B. 368).

Occupier.—See notes to s. 35, ante. It would seem that this would exclude the occupier of the land by virtue of its use for advertising under the decision in Taylor v. Pendleton Overseers (1887), 19 Q. B. D. 288, since otherwise this section would be largely robbed of any effect.

Not occupied.—In Chappell v. St. Botolph Overseers, [1892] 1 Q. B. 561, a public highway on which a hoarding was erected was held not to be otherwise rateably occupied. In Lewisham Corpn. v. Avey (1912), 76 J. P. 343, the owner let a house to a tenant and the right to use one wall for advertising to a third party. It was held that the external surface of the wall was occupied for other purposes as part of the house (and the whole was rateable as one hereditament under the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889, s. 4 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 598).

In the occupation.—The present section imposes an express liability subject to the existence of certain conditions. These conditions are: (1) There must be a letting out or a reservation of right to use land for the purpose of exhibiting advertisements; (2) the effect of that letting out or reservation must be to confer the right on some person other than the occupier of the land or other than the owner if it is unoccupied. Once these two conditions apply the right becomes a separate hereditament and the person entitled is deemed to be in occupation of it. There is no requirement that the right shall be exercised in any way comparable with the specific requirement in the Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889 (supra), and it would seem that liability to be rated will endure as long as the right even though it has remained unused for a long period.

57. Assessment of certain buildings occupied in parts.—(1) Where a building which was constructed or has been adapted for the purposes of a single dwelling-house, or as to part thereof for such purpose, and as to the remainder thereof for any purpose other than that of a dwelling or residence, is occupied in parts, the valuation officer, in preparing or revising a draft valuation list or in altering a current valuation list, may, if he thinks fit, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the extent, if any, to which the parts separately occupied have been severed by structural alterations, treat the building or any portion thereof as a single hereditament, and a building or portion of a building so treated as a single hereditament shall, for the purposes of rating, be deemed to be a single hereditament in the occupation of the person who receives the rents payable in respect of the parts [3936]

(2) Section seven of the Representation of the People Act, 1867, and section twenty-three of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, are hereby repealed. [3937]

General note.—Sub-s. (1) of this section follows the identical wording of s. 23 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 649), which is now repealed, except that in the repealed section the discretion was conferred on the rating authority or assessment committee instead of, as in the present section, on the valuation officer, and there was a reference to amendment, instead of, as here, to alteration, of a current valuation list. As to commencement of the section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Dwelling or residence.—These words must be distinguished from the expression "private dwellings", which occurs in s. 74 (2), post, and has a much more limited application. They would, for instance, include premises used by lodgers.

Occupied in parts.—See notes to s. 36, ante.

Valuation officer.—See s. 33 (3), ante.

Preparing or revising a draft valuation list.—See ss. 35 and 37, ante.

Altering current valuation list.—This is a curious expression because the valuation officer has no power to alter a current valuation list except by making a proposal for its alteration under s. 40, ante, and by correcting a clerical or arithmetical error under s. 43, ante. (The latter procedure would obviously not apply.) The valuation officer does, of course, alter the valuation list, or cause it to be altered, in accordance with the terms of proposals made by other parties under s. 41 (5), ante, and on appeal by virtue of ss. 41 (6) (b) (ii), 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), ante; but these alterations do not involve any exercise of the discretion such as is conferred upon him by the present section.

Single hereditament.—Hereditament as defined in s. 144 (1), post.

Who receives the rents.—As a person cannot pay rent to himself it has been suggested that this cannot apply where the owner is himself the occupier of part of the property. If the property is in fact occupied in part, however, notwithstanding the owner's presence, it would seem to be at least permissible to treat the other part as a single hereditament and to rate the owner's part separately; but see also Helman v. Horsham and Worthing Assessment Committee, [1949] 1 All E. R. 776, C. A.).

Representation of the People Act, 1867, s. 7.—7 Halsbury's Statutes 404. That section was already repealed outside London by s. 69 (1) of, and Sched. VII to the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 689, 705).

Returns, Inspection, etc.

58. Returns.—(1) In every case where a new valuation list is to be made for any rating area, the valuation officer may serve a notice on the occupier, owner or lessee of any premises in the area, or on any one or more of them, requiring him or them to make a return containing such particulars as may be reasonably required for the purpose of enabling him accurately to compile the list. [3938]

(2) The valuation officer may at any time, in connection with a proposal which has been made for the alteration of the valuation list, or with a view to the making of such a proposal, serve a notice on the occupier, owner or lessee of any premises in the area, or on any one or more of them, requiring him or them to make a return containing such particulars as may be reasonably required for the purpose of enabling him to decide whether or not to make, or, as the case may be, to object to, the proposal. [3939]

(3) Every person upon whom a notice to make a return is served in pursuance of the provisions of this section shall within twenty-one days after the date of the service of the notice make a return in such form as is required in such notice and deliver it in manner so required to the valuation officer. [3940]

(4) If any person on whom notice has been served under the provisions of this section fails without reasonable excuse to comply with the notice, he shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds. [3941]

(5) Where a person is convicted under subsection (4) of this section in respect of a failure to comply with a notice and the failure continues after the conviction, them unless he has a reasonable excuse for the continuance of the failure, he shall be guilty of a further offence under the said subsection (4) and may, on summary conviction, be punished accordingly. [3942]

(6) If any person, in a return made under this section, makes any statement which he knows to be false in a material particular or recklessly makes any statement which is false in a material particular, he shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to both such imprisonment and such fine. [3943]

General note.—This section corresponds to ss. 40–42 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 668, 670), and to ss. 55, 57 and 58 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 577, 578), in conjunction with s. 2 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Amendment Act, 1884 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 596), all of which enactments are now repealed by the s. 147 (1), (4) and Sched. II, Part II, post. As to commencement of section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Valuation list.—See s. 34, ante.

Rating area.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post; and, in relation to London, see s. 123, post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Serve.—See s. 63 (1), post.

Occupier.—See the notes to s. 35, ante.

Owner.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

As may be reasonably required.—For a case where a demand for particulars of the trade done in a public house was held unreasonable, see Grant v. Knaresborough Urban District Council, [1928] Ch. 310.

Proposal for the alteration of the valuation list.—See s. 40 (2), ante; and cf. s. 72 (2), post. As to objection by the valuation officer to a proposal, see s. 41 (4), ante.

Within twenty-one days.—See note to s. 35, ante, headed "Within the seven days".

59. Duty of surveyor of taxes and local authorities.—(1) The valuation officer may from time to time require the surveyor of taxes for the area covered by the valuation list to furnish to him a copy of the annual values for the time being in force for the purpose of income tax under Schedule A of the Income Tax Act, 1918, for all or any of the properties in that area :

Provided that nothing in this section shall extend to annual values which by law are not allowed to be made public. [3944]

(2) If, in the course of the exercise of their functions, any information comes to the notice of any local authority which leads them to suppose that a valuation list requires alteration as respects a hereditament, it shall be the duty of that authority to inform the valuation officer.

In this subsection, the expression " local authority " includes any joint committee of any two or more local authorities and any joint authority on which any local authority is represented. [3945]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post

General note.—Sub-s. (1) of this section corresponds with s. 43 (3) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 671), and s. 56 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 578), both of which enactments are repealed by s. 147 (1), (3), and Sched. II, Part II, post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Surveyor of taxes.—I.e. the inspector of taxes (see the Income Tax Act, 1918, ss. 75, 237 (9 Halsbury's Statutes 464, 531).

Income Tax Act, 1918.—For Schedule A, see 9 Halsbury's Statutes 532. Tax is charged under this Schedule in respect of property in lands, tenements, hereditaments and heritages and is based on the annual value thereof.

Provided that, etc.—This proviso is substantially identical with that to s. 43 (3) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (supra). That proviso was apparently intended to preserve the effect of s. 212 of the Income Tax Act, 1918 (9 Halsbury's Statutes 522), which prohibits the disclosure of documents concerning tax upon profits of trade in respect of quarries, mines, ironworks, gasworks or other concerns in the nature of trade or manufacture chargeable under Schedule A. But, by virtue of s. 28 of the Finance Act, 1926 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 667), such properties are now chargeable to tax under Schedule D.

Local authority.—For meaning, see s. 144 (1), post, in conjunction with sub-s. (2), supra.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

60. Power of entry.—(1) The valuation officer and any person authorised by him in writing in that behalf shall have power, at all reasonable times and after giving not less than twenty-four hours' notice in writing and, in the case of a person authorised as aforesaid, on production, if so required, of his authority, to enter on, survey and value any hereditament in the area for which the valuation officer acts. [3946]

(2) If any person wilfully delays or obstructs any person in the exercise of any of his powers under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds. [3947]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Valuation officer.—For definition, see s. 33 (3), ante,

Writing.—See the notes to s. 36, ante,

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post,

61. Evidence and inspection of valuation lists rates, etc.—(1) The contents of a valuation list as for the time being in force, or an extract from any such list, may be proved by the production of a copy of the list or of the relevant part thereof purporting to be certified by the clerk of the rating authority to be a true copy. [3948]

(2) Section sixty of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relates to inspection of documents by ratepayers)—

(a) shall extend to London ; and

(b) shall apply in relation to valuation lists made under this Part of this Act, to notices of appeal, notices of objection and proposals made thereunder, and to minutes of the proceedings of any local valuation court as it applies in relation to the documents specified in sub-section (1) thereof ; and

(c) shall apply in relation to valuation officers (for whatever area) as it applies in relation to ratepayers. [3949]

General note.—This section corresponds with s. 64 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 579), and s. 43 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 670), both of which sections are repealed by s. 147 (1), (3) and Sched. II, Part II, post. As to commencement of the present section, see s. 72 (1), post.

Valuation list as for the time being in force.—See s. 34, ante; and cf. s. 38 (6), ante.

Clerk.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 60.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 681.

Notices of appeal.—See ss. 37 (4), (5) and 41 (6) (a), (7), ante, and s. 72 (2), post.

Notices of objection.—See ss. 36 and 41 (3), (4), ante, and s. 72 (2), post. Objections under s. 43, ante, would seem to be also within the spirit, if not the letter, of this provision.

Proposals.—For meaning, see s. 40 (3), ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.

Minutes of proceedings of local valuation court.—See s. 47 (3), ante. It is only the minutes of proceedings of a local valuation court which are to be open to inspection, those of a local valuation panel being excluded from this provision. As to local valuation courts, see s. 44, ante.

Valuation officers.—For meaning, see s. 33 (3), post.

Miscellaneous

62. Appeals as to water rates.—(1) So much of any statutory provision as authorises or requires any dispute arising in relation to water rates to be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction shall have effect as if it authorised or required that dispute to be determined by the county court for the county court district in which the property in question is situated. [3950]

(2) The power to make orders conferred by subsection (2) of section forty-nine of this Act (which enables the Lord Chancellor to combine county court districts or direct that one county court district shall be included in another county court district for the purposes of that section) shall include power to make orders in relation to the purposes of this subsection, and the said subsection (2) shall have effect accordingly. [3951]

Sub-s. (2), supra, is repealed as from the appointed day by s. 10 of, and Sched. II to, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42).

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Statutory provision.—See, e.g. the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 126 (1) (29 Halsbury's Statutes 415); and cf. the Water Act, 1945, s. 38 (3) and Sched. III, s. 46 (4) (38 Halsbury's Statutes 525, 558). For definition of "statutory provision", see s. 144 (1), post.

Court of summary jurisdiction.—As defined in the Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 13 (11) (18 Halsbury's Statutes 997).

To be determined, etc.—As from the appointed day, the Lands Tribunal will take the place of the county court; see the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42), ss. 1 (3) (e) and 10 (2).

63. Service of notices, etc.—(1) Section fifty-nine of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relates to the service of notices and similar matters) shall extend to London and shall apply in relation to any notice, demand note, order or other document required or authorised to be sent or served under or for the purposes of any Act relating to the making, levying, collection and recovery of rates in London, and, both inside and outside London, in relation to notices and other documents required or authorised to be sent or served under or for the purposes of this Part of this Act as it applies in relation to notices, demand notes, orders and other documents required or authorised to be sent or served under or for the purposes of the first-mentioned Act. [3952]

(2) Any notice required by this Part of this Act to be served on the valuation officer need not name the valuation officer but may describe him as the valuation officer for the rating area in question, without further description, and may be served by post, and every notice published in pursuance of any of the provisions of this Part of this Act which contains a statement of a right of objection or appeal shall include a statement of the address to or at which notice of objection or notice of appeal, as the case may be, may be sent to the valuation officer or service thereof otherwise effected. [3953]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 59.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 680.

London.—The administrative county of London, as defined in the London Government Act, 1939, s. 1 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 267).

Rates.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

This Part of this Act.—The Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 59, (supra), cannot be used in connection with notices under any other Part of this Act. Certain notices have to be given under Parts V and VII, post, but these do not carry the same legal implications as those under Part III.

Notice required to be served on valuation officer.—See ss. 36 (1), 37 (4), 41 (3), (7), ante. As to valuation officer, see s. 33 (3), ante.

Rating area.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post, and as to London, see s. 123, post.

Statement of right of objection or appeal.—See ss. 35 (2) (right of objection) and 37 (7) (right of appeal), ante.

64. Inclusion in one proceeding of separate hereditaments.—Any person may include in the same objection, proposal, appeal or other proceeding under this Part of this Act all or any hereditaments comprised in the same valuation list as respects which he has a right to make or bring any such objection, proposal, appeal or other proceeding, although they are separately assessed in that list. [3954]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.
Objection.—See ss. 36 and 41 (3), (4), and 43, ante.
Proposal.—For meaning, see s. 40 (3), ante; but see also s. 72 (2), post.
Appeal.—See ss. 37 (4), 41 (6) (a) and 49 (1), ante.
Hereditaments. For meaning, see s. 144 (1), post.

65. Extension to London of provisions as to Crown property.—Subsection (3) of section sixty-four of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, (which regulates the manner in which Crown property is to be dealt with in valuation lists) shall extend to London. [3955]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.
Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 64 (3).—14 Halsbury's Statutes 684.

66. Saving for position of owners in certain cases.—(1) Every owner who is rated under section eleven of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, or section four of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, instead of the occupier, or who enters into an agreement with the rating authority under the said section eleven or under section three of the said Act of 1869, in respect of any hereditaments shall, without prejudice to the rights of the occupier of any of those hereditaments, be treated for the purposes of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to objections, proposals and appeals as standing in the same position as the occupier. [3956]

(2) Where any premises are unoccupied, any reference in this Part of this Act to the occupier shall be construed as a reference to the owner thereof:

Provided that where the owner is unknown and a notice addressed to the occupier has been served in the manner authorised by law for the service of notices on the occupier where the occupier is unknown, that notice shall be deemed to have been duly served on the owner. [3957]

Commencement of section.—See s. 72 (1), post.

Every owner.—The expression "owner" clearly has here the meanings assigned to it by s. 11 (11) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 636), and s. 20 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 551), respectively and not the meaning given to it by s. 144 (1), post.

Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 11.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 632.

Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, ss. 3 and 4.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 546, 547.

Occupier.—See the notes to s. 35, ante.

Rating authority.—See the notes to s. 33, ante.

Hereditaments.—For meaning, see s. 144 (1), post.

Without prejudice to the rights of the occupier.—The owner and occupier will both therefore be entitled to all notices to which the occupier is expressed by this Part of this Act to be entitled, and be entitled to appear at the hearing of proceedings and to institute proceedings in the same way as the occupier.

Provisions relating to objections, proposals and appeals, etc.—See ss. 36 et seq., and 40 et seq., ante; and see also s. 72 (2), post.

Unoccupied.—It is not quite certain whether this means that there must be nobody in occupation at all or whether it includes the case in which there is an occupier but that occupier is not strictly rateable because the occupation is not a beneficial occupation (e.g. because it comprises structural alterations to the hereditament such as were being carried out in London County Council v. Hackney Borough Council, [1928] 2 K. B. 588, or where there is a caretaker on the premises (see, e.g. Bertie v. Walthamstow Overseers (1904), 68 J. P. 545). It would seem, however, that the occupier whose occupation is not beneficial has a sufficient interest in the property to be entitled to notice, since his only satisfactory remedy against an assessment may be by opposing any proposal or other proceeding instituted in respect of it (see London County Council v. Hackney Borough Council, supra).

The owner.—For definition of "owner", see s. 144 (1), post.

A notice addressed to the occupier, etc.—In conjunction with s. 63 (1), ante, see the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 59 (2) (14 Halsbury's Statutes 680), which, however, is not confined to the case where the occupier is unknown.

67. Membership of local authority, etc. not to be disqualification in certain cases.—(1) A person shall not be disqualified to act as a member of, or as the clerk or an officer of, a local valuation panel or local valuation court by reason only that he is—

(a) a member of an authority deriving revenue directly or indirectly from rates which may be affected by the exercise of his functions; or

(b) the owner or occupier of any property within any rating area the rates within which are affected by the exercise of his functions, and a person shall not be disqualified from acting as aforesaid in relation to any property by reason only that an authority of which he is a member either owns or occupies the whole or any part of that property. [3958]

(2) A person shall not be disqualified to act as a valuation officer or as the judge on any appeal to a county court by reason only that he is the owner or occupier of any property within any rating area the rates within which are affected by the exercise of his functions. [3959]

(3) Nothing in this section shall authorise any person to whom this section applies to act in relation to any property which, or any part of which, he himself owns or occupies. [3960]

The words in italics in sub-s. (2), supra, are repealed as from the appointed day by s. 10 of, and Sched. II to, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42).

General note.—The rules laid down in this section are intended to meet the common law rule that the slightest pecuniary interest acts as a disqualification for any person acting in a judicial capacity. The section came into force as respects all rating areas in England and Wales, except the Isles of Scilly, on May 1, 1948, by virtue of the Local Government Act, 1948 (Appointed Day) (No. 1) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 823), post. It will come into force in the Isles of Scilly on February 1, 1950, by virtue of the Local Government Act, 1948 (Appointed Day) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 434).

68. Transfer of valuation offices, etc.—If the Minister is satisfied that any premises which are, or any interest in which is, owned by a local authority are, or at some time during the year 1947–48 were, used by that authority wholly or mainly for the purpose of their functions relating to the valuation of property for rating purposes and that it is reasonable so to do, he may direct the authority to make over their interest to the Minister of Works, and where such a direction is given the like consequences shall ensue as would have ensued if a notice to treat had been given, on the date of the direction to the authority, by the Minister of Works in pursuance of a power conferred by Act of Parliament compulsorily to acquire that interest. of such premises belonging to the council or authority as may be so specified and the council or authority shall not unreasonably withhold their permission. [3962]

(2) The chairman of any local valuation panel may request the permission of any county council or rating authority the whole or any part of whose area is within the area for which the panel acts for the use for meetings of the panel or of any local valuation court constituted from members of the panel or for the use of the chairman, clerk or officers of the panel, on such days as may be specified in the request of any premises belonging to the council or authority, and the council or authority shall not unreasonably withhold their permission. [3963]

(3) Any person having the control of any room maintained out of any rate may put that room at the disposal of the valuation officer or any local valuation panel or local valuation court for the purpose of the exercise by them or their officers, or, in the case of a panel, by the chairman thereof, of any functions directly or indirectly affecting the valuation list by reference to which that rate is levied. [3964]

(4) Where a request is made under subsection (1) or subsection (2) of this section, any dispute as to whether the permission of the county council or rating authority has been unreasonably withheld shall be determined by the Minister. [3965]

(3) Section forty-six of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (which relates to the revision of valuation lists in London) shall, until the repeal thereof by this Act comes into force, have effect in relation to the period for which the valuation lists in force at the date of the passing of this Act continue in force, as if the references to the first four years, the fifth year, and the last four years, of the period were respectively references to every year except the last year, the last year, and every year except the first year, of the period. 73. Extent of Part III.—This Part of this Act shall not extend to Scotland. [3973]

PART IV

VALUATION OF DWELLING-HOUSES

Gross values ; Preliminary

74. Scope of provisions of Part IV as to gross values.—(1) For the purpose of making or altering the first valuation lists made after the passing of this Act and subsequent lists, the gross value for rating purposes of a dwelling-house, instead of being ascertained by reference to the definitions of gross value in section sixty-eight of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, and section four of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, shall be ascertained in accordance with the following provisions of this Part of this Act. [3974]

(2) For the purposes of this Part of this Act, the expression "dwelling-house" means a hereditament used wholly or mainly for the purposes of a private dwelling or private dwellings, with or without any garage, outhouse, garden, yard, court, forecourt or other appurtenances. [3975]

(3) Nothing in this section, or in the other provisions of this Part of this Act relating to the ascertainment of gross values, shall apply to any dwelling-house to which section fifty-nine of the Pluralities Act, 1838 (which relates to certain dwelling-houses the letting of which is restricted) applies, and references in this section and in the said other provisions of this Part of this Act to dwelling-houses do not include references to any such dwelling-house. [3976]

Commencement of section.—In the absence of any provision to the contrary, this section and all other sections in this Part of the Act came into operation on the passing of the Act (March 24, 1948).

For the purpose of making or altering, etc.—See ss. 34 et seq., ante, and ss. 40 et seq., ante.

Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 68.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 686.

Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, s. 4.—14 Halsbury's Statutes 553.

Hereditament.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

Used.—The parallel words used in relation to the derating of industrial hereditaments under s. 3 of the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 715), are "occupied and used". Except that the use of the combined expression "occupied and used" might conceivably give rise to some question where the occupation and the use were by different persons (which might have been material in the case of a house which was occupied for an employer's purposes under the present section)—the single word would seem to make no material difference. Subject to this qualification and to any implications arising from the different subject-matter of this enactment the decision on the meaning of "used" in Yates (Revenue Officer for Burnley Assessment Area) v. Burnley Rating Authority (1933), 97 J. P. 226, would seem to apply. Under this decision, whether there is a sufficient user of a hereditament for it to be used for the purposes of a private dwelling, is a question of fact to be determined by reference to the actual use and not holding in readiness for use, potential use or the intention of the occupier. Temporary disuse will make no difference, but disuse may be so prolonged that absence of use may be the necessary inference in law. There was held to be no evidence of use as a factory where fourteen months' disuse at the relevant date has been followed by two and a half years' disuse thereafter (looked at to support the inference drawn from the fourteen months). Temporary discontinuance of use for two months does not involve a discontinuance of use (Schwerzerhof v. Wilkins, [1898] 1 Q. B. 640). This interpretation of the word "used" may limit the period during which a furnished house may be left unoccupied before it can be said to have ceased to be used as a private dwelling.

Wholly or mainly for the purposes of a private dwelling or private dwellings.—As distinct, e.g. from a boarding or guest house (see especially Hobson v. Tulloch, [1898] 1 Ch. 424 ; Chatsworth Estates Co. v. Fewell, [1931] 1 Ch. 224 ; and Tendler v. Sproule, [1947] 1 All E. R. 193, C. A.).

With or without any garage, etc.—This seems to mean that, if the hereditament is used as mentioned in sub-s. (2), supra, it is a dwelling-house even though it includes a garage, etc.

The expressions " garage", " outhouse", etc., must obviously be construed in the light of the words " other appurtenances". On the other hand, it seems that those words must be construed ejusdem generis with the preceding terms, although the Act speaks only of " other appurtenances", while in s. 77 (5), post, the enumeration of garages, outhouses, etc., is followed by a reference to other like appurtenances.

For definition of " garden", see s. 144 (1), post.

Pluralities Act, 1838, s. 59.—7 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 437.

Ascertainment of gross values by references to 1938 cost

75. Scope of principle that gross value is to be ascertained by 1938 cost.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the gross values of the following dwelling-houses, that is to say—

(a) post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses, including flats and maisonettes ; and

(b) to the extent hereinafter specified, small post-1918 dwelling-houses, not being local authority or housing association dwelling-houses and not being flats or maisonettes, shall be ascertained in the manner provided by the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act by reference to the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction, and the hypothetical 1938 site cost, as defined in the two next succeeding sections, of those dwelling-houses or the buildings of which they form part :

Provided that the preceding provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any dwelling-house to which section seventy-two of the Local Government Act, 1929 (which relates to agricultural dwelling-houses) applies, and references to dwelling-houses in the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act relating to the ascertainment of gross values by reference to the matters mentioned in this subsection or either of them do not include references to any dwelling-house to which the said section seventy-two applies. [3977]

(2) Any reference in this Part of this Act to a local authority or housing association dwelling-house shall be construed as a reference to—

(a) a dwelling-house erected by, or by arrangement with, a local authority or by a housing association as defined for the purposes of the Housing Act, 1936, and owned by a local authority or such a housing association as aforesaid ; or

(b) a structure made available under section one of the Housing (Temporary Accommodation) Act, 1944, for use by a local authority for the provision of temporary housing accommodation ; or

(c) any other structure of a temporary nature used as a dwelling-house by virtue of any tenancy under or licence from a local authority. [3978]

(3) Any reference in this Part of this Act to a flat or maisonette shall be construed as a reference to a dwelling-house which forms part of a larger building :

Provided that—

(a) in considering for the purpose of this section whether or not a dwelling-house forms part of a larger building, garages, outhouses, gardens, yards, courts, forecourts and other appurtenances shall be left out of account ; and

(b) a semi-detached house or a house in a row of houses forming a terrace shall not be treated for the purpose of this section as forming part of a larger building. [3979]

(4) Any reference in this Part of this Act to a post-1918 dwelling-house shall be construed as a reference to a dwelling-house consisting of, or of part of, a building which was erected after, or in course of erection on, the second day of April, nineteen hundred and nineteen, or which has been since that date, or was at that date being, bona fide reconstructed by way of conversion into two or more separate and self-contained flats or tenements. [3980]

(5) Any reference in this Part of this Act to a small dwelling-house shall be construed as a reference to a dwelling-house of which the rateable value on the appropriate day did not exceed—

(a) in the case of a dwelling-house in the Metropolitan Police District or the City of London, one hundred pounds; and

(b) in the case of any other dwelling-house, seventy-five pounds. [3981]

(6) In the last preceding subsection, the expression "rateable value on the appropriate day" has the meaning assigned to it by section seven of the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1939, and that section shall apply accordingly for the purposes of this subsection:

Provided that—

(i) where the rateable value on the appropriate day of a dwelling-house falls under subsection (2) of that section to be determined by an apportionment and no apportionment has been made by the county court, the valuation officer, or on appeal, any court or arbitrator concerned, shall himself or themselves make the necessary apportionment for the purposes of this subsection;

(ii) if the dwelling-house has not been separately assessed and does not form part of some other property which has been separately assessed, the valuation officer, court or arbitrator shall treat the dwelling-house as being, or as not being, a small dwelling-house according as the net annual value thereof, calculated as if it were a small dwelling-house, does or does not exceed, in the case of a dwelling-house in the Metropolitan Police District or the City of London, one hundred pounds and, in any other case, seventy-five pounds. [3982]

Dwelling-house.—For definition, see s. 74 (2), (3), ante; but note the proviso to sub-s. (1), supra.

Post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses.—For meaning, see sub-ss. (2) and (4), supra.

Including flats and maisonettes.—For construction, see sub-s. (3), supra. This means, of course, no more than that flats and maisonettes may be "post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses".

To the extent hereafter specified.—The explanation of these words is that the gross value of the houses specified in sub-s. (1) (b), supra, is by s. 80, post, to be ascertained by reference to the "hypothetical 1938 cost of construction" and a hypothetical 1949 site value.

Small post-1918 dwelling-houses.—For meaning, see sub-ss. (4)–(6), supra.

Hypothetical 1938 cost of construction.—For meaning, see s. 76, post.

Housing Act, 1936.—In s. 188 (1) (11 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 586), "housing association" is defined as meaning a society, body of trustees or company established for the purpose of, or amongst whose objects or powers are included those of, constructing, improving or managing or facilitating or encouraging the construction or improvement of, houses for the working classes, being a society body of trustees or company who do not trade for profit or whose constitution or rules prohibit the issue of any capital with interest or dividend exceeding the rate for the time being prescribed by the Treasury, whether with or without differentiation as between share and loan capital.

Housing (Temporary Accommodation) Act, 1944, s. 1.—11 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 632.

Sub-s. (4).—This subsection may be compared with s. 12 (9) of the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Act, 1920 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 347).

Sub-s. (5).—The effect of this subsection, which may be compared with s. 3 (1) of the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 973) is that, broadly speaking, all rent-controlled dwelling-houses are small dwelling-houses within the meaning of this Part of the Act.

Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1939, s. 7.—32 Halsbury's Statutes 975.

That section (so far as material here) is as follows:—

"(1) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say:—

. . . . . .

'rateable value on the appropriate day' in relation to any dwelling-house, means (subject to the following provisions of this section) the value shown, with respect to that dwelling-house, on that day in the valuation list then in force, as the rateable value or, where the net annual value differs from the rateable value, as the net annual value; and

' the appropriate day ' means, as respects the administrative county of London, the sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, or, as respects the remainder of England, the first day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine ;

(2) In relation to any dwelling-house of which the rateable value on the appropriate day was not on that day separately assessed, any reference in the preceding provisions of this Act to the rateable value on the appropriate day shall be construed as a reference to such proportion of the rateable value on that day of the property in which the dwelling-house is comprised as may be apportioned to the dwelling-house by the county court in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3) of section twelve of the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Act, 1920.

(3) In relation to any dwelling-house first assessed after the appropriate day, any reference in the preceding provisions of this Act to the rateable value on the appropriate day shall be construed as a reference to the rateable value on the day on which the dwelling-house was first assessed.

S. 12 (3) of the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Act, 1920 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 346) enacts :

" Where, for the purpose of determining the standard rent or rateable value of any dwelling-house to which this Act applies, it is necessary to apportion the rent at the date in relation to which the standard rent is to be fixed, or the rateable value of the property in which that dwelling-house is comprised, the county court may, on application by either party, make such apportionment as seems just, and the decision of the court as to the amount to be apportioned to the dwelling-house shall be final and conclusive."

Valuation officer.—There can be no doubt that this expression has here the meaning assigned to it by s. 33 (3), ante, although the present section is not in Part III of the Act.

On appeal, etc.—See ss. 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), ante.

76. Meaning of " hypothetical 1938 cost of construction."—(1) References in this Part of this Act to the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of a dwelling-house or building shall be construed in accordance with the provisions of this section. [3983]

(2) The Minister shall prepare, for each rating area, after consultation with the rating authority for the area, a statement which—

(a) embodies specifications, set out in such detail as he thinks fit, of houses and buildings of such types as he thinks fit ; and

(b) determines, in relation to each specification, the sum which is to be taken for the purposes of this section as the 1938 cost of constructing a house or building conforming to that specification. [3984]

(3) In compiling the said statements, the Minister shall be guided by the costs actually incurred by local authorities in either or both of the years nineteen hundred and thirty-seven and nineteen hundred and thirty-eight in constructing houses and buildings either in the rating area in question or in nearby comparable rating areas, but nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring the Minister, in selecting the specifications, to confine himself to houses and buildings of types actually constructed by local authorities in those or any other areas in those years :

Provided that, if the Minister is satisfied in relation to any local authority that the costs actually incurred by that authority, compared with the costs incurred by other authorities in constructing houses and buildings affording comparable accommodation, were substantially greater than they would otherwise have been by reason of exceptional circumstances existing in the rating area in question, he may for the purposes of this subsection treat those costs as being diminished by so much thereof as appears to him to be due to those exceptional circumstances. [3985]

(4) The valuation officer, or, on appeal, any court or arbitrator concerned, shall, for the purpose of arriving at the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of a dwelling-house or building—

(a) assume that the cost in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight of constructing houses or buildings conforming with the specifications included in the statement prepared by the Minister as aforesaid for the area in which the dwelling-house or building in question is situated was in each case that which is determined in relation thereto in the statement ; and

(b) estimate on that assumption what would have been the cost in that year of constructing a dwelling-house or building similar to the particular dwelling-house or building with which the valuation officer, court or arbitrator is dealing, and the sum so estimated shall be deemed to be the hypothetical 1938 cost of constructing the house or building. [3986]

(5) In making any such estimate as is required by paragraph (b) of the last preceding subsection, the valuation officer, court or arbitrator shall take into account the cost of constructing garages, outhouses and other like appurtenances, and of paving and fencing yards, courts, forecourts and other like appurtenances, but shall not take into account the cost of providing or making up roads, or the cost of bringing to the site of the house or building drainage, water, electricity or gas, or of providing shelter from hostile attack from the air. [3987]

(6) A copy of the statement prepared by the Minister under subsection (2) of this section for any rating area shall be deposited at the offices of the rating authority for that area and shall be open to inspection during ordinary business hours, and any person shall be entitled to obtain from the rating authority a copy thereof for his own use upon payment to the authority of such fee as may be prescribed by regulations of the Minister. If the Minister is satisfied.—See the note headed "As he thinks fit", supra.
Valuation officer.—See the notes to s. 75, ante.
On appeal, etc.—See ss. 48 (4), 49 (1) and 50 (3), ante.
Other like appurtenances.—The word "like" makes it clear that in each case "appurtenances" must be read ejusdem generis with the objects or things that precede the phrase.
Regulations.—See s. 142 (1), post. Up to the time of going to press no such regulations had been made.

77. Meaning of "hypothetical 1938 site cost."—(1) References in this Part of this Act to the hypothetical 1938 site cost of a dwelling-house or building shall be construed in accordance with the provisions of this section. [3989]

(2) The Minister shall prepare, for each rating area, after consultation with the rating authority for the area, a statement—

(a) specifying a particular site or particular sites in or near the area; and
(b) determining, in relation to that site or, as the case may be, each of those sites, the sum which is to be taken as the 1938 cost of providing that site, developed as respects roads, drainage, water, electricity and gas to the extent specified in the statement. [3990]

(3) In preparing the said statements, the Minister shall select sites actually used by local authorities, whether in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight or at some other time, for the purpose of erecting dwelling-houses or buildings thereon, and shall be guided as respects the sums which he determines in relation to them by the costs incurred by local authorities in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, or any other comparable period, in providing the sites or other comparable sites. [3991]

(4) The valuation officer, or, on appeal, any court or arbitrator concerned, shall, for the purpose of arriving at the hypothetical 1938 site cost of a dwelling-house or building—

(a) select, where necessary, that one of the sites specified in the statement prepared by the Minister as aforesaid for the area in which the dwelling-house or building is situate which appears most appropriate ; and

(b) starting from the assumption that the cost in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight of providing the site, or the selected one of the sites, specified in the statement, developed as respects the matters aforesaid to the extent specified therein, would have been that which is determined in the statement, estimate what would have been the cost in that year of providing the site which, or part of which, is occupied by the particular dwelling-house or building with which the valuation officer, court or arbitrator is dealing, developed as respects the matters aforesaid to the extent to which it is in fact developed ; and

(c) where part only of the site the cost of which is estimated under paragraph (b) of this subsection is occupied by the particular dwelling-house or building with which the valuation officer, court or arbitrator is dealing, estimate the part of that cost which would properly be ascribed to the actual site of the said dwelling-house or building, and the sum estimated under paragraph (b) or, as the case may be, paragraph (c) of this subsection shall be deemed to be the hypothetical 1938 site cost of the house or building :

Provided that if the cost estimated under paragraph (b) of this subsection exceeds fifteen hundred pounds per acre, the excess over fifteen hundred pounds per acre shall be disregarded, and the estimate, if any, under paragraph (c) thereof shall be made accordingly. [3992]

(5) References in the last preceding subsection to the site or the part of the site which is occupied by the particular dwelling-house or building or to the actual site of the particular dwelling-house or building include references to land occupied by garages, outhouses, gardens, yards, courts, forecourts and other like appurtenances forming part of the hereditament. [3993]

(6) A copy of the statement prepared by the Minister under subsection (2) of this section for any rating area shall be deposited at the offices of the rating authority for that area and shall be open to inspection during ordinary business hours, and any person shall be entitled to obtain from the rating authority a copy thereof for his own use upon payment to the authority of such fee as may be prescribed by regulations of the Minister. [3994]

Statement.—This statement is to form the basis of the valuation of the sites of the houses valued by reference to cost under s. 75, ante.

Garages, outhouses, etc.—The expressions " garages ", " outhouses ", etc., must obviously be construed in the light of the words " or other appurtenances ". On the other hand the word " like " makes it qute clear that " appurtenances " must be read ejusdem generis with the objects and things that precede the phrase.

78. Post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses, other than flats and maisonettes.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the gross value of a post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house, not being a flat or maisonette, shall be five per cent. of the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the dwelling-house plus five per cent. of the hypothetical 1938 site cost thereof. [3995]

(2) Where the state of repair or amenities of such a dwelling-house as aforesaid or the amenities of its surroundings are not as good as those of the majority of comparable dwelling-houses in the locality, being dwelling-houses to which this section applies, the gross value thereof shall be the amount ascertained under subsection (1) of this section diminished by such amount as may be just:

Provided that any factor affecting the amenities of the dwelling-house or its surroundings shall not be taken into account under this subsection in so far as it has already affected the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the dwelling-house or the hypothetical 1938 site cost thereof. [3996]

General note.—This section should be read in conjunction with ss. 74 and 75, ante, and s. 81, post; it sets out the mode of calculation of the gross value of post-1918 local authority and housing association dwelling-houses other than flats and maisonettes, just as s. 79, post, does in the case of post-1918 local authority and housing association flats and maisonettes, and s. 80, post, does in the case of other small post-1918 dwelling-houses except flats and maisonettes. As to commencement of the section, see the notes to s. 74, ante.

Subject to the provisions of this section.—This is a reference to sub-s. (2), supra, which allows a reduction factor in the circumstances named.

Dwelling-house.—For meanings, see s. 74 (2), (3), ante, and s. 75 (1), proviso, ante.

Post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 75 (2), (4), ante.

Flat or maisonette.—For meaning, see s. 75 (3), ante.

Hypothetical 1938 cost of construction.—For meanings, see s. 76 ante.

Hypothetical 1938 site cost.—For meaning, see s. 77, ante.

Amenities.—The nature of "amenity" was considered in Re Ellis and Ruislip, Northwood Urban Council, [1920] 1 K. B. 343.

Such amount as may be just.—A similar phrase appears in ss. 79 (2), (4), 80 (2) and 81, post. In each case except the last the words apply to a reduction or diminution of value, the last case relating to an increase.

79. Post-1918 local authority or housing association flats or maisonettes.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the gross value of a post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house, being a flat or maisonette, shall be ascertained by reference to the sum of—

(a) the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the building of which the flat or maisonette forms part; and

(b) the hypothetical 1938 site cost of that building, and shall be five per cent. of so much of that sum as appears, on a just apportionment, to be properly attributable to the flat or maisonette. [3997]

(2) Where the amenities of the surroundings of the said building are not as good as in the case of the majority of the buildings in the locality which consist of or contain post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses (whether flats or maisonettes or not) comparable to the flats or maisonettes contained in the first-mentioned building, the sum referred to in subsection (1) of this section shall be reduced by such amount as may be just:

Provided that any factor affecting the amenities of the surroundings of the building shall not be taken into account under this subsection in so far as it has already affected the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the building or the hypothetical 1938 site cost thereof. [3998]

(3) Where the building has been destroyed in part, the hypothetical 1938 cost of the construction thereof shall be ascertained, and the apportionment referred to in subsection (1) of this section shall be made, as if the destroyed part was still in existence. [3999]

(4) Where the state of repair or amenities of the flat or maisonette itself are not as good as those of the majority of comparable post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-houses in the locality (whether flats or maisonettes or not), the gross value of the flat or maisonette shall be the amount ascertained under the previous provisions of this section diminished by such amount as may be just :

Provided that the said state of repair, and any other factor affecting the amenities, shall not be taken into account under this subsection in so far as it has already affected the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the building or the hypothetical 1938 site cost thereof, or has already been taken into account in making the apportionment referred to in subsection (1) of this section. [4000]

General note.—This section, which relates to flats and to maisonettes, should be read in conjunction with ss. 74 and 75, ante, and s. 81, post; it sets out the mode of calculation of the gross value of post-1918 local authority and housing association flats and maisonettes, just as s. 78, ante, did in the case of post-1918 local authority and housing association dwelling-houses other than flats and maisonettes, and s. 80, post, does in the case of other small post-1918 dwelling-houses except flats and maisonettes. As to the commencement of this section see the notes to s. 74, ante..

Subject to the provisions of this section.—This is a reference to sub-ss. (2) and (4), supra.

Post-1918 local authority or housing association dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 75 (2), (4), ante.

Flat or maisonette.—For meaning, see s. 75 (3), ante.

Hypothetical 1938 cost of construction.—This term is defined in s. 76, ante.

Hypothetical 1938 site cost.—For definition, see s. 77, ante.

A just apportionment.—Cubic capacity in relation to cost of construction seems to be the principal factor in arriving at such apportionments, subject to proper allowances for differences in facilities.

Reduced.—The meaning of this term appears to be similar to that of " diminished " in s. 78, ante, sub-s. (4), supra, and s. 80 (2), post.

Destroyed in part.—This appears to have particular relevance to war-damaged properties part of which is unusable.

80. Other small post-1918 dwelling-houses, except flats and maisonettes.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the gross value of any small post-1918 dwelling-house which is neither a local authority or housing association dwelling-house nor a flat or maisonette shall be five per cent. of the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction of the dwelling-house plus five per cent. of the value of the site on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and forty-nine, estimated on the basis—

(a) that all buildings have been removed therefrom ;

(b) that there is no impediment (whether of a legal nature or not) to the use of the site for the construction thereon of a dwelling-house of the same general character and dimensions as the existing dwelling-house and with foundations occupying the whole, or, at the option of the builder, any part of, the ground occupied by the buildings of the existing dwelling-house ; and

(c) that any permission required by any statutory provision for that use of the site will be forthcoming unconditionally, and in particular, in the case of a permission under the enactments relating to town and country planning, will be forthcoming without the imposition of any development charge. [4001]

(2) If the state of repair or amenities of the dwelling-house are not as good as those of the majority of comparable dwelling-houses in the locality, being dwelling-houses to which this section applies, the gross value of the dwelling-house shall be the amount ascertained under the preceding provisions of this section diminished by such amount as may be just. [4002]

General note.—This section should be read in conjunction with ss. 74 and 75, ante, and s. 81 post; it sets out the mode of calculation of the gross value of certain small post-1918 dwelling-houses, other than flats and maisonettes, just as s. 78, ante, did in the case of post-1918 local authority and housing association dwelling-houses other than flats and maisonettes, and s. 79, ante, did in the case of post-1918 local authority and housing association flats and maisonettes. As to commencement of this section, see notes to s. 74, ante.

Dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 74 (2), (3), and s. 75 (1), proviso, ante.

Small post-1918 dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 75 (4)–(6), ante.

Local authority or housing association dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 75 (2), ante.

Flat or maisonette.—For meaning, see s. 75 (3), ante.

Hypothetical 1938 cost of construction.—For meaning, see s. 76, ante.

No impediment (whether of a legal nature or not).—Impediments of a legal nature could include easements, restrictive covenants, local authority byelaws and planning controls.

Permission required.—See, for example, the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, ss. 12 et seq. (40 Halsbury's Statutes 748 et seq.). As to the grant of permission unconditionally, see s. 14 (1) of the same Act (40 Halsbury's Statutes 751).

Statutory provision.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

The enactments relating to town and country planning.—See the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 727).

Development charge.—These charges fall to be imposed under Part VII of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 804 et seq.).

81. Adjustment for adaptation for business purposes.—Where any part of a dwelling-house, being a dwelling-house to which one of the three last preceding sections applies, has been specially constructed or adapted for use for the purposes of any trade, business or profession, the gross value thereof, as ascertained under the relevant preceding provisions of this Part of this Act, shall be increased by such amount, if any, as may be just, having regard to any extra annual value for the time being conferred on the dwelling-house by the said special construction or adaptation thereof:

Provided that, where the dwelling-house is a flat or maisonette, any special construction or adaptation thereof shall only be taken into account under this section if and in so far as it has not already affected the apportionment required to be made of the hypothetical 1938 cost of construction, and the hypothetical 1938 site cost, of the building of which the flat or maisonette forms part. [4003]

General note.—Ss. 78, 79 and 80, ante, laid down rules for the calculation of gross values in these particular types of case, and the present section, which provides for increasing the gross values so ascertained by taking into account additional value because of construction or adaptation for business purposes, is, as it were, subsidiary to each. As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 74, ante.

Dwelling-house.—For definition, see s. 74 (2), (3) and s. 75 (1), proviso, ante.

Flat or maisonette.—For meaning, see s. 75 (3), ante.

Hypothetical 1938 cost of construction.—For definition, see s. 76, ante.

Hypothetical 1938 site cost.—For definition, see s. 77, ante.

Other cases

82. Gross value of other dwelling-houses.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the gross value of any dwelling-house the gross value of which is not ascertainable under any of the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act shall be estimated by reference to the rents for comparable dwelling-houses in the locality, being dwelling-houses to which this section applies, which were being paid on the thirty-first day of August, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, under lettings in force at that date, whenever made. [4004]

(2) For the purposes of this section account shall, subject to the provisions of subsection (5) of this section, only be taken of rents charged under lettings where the landlord undertakes to bear the cost of the repairs and insurance and the other expenses, if any, necessary to maintain the dwelling-house in a state to command the rent. [4005]

(3) Where, under any such letting—

(a) the landlord undertakes any further obligation; or

(b) the tenant does not undertake to pay all the usual tenant's rates and taxes, the rent payable on that letting shall be adjusted, before being taken into account under subsection (1) of this section, by deducting therefrom sums representing the cost to the landlord of any services provided by him to fulfil any such obligation (exclusive of profit) and the burden otherwise falling on him by reason of his undertaking any such obligation or by reason of the tenant not undertaking to pay all the usual tenant's rates and taxes:

Provided that the said cost and the said burden shall be estimated by reference to the levels of costs prevailing in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight. [4006]

(4) Where, under any such letting as is referred to in subsection (2) of this section, the rent charged is less than it might have been expected to be but for the fact that the letting is to a servant of the landlord, the rent payable on that letting shall, in addition to any adjustment under the last preceding subsection, be adjusted, before being taken into account under subsection (1) of this section, by making such addition thereto as may be reasonable. [4007]

(5) Where, under any letting, the landlord undertakes to bear the cost of insurance and the other expenses, if any, necessary to maintain the dwelling-house in a state to command the rent, other than expenses of repair, and also undertakes to bear the cost of some, but not all, of the repairs necessary to maintain the dwelling-house as aforesaid, the rent payable under that letting shall be adjusted by adding a sum representing the estimated cost of the said repairs so far as not undertaken to be borne by the landlord, and the rent, as so adjusted and, if need be, as further adjusted under subsection (3) of this section or under the last preceding subsection, shall be taken into account for the purposes of this section as if it were rent charged under such a letting as is mentioned in subsection (2) of this section :

Provided that the said cost shall be estimated by reference to the levels of cost prevailing in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight. [4008]

(6) In estimating the gross value of any dwelling-house in accordance with the provisions of this section, all necessary allowances shall be made for differences between the dwelling-houses which are taken into consideration. [4009]

(7) If, owing to the lack of comparable dwelling-houses actually the subject of lettings at the end of August, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, it is not possible to arrive at the gross value of a dwelling-house in accordance with the preceding provisions of this section, or if the dwelling-house is one to which section seventy-two of the Local Government Act, 1929 (which relates to agricultural dwelling-houses) applies, the gross value thereof shall be estimated as if this Part of this Act had not been passed, except that regard shall be had to the levels of values prevailing in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-eight instead of to the levels of values prevailing for the time being :

Provided that where the gross value falls to be ascertained by reference to a rent (whether actual or hypothetical) the amount of which is referable in part to services provided by the landlord, the amount falling to be deducted from that rent, in ascertaining the gross value, as being the amount referable to the provision of those services shall be estimated by reference to the actual, or, as the case may be, the hypothetical, cost to the landlord of providing those services, exclusive of profit. [4010]

General note.—This section which must be read in conjunction with s. 74, ante, provides for the ascertainment of the gross values of dwelling-houses to which s. 75, ante, does not apply. As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 74, ante.

Dwelling-house.—For meaning, see s. 74 (2), (3), ante.

Where the landlord undertakes to bear the cost of the repairs, etc.—This corresponds with the assumption to be made as respects obligations of the landlord under the definitions of " gross value " in s. 68 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 686), and in s. 4 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 553).

See also the next note, infra.

The tenant does not undertake.—An undertaking may, of course, be express or implied.

Tenant's rates and taxes.—Under the definitions of " gross value " in s. 4 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (supra), and s. 68 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (supra), the tenant is always to be responsible for tenant's rates and taxes. These will include, in general, outside London the general rate and, in a rural district, the special rate also (Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, ss. 2 and 3 ; 14 Halsbury's Statutes 618, 621) and in London the general rate (London Government Act, 1899, s. 10 (2) ; 11 Halsbury's Statutes 1231 ; the City of London has its own rates). Tenant's rates and taxes do not include the Land Tax (Goodchild v. St. John, Hackney Trustees (1858), E. B. & E. I.). Where by a local Act the owner is responsible for any part of the usual tenant's rates, that part is not a usual tenant's rate for this purpose (Slaylor v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Assessment Committee, [1926] 1 K. B. 172). Some difficulty may arise in connection with rates or charges for sewers or embankments, etc. If these are in the nature of a tenant's rate, it would seem that they should be so treated and not as expenses of maintaining the hereditament. Water rates being a charge for a commodity cannot be treated as a usual tenant's rate for this purpose, but they will be a further obligation under sub-s. (3), supra, if borne by the landlord. The deduction to be made in respect of rates should be calculated at the anticipated rate in the pound on the new rateable value (Tyne Improvement Commissioners v. Chirton Overseers (1862), 32 L. J. (M. C.) 192 ; R. v. South Staffordshire Waterworks Co. (1885), 16 Q. B. D. 359). Where a partial rating exemption is enjoyed by the property locally, the lower rates resulting therefrom must be deducted (Slade v. Bristol Overseers (1910), 74 J. P. Jo. 629). Under the old law the full amount of the rates was required to be deducted, although the landlord was entitled to a compounding allowance (R. v. Dodd (1865), L. R. 1 Q. B. 16). But, in the present case only, the additional burden falling on the landlord may be deducted, and this would seem to be the amount less compounding allowance.

Exclusive of profit.—See note " Provided that where", infra.

The landlord undertakes to bear the cost of insurance, etc.—See note " the tenant does not undertake", supra.

Local Government Act, 1929, s. 72.—10 Halsbury's Statutes 931.

As if this Part of this Act had not been passed.—I.e. by reference to the definition of " gross value " in s. 68 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 686), as amended by s. 48 (3) of, and Sched. IX to, the Tithe Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 961, 974), or that in s. 4 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 553), as so amended, as the case may be, and where s. 72 of the Local Government Act, 1929 (supra) applies, in accordance with that section. See also the Rating and Valuation (Air-Raid Works) Act, 1938, s. 1 (31 Halsbury's Statutes 614).

Except that regard shall be had.—This modification is in accordance with the other provisions of this Part of the Act which require gross values of dwelling-houses to be ascertained by reference to 1938 prices.

Provided that where, etc.—The sting of this proviso lies in the words " exclusive of profit", which reverse the decision (so far as it relates to profits) in Bell Property Trust, Ltd. v. Hampstead Borough Assessment Committee, [1940] 2 K. B. 543 ; [1940] 3 All E. R. 640, C. A., according to which a deduction might properly be made from a rent in respect of profit to the landlord on the services provided to the tenant in addition to the cost of these services.

Deductions from gross value

83. Deductions from gross value in certain cases.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, subsections (1) to (3) of section two of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928 (which provide increased scales of deduction in arriving at the rateable value of certain houses and buildings) shall apply in relation to the making and alteration of—

(a) the first valuation lists made after the passing of this Act ; and

(b) such subsequent valuation lists, if any, as may be prescribed by regulations of the Minister, as they apply in relation to the valuation lists specified in those subsections. [4011]

(2) The Minister may by order provide that, in the case of hereditaments of such classes as may be specified in the order, being hereditaments consisting of houses or buildings without land other than gardens, the deduction or maximum deduction to be made from the gross annual value for the purpose of arriving at the net annual value shall, instead of being ascertained by reference to Part I of the Second Schedule to the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, or by reference to the Third Schedule to the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, as the case may be, be such as may be specified in the order in relation to those classes respectively. [4012]

(3) An order under the last preceding subsection may be revoked or varied by a subsequent order of the Minister. [4013]

(4) Before any order is made under subsection (2) or subsection (3) of this section, a draft thereof shall be laid before each House of Parliament, and the order shall not be made until approved by resolution of each House. [4014]

General note.—The increased deductions from gross to rateable value temporarily provided for by the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928, s. 2 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 709), are to apply to all valuation lists made under the present Act. The Minister may, by order, which may be varied or revoked, prescribe deductions or maximum deductions in certain cases to replace the present scales. Affirmative resolution procedure applies to all such orders. As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 74, ante.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

Sub-s. (3).—The express power conferred by this subsection is necessary because s. 32 (3) of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (18 Halsbury's Statutes 1003), does not apply to departmental orders.

A draft thereof shall be laid.—As the orders are not to be made until they have been laid before Parliament and have received parliamentary approval, ss. 4–7 of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 785 et seq.), as to the laying of documents before Parliament have no application to this particular class of instrument. See, however, now the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act, 1948, s. 1 (1), title STATUTES AND STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, post.

Extent of Part IV

84. Extent of Part IV.—This Part of this Act shall not extend to Scotland. [4015]

PART V

RATING OF TRANSPORT AND ELECTRICITY AUTHORITIES

General

85. Railway or canal hereditaments and electricity hereditaments not to be rated.—(1) Save as is otherwise provided in this Part of this Act, no premises which are or form part of either—

(a) a railway or canal hereditament (as defined for the purposes of this Part of this Act) ; or

(b) a hereditament occupied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board, shall be liable to be rated or be included in any valuation list or in any rate, and the British Transport Commission, the British Electricity Authority and the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board shall, in the year 1948–49 and all subsequent years, make such payments for the benefit of local authorities as are provided for by the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Act in lieu of the rates which would, apart from the provisions of this Part of this Act, be payable to rating authorities in respect of those hereditaments. [4016]

(2) Where any lands and heritages in Scotland are occupied by the British Transport Commission, the British Electricity Authority, the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board or an Area Electricity Board, and are owned by some other person, nothing in this Part of this Act shall relieve that person from his liability to pay rates in respect of his ownership of those lands and heritages, and the value for the purpose of such rates of those lands and heritages shall be ascertained and fixed by the assessor of the county or burgh within which they are situated and not by the Assessor of Public Undertakings (Scotland) and shall be entered in the valuation roll for that county or burgh.

For the purposes of this Act or of any apportionment among rating authorities or of any requisition to a rating authority, the rateable value of any such lands and heritages as aforesaid shall be taken to be such sum as bears to the rateable value entered in the valuation roll the same proportion as that part of the county or burgh rate as the case may be which is payable by owners only bears to the whole of that rate. Railways and Canals ; rating provisions

86. Definition of railway or canal hereditament.—(1) In this Part of this Act, except where the contrary is expressly provided, the expression " railway or canal hereditament " means a hereditament occupied for any of the purposes of the British Transport Commission specified in subsection (2) of this section :

Provided that no premises occupied as a dwelling-house, hotel or place of public refreshment, or so let out as to be capable of separate assessment, shall be deemed to be, or to form part of, a railway or canal hereditament. [4018]

(2) The purposes referred to in subsection (1) of this section (elsewhere in this Act referred to as " non-rateable purposes ") are—

(a) all purposes of the parts of the undertaking of the Commission which are concerned with the carriage of goods or passengers by rail or inland waterway or the provision of facilities for traffic by inland waterway ; and

(b) all purposes of any parts of their undertaking which are subsidiary or incidental to any such part as aforesaid, not being parts thereof concerned with road transport, sea transport or harbours or parts thereof subsidiary or incidental to the parts thereof concerned with road transport, sea transport or harbours :

Provided that—

(i) services performed by the Commission in connection with the collection and delivery of parcels, goods or mechandise conveyed or to be conveyed by rail or inland waterway shall be deemed for the purposes of this subsection to be performed in carrying on a part of the Commission's undertaking concerned with the carriage of goods by rail or inland waterway and not in carrying on a part of their undertaking concerned with road transport ; and

(ii) where a hereditament is occupied mainly for non-rateable purposes as defined by the preceding provisions of this section, and partly for the purposes of the central direction and control of the affairs of the Commission, the last-mentioned purposes shall be deemed for the purposes of this Part of this Act to be non-rateable purposes. [4019]

(3) In this section, the expression " harbour " has the same meaning as in the Transport Act, 1947, and the expression " road transport " includes transport by a light railway or tramway, if the light railway or tramway is laid wholly or mainly along a public highway and is used wholly or mainly for the carriage of passengers. [4020]

Except where the contrary is expressly provided.—These words seem to have been inserted in view of the provisions of s. 89 (3), post ; but see also the proviso to sub-s. (1), supra.

Hereditament ; inland waterway.—For definitions, see s. 144 (1), post.

British Transport Commission.—See the notes to s. 85, ante.

Provided that no premises, etc.—This proviso applies even though the dwelling-house, hotel or place of public refreshment is occupied by the British Transport Commission itself.

Dwelling-house.—In Railway Assessment Authority v. Great Western Rail. Co., [1948] A. C. 234 ; [1947] 2 All E. R. 794, a hostel and canteen with recreation, reading and writing rooms and 256 sleeping cubicles provided by a railway company for employees of the company staying there temporarily, though for substantial periods, were held to be occupied as a dwelling-house. In River Lee Conservancy Board v. Poplar R. O. (1931), 13 R. & I. T. 262, six cottages occupied by a lock-keeper, a police-constable, a collector, an assistant collector, an assistant lock-keeper and a wharf attendant and lock-keeper, situated on a canal undertaking were held to be used as a dwelling-house.

Hotel or place of public refreshment.—In Railway Assessment Authority v. Great Western Rail. Co., supra, the hostel was held not to be an hotel within the meaning of the same provision. Lord THANKERTON there said: "An hotel, in my opinion, connotes a building in which a hotel business is carried on, to which the public are entitled to resort for accommodation and refreshment, and to which the edict "nautae, caupones" would apply."

So let out as to be capable of separate assessment.—These words involve the application of the old law determining whether property which is let out of a major hereditament constitutes a separate hereditament in the occupation of the lessee or remains part of the major hereditament in the occupation of the occupier thereof, the lessee being in a position analogous to that of a lodger (Westminster Corpn. v. Southern Rail. Co., [1936] A. C. 511; [1936] 2 All E. R. 322). In that case the House of Lords held that various classes of property on a railway station were so let out as to be capable of assessment and so were not a railway hereditament although: (1) The holding was only a licence and was determinable at the will of the railway company; (2) there were no boundary walls and the servants of the railway company had a right of access; (3) pipes and cables and certain rights were reserved to the railway company; (4) the tenants and licensee had access only through other property of the railway company and when the outside gates were open; and (5) the tenants' user was subject to byelaws and other restrictions imposed by the railway company. The premises dealt with included shops, offices, banks, kiosks, sweet stalls, garages and bare sites used for storage or warehousing building materials, coal, etc., book stalls made of timber (which were movable on rollers and could be required to be moved by the railway company) and showcases for advertising purposes placed at points fixed by the railway company and removable by the company at will. Railway canteens used by catering contractors to provide meals for railway employees but supervised by the railway company were held not to be so let out as to be capable of separate assessment in Re London and North Eastern Rail. Co.'s Appeal, [1946] K. B. 13.

Harbour.—By s. 125 (1) of the Transport Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1008), "harbour" means any harbour, whether natural or artificial, and any port, haven, estuary, tidal or other river or inland waterway navigated by sea-going ships; and any docks; and, in turn, "dock" includes any pier, jetty or other place at which ships can ship or unship goods or passengers, "inland waterway" includes every such waterway, whether natural or artificial, and "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation.

Road transport.—The definition of this expression in sub-s. (3), supra, may usefully be compared with the definition of "railway" in s. 144 (1), post.

87. Railway or canal hereditaments partly used for other purposes.—(1) Where a railway or canal hereditament is occupied partly for non-rateable purposes and partly for other purposes—

(a) the hereditament shall not, by virtue of the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act, be exempt from liability to be rated and from inclusion in any valuation list or in any rate; but

(b) there shall be ascribed to the hereditament such net annual value as may be just having regard to the extent to which it is occupied for those other purposes; and

(c) the deductions, if any, to be made from the net annual value in arriving at the rateable value shall be calculated with regard only to those other purposes. [4021]

(2) Where by or under any enactment the amount of any water rate in England or Wales is to be determined by reference to the gross value or net annual value of any property as appearing in the valuation list for the time being in force, then, if the property in question is or forms part of a hereditament to which subsection (1) of this section applies, the value thereof for the purposes of that water rate shall not be determined by reference to the said gross value or the said net annual value but shall be determined in the event of any dispute by the county court for the county court district in which the property in question is situated. [4022]

(3) The power to make orders conferred by subsection (2) of section forty-nine of this Act (which enables the Lord Chancellor to combine county court districts or direct that one county court district shall be included in another county court district for the purposes of that section) shall include power to make orders in relation to the purposes of this subsection, and the said subsection (2) shall have effect accordingly. [4023]

Sub-s. (3), supra, is repealed as from the appointed day by s. 10 of, and Sched. II to, the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 42).

Commencement of section.—See s. 89 (1) and the notes to s. 89, post.

88. Repeal of certain provisions of Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, etc.—(1) The provisions of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, specified in Part III of the Second Schedule to this Act and the enactments amending or applying that Act shall cease to have effect, and the Railway Assessment Authority and the Anglo-Scottish Railway Assessment Authority shall cease to exist. [4024]

Provided that—

(a) as respects documents or other property of the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority, the powers conferred by this subsection on the Minister shall be exercised only with the consent of the Secretary of State; and

(b) such part as the Minister and the Secretary of State, acting jointly, may direct of the liabilities of, and of any sums payable by way of compensation to any officer or servant of, the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority shall be defrayed by the British Transport Commission (as successors to the railway companies referred to in subsection (8) of section twenty-two of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930). 89. Commencement of provisions as to railway or canal hereditaments and transitional provisions.—(1) The provisions of this Part of this Act, so far as they relate to railway or canal hereditaments, the repeals in the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, the repeal of the enactments amending or applying that Act, and the abolition of the authorities referred to in that Act, shall (subject to the provisions of the next succeeding subsection) come into operation on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and forty-eight. [4026]

(2) The following provisions of this subsection shall have effect as from the passing of this Act, that is to say—

(a) the railway valuation roll for the fourth quinquennial period under the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, and the London Passenger Transport valuation roll for the third quinquennial period under the said Act as applied by the London Passenger Transport (Valuation for Rating) Scheme, 1935, shall not be completed ; and

(b) any part of such a roll for either of the periods aforesaid which has been completed shall be deemed never to have come into force ; and

(c) any alteration made in any valuation list by way of substituting for values or other particulars appearing in that list values or other particulars entered in any such part of a roll as aforesaid shall be deemed never to have been made ; and

(d) any valuation list altered as aforesaid, and any rate made, whether before or after the passing of this Act, in accordance with that list as so altered, shall be corrected accordingly ; and

(e) where the preceding provisions of this subsection affect the amount of any rate levied in respect of any hereditament in accordance with any such list, the difference, if too much has been paid, shall be repaid or allowed, or, if too little has been paid, shall be paid and may be recovered as if it were arrears of the rate, and any reference in the subsequent provisions of this section to a valuation list shall be construed, in relation to a valuation list which is required by this subsection to be corrected, as a reference to the list as so corrected. [4027]

(3) Until other provision is made under Part III of this Act, either by the preparation of new valuation lists or by the alteration of existing lists, the hereditaments in England and Wales which, on the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, are shown in the valuation lists as railway hereditaments within the meaning of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, or as transport hereditaments within the meaning of that Act as applied by a scheme under section ninety-two of the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, or as freight transport hereditaments used wholly or partly for railway transport purposes or canal transport purposes and occupied by the British Transport Commission or one of the bodies specified in the Third Schedule to the Transport Act, 1947, shall, unless—

(a) they are shown in the said lists on that date as freight transport hereditaments used wholly for dock purposes ; or

(b) they appear from the said lists on that date to be hereditaments used wholly for tramway or trolley-bus purposes of that part of the British Transport Commission's undertaking which corresponds to the undertaking of the London Passenger Transport Board, be deemed to be railway or canal hereditaments for the purposes of this Part of this Act :

Provided that this subsection shall have effect subject to the provisions of the next succeeding section. [4028]

(4) The hereditaments which, under subsection (3) of this section, are to be deemed to be railway or canal hereditaments shall be dealt with as follows in the lists, that is to say—

(a) all those hereditaments, other than such thereof as are shown in the lists as freight transport hereditaments used partly for dock purposes or as appear from the lists to be used partly for tramway or trolley-bus purposes of that part of the British Transport Commission's undertaking which corresponds to the undertaking of the London Passenger Transport Board, shall be omitted from the lists ; and

(b) the net annual values of those of the said hereditaments which are not so omitted shall be the net annual values shown in the lists on that date as attributable to dock purposes, or the said tramway or trolley-bus purposes, as the case may be,

and it shall be the duty of all assessment committees to cause to be made, on the said first day of April, or as soon as may be thereafter, all such alterations in the valuation lists as are necessary to give effect to the provisions of this subsection, including alterations of totals of values, and the said alterations, when made, shall have effect as from the said first day of April. [4029]

(5) Save as provided in the preceding provisions of this section, and without prejudice to the provisions of the next following subsection, no alteration shall be made in any valuation list—

(a) so far as it relates to any hereditament in England or Wales which is by virtue of subsection (3) of this section to be deemed to be a railway or canal hereditament; or

(b) for the purpose of securing that any other hereditament in England or Wales is treated as or as part of a railway or canal hereditament, until the provisions of Part III of this Act relating to the alteration of valuation lists by means of proposals made by or served on valuation officers have come into force. [4030]

(6) Save as provided in the preceding provisions of this section, no alteration shall be made in any valuation list in force at the date of the passing of this Act so far as that list relates to any hereditament in England or Wales which, on the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, is shown in the valuation list as a railway hereditament within the meaning of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, or as a transport hereditament within the meaning of that Act as applied by a scheme under section ninety-two of the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, or as a freight transport hereditament used wholly or partly for railway transport purposes or canal transport purposes and occupied by the British Transport Commission or one of the bodies mentioned in the Third Schedule to the Transport Act, 1947:

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall—

(a) affect any new list made under Part III of this Act; or

(b) prevent an alteration in a list in force at the date of the passing of this Act being made under and in accordance with the provisions of the said Part III by means of a proposal made by or served on a valuation officer where the ground of the proposal is that the hereditament ought to be but is not, or ought not to be but is, treated as a railway or canal hereditament under this Part of this Act, or that the value thereof has been affected since the first day of April, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, by the making of structural alterations or by the total or partial destruction of any building or other erection by fire or any other physical cause; or

(c) prejudice the operation of the next succeeding section. [4031]

(7) Where an alteration is made in the valuation list under subsection (4) of this section, the rating authority shall, where necessary, make the corresponding amendment in any rate made in respect of a period beginning on or after the said first day of April, and the amendment shall have effect as from the beginning of the said period. [4032]

General note.—This section is concerned with the commencement of this Part of the Act as regards railway or canal hereditaments and makes ancillary transitional provisions. It has its counterpart as regards electricity hereditaments in s. 92, post.

So far as they relate to railway or canal hereditaments.—This would seem to cover s. 85, ante (in part), and ss. 86 and 87, ante. Whether it extends also to other provisions is doubtful but of little, if any, practical significance as all provisions for which no other date is laid down by the Act came into operation on the passing of the Act.

90. Hereditaments shown as railway hereditaments, etc., but not in fact occupied by British Transport Commission.—(1) Where, on the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, the whole or any part of a hereditament which is shown in any valuation list in force at the said date as a railway hereditament within the meaning of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, or as a transport hereditament within the meaning of that Act as applied by a scheme under section ninety-two of the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, is in the occupation of some person other than the British Transport Commission, such amendments may be made of the valuation list (by way of proposal under Part III of this Act, of proposal under the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, or of provisional or supplemental list, according as may be appropriate) as are necessary to secure that that hereditament or, as the case may be, that part thereof, appears as a separate hereditament in the list, as if it had not been shown in the valuation list as being, or forming part of, a railway hereditament or a transport hereditament. [4033].

(2) For the purpose of the liability of any person (other than the British Transport Commission) to rates, an amendment made under this section shall, in relation to any rate (including any rate for a period which has already elapsed when the amendment is made), have effect as from the beginning of the quinquennial period under the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930 (or, as the case may be, under that Act as applied by the London Passenger Transport (Valuation for Rating) Scheme, 1935) current at the date of the passing of this Act or as from the date on which the hereditament ceased to be in the occupation of the British Transport Commission or, as the case may be, the relevant body specified in the Third Schedule to the Transport Act, 1947, whichever is the later date; and the amount underpaid shall be paid and may be recovered as if it were arrears of the rate. Electricity ; rating provisions

91. Dwelling-houses of electricity authorities and boards to remain rateable.—So much of this Act as provides that premises which are or form part of a hereditament occupied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board shall not be liable to be rated or to be included in any valuation list or in any rate shall not apply to premises used as a dwelling-house. Commencement of provisions as to electricity hereditaments and transitional provisions.—(1) The provisions of this Part of this Act, so far as they relate to hereditaments occupied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board, shall come into operation on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and forty-eight. [4036]

(2) If the vesting date for the purposes of the Electricity Act, 1947, is after the said first day of April, the like consequences shall ensue under this Part of this Act as respects hereditaments which, on the vesting date, are occupied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board and were, at any time on or after the said first day of April, occupied by a body to whom Part II of that Act applies as would have ensued if the occupation thereof by the said body had been occupation by the said Authority or Board. [4037]

(3) It shall be the duty of all assessment committees to cause to be made, on or as soon as may be after the said first day of April, or, if the said vesting date is subsequent to the said first day of April, on or as soon as may be after the said vesting date, all such alterations of the valuation lists as are necessary to secure that no hereditament in England or Wales occupied on the said vesting date by the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board, other than any hereditament appearing from the valuation list to be used as a dwelling-house, remains in the said lists, and any consequential alterations of totals of values, and the said alterations, when made, shall have effect as from the said first day of April :

Provided that every assessment committee shall, for the purposes of this subsection, assume—

(a) that all hereditaments shown in the valuation lists as in force on the said vesting date as occupied by a body to whom Part II of the Electricity Act, 1947, applies, other than a local authority or a composite company as defined in section seventeen of the said Act, were occupied on the said vesting date by the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board; and

(b) that of the hereditaments shown in the lists as in force on the said vesting date as occupied by any such body as aforesaid, being a local authority or such a composite company as aforesaid, such and such only as are specified in that behalf in notices in writing to be served on the committee by the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board are occupied on the said vesting date by the Authority or any such Board; and

(c) that no other hereditaments not shown in the lists as in force on the said vesting date as occupied by the said Authority or any such Board were on that date so occupied. [4038]

(4) The provisions of the last preceding subsection shall be without prejudice to the making or effect of any proposal made under the provisions of Part III of this Act relating to the alteration of valuation lists by means of proposals made by or served on valuation officers, but until the said provisions of the said Part III come into force it shall not, save as is provided in the last preceding subsection, be competent to make any alteration in the valuation lists in force in England and Wales at the date of the passing of this Act either on the ground that a hereditament contained therein ought to be omitted therefrom as being occupied by the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board, or on the ground that a hereditament which has been removed from the list under the last preceding subsection ought to be included in the list. [4039]

(5) Where an alteration is made in the valuation list under subsection (3) of this section, the rating authority shall, where necessary, make the corresponding amendment in any rate made in respect of a period beginning on or after the said first day of April, and the amendment shall have effect as from the beginning of the said period. [4040]

General note.—In relation to electricity hereditaments this section is the counterpart of s. 89, ante, as regards railway and canal hereditaments.

The provisions of this Part, etc.—This would appear to cover s. 85, ante (in part), and s. 91, ante. Whether or not it extends also to other provisions is doubtful, but of little, if any, practical significance as all provisions for which no other date is laid down by the Act came into operation on the passing of the Act (March 24, 1948).

Hereditament; rate.—For definitions, see s. 144 (1), post.

British Electricity Authority; Area Electricity Board.—See notes to s. 85, ante.

If the vesting date, etc.—The vesting date for the purposes of the Electricity Act, 1947 infra, was April 1, 1948 (Electricity (Vesting Date) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 217), title ELECTRICITY SUPPLY, ante). Sub-s. (2), supra, accordingly does not operate.

Electricity Act, 1947.—40 Halsbury's Statutes 409.

As to bodies to whom Part II of that Act applies, see s. 13 thereof (40 Halsbury's Statutes 427). For s. 17 of that Act, see 40 Halsbury's Statutes 436.

Cause to be made.—Cf. s. 106, post.

If the said vesting date, etc.—See the note headed "If the vesting date, etc.," supra.

Alteration.—For interpretation, see s. 144 (9), post.

Local authority.—This expression clearly has here, not the meaning assigned to it by s. 144 (1), post, but that given to it by s. 67 (1) of the Electricity Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 486), under which "local authority" means the council of a county borough, county district or metropolitan borough, and the Common Council of the City of London; and includes, in s. 7 of that Act (40 Halsbury's Statutes 422), the council of a county and, in any other provision of that Act, any joint board of local authorities having functions as authorised undertakers and also other functions. See also the same subsection for the meanings of "authorised undertakers" and "functions".

Composite company.—A composite company as defined in s. 17 of the Electricity Act, 1947 (supra) is a company specified in Part II of Sched. II to that Act (40 Halsbury's Statutes 497) being a company which, by virtue of any enactment, supplies gas, or gas or water, as well as electricity and which has not served a notice in accordance with the proviso to sub-s. (1) of that section.

The said vesting date.—See the note headed "If the vesting date, etc.", supra.

Writing.—See the notes to s. 36, ante.

No other hereditaments not shown.—I.e. no other hereditaments being hereditaments not shown.
Any proposal made, etc.—See ss. 40 et seq., ante, in conjunction with s. 72 (2), ante.

Payments by British Transport Commission for benefit of local authorities

93. Amount of payments by British Transport Commission.—(1) The payments which are, under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act, to be made year by year by the British Transport Commission for the benefit of local authorities shall be as follows, that is to say, the Commission—

(a) shall in each year make a payment for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales; and

(b) shall in each year make a payment for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland. [4041]

(2) The said payments for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales shall—

(a) in the case of the year 1948–49, be a payment of the standard amount, increased by six hundred and thirty thousand pounds;

(b) in the case of the years 1949–50 and 1950–51, be payments of the standard amount, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding section for changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales;

(c) in the case of subsequent years, be payments of the standard amount, adjusted, in accordance with the provisions of the two next succeeding sections, for such changes as aforesaid and for changes in the circumstances of the British Transport Commission. [4042]

(3) The said payments for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland shall—

(a) in the case of the year 1948–49, be payments of the standard amount;

(b) in the case of the years 1949–50, 1950–51, 1951–52 and 1952–53, be payments of the standard amount, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding section for changes in the average rates levied in Scotland;

(c) in the case of subsequent years, be payments of the standard amount adjusted, in accordance with the provisions of the two next succeeding sections, for such changes as aforesaid and for changes in the circumstances of the British Transport Commission. [4043]

(4) In this section and the two next succeeding sections, the expression "the standard amount" means, in relation to a payment for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales, the sum of one million eight hundred and ten thousand pounds, and, in relation to a payment for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland, such sum as is certified by the Secretary of State to be the estimated amount which would have been payable by way of rates in Scotland in respect of railway or canal lands and heritages for the year 1947–48 if the rateable value of such lands and heritages in that year had been based upon the cumulo yearly rent or value of railway undertakings specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1946. [4044]

General note.—This section, in conjunction with ss. 94 and 95, post, lays down the amount of the payments to be made by the British Transport Commission in lieu of rates. These sections have their counterpart, as regards payments by the British Electricity Authority in ss. 96 et seq., post. As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 89, ante.
The payments, etc.—See s. 85, ante.
Year; local authorities.—For meanings, see s. 144 (1), post.
Make a payment, etc.—As to how the payment is to be made and divided, see s. 100, post.
Years 1948–49, 1949–50 and 1950–51. I.e. the periods of twelve months beginning with April 1, 1948, April 1, 1949 and April 1, 1950, and ending on March 31, 1949, March 31, 1950 and March 31, 1951, respectively (s. 144 (1), (6), post).

94. Adjustments of British Transport Commission's payments for changes in the average rates.—(1) The adjustment which, under the last preceding section, is to be made for changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales, or, as the case may be, in Scotland, shall be the adjustment which results from the application of the subsequent provisions of this section. [4045]

(2) The aggregate gross charge to rates for England and Wales or, as the case may be, for Scotland, for the year preceding the year for which the payment by the British Transport Commission in question has to be made, as ascertained and certified by the Minister or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State, shall be multiplied by two hundred and forty and divided by the rateable value for England and Wales or, as the case may be, for Scotland, for the said preceding year, as so ascertained and certified. [4046]

(3) The results of the calculation directed to be made by subsection (2) of this section shall then be reduced or increased to the nearest whole number, by ignoring any fraction which is less than one-half and treating any other fraction as equivalent to one. [4047]

(4) The adjustment referred to in subsection (1) of this section is the application to the standard amount of the fraction of which the numerator is the result of the calculation directed to be made by subsection (2) of this section, reduced or increased to the nearest whole number, and the denominator is—

(a) in the case of a payment for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales, the number two hundred and fourteen (being the estimated result, to the nearest whole number, of multiplying the aggregate gross charge to rates for England and Wales for the year 1947–48 by two hundred and forty and dividing the result by the rateable value for England and Wales for that year);

(b) in the case of a payment for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland, by the number certified by the Secretary of State to be the estimated result, to the nearest whole number, of a similar calculation as respects Scotland. [4048]

General note.—The adjustments in the payments to be made by the British Transport Commission for changes in the average rates levied are calculated as follows:

The standard amount is multiplied by the following figure: The aggregate gross charge to rates for England and Wales or for Scotland for the previous year, multiplied by 240 and divided by the rateable value for England and Wales or for Scotland for the same year; one-half being treated as one for this purpose and any less fraction ignored; and divided by the figure produced by making a similar calculation for 1947–48 (214 for England and Wales and for Scotland a number to be certified by the Secretary of State for Scotland). The aggregate gross rate charge and rateable values are to be certified by the Minister and the Secretary of State for Scotland.

As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 89, ante.

Aggregate gross charge to rates.—For meaning, see s. 144 (5), post.

Year.—For definition, see s. 144 (1), post.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

Rateable value for England and Wales.—For meaning, see s. 144 (2), post.

The standard amount.—For definition, see s. 93 (4), ante.

Year 1947–48.—I.e. the period of twelve months beginning with April 1, 1947 and ending on March 31, 1948 (s. 144 (1), (6), post).

95. Adjustments for changes in the circumstances of British Transport Commission.—(1) The adjustment which, under the last but one preceding section, is to be made for changes in the circumstances of the British Transport Commission shall be such adjustment as may be prescribed by order of the Minister and the Secretary of State, acting jointly. [4049]

(2) Any order made under this section may be revoked or varied by a subsequent order made thereunder. [4050]

(3) Before any order is made under this section, a draft thereof shall be laid before each House of Parliament, and the order shall not be made until the draft has been approved by resolution of each House. [4051]

Commencement of section.—See the notes to s. 89, ante.

Prescribed by order.—Powers to make orders conferred by the present Act are exercisable by statutory instrument (s. 142 (2), post).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (s. 144 (1), post).

May be revoked or varied.—The express power of revocation conferred by sub-s. (2), supra, is included because s. 32 (3) of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (18 Halsbury's Statutes 1003), has no application to departmental orders.

Shall not be made until, etc.—That is to say, the " affirmative resolution procedure " is to apply. To this procedure ss. 4 to 7 of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 785 et seq.), are inapplicable. On approval of such orders being moved, each House of Parliament must either approve or reject them in toto; on such a motion there is no power to amend. See also the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act, 1948, s. 1 (1) (title STATUTES AND STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, post).

Payments by British Electricity Authority for benefit of local authorities

96. Amount of payments by British Electricity Authority.—(1) The payments which are, under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act, to be made year by year by the British Electricity Authority for the benefit of local authorities shall be as follows, that is to say, the Authority—

(a) shall in each year make a payment for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales; and

(b) shall in each year make a payment for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland with areas outside the North of Scotland District. [4052]

(2) The said payments shall—

(a) in the case of the year 1948–49, be payments of the standard amount;

(b) in the case of subsequent years, be payments of the standard amount adjusted, in accordance with the provisions of the two next succeeding sections, for changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales or, as the case may be, in Scotland outside the North of Scotland District, and for changes in the amount of electricity supplied. [4053]

(3) In this section and the two next succeeding sections, the expression " the standard amount " means, in relation to a payment for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales, the sum of eleven million two hundred and fifty thousand pounds, and, in relation to a payment for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland, such sum as is certified by the Secretary of State to be the estimated amount which would have been payable by way of rates in Scotland outside the North of Scotland District for the year 1947–48 in respect of the lands and heritages belonging to the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board which are by virtue of this Act not liable to be rated. [4054]

General note.—As regards the British Electricity Authority this section is the counterpart of s. 93, ante, relating to the British Transport Commission. As to commencement of this section, see the notes to s. 92, ante.

The payments, etc.—See s. 85, ante.

Year; local authorities.—For meanings, see s. 144 (1), post.

Make a payment, etc.—As to how the payment is to be made and divided, see s. 100, post; and as to contributions by Area Electricity Boards, see the Electricity Act, 1947, s. 41 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 464), as amended by s. 103, post.

Year 1948–49.—I.e. the period of twelve months beginning with April 1, 1948, and ending on March 31, 1949 (s. 144 (1), (6), post).

97. Adjustments of British Electricity Authority's payments for changes in the average rates.—(1) The adjustment which, under the last preceding section, is to be made for changes in the average rates levied in England and Wales shall be the same adjustment as that which falls to be made for such changes under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act in arriving at the payments to be made by the British Transport Commission for the benefit of local authorities in England and Wales and the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to that adjustment shall, with the necessary adaptations, have effect accordingly, and in particular as if references therein to the British Transport Commission were references to the British Electricity

Authority, and references to the standard amount were references to the standard amount as defined by the last preceding section. [4055]

(2) The adjustment which, under the last preceding section, is to be made for changes in the average rates levied in Scotland outside the North of Scotland District shall, subject to the provisions of this subsection, be the same adjustment as that which falls to be made for changes in the average rates levied in Scotland under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act in arriving at the payments to be made by the British Transport Commission for the benefit of local authorities in Scotland, and the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to that adjustment shall, with the necessary adaptations, have effect accordingly :

Provided that—

(a) references therein to the British Transport Commission shall be construed as references to the British Electricity Authority ;

(b) references to the standard amount shall be construed as references to the standard amount as defined by the last preceding section ;

(c) references to Scotland shall be construed as references to so much of Scotland as is not within the North of Scotland District ; and

(d) for the number certified under paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of section ninety-four of this Act there shall be substituted such number as is certified by the Secretary of State to be the estimated result, to the nearest whole number, of multiplying the aggregate gross charge to rates for the year 1947–48 for so much of Scotland as is outside the North of Scotland District by two hundred and forty and then dividing it by the rateable value for that year for so much of Scotland as is outside the said District. [4056]

General note.—The adjustment in the amount payable by the British Electricity Authority for the benefit of local authorities for changes in the average rates levied is the same as that made for such changes in the case of the British Transport Commission. The provisions of s. 94, ante, are applied, so far as England and Wales is concerned, with the substitution of the British Electricity Authority for the British Transport Commission and the standard amounts under s. 96 for those under s. 93, ante.

As to commencement of the section, see the notes to s. 92, ante.

Shall be the same adjustment, etc. ; the provisions . . . relating to that adjustment.—See s. 94, ante.

98. Adjustments for changes in amount of electricity supplied.—(1) The adjustment which, under the last but one preceding section, is to be made for changes in the amount of electricity supplied shall be the adjustment which results from the application of the subsequent provisions of this section. [4057]

(2) The Minister of Fuel and Power shall ascertain and certify the total number of units of electricity supplied to consumers in the calendar year nineteen hundred and forty-seven by authorised undertakers as defined in section thirteen of the Electricity Act, 1947, other than undertakers with areas in the North of Scotland District. [4058]

(3) The Minister of Fuel and Power shall then ascertain and certify the amount by which the total number of units of electricity supplied to consumers in the last calendar year ending before the beginning of the year for which the payment by the British Electricity Authority is to be made, either by that Authority or by an Area Electricity Board or by any authorised undertakers as defined in the said section thirteen other than undertakers with areas in the North of Scotland District, exceeds or falls short of the number ascertained under subsection (2) of this section. [4059]

(4) The adjustment referred to in subsection (1) of this section is the application to the standard amount (as adjusted under the last preceding section) of the fraction of which—

(a) the numerator is the number ascertained and certified under subsection (2) of this section increased by one-fifth of the excess or, as the case may be, decreased by one-fifth of the deficiency, ascertained and certified under subsection (3) of this section ; and

(b) the denominator is the number ascertained and certified under the said subsection (2). [4060]

(5) References in this section to units of electricity supplied to consumers shall be construed as references to—

(a) all the units of electricity supplied otherwise than to the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board, the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board or any authorised undertakers as defined in section thirteen of the Electricity Act, 1947 ; plus

(b) forty-five per cent. of the units of electricity (if any) supplied to the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board or to any authorised undertakers (as defined in the said section thirteen) with areas in the North of Scotland District ; minus

(c) forty-five per cent. of the units of electricity (if any) received from the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board or from any authorised undertakers (as defined in the said section thirteen) with areas in the North of Scotland District. [4061]

General note.—Under this section the Minister of Fuel and Power is to certify : (a) The number of units of electricity supplied by authorised undertakers outside the North of Scotland District to consumers in 1947 ; (b) the amount by which the number of units of electricity supplied by the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board or any authorised undertakers outside the North of Scotland District to consumers in the calendar year preceding the year exceeds or falls short of the number ascertained under (a). Units of electricity supplied to consumers means all units supplied otherwise than to the British Electricity Authority, an Area Electricity Board, the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board or any authorised undertakers, plus 45 per cent. of the units supplied to the Hydro-Electric Board or authorised undertakers in the North of Scotland District, minus 45 per cent. of the units received from that Board and those undertakers.

The standard amount is adjusted by multiplying it by the number ascertained under (a), supra, increased or reduced by one-fifth of the number ascertained under (b), supra, and dividing it by the number ascertained under (a).

As to commencement of this section, see s. 92, ante.

(2) The sums so paid to the Minister for any year shall, subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to liabilities of the Railway Assessment Authority and the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority, be distributed by him, at such times as he may determine, in the manner following, that is to say—

(a) the sums shall first be allocated among the rating authorities in England and Wales in proportion to the rateable values for their respective areas for that year ;

(b) in the case of the council of a county borough, the amount so allocated to that council shall be paid to that council;

(c) in the case of any other rating authority, the amount so allocated to that authority shall be paid as to one-third thereof to that authority and as to two-thirds thereof to the council of the county of which the area of that authority forms part. [4064]

(3) The sums so paid to the Secretary of State for any year shall be distributed by him according to their respective rateable valuations among the rating authorities—

(a) throughout Scotland;

(b) in that part of Scotland which is not included in the North of Scotland District; and

(c) in the said District, according as the said sums represent sums paid to the Secretary of State by the British Transport Commission, the British Electricity Authority and the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board. [4065]

General note.—In the case of authorities in England and Wales, sums payable for the benefit of local authorities are to be paid to the Minister of Health. Subject to provision for the liabilities of the Railway Assessment Authority and Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority, they are to be distributed at times determined by the Minister, being allocated among rating authorities in proportion to their rateable values for the year; the full amount will be paid to county borough councils and, in the case of other rating areas, one-third will go to the rating authority and two-thirds to the county council.

102. Treatment of payments for benefit of local authorities.—(1) Any payments made under this Part of this Act by the British Transport Commission, the British Electricity Authority or the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board shall, if and so far as it is so prescribed, be taken into account for any purposes of this or any other Act as if they were paid on account of rates, and in computing the product of a penny rate, but, save as aforesaid, shall not be deemed to be payments on account of rates. [4067]

(2) Where, under any statutory provision other than this Act, any amount falls to be calculated by reference to the rateable value for any area, the Minister or, as respects Scotland, the Secretary of State, may by regulations provide that, for the purposes of that statutory provision, the rateable value for the area of any local authority who receive any payment from the sums paid for the benefit of local authorities under this Part of this Act shall be deemed to be increased by an amount calculated, by reference to the payments so made to that authority, in such manner as may be prescribed by the regulations. [4068]

General note.—Payments made for the benefit of local authorities under this Part of the present Act are not deemed to be payments on account of rates but, so far as prescribed, are to be taken into account for the purposes of this Act and other Acts as if paid on account of rates, and in computing the product of a penny rate. Pursuant to sub-s. (1), supra, and s. 110, post, the Minister of Health has made the Transport and Electricity Authorities' Payments (Rate Product) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2194), which came into operation on September 30, 1948. Stabilisation of payments by British Transport Commission to Railway Freight Rebates Fund.—(1) The sums to be paid by the British Transport Commission and the bodies mentioned in Part I of the Third Schedule to the Transport Act, 1947, to the Railway Freight Rebates Fund under paragraph 2 of Part I of the Eleventh Schedule to the Local Government Act, 1929, shall, in the case of the year ending with the thirtieth day of September, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, be four million four hundred and twenty-five thousand pounds, and, in the case of each subsequent year, be three million four hundred and seventy-five thousand pounds, and references to the estimated rate relief and the actual rate relief in any year shall, in relation to those years, be construed accordingly. [4070]

(2) If, in the first of the said years, the amounts paid before the passing of this Act under the said paragraph 2 exceed or fall short of the amounts which would have been paid if this section had been in force at the beginning of that year, a sum equal to the difference shall on the passing of this Act be paid by way of adjustment out of the Fund to the British Transport Commission or by the British Transport Commission to the Fund, as the case may require. [4071]

(3) Save as provided in the preceding provisions of this section, no further payments shall be made after the passing of this Act under the said paragraph 2 either in respect of the aforesaid years or in respect of any earlier year. [4072]

(4) Nothing in this section affects the power conferred on the Minister of Transport by section eighty-seven of the Transport Act, 1947, as respects the termination of the system of rebates provided for by the Railway Freight Rebates Enactments, 1929 to 1943, and as respects the winding up of the Railway Freight Rebates Fund. [4073]

General note.—The payments to be made by the British Transport Commission and railway companies, etc., to the Railway Freight Rebate Fund under the Local Government Act, 1929, Sched. XI, Part I, para. 2 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 1001), are to be £4,425,000 in the year ending September 30, 1948, and £3,475,000 in subsequent years. Any difference between the first amount and any amount actually paid before the passing of this Act must be adjusted by payment between the British Transport Commission and the Fund. No other payments even in respect of any earlier years are to be made to the Fund under this provision. The Minister of Transport's power to determine the system of railway freight rebate and wind up the Fund is unaffected.

The collective title was conferred by s. 6 (3) of the Act of 1943 (36 Halsbury's Statutes 266).

105. Temporary grants by county councils to county district councils, parish councils, etc., in certain cases.—(1) The council of each county in England and Wales shall estimate in relation to each county district within the county the amount in the pound of the rate required to be levied in the district for the year 1947–48 in order to meet the expenditure of the council of that district for that year, being expenditure falling to be met out of rates levied in the district but not including expenditure incurred in meeting a precept (other than a precept from a joint authority of which the council of the district is a member) or in meeting a warrant issued under section twenty-three of the Metropolitan Police Act, 1829. [4074]

(2) The council of the county shall then estimate the amount in the pound of the rate which would have been required to be levied in the district for the said year for the said purposes in the following circumstances, that is to say, if—

(a) the product of a rate of one penny in the pound for that district for that year had been diminished by a sum ascertained as follows, that is to say, by dividing by two hundred and forty an amount equal to so much of the difference between the rateable value of the hereditaments in the district on the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, and the rateable value for the district for the year 1948–49 as is due to the coming into effect of the provisions of this Part of this Act relating to railway or canal hereditaments and hereditaments occupied by the British Electricity Authority or an Area Electricity Board; and

(b) the expenditure of the council of the district had been diminished by an amount equal to any sum paid to the council of the district for the benefit of that council for the year 1948–49 under the preceding provisions of this Part of this Act. [4075]

(3) If in the case of any county district the amount estimated under subsection (2) of this section exceeds the amount estimated under subsection (1) thereof by more than twopence, the council of the county shall make to the council of that district grants for the year 1948–49 and the nine following years calculated in accordance with the provisions of this section. [4076]

(4) The amount of the grants to be made by the council of the county shall be as follows, that is to say—

(a) for the year 1948–49, the grant shall be a sum equal to the product of a rate of one penny in the pound for the district, as estimated for the purposes of subsection (2) of this section, multiplied by the number of pence in the amount by which the amount of the excess mentioned in subsection (3) of this section exceeds twopence;

(b) for the nine following years, the grants shall be respectively nine-tenths, four-fifths, seven-tenths, three-fifths, one-half, two-fifths, three-tenths, one-fifth and one-tenth of the grant for the year 1948–49. [4077]

(5) Any dispute as to whether any, and if so what, grant is to be made under this section to the council of a county district shall be determined by the Minister. [4078]

(6) The preceding provisions of this section shall apply in relation to—

(a) any rural parish in England or Wales having a separate parish council; and

(b) any group of rural parishes in England or Wales under a common parish council; and

(c) any rural parish in England or Wales without a separate parish council, not being a parish forming part of such a group or a parish coterminous with a rural district, as it applies in relation to a county district, subject, however, to any necessary modifications, and in particular, in the case of such a parish as is mentioned in paragraph (c) of this subsection, to the modification that references to the council of the district shall be construed as references to the parish meeting or the representative body of the parish, as the context may require. [4079]

(7) Any payment under this section may, if the councils concerned so agree, be effected in whole or in part by making the appropriate deduction from the amount due under a precept. [4080]

(8) This section shall apply to the council of a county in Scotland in like manner as it applies to the council of a county in England and Wales subject to the following modifications:—

(a) for any reference to a county district there shall be substituted a reference to a small burgh and to the landward area of a county and any reference to the council of such a district shall in relation to the landward area be construed as a reference to the county council;

(b) the estimates required to be made under subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall in the case of a burgh or of the counties combined for the purposes mentioned in subsection (1) of section one hundred and eighteen of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1947, be made after consultation with the council of the burgh or of the separate county;

(c) for any reference to expenditure incurred in meeting a precept there shall be substituted a reference to expenditure on purposes for which small burghs are included in a county; for any reference to an amount due under a precept there shall be substituted a reference to a sum payable under a requisition issued under section two hundred and fourteen of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1947; and for the word "twopence" there shall be substituted the words "one and three-fifths pence";

(d) any reference to the making of grants to a council shall be construed in the case of the landward area of a county as a reference to the setting aside of a sum for behoof of the landward area;

(e) any reference to the landward area of a county shall be construed in the case of the aforesaid combined counties as a reference to the landward area of each of the separate counties, and the sums required to be set aside for behoof of the landward area of those separate counties shall be paid by the councils of the combined counties to the councils of the separate counties;

(f) the expenditure incurred by the council of a county in making grants under this section shall be deemed to be expenditure on functions for which small burghs are included in the county;

(g) any reference to an Area Electricity Board shall be construed as including a reference to the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board;

(h) for any reference to the Minister there shall be substituted a reference to the Secretary of State. [4081]

General note.—Each county council in England and Wales is to estimate the rate in the pound required to be levied in each county district for 1947–48 to meet the district council's expenditure falling to be met out of rates, excluding expenditure in meeting precepts (except from a joint authority of which the district council is a member) or in meeting a warrant under the Metropolitan Police Act, 1829, s. 23 (12 Halsbury's Statutes 751). It then estimates what that rate poundage would have been in that year if (a) the product of a penny rate had been diminished by the difference between the rateable value of the district on March 31, 1948, and for the year 1948–49 attributable to the derating of railway or canal and electricity hereditaments, divided by 240; (b) the council's expenditure had been diminished by any sum paid to it out of payments for the benefit of local authorities. If the second estimate exceeds the first by more than 2*d.* the county council must make grants to the district council for 1948–49 and the nine following years.

The grant will be, in 1948–49, the product of a penny rate multiplied by the number of pence by which this excess exceeds 2*d.*; and in following years that amount reduced progressively by one-tenth in each year. Disputes as to the grants are determined by the Minister. Payments may be made by deduction from amounts due under precept.

These provisions are applied to parish councils for rural parishes, common parish councils for groups of such parishes and parish meetings or the representative bodies of parishes for rural parishes not having a separate or common parish council.

(a) direct that the provisions of this Act relating to railway or canal hereditaments shall apply also to other hereditaments occupied wholly or mainly for purposes of the British Transport Commission, or shall not apply to hereditaments to which they would apply but for the provisions of the order;

(e) for prescribing anything which is to be prescribed. [4088]

PART VII

MISCELLANEOUS

120. Provisions as to precepts.—(1) Subsections (2) to (4) of section nine of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relate to precepts by county councils) shall, with the modifications specified in subsection (2) of this section, extend to London. [4089]

(2) The said modifications are as follows, that is to say—

(a) in subsection (2), for the words "nineteen hundred and twenty-nine", there shall be substituted the words "nineteen hundred and forty-eight"; and

(b) in sub-paragraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subsection (2), for the references to the general rate there shall, in relation to the City of London, be substituted references to the poor rate; and

(c) sub-paragraph (ii) of the said paragraph (b) (which contains transitional provisions inapplicable in the case of London) shall be deemed to be omitted; and

(d) the reference in subsection (3) of that section to the commencement of that Act shall be construed as a reference to the date of the passing of this Act; and

(e) the reference in paragraph (a) of subsection (4) to section eleven of that Act shall be construed as a reference to sections three and four of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869. [4090]

(3) It is hereby declared that it is not necessary for a county council, before issuing a precept to a rating authority under section one hundred and eighty-three of the Local Government Act, 1933, or section one hundred and seventeen of the London Government Act, 1939, to make any county rate, and the County Rates Act, 1852, is hereby repealed. [4091]

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect the manner in which sums required for the purposes of the Metropolitan Police are raised. [4092]

General note.—This section applies broadly the precepting provisions applicable in the provinces under s. 9 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 627). That section is not, however, applied in full, for sub-s. (1), which required precepts to be sent in future to rating authorities, and sub-s. (5), which required the authority issuing the precept to give reasonable information to rating authorities for the purpose of preparing their demand notes, are omitted. The three intervening subsections are amended to a small extent as found necessary. The county rate is now abolished.

In the absence of any provision to the contrary, this section and all other sections in this Part of the Act came into operation on the passing of the Act on March 24, 1948.

121. Provisions as to precepts for expenses of Metropolitan Police.—(1) No warrant under section twenty-three of the Metropolitan Police Act, 1829, shall be issued by the Commissioner of Police in respect of any period beginning on or after the first day of April, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, but, for the purpose of providing money for meeting such expenses as may be authorised by or under any enactment or by the Secretary of State to be paid out of the Metropolitan Police Fund, being expenses for which provision is not otherwise made, the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District, may with the consent of the Secretary of State, issue precepts to rating authorities in accordance with the subsequent provisions of this section. [4093]

(2) Except in relation to the expenses mentioned in the next succeeding subsection, precepts issued under this section shall be issued to all rating authorities with areas falling wholly or partly within the Metropolitan Police District, but where the area of a rating authority is only partly within that District, the precepts shall be so issued as to secure that the rate is levied only on that part of the area which is within that District. [4094]

(3) In relation to expenses of and incidental to the metropolitan police courts and the probation system within the metropolitan police court area respectively, precepts issued under this section shall be issued to all rating authorities with areas falling wholly or partly within the metropolitan police court area :

Provided that where only part of the area of a rating authority is within the metropolitan police court area, the precepts shall, except in any case where the Minister, on the application of the rating authority, by order directs that this proviso shall not apply, be so issued as to secure that the rate is levied only on that part. [4095]

(4) Subsections (2), (4) and (5) of section nine of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relate to precepts by county councils), shall, both within and outside London, apply in relation to any such precept, but with the following modifications, that is to say,—

(a) for any reference to councils of counties there shall be substituted a reference to the Receiver ; and

(b) in subsection (2), for the words " twenty-nine " there shall be substituted the words " forty-eight " ; and

(c) sub-paragraph (ii) of paragraph (b) of the said subsection (2) shall be deemed to be omitted ; and

(d) the reference in paragraph (a) of subsection (4) to section eleven of that Act shall, in relation to rating authorities with areas in London, be construed as a reference to sections three and four of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869. [4096]

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding provisions of this section, one precept may be issued in respect of all the expenses mentioned in subsection (1) of this section, including as separate items contributions to each of the classes of expenses mentioned in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, and the preceding provisions of this section and the provisions of section nine of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, shall, with the necessary adaptations, have effect accordingly. [4097]

(6) The receipts of and incidental to the metropolitan police courts and the probation system within the metropolitan police court area respectively shall enure for the benefit of the rating authorities mentioned in subsection (3) of this section to the exclusion of those not so mentioned, and the precepts to be issued under this section shall be issued accordingly. [4098]

(7) Where the receipts of and incidental to the metropolitan police courts or the probation system within the metropolitan police court area respectively exceed the expenses of those courts or, as the case may be, of that system, effect may, notwithstanding subsection (2) of section nine of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, be given to the provisions of the last preceding subsection by means of the issue of a precept under this section requiring a rate to be levied in the areas mentioned in the said subsection (3) or in a part of such an area of a lower amount in the pound than in the areas not so mentioned, or as the case may be, than in the other parts of that area. [4099]

(8) In respect of the year 1948–49, this section shall have effect as if in subsection (2) thereof the words " Except in relation to the expenses mentioned in the next succeeding subsection ", subsection (3) thereof and the three last preceding subsections were omitted. [4100]

(9) In this section the expression " metropolitan police court area " means the area consisting of the police court divisions for the time being constituted under the Metropolitan Police Courts Acts, 1839 and 1840. [4101]

General note.—Instead of the Commissioner of Police issuing a warrant, money for expenses payable out of the Metropolitan Police Fund is to be provided by means of precepts issued by the receiver for the Metropolitan Police District with the consent of the Home Secretary to the rating authorities. Precepts will be issued to all rating authorities in areas wholly or partly within the Metropolitan Police District or, in the case of expenses incidental to the metropolitan police courts and the probation system within the metropolitan police court area, to rating authorities with areas wholly or partly in that area. Where the rating area is only partly within the district or area, the precept will require the rate to be levied only within the part of its area within the said district or area.

122. Amendment of Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 11.—Section eleven of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relates to the rating of and the collection of rates by owners) shall have effect and shall be deemed always to have had effect as if it provided that the allowance to be made to owners under subsection (1) thereof shall be at the rate of ten per cent. of the amount payable, or such greater percentage not exceeding fifteen per cent. of that amount as the rating authority may by resolution of general application determine; and subsection (1) of section three of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928 (which provides temporarily for such an increase in the said allowance) shall cease to have effect. [4102]

General note.—The provision in s. 3 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1928 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 710), that the allowance which a rating authority in the provinces may make to an owner compulsorily rated under s. 11 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 632), shall be at the rate of 10 per cent. or a greater percentage not exceeding 15 per cent. of the rates payable as determined by any resolution of general application of the rating authority is re-enacted and made permanent. The above provision in the Act of 1928 applied originally only to the first new valuation lists under the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (14 Halsbury's Statutes 617), but was continued for the second lists, and was to have continued for the third lists under the Rating and Valuation Act, 1932, s. 1 (2) (25 Halsbury's Statutes 537) and the Rating and Valuation Act, 1937, s. 1 (2) (30 Halsbury's Statutes 735).

"garden" includes a park;

"railway" includes a light railway and a tramway authorised to be constructed by any special Act, other than a light railway or tramway laid wholly or mainly along a public highway and used wholly or mainly for the carriage of passengers;

"inland waterway" includes any such waterway, whether natural or artificial;

"statutory provision" means a provision, whether of a general or special nature, contained in, or in any document made or issued under, any Act, whether of a general or special nature. [4115]

(2) Any reference in this Act to the rateable value for an area for a year shall be construed as a reference to the total of rateable values shown on the first day of that year in the valuation list in force on that day for that area, or, where there is more than one rating area in that area, to the aggregate of the totals of rateable values shown as aforesaid in the valuation lists for all the rating areas within the area:

Provided that—

(a) where any alteration required to be made under Part V of this Act in the said lists is made after the date as from which, under the said Part V, it has effect, account shall be taken thereof for the purposes of this subsection as if it had been made in the lists as in force on that date:

(b) as respects any rating area in London, the references in this subsection to the first day of the year shall, in relation to the first year in which the first new valuation list made under Part III of this Act is in force, and previous years, be construed as references to the sixth day of April in that year. Provided that—

(a) in the case of an area in London, the product of a penny rate for the area shall, as respects years as respects which the said subsection (2) does not extend to London, be taken to be the product of a penny rate for the area as ascertained or estimated by the district auditor in accordance with the principles for the time being applicable outside London to the ascertainment and estimation of the product of a penny rate for the purposes of the said section nine;

(b) nothing in this subsection detracts from the provisions of this Act enabling the Minister to make regulations as respects the way in which payments for the benefit of local authorities under Part V of this Act are to be treated. [4118]

(5) Any reference in this Act to the aggregate gross charge to rates for any year for any area shall be construed as a reference to the total of the amounts required to be paid by virtue of all the rates made by all the authorities in the area for the year or any part thereof, calculated as if, in the case of each hereditament, the amount payable were that ascertained by applying the poundage of the rate to the rateable value of the hereditament, without any allowance or deduction. [4119]

(6) In this Act, the expression 1947–48 means the year ending on the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, and any corresponding expression in which two years are similarly mentioned means the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the second mentioned of those two years. [4120]

(7) In this Act, the expression "the North of Scotland District" means, as respects any period up to and including the vesting date within the meaning of the Electricity Act, 1947, the North of Scotland District as existing

(9) Any reference in this Act to the alteration of a valuation list or draft valuation list includes a reference to the insertion in the list or draft list, or the omission from the list or draft list, of any hereditament, and references to the alteration of the valuation list with respect to a hereditament shall be construed accordingly. [4123]

(10) Except so far as the context otherwise requires, any reference in this Act to any other enactment shall be construed as a reference to that enactment as amended, extended or applied by or under any other enactment, including this Act. [4124]

Commencement of section.—See the General note to s. 140, ante.

(a) any rate which is assessed under any commission of sewers, or in respect of any drainage, wall, embankment or other work for the benefit of the land; or Provided that nothing contained in the foregoing definition of the expression 'rate' shall affect the construction of the expression 'usual tenant's rates' in this Act, and that expression shall be construed as if this Act had not been passed."

"'Owner' means any person for the time being receiving the rack-rent of the lands or premises in connection with which the word is used, whether on his own account or as agent or trustee for any other person, or who would so receive that rent if the lands or premises were let at a rack-rent."

(2) These Rules shall not apply to any precept issued by the London County Council.

(3) In these Rules, " equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound." means in relation to any sum and any area the poundage of the rate which would be levied on that area under precept of the County Council if that sum formed the subject of a separate precept.

4.—(1) There shall be included in every such precept a statement in the form set out in the Schedule hereto or in a form substantially to the like effect, showing, in the manner for which the form provides,

RATING AND VALUATION (FORMS OF DEMAND NOTE) RULES, 1948

March 30, 1948

The Minister of Health, after consultation with such local authorities and associations of local authorities as appeared to him to be desirable, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 58 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf hereby makes the following Rules :—

1. The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these Rules as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4145]

2.—(1) These Rules may be cited as the Rating and Valuation (Forms of Demand Note) Rules, 1948, and shall come into operation on the first day of April, 1948.

(2) In these Rules,—

"demand note" does not include a demand note issued in respect of any rating period beginning before the first day of April, 1948 ;

"the Act" means the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 ;

"equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound" means in relation to any sum the poundage of the rate which it would be necessary to levy to produce that sum and for this purpose the product of a rate of a penny in the pound shall be a sum estimated in the manner prescribed by Rule 6 of the Rating and Valuation Act (Product of Rates and Precepts) Rules, 1938. [4146]

3.—(1) Every demand note for a general rate made by a rating authority outside London shall incorporate form A, form B or form C in the Schedule hereto, as the case may be, or a form substantially to the like effect, modified, where necessary, to meet the case of a rate made payable in instalments.

(2) Every demand note for a special rate shall incorporate form D in the Schedule hereto, or a form substantially to the like effect, modified, where necessary, to meet the case of a rate made payable in instalments.

(3) Subject to the provisions of Rule 4 the rating authority shall in preparing any demand note enter in the several columns particulars in accordance with the headings thereto. [4147]

4.—(1) As regards hereditaments in respect of which an allowance may be claimed under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) or under subsection (2) of section 11 of the Act the rating authority,—

(a) in any case where the amount due from an owner in respect of a group of two or more hereditaments is shown as one total in the rate book, shall, in lieu of entering the particulars as specified in form A, form B, form C, or form D (as the case may be) in the columns appearing upon the demand note, enter those particulars in a schedule in respect of each such group to be attached to the demand note and shall enter on the demand note a reference to such schedule and the total amount of rates shown by the schedule to be due; and

(b) in any other case shall, in preparing the demand note, insert on the form prescribed by Rule 3 information with respect to the allowance which may be claimed.

(2) The schedule referred to in paragraph (1) (a) of this Rule shall embody such one of the forms of statement J, K, or L, prescribed in the Rate Accounts (Rural District Councils) Order, 1926, and the Rate Accounts (Borough and Urban District Councils) Order, 1926, as may be appropriate.

(3) The rating authority may, if they see fit, make use of a schedule in the manner provided by paragraph (1) of this Rule in any case where a person undertakes to pay the rates in respect of two or more hereditaments but is not entitled to claim any allowance referred to in the said paragraph. [4148]

5. A demand note or the schedule attached thereto in accordance with the provisions of Rule 4, as the case may be, shall contain such a brief description of the hereditament or hereditaments to which it relates as may be reasonably necessary for the purposes of identification. [4149]

6. A demand note shall also include,—

(i) information with regard to the place and mode of payment; and

(ii) in a rating area in which a resolution under section 8 of the Act (as to discount for prompt payment) is in force, information as to the effect of the resolution (including the date after which payment must be made in full). [4150]

7. A rating authority may include in a demand note for rates a demand for any water rate, rent or charge, or other rate, rent or charge payable to them, and may combine in one demand note demands for a general rate and for a special rate, provided that such combined demand note shall be so framed as to include all the information which by the Act and these Rules would be required to be given to ratepayers if separate demand notes were issued. [4151]

8. There shall be included in every demand note a statement in the form set out in the Schedule hereto appropriate to that demand note, or in a form substantially to the like effect, showing, in the manner for which that form provides—

(1) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of the gross estimated expenditure less any income specifically applicable thereto, in respect of—

(a) each service or group of services for which a separate fund account is kept by the rating authority,

(b) each of the services separately set out in a precept received from any authority,

(c) each of the services specified in the form which is not included under the preceding categories (a) and (b), and in respect of which expenditure is to be incurred, and

(iii) the sums receivable by the rating authority under section 9 of the Local Government Act, 1948. [4152]

9. For the purposes of the last preceding Rule the following provisions shall have effect :—

(1) The expression " separate fund account " includes—

(a) in relation to expenses chargeable on part only of a rating area, the separate account or accounts of such expenses,

(b) in relation to any service for which by law separate accounts are required to be kept, the separate revenue account kept therefor.

(2) In calculating the amount to be shown for the purposes of any service or group of services, there shall be included any sums required for repayment of, or for interest on, moneys borrowed for that service or group of services.

(3) Where the aggregate amount in the pound which would otherwise have been levied by the rating authority has been varied in order to give effect to any differential rating requirements to which effect has to be given by the rating authority, a note shall be made on the statement showing the extent of, and reason for, such variation. [4153]

10. The Rating and Valuation (Forms of Demand Note) Rules, 1930, except as regards demand notes for any rate in respect of any rating period beginning before the first day of April, 1948, are hereby revoked. [4154]

The Rules prescribe a new form of demand note to be used by rating authorities outside London. It is designed to meet alterations in relation to local government finance and the law of Rating made by the Local Government Act, 1948.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL FORM OF PRECEPT RULES, 1948

March 30, 1948

Whereas by subsection (2) of section 9 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relates to precepts by county councils) as extended, with modifications, to London by section 120 of the Local Government Act, 1948, provision is made with respect to precepts to be issued by the London County Council in respect of any period beginning on or after the first day of April, 1948 :

Now therefore the Minister of Health, after consultation with such local authorities and associations of local authorities as appeared to him to be desirable, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 58 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Rules :—

1.—(1) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these Rules as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(2) In these Rules—

" equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound " means in relation to any sum and any area the poundage of the rate which would be levied on that area under precept of the County Council if that sum formed the subject of a separate precept ;

" County Council " means the London County Council.

(3) These Rules may be cited as the London County Council Form of Precept Rules, 1948, and shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1948. [4156]

2. Every precept issued by the County Council in respect of any period beginning on or after the first day of April, 1948, shall be in the form set out in the Schedule hereto or in a form substantially to the like effect. [4157],

3. Every precept issued by the County Council in accordance with the foregoing Rules shall show :—

(i) the rate in the pound which the County Council require the rating authority to levy as part of the general rate ;

(ii) the rate in the pound which the County Council require the rating authority to levy as an additional item of the general rate in respect of each part of the rating area on which any expenses are chargeable separately, indicating the part so charged, and the purpose of the charge. [4158]

4.—(1) There shall be included in every such precept a statement in the form set out in the Schedule hereto, or in a form substantially to the like effect, showing, in the manner for which the form provides,

(a) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of the gross estimated expenditure less any income specifically applicable thereto, in respect of each service specified in the form and in respect of such other of their principal services, if any, as the County Council think fit ;

(b) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of any Exchequer Equalisation and Exchequer Transitional Grants receivable by the County Council under the Local Government Act, 1948 ;

(c) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of the sums receivable by the County Council under Part V of the Local Government Act, 1948 ; and distinguishing by an asterisk, in the manner indicated in the form, each such service towards the cost of which a grant payable to the County Council by any Government Department is specifically applicable.

(2) In calculating the amount to be shown for the purposes of any service or group of services, there shall be included any sums required for repayment of, or for interest on, moneys borrowed for that service or group of services. [4159]

5. Except as regards any precept issued in respect of any period ending on or before the 31st day of March, 1948, the London County Council Precept Order, 1930, is hereby revoked. [4160]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Rules, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

The Rules prescribe a new form of precept to be used by the London County Council. It is designed to meet alterations made in relation to local government finance and the law of Rating by the Local Government Act, 1948.

FORM OF DEMAND NOTE (LONDON) RULES, 1948

March 30, 1948

The Minister of Health, after consultation with such local authorities and associations of local authorities as appeared to him to be desirable, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 58 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, as applied to London by the Second Schedule to the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Rules :—

1. These Rules may be cited as the Form of Demand Note (London) Rules, 1948, and shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1948. [4162]

2.—(1) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these Rules as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(2) In these Rules—

" County Council " means the London County Council ;

" demand note " does not include a demand note issued in respect of any rating period beginning before the first day of April, 1948 ;

" equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound " means in relation to any sum the poundage of the rate which it would be necessary to levy to produce that sum and for this purpose the product of a rate of a penny in the pound shall be the product of a penny rate as estimated for the purpose of subsection (2) of section 9 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, as extended to London by section 120 of the Local Government Act, 1948. [4163]

3. Every demand note for a general rate made by a rating authority in London shall incorporate the form A set out in the Schedule hereto, or a form substantially to the like effect, modified, where necessary, to meet the case of a rate made payable in instalments and, subject to the provisions of Rule 4, the rating authority shall enter thereon the specified particulars and information with regard to the place and mode of payment. [4164]

4.—(1) As regards hereditaments in respect of which an allowance may be claimed under section 3 or section 4 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, the rating authority—

(a) in any case where the amount due from an owner in respect of a group of two or more hereditaments is shown as one total in the rate book, shall, in lieu of entering the particulars numbered (i), (ii) and (iii) in form A on the demand note, enter those particulars in a schedule in respect of each such group to be attached to the demand note and shall enter on the demand note a reference to such schedule and the total amount of rates shown by the schedule to be due, and

(b) in any other case shall, in preparing the demand note, insert on the form prescribed by Rule 3 information with respect to the allowance which may be claimed.

(2) The schedule referred to in paragraph (1) (a) of this Rule shall embody the form C set out in the Schedule hereto, or a form substantially to the like effect.

(3) The rating authority may, if they see fit, make use of a schedule in the manner provided by paragraph (1) of this Rule in any case where a person undertakes to pay the rates in respect of two or more hereditaments but is not entitled to claim any allowance referred to in the said paragraph. [4165]

5. There shall be included in every demand note a statement in the form B set out in the Schedule hereto, or in a form substantially to the like effect, showing, in relation to expenditure and income chargeable upon or attributable to the rating area to which the demand note relates, in the manner for which the form provides—

(1) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of the gross estimated expenditure less any income specifically applicable thereto, in respect of—

(a) each service or group of services for which a separate fund account is kept by the rating authority ;

(b) each of the services separately set out in a precept received from any authority ;

(c) each of the services specified in the form which is not included under the preceding categories (a) and (b), and in respect of which expenditure is to be incurred ; and

(d) the other services of the rating authority, specifying such of them, if any, as they think fit, distinguishing by an asterisk, in the manner indicated in the form, each service towards the cost of which a grant payable to the rating authority or precepting authority by a Government Department is specifically applicable ; and

(2) the equivalent in terms of a rate in the pound of—

(a) any Exchequer Equalisation and Transitional Grants receivable by the County Council under the Local Government Act, 1948 ;

(b) the sums receivable by the rating authority and the County Council, respectively, under Part V of the Local Government Act, 1948 ;

(c) the sums receivable from or payable to, as the case may be, the County Council in consequence of the scheme made under section 10 of the Local Government Act, 1948. [4166]

6. For the purposes of the last preceding Rule the following provisions shall have effect—

(1) In calculating the amount to be shown for the purposes of any service or group of services there shall be included any sums required for repayment of, or for interest on, moneys borrowed for that service or group of services.

(2) Where the aggregate amount in the pound which would otherwise have been levied by the rating authority has been varied in order to give effect to any differential rating requirements to which effect has to be given by the rating authority, a note shall be made on the statement showing the extent of, and reason for, such variation.

(3) The expression " separate fund account " includes :—

(a) in relation to expenses chargeable on part only of a rating area, the separate account or accounts of such expenses ;

(b) in relation to any service for which by law separate accounts are required to be kept, the separate revenue account therefor. [4167]

7. A rating authority may include in a demand note for a general rate a demand for any other rate, rent or charge payable to them. [4168]

8. Except as regards demand notes for any rate in respect of any rating period beginning before the first day of April, 1948, the Form of Demand Note (London) Rules, 1930, are hereby revoked. [4169]

PRODUCT OF RATES AND PRECEPTS (LONDON) RULES, 1948

April 26, 1948

Whereas by section 120 of the Local Government Act, 1948, the provisions of subsections (2) to (4) of section 9 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (which relate to precepts by county councils), are extended, with modifications, to London save with respect to precepts issued by the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District;

And whereas by section 121 of the said Act of 1948 the provisions of subsections (2), (4) and (5) of the said section 9 are applied, with modifications, both within and outside London in relation to precepts issued by the said Receiver:

Now, therefore, the Minister of Health, after consultation with such local authorities and associations of local authorities as appeared to him to be desirable, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by subsection (4) of section 9 as extended and applied as aforesaid, and by section 58 of the said Act of 1925, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Rules:—

1.—(1) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these Rules as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(2) These Rules may be cited as the Product of Rates and Precepts (London) Rules, 1948, and shall come into operation on the first day of May, 1948.

(3) These Rules shall apply in relation to any precept issued by a precepting authority to a rating authority in London in respect of any period beginning on or after the first day of April, 1948, and the Rating and Valuation Act (Product of Rates and Precepts) Rules, 1938, shall not apply to any such precept.

(4) In these Rules, unless the context otherwise requires—

"the Act" means the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925;

"rate" means a general rate, except that as respects precepts issued by the London County Council to the Common Council of the City of London it means the poor rate;

"precepting authority" means the London County Council, the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District, and any other authority issuing precepts to which the provisions of subsection (2) of section 9 of the Act for the time being apply;

"product of a penny rate" means the amount produced by a rate of one penny in the pound;

"poundage" means in relation to any rate the amount assessed by that rate (including any additional item thereof) in respect of each pound of rateable value;

"gross rate income" means in relation to a rating area, or part of a rating area, and in relation to a financial year, the total of the gross amounts appearing in the rate book as assessed in respect of hereditaments in that area, or part of an area, by the rate or rates (including additional items) made in respect of that year, or any portion thereof, increased by—

(a) the amounts of any payments receivable in respect of that year under section 133 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and of any contributions made by the Crown in lieu of rates; and

(b) any amounts found during that year to be recoverable whether by virtue of section 44 or section 47 of the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869, or by virtue of section 42, section 89 or section 90 of the Local Government Act, 1948, or otherwise, or in respect of rates previously written off as irrecoverable;

"cost of collection" means—

(i) in relation to a rating area as a whole, the net cost of making, collecting and recovering rates during a financial year, including a proper proportion of such expenses as are attributable in part to the matters aforesaid and in part to the making, collection or recovery of other rates, or to other matters, but not including any proportion of any allowances made to owners or occupiers, or any expenses incurred in connection with the revision of valuation lists; and

(ii) in relation to a part of a rating area, the sum which bears to the cost of collection in the rating area the same proportion as the total rateable value of that part of the area bears to the total rateable value of the whole area at the commencement of the financial year;

"net cost of making, collecting and recovering rates" includes any sums properly payable by the rating authority under section 1 of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939, to or in respect of any person whose remuneration would, had he continued to be employed by the rating authority, have been chargeable as part of such net cost;

"loss on collection" means, in relation to a rating area or part of a rating area, and in relation to a financial year, the total amount written off during that year in the rate book as irrecoverable in respect of hereditaments in that area or part, whether in respect of a current rate or in respect of arrears of any previous rate, including all allowances, commissions, and abatements and all refunds made to owners or occupiers in respect of over-payments of a current rate or any previous rate;

"precept" means a precept which requires a rating authority in London to levy a rate of a specified poundage;

" financial officer " means the chief officer charged with the duty of keeping the accounts of a rating authority. [4173]

2. The financial officer of every rating authority in London shall as soon as may be after the close of a financial year calculate in accordance with the directions hereinafter contained the product of a penny rate during that year in the rating area and, where a precept is issuable by a precepting authority in respect of a portion only of the rating area, the product of a penny rate during that year in such portion. [4174]

3. Subject as hereinafter provided, the product of a penny rate in any rating area or in any portion thereof, as the case may be, shall be calculated by deducting from the gross rate income of the financial year the cost of collection and the loss on collection, and by dividing the remainder (which sum is hereinafter referred to as " the total rate product ") by the number of pence representing the total poundage of the rate or rates :

Provided that if the poundage of the rate or rates of the financial year is not the same throughout the area or portion, as the case may be, the financial officer shall in the first instance calculate the product of a penny rate separately for each part in which a different poundage has been levied, and the product of a penny rate in the area or portion shall be taken to be the sum of the products of penny rates in the several parts comprised therein. [4175]

4. The amount due under a precept shall be taken to be the product of a penny rate in the rating area or in that portion thereof which is included in the area of the precepting authority, as the case may be, multiplied by the number of pence specified in the precept. [4176]

5. The financial officer of every rating authority in London shall as soon as may be after the close of a financial year ascertain, in accordance with the provisions of the last preceding Rule, the total amount due in respect of that financial year under the precepts issued by a precepting authority to the rating authority ; and, if the total amount so ascertained to be due exceeds the aggregate of the instalments required by such precepts to be paid on account thereof, the rating authority shall, save as hereinafter provided, forthwith pay the balance to the precepting authority :

Provided that the rating authority, subject to their obligation to pay in full the aggregate of the instalments required by the precepts, may defer payment of any sum not exceeding that which bears to the total amount due under the precepts the same proportion as the amount of arrears carried forward at the close of the financial year to which the precepts relate and for the time being still outstanding bears to the total rate product for that financial year. [4177]

6.—(1) The estimate of the product of a penny rate in the next ensuing financial year which a rating authority in London is required to transmit to a precepting authority before the first day of February in each calendar year shall be made in accordance with the principles of these Rules as to the method of ascertaining the product of a penny rate.

(2) The financial officer in so framing the estimate shall take the latest ascertained figures available for the rating area or portion thereof, as the case may be, and shall modify those figures to such extent as appears to him to be necessary having regard to any alteration in total rateable value which may reasonably be anticipated and to any other material circumstances. [4178]

7. There shall be included in the accounts to be submitted by a rating authority in London to the district auditor the calculations required by these Rules for the determination of the product of a penny rate in the rating area, or in any part thereof during the financial year and of the amount due under any precept issued to the authority in respect of that year, or any part thereof; and the auditor's certificate allowing the accounts shall be construed as a certificate that, subject to any amendments made by him, such calculations have been properly and correctly made, and any necessary consequential adjustments shall be made in the accounts between the rating authority and the precepting authority. [4179]

(This Note is not part of the Rules, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT (COMPENSATION) REGULATIONS, 1948

S.I. 1948 No. 1458

June 30, 1948.

The Minister of Health in exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 140 of the Local Government Act, 1948, hereby makes the following regulations :—

PART I

Citation and Interpretation

1. These regulations may be cited as the Local Government (Compensation) Regulations, 1948, and shall come into operation on the fifth day of July, 1948. [4184]

2. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say—

"accrued pension", in relation to a pensionable officer who has suffered loss of employment, means

(a) if the pension scheme to which the officer was last subject before losing his employment provided benefits in which he had no right to participate but had reasonable expectations of participating, such proportion of the benefit of which he had reasonable expectations as the compensating authority considers equitable, having regard to his age, the length of his employment at the date of loss and all the other circumstances of the case; and

(b) in any other case the pension to which he would have become entitled in respect of his pensionable service according to the method of calculation, as modified by paragraph 17 of the schedule to these regulations, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, if at the date on which he ceased to be subject thereto he had attained normal retiring age and complied with any requirement of the said scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service or contribution, and includes the annual value as ascertained by an actuary of any contingent right under the scheme in respect of widow's pension or any other benefit which might have become payable to his widow or to his legal personal representatives on his death had he not lost his employment, but does not include any part of such pension as aforesaid which is attributable to any remuneration enjoyed, whether before or after the material date, in consequence of an increase between the 24th day of October, 1947, and the material date in the remuneration of any employment, if it can be shown that the increased remuneration was not granted in the ordinary course of that employment or in consideration of the person's assumption of increased responsibilities or new duties in connexion with the discharge of the existing functions of the body employing him;

"accrued incapacity pension" has the same meaning as "accrued pension" except that the reference to a person's having attained normal retiring age shall be construed as a reference to his having become incapable of discharging efficiently the duties of his employment by reason of permanent ill-health or infirmity of mind or body;

"accrued retiring allowance", in relation to a pensionable officer who has suffered loss of employment, means any lump sum payment to which he would have become entitled in respect of his pensionable service according to the method of calculation, as modified by paragraph 17 of the schedule to these regulations, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, if at the date on which he ceased to be subject thereto he had attained normal retiring age and complied with any requirement of the said scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service;

"the Act" means the Local Government Act, 1948;

"actuary" means a Fellow of the Institute of Actuaries or of the Faculty of Actuaries in Scotland;

"compensating authority" means—

(a) in the case of officers of a rating authority, the rating authority;

(b) in the case of officers of a joint committee of rating authorities, such one of the rating authorities represented on that committee as may be agreed between them or, in default of agreement, as may be determined by the Minister;

(c) in the case of officers of an assessment committee, the rating authority for the assessment area of that committee, or where the assessment area consists of more than one rating area, such one of the rating authorities in that assessment area as may be agreed between them or, in default of agreement, as may be determined by the Minister;

(e) in the case of officers of the quarter sessions for the County of London, the London County Council; and

(f) in the case of officers of the Central Valuation Committee, the Railway Assessment Authority and the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority, the Minister;

"emoluments" means all salary, wages, fees and other payments paid or made to an officer as such for his own use, and includes the money value of any apartments, rations or other allowances in kind appertaining to his employment, but does not include payments for overtime or any allowances payable to him to cover the cost of providing office accommodation or clerical or other assistance, or any travelling or subsistence allowance or other moneys to be spent, or to cover expenses incurred by him, for the purposes of his employment, and also does not include any remuneration enjoyed, whether before or after the material date, in consequence of an increase between the 24th day of October, 1947, and the material date in the remuneration of any employment, if it can be shown that the increased remuneration was not granted in the ordinary course of that employment or in consideration of the person's assumption of increased responsibilities or new duties in connexion with the discharge of the existing functions of the body employing him;

"existing officer" means a person who immediately before the material date:—

(a) devoted the whole of his time, and had so devoted it for a period of not less than eight years before the material date after attaining the age of eighteen years without a break of more than twelve months at any one time, to employment under the Crown or in the local government service in Great Britain, or to employment by any authority or body functions of which cease or have ceased in consequence of the coming into force of any Part of the Act, or to employment under an officer engaged in any such employment as aforesaid for the purposes of the functions of the employing authority or body or to any combination of such employments, or who would so have devoted his time but for any previous loss of employment which was attributable to the coming into force of any Part of the Act [provided that any war service undertaken on ceasing to follow any of the said employments or any combination thereof shall be deemed to be a continuation of that employment or combination of employments]; and

(b) was employed for at least part of his time for the purposes of any rating authority, any joint committee of rating authorities, any assessment committee, any county valuation committee, any council of a county, the quarter sessions for the County of London, the Central Valuation Committee, the Railway Assessment Authority or the Anglo-Scottish Railways Assessment Authority;

"net emoluments", in relation to an officer who suffers loss of employment or diminution of emoluments, means the annual rate of his emoluments immediately before such loss or diminution, after deducting therefrom the like percentage thereof as the percentage of his emoluments which he was then liable to contribute under any pension scheme associated with his employment:

Provided that—

(a) if, for the purposes of the foregoing definition, account is required to be taken of any fees payable to a person as part of his emoluments, the amount thereof shall be taken to be the annual average of the fees paid to him during the three years immediately preceding the loss of employment or diminution of emoluments, or, if the fees were payable in respect of a shorter period, such shorter period; and

(b) any amount by which the annual rate of his emoluments exceeds £4,000 shall be disregarded; and

" war service " means war service within the meaning of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939, or employment for war purposes within the meaning of the Superannuation Schemes (War Service) Act, 1940. [4185]

General note.—The words in square brackets in paragraph (a) of the definition of " existing officer " were added by the Local Government (Compensation) (Amendment) Regulations, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 489).

3. The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4186]

PART II

Compensation of Officers who suffer Loss of Employment or Diminution of Emoluments which is attributable to the passing of the Act

4. Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding regulation, every person who was an existing officer and who suffers loss of employment or diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the passing of the Act shall be entitled to have his case considered for the receipt of compensation under these regulations, such compensation to be determined in accordance with the provisions of the schedule hereto. [4187]

5. Nothing in the last preceding regulation shall entitle a person to have his case considered for compensation unless—

(a) the cause of the claim to compensation arises not later than ten years after the material date, and the claim is made not later than two years after the date on which the cause of claim arises; and

(b) (i) his office is abolished and he is not offered a reasonably comparable office under the Crown or in the local government service; or

(ii) his appointment is determined because his services are not required or because his duties are diminished (no misconduct being established); or

(iii) his emoluments are diminished:

Provided that for the purposes of this regulation a person shall not be deemed to have been offered an office which is not reasonably comparable with an office which is abolished by reason only of the fact that the duties of the office offered are duties in relation to the administration of a different service from that in connexion with which his office was held or are duties which involve a transfer of his employment from one place to another within England or Wales. [4188]

6. If a person who has claimed compensation under these regulations is aggrieved by the refusal of the compensating authority to accept his claim or by their failure to come to a decision on his claim within three months after the date on which it was received by them, or by a decision that no compensation should be paid to him or by the amount of compensation awarded, he may, within three months after the refusal or failure or after the date on which he received notice of the decision, as the case may be, refer the matter to the tribunal, and the tribunal shall consider any matter so referred in accordance with the provisions of these regulations and determine accordingly whether any, and if so what, compensation ought to be awarded to the claimant, and the compensating authority shall give effect to the decision of the tribunal. [4189]

7.—(1) Any compensation to which an officer becomes entitled under these regulations shall be paid by the compensating authority and shall be payable to, or in trust for, the person who is entitled to receive it, and shall not be assignable.

(2) Any sum payable as compensation to a person by a local authority shall be recoverable as a debt due from the authority.

(3) Where the compensating authority is a rating authority represented on a joint committee of rating authorities or is a rating authority whose rating area is included in an assessment area consisting of more than one rating area, the other rating authorities concerned shall contribute towards the payment of any compensation payable by the compensating authority in proportion to the rateable values of their rating areas on the 31st day of March, 1948. [4190]

PART III

Officers on War Service on the Material Date

8.—(1) Any person (hereinafter referred to as an "officer on war service") who is engaged in war service immediately before the material date and who, if he had continued to be employed until the material date in the capacity in which he was employed before becoming engaged in war service, would have been an existing officer, shall be deemed to be an existing officer within the meaning of these regulations, and if at the date on which he ceased to be so employed he was subject to a pension scheme, and his war service or any part thereof would be reckonable for the purposes of that scheme if he again became subject thereto on the termination of his war service, he shall also be deemed to be a pensionable officer within the meaning of these regulations.

(2) The expression " the material date," in relation to an officer on war service, means the date on which functions of the authority or body by whom he was employed before becoming engaged in war service ceased in consequence of the coming into force of any Part of the Act. [4191]

9. Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding regulation, if an officer on war service ceases to be engaged in war service and in consequence of the Act—

(a) is not given or offered by his former employer re-employment in his former office, or in any reasonably comparable office; or

(b) is so re-employed with reduced emoluments,

he shall be deemed for the purposes of these regulations, in the former case, to have suffered loss of employment which is attributable to the Act owing to the abolition of his office at the date of the refusal to re-employ him, and, in the latter case, to have suffered diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the Act. [4192]

10. No person shall, by virtue of the last preceding regulation, be entitled to have his case considered for compensation for any loss suffered by him by reason of his not being re-employed as therein mentioned unless within a period of two months after the date on which he ceased to be engaged in war service he gives notice in writing that he is available for employment to the authority or body by whom he was employed before becoming engaged in war service or, if that authority or body ceases to exist by virtue of the Act, to the compensating authority in relation to officers of the first mentioned authority or body:

Provided that if the person is prevented from giving notice within the said period by his sickness or other reasonable cause, the notice may be given as soon as reasonably may be after the expiration of that period. [4193]

11. For the purpose of ascertaining the net emoluments of a person to whom regulation 9 applies such person shall be deemed to have continued to follow his former employment until the cause of claim arose and to have been entitled to the emoluments thereof. [4194]

12. In relation to a pensionable officer to whom sub-paragraph (a) of regulation 9 applies, the expression " accrued pension " means the pension to which he would have become entitled according to the method of calculation, as modified by paragraph 17 of the schedule to these regulations, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was subject before becoming engaged in war service, if at the date on which he ceased to be engaged in war service he had been serving in his civil capacity and had attained normal retiring age, having complied with any requirement of the said pension scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service. [4195]

A. Interim payments of Compensation

4. If the compensating authority accept the claim, then, unless they are satisfied that the claimant has substantially made good his loss by virtue of having obtained other employment, they shall forthwith commence to make interim payments of compensation to the claimant subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding paragraph, and shall continue to make such payments until, in accordance with paragraph 6 of this schedule, they decide whether any further compensation is payable to him under these regulations.

5.—(1) Interim compensation shall be payable as from the date of claim, and shall be at a rate not exceeding two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant has lost, less two-thirds of any unemployment benefit to which the claimant may be entitled, and less any sum to which the claimant may be entitled by way of compensation under the Re-instatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944.

(2) In determining the amount of interim compensation, the compensating authority shall have regard to any payments to which the claimant becomes entitled in consequence of the loss of his employment under any contract or arrangement with the authority or body by whom he was employed (other than payments by way of a return of contributions under a pension scheme).

(3) The payments shall be made at intervals equivalent to those at which the said emoluments were previously payable, and the payments shall be reduced or terminated if the claimant obtains other employment or the compensating authority are satisfied that he is not actively seeking employment or has unreasonably refused suitable employment which has been offered to him.

(4) If the claimant obtains other employment, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(5) The compensating authority may require, as a condition of making or continuing to make interim payments that the claimant should be registered for employment at an Employment Exchange or the Appointments Department of the Ministry of Labour and National Service, at the option of the claimant.

B. Assessment of Compensation

6. Having determined the amount of the interim payments (if any) to be made under the preceding provisions of this schedule to a claimant whose claim has been accepted, the compensating authority shall, within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim, assess the just amount (if any) of the compensation payable under the succeeding provisions of this schedule, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

7.—(1) The compensating authority shall, within a period of two years after the date on which any decision is notified to a claimant under paragraph 6 of this schedule, or if the claimant has referred any such decision to the tribunal under regulation 6, within a period of two years after the date of the decision of the tribunal, review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, at intervals of not more than six months, and on any review the compensating authority may, in the light of any material change in the circumstances of the case, award compensation or increase or reduce the amount of any compensation awarded.

(2) If the claimant obtains other employment within the said period of two years, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(3) A claimant to whom a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule has been notified may, within the like period as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, require the compensating authority to review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, if he considers that there has been a material change in the circumstances of his case.

(4) The compensating authority shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision on any review under the preceding provisions of this paragraph, and if the claimant is aggrieved by such decision he may refer the matter to the tribunal within three months after the date on which he receives notice of the decision, and the tribunal shall determine any matter so referred, and the compensating authority shall give effect to the determination of the tribunal.

Compensation payable, subject to earlier cesser in certain cases, until normal retiring age

8. For the purpose of determining whether any compensation, apart from any interim compensation paid under paragraphs 4 and 5 of this schedule, is payable to any person for loss of employment, and if so the amount of the compensation to be paid, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, the compensating authority shall have regard to—

(a) the conditions upon which his appointment was made ;
(b) the nature of his office ;
(c) the extent to which he has sought suitable alternative employment ; and
(d) all the other circumstances of his case :

Provided that no compensation shall be payable to such a claimant as is mentioned in proviso (i) to sub-paragraph (2) of the next succeeding paragraph if the security of tenure of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as therein mentioned is substantially similar to that of the employment lost and the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment lost does not exceed the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as aforesaid by more than five per cent. of the first-mentioned amount.

9.—(1) Compensation for loss of employment shall be an annual sum calculated in accordance with the provisions of sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, and shall be payable, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case, as from the date on which the claim was made or from such earlier date not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

Provided that if the loss occurred before the date of the coming into operation of these regulations, and the claim was made within three months after the said date, the compensation shall be payable as from the date of loss.

(2) The said annual sum shall, subject as hereinafter provided, be the aggregate of the following sums, namely—

(a) for every completed year of the claimant's service, one-sixtieth of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost ; and

(b) in the case of a claimant over the age of forty-five years at the date of loss, a further one-sixtieth of the said net emoluments for every completed year of service since he attained the age of forty-five :

Provided that—

(i) where the claimant has undertaken or obtained other work or employment in place of the employment he has lost or has been offered other suitable employment, the said annual sum shall be calculated by reference only to the amount (if any) by which the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the annual rate of the emoluments of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered to him as aforesaid ;

(ii) if the said annual sum is required to be calculated in accordance with proviso (i) to this sub-paragraph, it shall be reduced or increased by such amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit, having regard to the relative security of tenure of the employment lost and the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as aforesaid, so however that the said annual sum shall not by virtue of any such increase as aforesaid be greater than if it were calculated without reference to proviso (i) and this proviso ;

(iii) the said annual sum shall also be reduced by such an amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit having regard to the matters to which they are required to have regard by the last preceding paragraph and to any compensation payable to the claimant under the Re-instatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944, or under or in pursuance of any other enactment ; and

(iv) the said annual sum shall in no case exceed two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant has lost.

10. There shall be deducted from any payments made under paragraph 9 of this schedule in respect of any period in respect of which interim payments have been made under paragraphs 4 and 5 the amount of such payments, so far as they do not exceed the payments due under paragraph 9 in respect of that period.

Compensation payable to pensionable officer on his becoming incapacitated or reaching pensionable age

11.—(1) If the claimant was a pensionable officer, and before attaining normal retiring age—

(a) he becomes incapacitated in circumstances in which if he had continued in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment ; or

(b) he attains an age at which had he continued to serve in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to retire with a pension on the ground of having attained that age and completed a prescribed period of service, and compensation is not then payable to him under these regulations, or compensation by way of annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension or his accrued pension, as the case may be, together with the annual value of his accrued retiring allowance (if any), would be greater than the annual amount of any compensation to which he may then be entitled under these regulations, he shall be entitled, if he so requests at any time thereafter by notice in writing to the compensating authority, as from the date on which the compensating authority receive such notice, in lieu of any compensation to which he would otherwise be entitled under these regulations—

(i) in the case mentioned in head (a) of this sub-paragraph, to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) ; and

(ii) in the case mentioned in head (b) of this sub-paragraph to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) :

Provided that if in calculating the amount of compensation payable to a person who has given such notice as aforesaid, the compensating authority, by virtue of paragraph 19 of this schedule, have credited him with additional years of service or contributions, no account shall be taken for the purpose of the foregoing provision of any number of such additional years beyond the number of years which he could have served, had he not lost his employment, before the date on which such notice as aforesaid was received by the compensating authority.

(2) On receipt of a notice under the last preceding sub-paragraph, the compensating authority shall consider forthwith whether the person giving the notice is a person to whom that sub-paragraph applies, and within three months after the date of the receipt of the notice—

(a) if they are satisfied that he is not such a person, they shall notify him in writing accordingly ; and

and any such notification shall, for the purposes of these regulations, be deemed to be a notification by the authority of a decision on a claim to compensation.

(3) A compensating authority may require any such person as is mentioned in head (a) of sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, who gives a notice under that sub-paragraph, to submit himself to a medical examination by a registered medical practitioner selected by that authority, and, if they do so, they shall also offer the person an opportunity of submitting a report from his own medical adviser as a result of an examination by him, and the authority shall take that report into consideration, together with the report of the medical practitioner selected by them.

Compensation payable to a pensionable officer on attainment of normal retiring age

12. Subject as hereinafter provided, the compensation payable to a claimant who was a pensionable officer (not being a person to whom paragraph 11 has been applied) on his attaining normal retiring age shall be—

(a) an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension ; and

(b) a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any).

Supplementary provisions as to compensation payable to pensionable officer

13.—(1) Where a claimant after suffering loss of employment, enters employment in which he participates in the benefits of the pension scheme associated with the employment he has lost, or becomes entitled to participate in any other pension scheme, in circumstances in which he is entitled to reckon for the purposes thereof service which falls to be taken into account for the purpose of assessing compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, no compensation under either of those paragraphs shall be payable unless the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments to which he becomes entitled on entering such employment as aforesaid by more than five per cent. of the first-mentioned amount, and any compensation payable thereunder shall be calculated by reference only to the amount of the difference.

(2) If a claimant has unreasonably refused a suitable offer of such employment as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph, he shall be deemed for the purposes of that sub-paragraph to have entered the employment so offered to him.

14.—(1) If the claimant was a person in respect of whose service a widow's pension might have become payable under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of widow's pension, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to the person who as his widow might have become entitled to such widow's pension as aforesaid in the event of her surviving him—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled had he, immediately before he died, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme on the grounds of ill-health of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 16 ; and

(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age, or after giving a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled in accordance with the method of calculation prescribed by the pension scheme had he, at the date on which he attained normal retiring age, or gave the said notice, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, as the case may be, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 16.

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the annual sum payable to a widow under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 19 of this schedule :

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

(3) Any sum payable to a widow under this paragraph shall cease to be payable or shall be suspended in any circumstances in which a widow's pension under the aforesaid pension scheme would have ceased to be payable or would have been suspended.

15. If under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, the claimant would have been entitled to surrender a proportion of any pension which might have become payable to him in favour of his spouse or any dependant, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly within one month after becoming entitled to compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, he may surrender a proportion of so much of the said compensation as is payable by way of an annual sum on the like terms and conditions and in consideration of the like payments by the compensating authority as if the said annual sum were a pension to which he had become entitled under the said pension scheme.

16.—(1) If the claimant was a person in respect of whose service a death benefit might have become payable to his legal personal representatives under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires, and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of the said benefit, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to his legal personal representatives—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum equal to the amount of any death benefit which would have become payable in accordance with the method of calculation, as modified by the next succeeding paragraph, prescribed by the pensions scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, had he died immediately before the date on which he lost his employment and complied with any requirement of the said scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service ; or equal to the amount of any such death benefit as aforesaid, less a sum equal to the aggregate amount of any payments made to him by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule.

(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age or after giving a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the sum payable under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 19 of this schedule:

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

17. For the purposes of these regulations—

(a) the amount of any accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, if the number of years of service by reference to which the pension is to be calculated is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme, shall, notwithstanding any minimum benefit prescribed by the pension scheme, not exceed such proportion of such minimum benefit as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service; and

(b) if the amount of any death benefit falls to be ascertained, by virtue of any pension scheme, wholly or partly by reference to the emoluments or average emoluments of a pensionable officer, and the number of years of his pensionable service is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme for the receipt of a death benefit, the said amount shall not exceed such proportion of the emoluments or average emoluments of the officer as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service.

18. If under the pension scheme to which the claimant was last subject before suffering loss of employment the amount of any pension to which he might have become entitled might have been increased at the discretion of the authority administering the pension scheme or of any other body, the compensating authority may increase the compensation payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule by an annual sum not exceeding the amount by which his accrued incapacity pension or accrued pension might have been increased or the annual value of the payments which might have been made to him by way of addition to or supplementation of his accrued pension.

19. If the claimant had attained the age of forty years at the date on which he lost his employment, the compensating authority in calculating the amount of the compensation payable to him under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may credit him with additional years of service or additional contributions not exceeding one year of service or one year's contributions for each completed year between the date on which he attained the age of forty years and the date on which he lost his employment, but not in any case exceeding ten years or such number of years as the claimant could have served had he continued in his employment until attaining normal retiring age, whichever is the less.

20. In deciding whether to add any number of years under the last preceding paragraph, the compensating authority shall have regard to the considerations set out in paragraph 8 of this schedule, and also to the claimant's rights under any pension scheme associated with any employment which he may have obtained in place of the employment he has lost.

21.—(1) Compensation shall not be payable or shall cease to be payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule to a person who has received any sum by way of a return of contributions under the pension scheme to which he was last subject on his ceasing to be subject thereto, unless forthwith on receiving such sum he pays to the compensating authority an amount equivalent thereto, such amount to be held by the compensating authority subject to the condition that if the pension scheme made no provision for death benefit and he dies before he has received in the aggregate by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule a sum equal to the amount so paid as aforesaid to the compensating authority, together with compound interest thereon, calculated at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, with half-yearly rests, up to the date of his death, as from the first day of April or the first day of October following the half year in which the amount was paid, there shall be paid to his legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount received by way of compensation and the said sum :

Provided that—

(a) if a sum becomes payable to his widow on his death under paragraph 14 of this schedule and on her death or re-marriage the sum ceases to be payable, and the aggregate amount of the payments which were made to her or her husband under these regulations is less than a sum equal to the amount so paid to the compensating authority by her husband as aforesaid on account of contributions, after the addition thereto of interest thereon as aforesaid, there shall be paid to her or her legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount of the payments made to her or her husband as aforesaid and the said sum ;

(b) this paragraph shall not apply to a person to whom paragraph 13 of this schedule applies, and in the event of a claimant becoming such a person after having made a payment under this paragraph, the amount of the sum so paid shall be returned to him by the compensating authority ; and

(c) this paragraph shall not apply to a person who has been an officer on war service to whom regulation 9 applies, and who received a return of contributions before ceasing to be engaged in war service.

(2) A person to whom paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may become applicable shall on or before the date on which compensation may become payable to him thereunder be entitled, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority in writing accordingly, to receive from the compensating authority in lieu of any such compensation—

(a) if the person nas paid any sum to the compensating authority under sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, an amount equivalent thereto, together with interest thereon, calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme as from the date of payment of the said sum ; and

(b) if the person has not received a return of contributions under the pension scheme, and if, being entitled to such a return he has relinquished that right, an amount equivalent to the amount of such contributions together with interest thereon, calculated in manner provided by the pension scheme ;

and any liability of the compensating authority under paragraph 14 or 16 of this schedule shall cease in the event of his giving such notice as aforesaid.

Compensation payable to non-pensionable officer after attainment of normal retiring age

22.—(1) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer, the compensating authority may, on his attaining normal retiring age, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a substantial period beyond that age, continue to pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half its former rate.

(2) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer and suffers loss of employment on or after attaining normal retiring age, the compensating authority may, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a further substantial period, pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half the rate to which he would have been entitled under paragraph 9 of this schedule had he not attained normal retiring age at the date on which he lost his employment.

III. Compensation for diminution of emoluments

23. On receipt of a claim for compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment the compensating authority shall within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim decide whether any compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

24. A decision under the last preceding paragraph shall be subject to review in like manner as a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule :

Provided that—

(a) no review shall take place after the date on which the claimant loses that employment, except a review as at that date ; and

(b) while the claimant continues to hold that employment, there shall be no limit to the period within which a review may take place.

25. In determining whether compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, the compensating authority shall have regard to the conditions upon which the claimant's appointment was made, the nature of his office, and all the other circumstances of the case. No compensation shall be payable where the diminution is less than five per cent. of the net emoluments of the claimant.

26. Compensation for diminution of emoluments shall be an annual sum payable as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case as from the date on which the claim was made, or from such earlier date, not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

27. Compensation to a person for diminution of the emoluments of any employment shall be payable for the same period or periods as compensation for loss of employment and shall not during any period exceed a sum bearing the same proportion to the maximum amount of compensation which could have been awarded in respect of that period had he lost his employment as the amount by which his net emoluments are diminished bears to their amount before diminution :

Provided that the compensation shall cease if the person voluntarily relinquishes his employment without the consent of his employer otherwise than on reaching pensionable age.

28. A person entitled to compensation for diminution of emoluments shall have the like rights in relation to such compensation as are conferred by paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 upon a person entitled to compensation for loss of employment.

IV. Miscellaneous

29. Any dispute as to who are the compensating authority for the purposes of these regulations shall, in default of agreement, be determined by the Minister :

Provided that if the Minister is a party to the dispute, the matter shall be determined by the Treasury.

30.—(1) A notification of a decision by a compensating authority to a claimant for compensation under these regulations shall contain a statement directing the attention of the claimant to his right, if he is aggrieved by the decision, to refer the matter to the tribunal, and giving him the address of the office to which the reference should be sent.

(2) The proceedings on any reference under these regulations to the tribunal shall not be deemed to be an arbitration to which anything in the Arbitration Acts, 1889 to 1934, applies.

(3) On any such reference the tribunal may, if it thinks fit, appoint a person having special knowledge or experience in relation to the subject matter of the reference to sit with the tribunal as an assessor.

31. For the purpose of determining the amount of any compensation payable in respect of the loss of a whole-time office or of any two or more offices which in the aggregate involved the whole-time employment of an officer, any previous period of part-time employment shall be treated as though it were whole-time employment for a proportionately reduced period.

32. For the purpose of making any calculation under these regulations in respect of the service of an officer all periods of his service shall be aggregated, and if the aggregated service includes a fraction of a year, that fraction shall, if it equals or exceeds six months, be treated as a year, and in any other case be disregarded.

33. If in determining the amount of any compensation payable to a person under these regulations account is taken of any employment prior to the first world war and that person was temporarily absent from that employment during that war whilst serving in His Majesty's Forces or the Forces of the Allied or Associated Powers, either compulsorily or with the sanction or permission of the authority in whose employment he was immediately before such temporary absence, such period of temporary absence shall be reckoned as a period of service :

Provided that, in the case of a person who after the 11th day of November, 1918, voluntarily extended his term of service in such Forces, no period of absence during any such extension shall be reckoned.

34.—(1) Where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of the employment he has lost otherwise than on losing such employment or where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment or diminution of emoluments has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of any employment the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and in calculating the amount of such pension account is taken of any service which was taken into account in calculating the compensation payable, then, if the compensation does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the compensation shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(2) Where a claimant's widow to whom an annual sum is payable under paragraph 14 or 28 of this schedule has become or becomes entitled to a widow's pension in respect of any employment of her husband the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and any part of such widow's pension is attributable to service of her husband of which account was taken in calculating his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension by reference to which the said annual sum was calculated, then if the said annual sum does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the said annual sum shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(3) Where a claimant's legal personal representatives to whom a sum is payable on the claimant's death under paragraph 16 or 28 of this schedule have become entitled to receive a death benefit under a pension scheme associated with any employment of the claimant the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and as one of the factors in the calculation of the amount of such benefit account fell to be taken of any service which fell to be taken into account as one of the factors in the calculation of the said sum, the said sum shall be reduced by an amount equal to such proportion of the amount of the death benefit as the number of years of the said service bears to the total number of years of service of which account fell to be taken as aforesaid in the calculation of the death benefit.

(4) Where any compensation, annual sum or lump sum is reduced in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, such compensation, annual sum or lump sum shall be further reduced by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any additional years of service or contributions credited in accordance with paragraph 19 of this schedule and by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any minimum benefit prescribed by a pension scheme.

(5) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person in whose case paragraph 18 of this schedule has been applied, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit to which the person, his widow or his legal personal representatives have become or becomes entitled as aforesaid is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments to which the person became entitled on entering the employment referred to in that paragraph.

(6) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person to whom compensation is or was payable for diminution of emoluments and who has become entitled to a pension in respect of employment which he had obtained in place of the employment the emoluments of which were diminished or whose widow has become entitled to a widow's pension or whose legal personal representatives have become entitled to a death benefit in respect of such employment, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments of the person's former employment after their diminution.

35.—(1) If a person receiving compensation for loss of employment obtains other employment in place of the employment he has lost and the remuneration thereof is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation in respect of such loss than would make up the amount, if any, by which the net emoluments of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost.

(2) If a person receiving compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment loses that employment in circumstances in which he does not become entitled to compensation in respect of that loss and thereupon or thereafter he obtains in place of that employment other employment the remuneration of which is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation than would make up the amount (if any) by which the net emoluments of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the former employment before diminution.

36.—(1) If a person becomes subject to the provisions of either of the two last preceding paragraphs he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(2) A person who has become subject to the provisions of the last preceding paragraph shall also notify the compensating authority in writing of any increase in the remuneration of the employment he has obtained in place of the employment he lost.

37.—(1) Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this schedule, if the annual sum which has been or might be awarded under those provisions does not exceed twenty-six pounds, the compensating authority may at their discretion discharge their liability in respect thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of the annual sum, and if any lump sum has been or might be awarded in addition to such annual sum under the provisions of paragraph 12 of this schedule, the compensating authority may likewise discharge their liability in respect thereof by an immediate lump sum payment.

(2) If the annual sum which has been or might be so awarded exceeds twenty-six pounds and the claimant is not entitled to any lump sum in respect of accrued retiring allowance under these regulations, the compensating authority, if so requested by the claimant, may discharge their liability in respect of one quarter thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of one quarter of the annual sum :

Provided that if the remaining three-quarters thereof does not exceed twenty-six pounds the compensating authority may discharge their liability as aforesaid in respect of the whole of the said sum.

(3) Any lump sum payable under the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall be of such amount as shall be certified by an actuary to be appropriate. [4196]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations provide for the payment of compensation to persons losing employment or remuneration as a result of the transfer of rating and valuation functions under the Local Government Act, 1948.

To be eligible for compensation a claimant must have had eight years' full time service in central or local government and to have been employed immediately before the date of transfer of functions under the Act by a body from whom they are transferred, e.g. a rating authority (see definition of "existing officer" in regulation 2). If he has not refused a reasonably comparable post (regulation 5) he can receive an interim award of compensation of two-thirds of his net emoluments payable for a period of up to three months whilst his award is assessed but subject to reduction if he gets other employment or unemployment insurance benefit or if he fails to look for or take other suitable employment (paragraphs 4 and 5 of the Schedule). Compensation will be payable to him up to normal retiring age, and will be an annual sum based on a percentage of his net emoluments and the length of his service (paragraph 9). The amount may be adjusted by reference to the factors mentioned in paragraphs 8 and 9 (e.g. any other emoluments which have or could have been obtained), and will be subject to review for a period of two years. If pensionable in his old employment, the claimant, on reaching retiring age will be entitled to a payment equivalent to his accrued pension rights. In the assessment of this payment, account will be taken of any rights in respect of incapacity pension, widow's pension, or death benefit that may have been provided for by the pension scheme (paragraphs 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16). These rights may be increased in the case of an officer over 40 on displacement to take account of his loss of opportunity to earn more pension (paragraph 19). If he was not pensionable, compensation will cease on his reaching normal retiring age, unless it is clear that he would have been allowed to continue in his employment for a substantial period after that age, in which case compensation will be paid to him for the rest of his life at half the previous rate (paragraph 22). Overlap with pension or remuneration from public funds is avoided (paragraphs 13, 34 and 35). A claimant who is aggrieved by a decision of a compensating authority may appeal to referees appointed by the Minister of Labour and National Service, after consultation with the Lord Chancellor (regulation 6).

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
WHITEHALL,
LONDON, S.W.1.
10*th May*, 1948

SIR,

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1948

Valuation Panels

As foreshadowed in Circular 65/48, the Minister of Health has made an Order, a copy of which is enclosed, under section 72 of the Act, bringing sections 45, 46 and 47 into operation as from 1st May, 1948.

2. Section 45 places on the council of every county and county borough the duty of making a scheme for the constitution of one or more local valuation panels for the county or borough or for the county or borough in combination with other areas. Subsection (4) envisages that the schemes shall be submitted within a period of nine months and I am to ask that schemes should be submitted before 1st February, 1949, and if possible well before then, so that the panels may be ready to function as soon as the new valuation machinery can be brought into force which it is hoped will be in the early part of next year. After the scheme has been approved members will have to be appointed and arrangements made for staffing and accommodation.

3. While the Minister appreciates that the needs of different areas will vary he is anxious that the schemes will provide that the areas for which panels are set up are as large as possible. Size alone, whether reckoned by population or by the number of hereditaments, is not the only criterion and no universal yardstick can be suggested. But in the majority of cases the Minister would expect one, or at most two, panels to be sufficient for the needs of an administrative county and also that in the majority of cases county boroughs should join with county councils in making combined schemes. The advantages to be secured from combined schemes are greater uniformity of decisions over a large area and a freer exchange of experience between members appointed by county councils and county borough councils respectively on a matter which is not of purely local concern. The Minister hopes, therefore, that on receipt of this circular county and county borough councils will get into touch with each other to discuss at an early stage the question of combination.

4. The draft model scheme enclosed may be of assistance in preparing schemes. The method proposed for the selection of valuation courts has been suggested as best expressing the intentions of Parliament as they appeared from the discussion during the passage of the Bill. The Minister would not expect that a scheme precisely on these lines would be satisfactory in all areas but he hopes that it will be possible to keep broadly to this form.

5. The Minister does not wish to suggest any hard and fast rules for the number of members to be appointed, but he suggests that while the membership should be sufficient to provide courts (each to consist of two members with the chairman or deputy chairman of the panel) to deal with appeals with reasonable expedition and without making unduly heavy calls on the time of individual members, the number of persons appointed should be kept as low as possible to reduce the risk of varying decisions and to secure the maximum of experience to each member. Disqualifications for membership are dealt with in section 46 (2) of the Act.

6. Section 45 (2) requires that when a scheme has been submitted to the Minister the council or councils concerned shall publish in one or more newspapers circulating in their areas a notice stating the fact and the place where a copy is available for inspection ; and a copy of the scheme must be sent to each rating authority in the county areas. Objections may be submitted to the Minister who may approve a scheme with or without modifications, and I am to suggest that in submitting objections to the Minister a rating authority should also send a copy to the county council. It would be convenient if the council(s) in sending copies of the scheme and in publishing the notice would intimate that any objections with respect to the scheme should be made to the Minister within one month after the date of the notice. A copy of the notice should be sent to the Minister at the time of publication. Two sealed copies of the scheme as made, preferably on foolscap size paper, should be submitted together with four unsealed copies.

7. The expenses of the panels will be defrayed by the Minister and further information as to the staffing of panels, rates of remuneration, etc., will be sent at a later date. Part VI of the Act applies to the travelling and subsistence allowances payable to members of valuation panels. The staff of a panel will fall for superannuation purposes under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, the panel being deemed to be a local authority included in Part I of the First Schedule to that Act.

8. I am to say that the Minister regards the work of these panels as of the first importance. Parliament has decided that the actual work of valuation should be centralised, and the panels provide the link with the local interest in rating assessment which has existed hitherto. It cannot be too strongly stressed that the work of the valuation courts is entirely judicial and in no sense administrative and the Minister feels sure that in making their appointments and in co-operating in the working of the new provisions local authorities will see the importance of maintaining this position.

I am, Sir, etc.

Enclosure to Circular 68/48

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1948

County of County Borough(s) of Joint Scheme for the constitution of (a) local valuation panel(s) and the selection therefrom of members of local valuation courts.

The Council of the administrative County of and the Council(s) of the County Borough(s) of and (hereinafter referred to collectively as " the Councils ") acting together in pursuance of the powers conferred upon them by subsection (1) of section 45 and paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of section 44 of the Local Government Act, 1948, hereby make the following joint scheme :—

1. There shall be a local valuation panel (hereinafter referred to as a " panel ") for each of the areas (hereinafter referred to as " panel areas ") specified in column 1 of the Schedule hereto, which panel areas comprise in the aggregate the whole of the respective areas of the Councils.

2. The total number of members of each panel shall be the number set out in column 2 of the said Schedule opposite the specification of the panel area and such number shall in each case include a Chairman and $\begin{pmatrix} \text{a} \\ \text{(two)} \end{pmatrix}$ deputy $\begin{pmatrix} \text{(Chairman).} \\ \text{(Chairmen).} \end{pmatrix}$

3. The Chairman and deputy Chairmen of each panel shall be appointed by the Councils or, in default of agreement, by the Minister of Health.

4. Of the first members of each panel, other than the Chairman and Deputy Chairmen, each one of the Councils mentioned in column 3 of the said Schedule opposite the specification of the panel area shall appoint the number set out in column 4 of the Schedule opposite the name of that Council.

5. The persons first appointed to be members of each panel and the first Chairman and Deputy Chairmen thereof shall come into office on [the 1st January, 1949].

6. The first appointed members of each panel shall continue in office until the 1st April, 1954, when one half of their number or, if that number is an odd number, one half of the next higher number (to be chosen by lot) shall retire.

7. The first appointed members who do not retire on the 1st April, 1954, shall continue in office until, and retire on, the 1st April, 1957.

8. The places of retiring members shall be filled from time to time by persons appointed by whichever of the Councils appointed their respective predecessors and the term of office of such persons shall be six years.

9. The first appointed Chairman and Deputy Chairmen of each panel shall hold office as such until, and retire on, the 1st April, 1954.

10. The places of retiring Chairmen and Deputy Chairmen shall be filled from time to time by persons appointed as hereinbefore provided and each such person shall hold office until he retires from membership of the panel.

11. Any casual vacancy occurring in the office of Chairman, Deputy Chairman or member of a panel shall be filled in like manner as if an ordinary vacancy had occurred therein, and the person appointed to fill a casual vacancy shall retire from office on the day on which his predecessor would ordinarily have retired.

12. A Chairman, Deputy Chairman or member of a panel shall be eligible for re-appointment at the expiration of his term of office, if he is then qualified for membership of the panel, and may at any time resign his office.

13. The selection of the two members of a panel, other than the Chairman or a Deputy Chairman, required for the constitution of a local valuation court shall be made in accordance with the following provisions :—

(a) the panel area shall be divided into the divisions specified in column 2 of the Second Schedule hereto opposite the specification of the panel area in column 1 of that Schedule.

(b) every member of the panel, other than the Chairman and Deputy Chairmen, shall be allocated from time to time to one or other of the said divisions by the Councils or, in default of agreement, by the Minister, and the number of members to be allocated to each division shall be, and shall be maintained at, the figure shown in column 3 of the said Schedule opposite the specification of that division.

(c) the two members required as aforesaid upon any occasion shall be selected in rotation, by reference to seniority of age, from such of the members of the panel allocated to the division in which the court is to sit as are for the time being able to act :

Provided that if it is not practicable to secure the requisite number of members for any court in the manner above provided the Chairman of the panel may select any member or members of the panel to make good the deficiency.

14. This Scheme may be cited as the County of and the County Borough of joint Local Valuation Panel(s) Scheme, 1948.

CASES

Rates and rating—Railways—"Railway hereditament"—Hostel and canteen for railway staff—"Occupied as dwelling-house or hotel"—Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930 (c. 24), s. 1 (3).

For the purposes of the Railways (Valuation for Rating) Act, 1930, it is provided by s. 1 (3) of the Act that "'Railway hereditament' means . . . any hereditament occupied for the purposes of the undertaking. . . . Provided that no premises occupied as a dwelling-house, hotel or place of public refreshment . . . shall be deemed to be, or to form part of, a railway hereditament."

A railway company provided for the use of its staff a hostel and canteen, with recreation, reading and writing rooms, and 256 sleeping cubicles each of which was completely separated from the rest and shut in by breeze block walls. The building of the hostel was necessitated by the lack of local accommodation for railway staff who were away from their home stations. The canteen was open to any employee of the company, approximately 52 per cent. of the meals being served to employees who were not occupying sleeping cubicles, but the rest of the premises was open only to men occupying cubicles. Only servants of the company who were away from their home stations were allowed to occupy the cubicles. The occupants had keys to their cubicles, and were charged one shilling a night. It was shown that most of the occupants dwelt in the hostel for substantial periods :—

Held : while the premises were not " occupied as a . . . hotel " within s. 1 (3), there was no justification for attaching to the words " premises occupied as a dwelling-house " a meaning other than their ordinary meaning, and the hostel was occupied by the company, through the occupants of the cubicles, as a dwelling-house.—RAILWAY ASSESSMENT AUTHORITY v. GREAT WESTERN RAIL. Rates and rating—Assessment—Club—Members' club—Factors not to be taken into account—Profits from sale of liquor—Absence of alternative accommodation—Monopoly of club facilities.

A members' club owned and occupied certain premises which it had purchased and adapted in 1936, when they were valued for rating purposes at £120 gross. In 1946, in proposing an amendment to the valuation list by increasing the rateable value of the premises to £363 gross, the rating authority urged that there should be taken into consideration (i) that profits were made by the club in trading in alcoholic liquors (i.e. by sales in the bar to club members) ; (ii) that it was not, and would not be for some considerable time, possible for the club to find alternative accommodation ; and (iii) that existing clubs in the district had a virtual monopoly of providing club facilities. The valuers advising the assessment committee and the rating authority respectively agreed that apart from those considerations the proper valuation would be £265 gross :—

Held : (i) rent, not profit, was the measure of rateable value, and, while anticipated profit might in certain circumstances be relevant in fixing the rent, the profits from the sale of liquor in the present case was personal to the club and could be made wherever it was housed, and would not, therefore, affect the rent.

(ii) it would be unfair to take into consideration the fact that there were no other similar premises available without also taking into consideration the fact that there was only one hypothetical tenant likely to take the premises, and that, therefore, the club would not be at the mercy of the hypothetical owner, who could not, on that ground, increase the rent payable.

(iii) there was no reason to assume that the absence of any probability of other clubs being formed in the district would cause the club, being a members', and not a proprietary, club, to pay a higher hypothetical rent, and the consideration was irrelevant.—ABEREMAN EX-SERVICEMEN'S CLUB AND INSTITUTE v. ABERDARE URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL, [1948] 1 K. Rates and rating—Valuation list—Amendment—Proposal—Specification of grounds for proposed amendment—Sufficiency—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), s. 37 (2).

On March 13, 1947, a rating authority made a proposal for the amendment of their valuation list in respect of an industrial hereditament assessed therein, giving the grounds of the proposal as: "Existing assessment unfair, incorrect and insufficient." The amendment proposed was not stated. But on the column provided therefor in the form used were entered the words: "To be amended." Below the date appeared the words: "A further communication will be sent to you in due course." On October 3, 1947, a letter was sent by the rating authority to the occupier of the hereditament stating that the assessment proposed was: Net annual value £238, apportioned for industrial purposes £218 and for non-industrial purposes £20, the rateable values being £74, £54 and £20. The corresponding figures of the existing assessment were £97, £61, £36, and £51, £15 and £36:—

Held: the "proposal" of March 13, 1947, alone should be regarded and it was invalid because it did not indicate clearly what the rating authority were proposing.

Rates and rating—Exemptions—Scientific, literary and art societies—Laundries research association—Advice and assistance given to members—Scientific Societies Act, 1843 (c. 36), s. 1.

The British Launderers' Research Association was established for the promotion of research and other scientific work and also, inter alia, "to encourage and improve the education of persons engaged . . . in the laundering industry" and "to disseminate information by giving advice and by the appointment of advisory officers." The courses of instruction included the training of young men in how to run a laundry. There was a system of regular visits to the laundries of members with a view to investigating problems, a fee of £5 5*s.* a day, plus expenses, being charged, producing a revenue, with other fees for advice, of £359, and this had been extended to "development visits" made without charge to discuss with the member how he might make fuller use of the association and by direct observation of the processes and methods in use at his laundry to offer advice and assistance:—

Held: the giving to members of advice, assistance, instruction and training was not merely ancillary or incidental to the scientific purposes for which the association was established, but was a separate purpose of the association of a commercial nature, and, therefore, the association was not "instituted for purposes of science . . . exclusively," within the meaning of s. 1 of the Scientific Societies Act, 1843, and was not exempt from rates.

Per HUMPHREYS, J.: to bring itself within the exemption the society must have one purpose only, viz., the purpose of promoting science. An institution which also contemplates some other, though altogether subsidiary, object cannot claim the benefit of the exemption, but, if the society is proved to have been instituted for the purpose of science exclusively, the society will not lose its right to exemption merely because, in the attainment of that object, it is found convenient or useful to do acts or take steps which will benefit the members of the society in the pursuit of their trade or industry.

Rates and rating—Rateable occupation—Liability for rates—Dwelling-house—Owner occupier removed to mental institution—Order of master in lunacy authorising wife to occupy house rent free on payment of rates—Wife not party to order, but continuing to occupy house with knowledge thereof.

The owner and occupier of a house became insane in 1944 and was removed to a mental institution, but his wife continued to reside in the house. On April 3, 1946, a master in lunacy made an order appointing the county public assistance officer receiver of the husband's estate and declaring (inter alia) that the wife should be allowed the use and occupation, rent free, of the house and furniture, but that she was to pay the rates and taxes out of her own money. The order was made without notice to the wife and she objected to some of its terms, but continued to live in the house. In the rate for the year ending March 31, 1947, the husband was rated as the occupier of the house, but on April 15, 1947, the rating authority amended the rate by adding the wife as joint occupier with the husband, and in the rate made on April 28, 1947, for the year ending March 31, 1948, the husband and wife were rated as joint occupiers :—

Held: although the order of the master in lunacy was not binding on the wife, since she was no party to it, her occupation of the dwelling-house after the date of the order must be regarded as rateable occupation, because she continued to occupy the house in the knowledge that the husband was not in occupation and was not to be treated as in occupation.—ROBINSON v. TAYLOR, [1948] 1 K. Rates and rating—Exemption—Lands belonging to a vicarage—Exemption from parochial taxes under Inclosure Act—Exemption from general rates imposed by Rating and Valuation Act, 1925—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), ss. 2 (1), (2), (3), 64 (1) (b).

By a local Act, the Ramsbury Inclosure Act, 1777, it was provided that all the lands belonging to the vicarage of Ramsbury " shall be and for ever remain free from and discharged of all parochial taxes and duties whatsoever so long as the vicar for the time being " should perform the offices of the church for certain of the poor parishioners " without fee or reward." The question arose whether this exemption operated to exempt lands of the vicarage from the general rate levied under the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 2, and, if so, whether the exemption applied to land which had been let on a lease for 999 years to the rural district council :—

Held: a special exemption, expressed to be perpetual and granted by a local and personal Act to the owner of a particular piece of land, could not be abrogated or impaired by a subsequent statute unless it was addressed in plain language to land: generalia specialibus non derogant; there was no such special cancellation or abrogation in the Act of 1925, but, on the contrary, s. 64 (1) (b) preserved " any exemption from or privilege in respect of rating conferred by any local Act " on the occupiers of a particular hereditament; and the exemption conferred by the Act of 1777 still held good with regard to all the land belonging to the vicarage, including that let on the 999 years' lease.

A rating authority made a proposal to raise the assessment of the respondent's iron and steel works to £80,327 net annual value and £20,082 rateable value, and the proposal was confirmed by the assessment committee. On appeal to Quarter Sessions the assessment was reduced to £58,000 net annual value and £14,500 rateable value. The rating authority and the assessment committee appealed against the substituted assessment on the grounds that the recorder was wrong (i) in reducing the assessment by £6,090 net annual value in respect of four blast furnaces, two fixed steel melting furnaces and sixty-nine coke ovens; (ii) in holding that five tilting melting furnaces, certain gas mains and hot and cold blast mains were not rateable. The tilting furnaces each resembled a large bath thirty feet long and eighteen feet wide weighing over three hundred tons. They were made of steel plates and joists, bolted, riveted and welded together on site, and were lined with brickwork to a considerable thickness. They rested by their own weight on steel rollers, resting on curved roller paths which were themselves supported on concrete piers. The gas and blast mains consisted of 13,000 ft. of steel piping made up of twenty foot lengths, bolted together on site, and resting on, but not attached to, steel vertical supports or metal bridge structures at a height of from ten feet to thirty-five feet from the ground. The external diameter of the mains varied from twenty inches to ninety-six inches, and the hot blast mains were lined with brickwork. It appeared from the Case, that the recorder accepted in their entirety the capital values contained in the valuation made on behalf of the rating authority, and he also accepted the percentages by which, adopting the "contractor's theory" of valuation, the net annual value proposed for the hereditament had been reached. The recorder, however, did not adhere to that theory of valuation when determining the value of the blast furnaces, melting furnaces and coke ovens because they were "short lived", but he adopted instead the "unit basis" of valuation, whereby he assumed a net annual value in respect of each unit. The rating authority argued that the works ought to have been valued as one entire hereditament, and to treat any particular plant as a separate hereditament was to err in law and, further, that as, in conformity with the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 22 (1) (b), the valuation on the "contractor's theory" must be assumed to take into account the obligation to repair and maintain the hereditament, including the short-lived plant, that obligation would be taken twice into account by the further reduction resulting from the method adopted by the recorder:—

Held: (i) it was clear from the Case that the recorder never had in mind more than one hereditament, but that, in arriving at the value of that hereditament, he preferred to consider the blast furnaces, melting furnaces and coke ovens on the "unit basis" rather than on the "contractor's theory", and, in so doing, he was not wrong in law.

(ii) the question whether the obligation to repair and maintain had been taken twice into account was one of fact, and the appeal could only succeed if it were shown that the recorder erred in law.

(iii) the recorder was wrong in applying the test of movability to decide the rateability of the tilting furnaces and gas and blast mains, and both the furnaces and the mains were " in the nature of a building or structure " within the meaning of class 4 of the schedule to the Plant and Machinery (Valuation for Rating) Order, 1927, and, therefore, rateable.

Rates and rating—Valuation list—Amendment—Proposal—Specification of grounds for proposed amendment—" Person aggrieved "—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), s. 37 (1), (2).

A rating authority made a proposal for the amendment of the valuation list by increasing the assessment of a hereditament which was treated as wholly industrial, stating in the proposal form : " The proposed amendment is supported upon the following grounds : That the present assessment is insufficient, incorrect and unfair." The existing assessment was stated, and notice was given that : " The precise assessment desired will be notified at a later date." The assessment committee declined to entertain the proposal on the ground that (a) the proposal was bad because it did not give the information required by the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 37 (2), and (b) the rating authority had not considered the particular premises, but had merely come to the general conclusion that industrial buildings of the type in question in the locality were assessed at too low figures, and, therefore, the authority could not be a " person aggrieved " within s. 37 (1) :—

Held : (i) it was not necessary to state on the proposal form the amount of the increase desired, nor was it necessary to indicate that the proposed amendment was not due to part of the premises being apportioned as non-industrial.

Rating—Beneficial occupation—Structures erected for purpose of carrying out works contract—Temporary structures erected, and used, by contractors on site of aerodrome under construction—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), s. 37 (10).

Contractors engaged on the construction of an aerodrome erected on a part of the site a number of buildings and other structures for the purpose of carrying out the contract. The structures comprised office accommodation for a supervisory staff of from seventy-five to a hundred persons and a workmen's canteen (erected in compliance with the requirements of the contract), garages, carpenters' shop, transport and weigh-bridge huts and concrete mixing plants. The construction of the aerodrome started in June, 1946, and was not expected to be finished before March, 1948, and it had not yet come into occupation. The structures in question were erected in June to October, 1946, and were in use :—

Held: the structures constituted a new hereditament which had come into occupation by the contractors; that the occupation was beneficial occupation since the contractors were occupying the site as licensees to enable them to carry out the contract; and, therefore, that they were in rateable occupation of the hereditament.

Rates and Rating—Valuation list—Amendment—Proposal—Specification of grounds for proposed amendment—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), s. 37 (2) (b).

The Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 37, provides: "(1) Any person (including the county valuation committee and any local authority) who is aggrieved by the incorrectness or unfairness of any matter in the valuation list for the time being in force . . . may make in manner provided by this section a proposal for the amendment of the list (in this section referred to as 'a proposal') . . . (2) Every proposal made under this section must—(a) be made in writing . . . (b) specify the grounds on which the proposed amendment is supported."

A rating authority made a written proposal for the consideration of the assessment committee, sending a copy to the occupier of the two hereditaments with which the proposal was concerned. The proposal stated that the rating authority was "aggrieved by the incorrectness or unfairness of the valuation and assessment of each hereditament in the valuation list." The Schedule stated the amounts of the existing and the proposed valuations, and opposite the words "Grounds of proposal" on the form used were the words "Revised assessments." It was contended that the proposal was invalid under s. 37 (2) because it did not specify the grounds on which the proposed amendments were supported:—

Held: the Schedule made clear the respect and extent to which it was alleged that the existing valuations were incorrect or unfair and, therefore, the proposal satisfied s. 37 (2) (b).

Upper Agbrigg Assessment Committee v. Gartsides (Brookside Brewery), Ltd. and Bents Brewery Co., Ltd., [1945] 1 All E. R. 338, distinguished.

Per cur.: the authorities establish that the proposal must give sufficient information to enable the assessment committee to know (1) whether an increase or a decrease is asked for, it not being necessary for the producer to state in his proposal the precise figure to which the relevant valuation should be increased or reduced; (2) to which of the existing valuations in the rate book the proposal refers; and (3) what is the ground of complaint as to the existing valuation on that head. It is enough to state "incorrect or unfair" unless there is some unusual ground, in which case it ought to be specified.—R. v. WINCHESTER AREA ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE, Ex parte WRIGHT, [1948] 2 K. Rates and rating—Recovery of rate—Distress—Application for issue of warrant—Defence—Allegation that assessment increased on defective proposal.

On an application for the issue of a distress warrant for non-payment of rates, the ratepayer cannot set up a defect in the proposal for the amendment of the valuation list, pursuant to which the increased rates were demanded.

Rates and rating—Assessment—Building occupied in part—Occupation by lodger or tenant—Owner occupying rest of house—Presumption that other occupant a lodger—Right to assess part separately—Rating and Valuation Act, 1925 (c. 90), s. 23 (1).

The owner of a house, who himself occupied three rooms and a kitchen-scullery on the ground floor and one room on the first floor, let to one M. two rooms and a kitchen-scullery on the first floor, with the right to use, in common with himself, the combined bathroom and W.C. on that floor, the upper landings, the entrance hall, the front and back doors and the yard and outside W.C., to get to which there was a right to go through the down-stairs rooms. The rent included payment for the use of the carpet on the stairs and in the hall and of linoleum in the rooms let, and the owner kept the hall and the landings clean:—

Held: the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, s. 23 (1) did not give the rating authorities an unfettered discretion in such a case either to divide the house into two hereditaments for rating purposes or to rate it as one hereditament, but, the owner being resident on the premises, there was a presumption that M. was a lodger only, and, there being no evidence to show that the relationship of landlord and tenant had been created between the owner and M., the owner must be deemed to be in occupation of the whole house as a single hereditament and chargeable to rates as such.

Provided that the Registrar-General or the superintendent registrar or the registrar, as the case may be, may dispense with the furnishing of any of the said particulars which in his opinion it is not reasonably practicable for the applicant to furnish. [4214]

5. Manner of compilation of short certificate and particulars to be contained therein.—(1) A short birth certificate to which these regulations apply shall be compiled in accordance with and shall contain the particulars required by paragraphs (2) to (4) of this regulation.

(ii) the date of his birth ;

(iii) the name and surname of his adopter, or, as the case may be, his adopters, under the said Act ; and

(iv) the date upon which, and the name of the Court by which, the order authorising his adoption under the said Act was made ;

(b) in any other case—

(i) the name and surname of the registered person ;

(ii) the date of his birth ;

(iii) the name and surname of his father ;

(iv) the name, surname and maiden surname of his mother ; and

Provided that the Registrar-General may dispense with the furnishing of any of the said particulars which in his opinion it is not reasonably practicable for the applicant to furnish. [4221]

PETROLEUM-SPIRIT (CONVEYANCE) REGULATIONS, 1948

S.I. 1948 No. 1758

July 27, 1948

In pursuance of the power conferred on me by section six of the Petroleum (Consolidation) Act, 1928, I hereby make the following Regulations :—

1. For paragraph (1) of Regulation 9 of the Petroleum-Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1939 (which relates to the conveyance of petroleum-spirit by road and provides that the spirit shall be conveyed in strong metal vessels in good condition and securely closed so as to prevent leakage), there shall be substituted the following paragraph :—

" (1) The petroleum-spirit shall be conveyed in a vessel which is securely closed so as to prevent leakage through the opening and which is either—

(a) of metal and in good condition, or

(b) of glass, earthenware or other material of such a nature that it will not permit leakage and is otherwise suitable for the purpose, and in such a case each vessel shall—

(i) not contain more than one pint of petroleum spirit, and

(ii) be packed in sawdust, wood chippings or other suitable material, in quantity sufficient to prevent movement or breakage, inside an outer container of metal, wood, fibre or cardboard which is capable of withstanding the ordinary risks of handling and transport and is securely closed during conveyance, and any outer container in which any such vessel is packed shall not contain in the aggregate more than three gallons of petroleum-spirit." [4225]

2. These Regulations may be cited as the Petroleum-Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1948, and shall come into operation on the second day of August, 1948. [4226]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

Under Regulation 9 of the Petroleum-Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1939, petroleum-spirit may, in the circumstances in which that Regulation applies, be conveyed by road only in strong metal vessels. The amendment made by these Regulations permits the conveyance in vessels of other suitable materials when the vessels contain not more than one pint each and are securely packed into an outer container so that there are not more than three gallons in the aggregate in each outer container.

CASES

Coal—Control—Distribution—" Licensed merchant "—Unincorporate body —Committee registered as licensed merchant—Agent of committee—Interpretation Act, 1889 (c. 63), s. 19—Coal Distribution Order, 1943 (S. R. & O., 1943, No. 1138), arts. 2, 78.

The appellant was the secretary of a committee of workmen and employees at a steelworks which was formed to supply its members with coal for domestic use. On the appellant's application, the committee was registered as coal merchants and a certificate of registration was issued in its name. The appellant, acting in the course of his employment, ordered coal to be supplied to premises which were not within the terms of the committee's authorisation. The appellant was charged that, being a licensed merchant, he unlawfully supplied coal to those premises contrary to the Coal Distribution Order, 1943, art. 2. It was not disputed that, if the appellant was a licensed merchant, he was guilty of the offence charged :—

Held : by virtue of the Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 19, the committee was a " person " within the meaning of art. 78 of the Order of 1943, and was, therefore, a licensed merchant within that article and art. 2 of the Order, and, under the terms of art. 78, the appellant, as the committee's agent, was also a licensed merchant for the purposes of the Order.

Per cur. : it is inconvenient to register under the Order an unincorporate body as such. It would be preferable that in the case of a committee, a club, or other association, one or, perhaps, two members " and others trading as aforesaid," or the manager, or other officer, should be registered as the licensed merchant.—DAVEY v. SHAWCROFT, [1948] 1 All E. MOTOR SPIRIT (REGULATION) ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 34)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

This Act, which received the Royal Assent on May 28, 1948, and came into force with effect from June 1, 1948, implements the proposals of the Russell Vick Committee on Evasions of Petrol Rationing Control (Cmd. 7372).

The Committee recommended that petrol should be divided into " commercial " and " private " petrol and that the former should be coloured red by introducing a red dye to distinguish it from private petrol which is dyed yellow. Commercial coupons should be issued to commercial users, and private coupons to private users, and a commercial coupon should not be used for private petrol or vice versa.

Petrol retailers should be compelled to mark their pumps "Commercial" or "Private" according to the type of petrol supplied therefrom, and severe penalties were suggested for breaches of the system recommended.

The Government accepted the principal proposals of the Committee; accordingly, the division of petrol into commercial spirit and private spirit took full effect from June 1, 1948, and under the Defence (General) Regulations, 1939, S. R. & O., 1939, No. 927, as amended, all garage proprietors were required to mark their pumps "Commercial" or "Private" by May 18, 1948, from which date the Petroleum Board started delivery of red commercial petrol to commercial pumps (Motor Spirit (Regulation) Order, 1948, S.I. 1948 No. 1020, post (now expired).

Apart from the division of petrol into these two categories the Act is concerned with the imposition of severe penalties for failure to comply with the obligations imposed. Ss. 1, 2 and 3 create a series of new criminal offences falling into three main groups:

(a) Offences by retailers of motor spirit;
(b) Offences by private motorists; and
(c) Other offences.

Each of these will be dealt with in turn, and it may be observed at this stage that in all the cases discussed, except where otherwise stated, proceedings are only to be taken either by a constable or by or with the consent of the Minister of Fuel and Power or the Director of Public Prosecutions (s. 9).

In the first place, by s. 1 of the Act the retailer is required to mark his pumps with the word "Commercial" or "Private" as the case may be, and it is an offence for him to supply motor spirit from a pump not so marked. Next, it is an offence for him to have commercial petrol in a pump not designated as "Commercial," and it is a further offence for him to supply commercial petrol into the tank of a private motor vehicle. The expression "private motor vehicle" is defined in reg. 1 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1127), post, as substituted with effect from December 1, 1948, by reg. 2 of the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2442). Each of these Instruments was made under s. 12 of the Act.

Under s. 2, relating to offences by the private motorist, the first offence is to have commercial petrol in the tank of a private motor vehicle, and the owner of the vehicle and the person then in charge of it (if a different person) will each be liable. The second offence is the acquisition of commercial petrol for use in a private motor vehicle.

By s. 3 offences of a consequential type are created and may be committed by individuals other than retailers of motor spirit or private motorists. It is an offence for anyone to put commercial petrol into a retail pump not marked "Commercial." Secondly, it is an offence for anyone to put commercial petrol into the tank of a private motor vehicle in circumstances which do not come within s. 1, supra; this provision would catch such persons as practical jokers or maliciously minded individuals who might inject commercial petrol into the tank of a private car, and also garage hands serving petrol. Thirdly, it is an offence for any person to tamper with the ingredients of commercial petrol, or to add the prescribed ingredients to any motor spirit except as may be prescribed by the Act and regulations made thereunder, e.g. on the analysis or testing of motor spirit by a person authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power or the Petroleum Board for the purpose of detecting an offender.

Finally, if a person who discovers commercial petrol in the tank of his private motor vehicle fails to remove it from the tank as soon as practicable he commits an offence (s. 3 (2)).

It follows from the preceding rules that once the police have discovered the presence of the wrong petrol in a pump or in the tank of a private motor vehicle, there is a prima facie case against the offender, and the Act places the onus of proof on him to establish his innocence.

There are special defences available to retailers of motor spirit. First, where a retailer of motor spirit is charged with the offence of having commercial petrol in a pump not marked "Commercial" he may show in defence that:

(a) The commercial petrol was put into the pump without his consent or connivance or without his knowing that it was commercial petrol, and

(b) That he exercised all reasonable diligence to prevent the petrol being put into the pump, and

(c) If he afterwards discovered its presence in the pump that he forthwith took all reasonable steps to secure either (i) removal of the petrol or (ii) the marking of the pump with the word " Commercial."

The clause in question is not without its difficulties of construction.

The object of this defence is to protect the retailer from suffering a penalty where he had no wrongful intention in the matter and has not been culpably careless.

In the second place, where the retailer is charged with supplying commercial petrol into the tank of a private motor vehicle it will be a defence for him to prove :

(a) That the commercial petrol was supplied without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all reasonable diligence to prevent such supply ; or alternatively

(b) That the person who put the petrol into the tank of the vehicle (whether he was the person charged or another) acted in the reasonable belief that it was not a private motor vehicle.

The definition of the expression " private motor vehicle " has already been referred to, and these defences provide, inter alia, for protection in respect of the garage hand or someone in charge of a pump who might be misled or possibly tricked into putting red petrol into a car which he thought was a commercial vehicle but which was in fact a private motor vehicle.

Next, special defences are available to private motorists. A private motorist charged with having commercial petrol in the tank of his private car may set up as a defence :

(a) That he was not present or in charge of the vehicle when the petrol was put into the tank and that it was put into the tank without his consent or connivance ; or alternatively

(b) That, being " present or in charge of the vehicle when the petrol was put into the tank," he did not know that it was commercial petrol and exercised all reasonable diligence to prevent such petrol being put into the tank.

On the other hand, any person charged with acquiring commercial petrol for use in a private motor vehicle may prove :

(a) That the petrol was acquired without his knowing that it was commercial petrol, and

(b) That he did not neglect to take any step which in the circumstances he might reasonably have been expected to take to prevent the acquisition of the petrol.

Finally, certain special defences are applicable in other cases. Where a person is charged with putting commercial petrol into the tank of a private motor vehicle in circumstances which do not come within the scope of s. 1, it is a valid defence for him to prove that he acted in a reasonable belief that the vehicle was not a private motor vehicle. This would cover, for example, the case of the garage employee who made a bona fide mistake as to the category of vehicle he refilled. There is also a general saving from offences as to tampering with the petrol itself in relation to acts of authorised agents of the Ministry of Fuel and Power or in respect of the enforcement of the Act (s. 3 (1), provisos).

If, however, these various defences fail, the Act provides for severe penalties of two kinds : first, penalties of disqualification, which are automatic ; and secondly the more usual provisions for fine or imprisonment or both, which are at the discretion of the court. In each case the disqualifications apply where a person is convicted and by s. 13 (2) of the Act " conviction " is given the widest interpretation.

Under s. 4 the retailer convicted of having commercial petrol in a pump not so marked under s. 1 (2) (a) of the Act, is automatically disqualified for a period of twelve months after conviction from carrying on, directly or indirectly, at the offending installation the business of dealing in motor spirit. In addition, the convicting court has a discretion to order forfeiture of any motor spirit belonging to the offender at the premises.

If on the other hand he is convicted, under para. (b) of the same subsection, of supplying commercial petrol to a private motor vehicle he is disqualified for a similar period from carrying on at the offending installation the business of dealing in commercial petrol, though he can still deal in private petrol. Here there is a discretion for the court to order forfeiture of any commercial petrol (not "any motor spirit" as in the previous case) belonging to the offender at the premises.

If convicted under s. 3 (1) (c) or (d), of removing from commercial petrol any of the prescribed ingredients or of adding any ingredients to commercial petrol with a view to neutralising the prescribed ingredients or of aiding or abetting any such offence, he is disqualified for the same period from carrying on the business of dealing in both commercial and private petrol at any premises, and not merely at the offending installation, and any motor spirit belonging to the offender may, if the court thinks fit, be ordered to be forfeited.

Provision is made by s. 4 (6) for the court to suspend the operation of the disqualification pending the hearing of an appeal against conviction under any of the three heads before mentioned. It was recognised that the disqualification of a retail dealer owning an isolated installation in a remote area might work hardship on innocent owners of vehicles, so that sub-s. (7) of the same section allows the court in such circumstances a discretion to order that the suspension shall not apply, a severe penalty of cash forfeiture being imposed in its place.

Under s. 5, a number of disqualifications and special penalties are imposed on the private motorist. If, being the owner of the car, a person is convicted of any offence under s. 2, neither he nor any other person may hold a licence in respect of that car for twelve months after the conviction. If, on the other hand, he is not the owner of the car at the time of conviction (e.g. where between the commission of the offence and the hearing he has sold it to a third party) he automatically forfeits half the value of the car. Provision is further made under this section for a convicted motorist who owns the car at the time of conviction to produce his registration book to the court for endorsement of the conviction and to surrender the licence held by him in respect of that vehicle. A provision requiring the court to forward the licence with particulars of the disqualification to the relevant registration authority is designed to stop the issue of duplicate licences to unscrupulous applicants. In addition, the offender is prohibited from holding a driving licence for twelve months after conviction, and due provision for enforcing this disqualification is made. The usual effect is therefore that the offending motorist and the "offending" car are taken off the road for twelve months. Innocent prospective purchasers of a car can, however, protect themselves by inspecting its registration book which will record any disqualification.

In order to avoid undue hardship to a motorist who is in doubt about selling his car because of a possible prosecution under the Act, s. 5 (8) provides that the provisions for automatic disqualification are not to apply unless the motorist has received within twenty-eight days of commission of the offence a warning that prosecution is under consideration or has been served with a summons within three months of the commission of the offence. The ordinary time limit for prosecutions of this kind in a court of summary jurisdiction is six months, though special periods have frequently been laid down for specific types of offence.

S. 6 of the Act relates to appeals against conviction for an offence under s. 2 or for aiding and abetting any such offence. Under the former section, among other provisions, the court concerned or the Appeal Court may in its discretion suspend any disqualifications until an appeal has been decided. When such suspension is allowed the court will return the licences to the accused who, while the appeal is pending, may then use his car in the ordinary way. If the appeal fails, the case will be remitted to the court which heard the original case, upon which event the suspension will come to an end.

Under s. 7, a convicted person who is suffering disqualification, whether as retailer or private motorist, for twelve months may at the expiration of six months apply to the court to remove the disqualification, and if the court, having regard to the circumstances at the time of the application, considers there is good reason for doing so, it may remove or shorten the disqualification.

In addition to the automatic penalty of disqualification, additional penalties of fine and imprisonment are applicable under s. 8 of the Act. Where a person convicted of any offence under the Act is a body corporate, the fine that may be imposed is unlimited (s. 8 (3)). Furthermore, in such case every person who at the date of the offence was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the company, or was purporting to act in any such capacity, also commits an offence, subject to special defences and safeguards (ss. 8 and 9).

S. 10 contains general provisions authorising an officer of police of a rank not lower than that of superintendent and any person authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power on production of his authority to enter at all reasonable hours any premises, e.g. car parks, garages, depots, etc., other than private dwellings, to ascertain if an offence has been committed or in connection with motor spirit on the premises. Similar power is given to take samples of motor spirit on the premises or in a motor vehicle in any public place. It is an offence to obstruct any such person. The special conditions under which the samples are to be obtained are modelled on the provisions of ss. 70 and 80 of the Food and Drugs Act, 1938 (10 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 445, 454).

A certificate signed by an authorised analyst in relation to a test of motor spirit made by him is to be evidence in any proceedings (s. 11), provided a copy thereof has been served on the accused not less than seven days before the trial. But it is open to the accused, not less than three days before the trial or within such further period as the court may allow, to serve notice on the prosecution requiring the personal attendance of the analyst himself, in which case the certificate becomes inadmissible.

S. 12 authorises the Minister of Fuel and Power by statutory instrument to make regulations prescribing anything required to be prescribed by any provision of the Act. In pursuance of this section on May 28, 1948, the Minister made the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1127), post, which came into force with effect from June 1, 1948. These regulations were amended as from December 1, 1948, by the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2442), and as from March 17, 1949, by the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 406). An Act to create certain offences in connection with the supply and use of motor spirit, and for purposes connected therewith. [4237]

[28th May, 1948.]

1. Offences by retailers of motor spirit.—(1) Every person who carries on the business of supplying motor spirit by retail shall cause all pumps used for the purpose of such supply to be marked in the prescribed manner either with the word "Commercial" or with the word "Private", and if any such person supplies motor spirit by retail from a pump which is not so marked he shall be guilty of an offence. [4238]

(2) If any such person as aforesaid—

(a) has in any such pump which is not marked with the word "Commercial" as aforesaid motor spirit which contains any of the prescribed ingredients (hereafter in this Act referred to as "commercial petrol"); or

(b) supplies commercial petrol into the tank of a motor vehicle of such class or description as may be prescribed (hereafter in this Act referred to as a " private motor vehicle ") ;

he shall be guilty of an offence :

Provided that it shall be a defence—

(i) for any person charged with the offence mentioned in paragraph (a) hereof to prove that the commercial petrol was put into the pump without his consent or connivance or without his knowing that it was commercial petrol, and that he exercised all reasonable diligence to prevent the petrol being put into the pump, and, if he afterwards discovered its presence in the pump, that he forthwith took all reasonable steps to secure the removal of the petrol or the marking of the pump with the word " Commercial " ;

(ii) for any person charged with the offence mentioned in paragraph (b) hereof to prove that the commercial petrol was supplied without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all reasonable diligence to prevent such supply or to prove that the person who put the petrol into the tank of the vehicle (whether it was the person charged or another person) acted in the reasonable belief that it was not a private motor vehicle. [4239]

General note.—Note that it is no offence under the section to sell private petrol for a commercial vehicle, though this is subject to administrative control (see 450 H. of C. Official Report 927–8).

Motor spirit.—See reg. 2 (1) of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1127), post.

Pumps.—For definition, see s. 13, post.

To be marked in the prescribed manner.—Detailed instructions for the marking of pumps will be found in reg. 5 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post.

Guilty of an offence.—For disqualifications and penalties, see ss. 4 and 8, post.

Any of the prescribed ingredients.—The single prescribed ingredient to be added to motor spirit to make it commercial petrol is diphenylamine (reg. 3 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post). Note that " red colouring matter of a prescribed description", as in s. 3 (1) (f), post, is not a " prescribed ingredient".

Private motor vehicle.—This expression is defined by reg. 1 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post, as substituted with effect from December 1, 1948, by reg. 2 of the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2442).

It shall be a defence.—In the case of both the offences mentioned in this section there is a prima facie case established against the person responsible under the Act. Whereas it is the common law rule that in a criminal prosecution the burden of establishing the guilt of the accused lies on the prosecution, in this Act it is necessary for the prosecution to prove only certain preliminary facts, e.g. that a retailer has commercial petrol in a private pump, and it is then for the accused to establish his innocence if he can. There is, however, a lighter burden on the defence than the burden laid upon the prosecution at common law. Whereas at common law the prosecution must establish the guilt of the accused " beyond a reasonable doubt", in cases where the statute throws the onus on the defence to prove innocence the accused has done sufficient if he satisfies the Court of the probability and reasonableness of his story (R. v. Carr-Briant, [1943] K. B. 607 ; [1943] 2 All E. R. 156).

Consent or connivance.—" Consent " in this context appears to mean a full agreement on the part of the party charged with commission of the offence, whilst " connivance " (from the Latin connivere (to wink)) indicates that while the party charged need not have given his full consent at least he " turned a blind eye " to what was going on.

Reasonable diligence.—See The Europa (1863), 2 New Rep. 194, per Dr. LUSHINGTON, at p. 196, and Re Jenners, Willis v. Earl Howe (1880), 50 L.J. (ch.) 4.

Guilty of an offence.—As to penalties for offences, see s. 8, post.

2. Offences by private motorists.—(1) If at any time commercial petrol is present in the tank of a private motor vehicle, the owner of the vehicle and the person (if he is a different person) then in charge of the vehicle shall each be guilty of an offence :

Provided that it shall be a defence for any person charged with such an offence to prove—

(a) that he was not present or in charge of the vehicle when the petrol was put into the tank, and that it was put into the tank without his consent or connivance ; or

(b) that he was present or in charge of the vehicle when the petrol was put into the tank, but that he did not know that it was commercial petrol and did not neglect to take any step which in the circumstances he might reasonably have been expected to take to prevent such petrol being put into the tank. [4240]

(2) If any person acquires any commercial petrol for use in a private motor vehicle, he shall be guilty of an offence :

Provided that it shall be a defence for any person charged with such an offence to prove—

(a) that the petrol was acquired without his knowing that it was commercial petrol ; and

(b) that he did not neglect to take any step which in the circumstances he might reasonably have been expected to take to prevent the acquisition of the petrol. [4241]

Owner.—For definition, see s. 13 (1), post. In certain circumstances this may mean the late owner.

Person in charge of the vehicle.—Difficult problems have arisen in other connections where the driver of a car has temporarily gone away leaving another person in the car. Is the latter in charge ? The answer will depend on all the circumstances, including sex and age, whether he can drive, the seat in which he is sitting, the position of the car, the person's relation to the driver, the status of the driver, and the length of his absence.

Guilty of an offence.—For disqualifications and penalties, see ss. 5 to 8, post.

It shall be a defence.—As to the burden of proof, see the notes to s. 1, ante.

Consent or connivance.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

Commercial petrol.—Motor spirit containing the prescribed ingredient of diphenylamine (see s. 1 and the notes thereto).

3. Other offences.—(1) If any person—

(a) puts commercial petrol into a pump used for the purpose of the supply by retail of motor spirit, not being a pump marked in the prescribed manner with the word " Commercial " ;

(b) puts commercial petrol into the tank of a private motor vehicle in circumstances which do not make him guilty of an offence under section one of this Act ;

(c) removes from any commercial petrol any of the prescribed ingredients ;

(d) adds any ingredients to any commercial petrol with a view to neutralising, disguising, or producing any chemical change in, any of the prescribed ingredients ;

(e) adds any of the prescribed ingredients to any motor spirit ; or

(f) except in such cases and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, adds to any motor spirit or removes from any commercial petrol any red colouring matter of a prescribed description ;

he shall be guilty of an offence :

Provided that

(i) it shall be a defence for any person charged with the offence mentioned in paragraph (b) hereof to prove that he acted in the reasonable belief that the vehicle was not a private motor vehicle ; and

(ii) anything done by a person authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power or the Petroleum Board or done for the purposes of the enforcement of this Act or in connection with any proceedings in respect of an offence under this Act shall not constitute any such offence as is mentioned in paragraph (c), paragraph (d), paragraph (e) or paragraph (f) hereof. [4242]

(2) Where the owner or the person in charge of a private motor vehicle discovers that commercial petrol is in the tank of the vehicle he shall, notwithstanding that the circumstances afford him a good defence to a charge under section two of this Act, take steps, as soon as is reasonably practicable, to remove the petrol from the tank, and if he fails to do so, he shall be guilty of an offence. [4243]

Commercial petrol.—Motor spirit containing the prescribed ingredient of diphenylamine (see s. 1 and the notes thereto).

Except . . . as may be prescribed.—By reg. 4 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post, no person is to be guilty of an offence under sub-s. (1) (f) of this section by reason only that that person lawfully adds to the motor spirit contained in the tank of any motor vehicle: (a) any upper cylinder lubricant; or (b) any other motor spirit containing any red dye as therein mentioned, not being commercial petrol.

Red colouring matter of a prescribed description.—Any red dye consisting mainly of diazotised amino-azo-toluene coupled with β naphthol (reg. 4 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post).

Guilty of an offence.—For penalties, see s. 8, post.

It shall be a defence.—As to the burden of proof, see the notes to s. 1, ante.

Petroleum Board.—This Board was a trade body comprising high officials and members of the oil industry serving in a voluntary capacity under the control of the Minister of Fuel and Power. With effect from June 30, 1948, the Board was dissolved and its functions were transferred to the Minister of Fuel and Power.

Owner; Person in charge.—See the notes to s. 2, ante.

4. Disqualification of retail dealers for twelve months after conviction.—(1) If any person who carries on the business of supplying motor spirit by retail is convicted of the offence mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of section one of this Act, then, subject as hereinafter provided, he shall not, for a period of twelve months after the conviction, carry on at the premises where the offence occurred the business of acquiring and selling motor spirit, or be concerned in any manner whatsoever, whether directly or indirectly, in the carrying on of such a business at those premises, and the court by which he was convicted may order that any motor spirit at those premises belonging to that person shall be forfeited to the Crown. [4244]

(2) If any such person as aforesaid is convicted of the offence mentioned in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section one of this Act, then, subject as hereinafter provided, he shall not, for a period of twelve months after the conviction, carry on at the premises where the offence occurred the business of acquiring and selling commercial petrol, or be concerned in any manner whatsoever, whether directly or indirectly, in the carrying on of such a business at those premises, and the court by which he was convicted may order that any commercial petrol at those premises belonging to that person shall be forfeited to the Crown. [4245]

(3) If any such person as aforesaid is convicted of the offence mentioned in paragraph (c) or the offence mentioned in paragraph (d) of section three of this Act, or of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of such an offence, then, subject as hereinafter provided, he shall not, for a period of twelve months after the conviction, carry on at any premises the business of acquiring and selling motor spirit, or be concerned in any manner whatsoever, whether directly or indirectly, in the carrying on of such a business at any premises, and the court by which he was convicted may order that any motor spirit belonging to that person shall be forfeited to the Crown. [4246]

(4) Any person who contravenes any of the preceding provisions of this section shall be guilty of an offence. [4247]

(5) The court by which any such person as aforesaid is convicted of such an offence as is mentioned in any of the first three subsections of this section, shall inform that person of the disability imposed on him by the subsection in question. [4248]

(6) Where any person gives notice of appeal against his conviction for any such offence as is mentioned in any of the first three subsections of this section, the court by which he was convicted or any court of summary jurisdiction for the same petty sessional division or place as that court or the court to which the appeal is to be made may, if it thinks fit, pending the appeal by order suspend the operation of that subsection in relation to that conviction, and, if it does so and the appeal is dismissed or abandoned, this section shall have effect as if for the references to a period of twelve months after the conviction there were substituted references to a period of twelve months after the dismissal or abandonment of the appeal less the period (if any) between the date of the conviction and the date of the order of the court under this subsection.

For the purposes of this subsection, the bringing of proceedings before the High Court to quash a conviction by order of certiorari shall be deemed to be an appeal. [4249]

(7) Where any person would, by reason of the disability imposed by any of the first three subsections of this section, be prohibited from carrying on the business of acquiring and selling motor spirit, or acquiring and selling commercial petrol, as the case may be, at any premises, and the court by which that person was convicted is satisfied, on his application, that it is expedient in the public interest, by reason that other facilities for acquiring motor spirit or, as the case may be, commercial petrol are not available within a reasonable distance, not being less than five miles by road, of those premises, that he should be permitted to carry on the said business at those premises, the court may direct that the said disability shall not have effect or, in the case of a disability imposed under subsection (3), shall not have effect as respects those premises, and in that case the said person shall, without prejudice to the imposition of any penalty under the following provisions of this Act, forfeit the following sums :—

(a) in a case where the disability arises under subsection (1) or subsection (3), the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds for each pump in use at or about the time of the commission of the offence for supplying motor spirit ; or

(b) if the disability arises under subsection (2), the sum of one hundred and twenty-five pounds for each pump in use at or about the time of the commission of the offence for supplying commercial petrol ;

and the payment of those sums shall be enforced and they shall be applied in the same manner as a fine imposed by the court. [4250]

Motor spirit.—See reg. 2 (1) of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post.

The business of acquiring and selling motor spirit.—A person convicted is not prevented from carrying on any garage, etc., on the premises at which the offence took place if he can do so without carrying on the business of acquiring and selling motor spirit ; the practical effect is that his petrol pumps (or his commercial pumps, as the case may be) are put out of action for sales for twelve months, reducible to a minimum of six (s. 7 (1), post). When the Bill was under discussion in the House of Lords on May 26, 1948, the Lord Chancellor drew the attention of the House to the fact that the wording was "acquiring and selling" and not "acquiring or selling", and he went on to express the view that if what the dealer did was to acquire the spirit not with a view to selling but with a view to using it in some other business, there would be no prohibition under the section (155 H. of L. Official Report 1014).

Is convicted.—For the wide definition of this term, see s. 13 (2), post.

Directly or indirectly.—The disqualification not only prevents the person convicted from carrying on his motor spirit business but also from "being concerned in any manner whatsoever, directly or indirectly, in the carrying on of such a business at those premises", the aim being to avoid evasion of the disqualification, e.g. by the offender transferring the business to a third party and installing himself as manager.

May order.—Note the discretion allowed to the Court in respect of forfeiture.

Aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring.—Every person who aids, abets, counsels or procures the commission of any offence punishable on summary conviction is liable to conviction, either together with the principal offender or before or after his conviction, and is liable to the same forfeiture and punishment as such principal offender is liable. Proceedings may be taken in the same Court as the principal offender or in that for the place where the aiding and abetting have been committed (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848, s. 5 ; 11 Halsbury's Statutes 275). As to the form of charge, see Bowker v. Premier Drug Co., [1928] 1 K. B. 217, and Stone's Justices' Manual, 80th Edn., at pp. 68–69, and the cases there cited.

Guilty of an offence.—For penalties, see s. 8 (2), post.

Less the period, etc.—That is to say, the offender is to be given credit for any period between the conviction and the suspension, during which the disqualification would, of course, operate.

By order of certiorari.—Certiorari lies for the removal to the King's Bench Division of judicial acts of inferior courts and authorities. It is appropriate for quashing convictions because of defects in or informality of the proceedings, improper conduct of the court below and excess of jurisdiction. For the form and mode of application, see R. S. C., Ord. 59, rr. 1 (a), 3–10. Under sub-s. (6), supra, proceedings by way of certiorari are deemed to be an appeal, so that disqualifications may be suspended until they are finally determined or abandoned.

5. Disqualifications and special penalties in respect of offences by private motorists.—(1) If any person, being the owner of a private motor vehicle in respect of which he holds or ought to hold a licence under section thirteen of the Finance Act, 1920, or under that section as it applies in Northern Ireland, commits an offence under section two of this Act in respect of that vehicle and is convicted of that offence, then—

(a) if the court decides that he remains the owner of the vehicle at the time of the conviction, any such licence which he holds in respect of the vehicle shall cease to have effect, and it shall not be lawful, for a period of twelve months after the conviction, for him or for any other person to hold or obtain such a licence in respect of the vehicle; and

(b) in any other case he shall, without prejudice to the imposition of any penalty under section eight of this Act, forfeit such sum as may be determined by the court to be equal to half the value of the vehicle and the payment of that sum shall be enforced and the sum shall be applied in the same manner as a fine imposed by the court. [4251]

(2) If any person uses a private motor vehicle without such a licence as aforesaid during a period for which he is disqualified by the preceding subsection for holding or obtaining such a licence in respect of the vehicle, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act and not under section thirteen of the Roads Act, 1920, or under that section as it applies in Northern Ireland. [4252]

(3) If any person, being the owner of a private motor vehicle in respect of which he holds or ought to hold such a licence as aforesaid, commits an offence under section two of this Act in respect of that vehicle and, while he remains the owner, is convicted of that offence, he shall forthwith produce to the court the registration book of that vehicle and, if the court makes a decision under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section,—

(a) he shall forthwith deliver to the court any licence which he holds under section thirteen of the Finance Act, 1920, or under that section as it applies in Northern Ireland, in respect of that vehicle;

(b) the court shall order that particulars of the conviction and of the disqualification imposed by the said paragraph (a) shall be endorsed on that registration book, and if another registration book is issued in respect of that vehicle during the period of the disqualification, the particulars of the endorsement shall be copied on to that other registration book;

(c) the court shall forward to the council of the county or county borough with whom the vehicle is registered any licence delivered under this subsection and send to that council particulars of the conviction and of the said disqualification, and for the purposes of section eighteen of the Finance Act, 1924, or section four of the Finance Act (Northern Ireland), 1924, the licence shall be deemed to have been surrendered by the holder thereof immediately before the conviction. [4253]

(4) If any person is convicted of an offence under section two of this Act, or of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of such an offence,—

(a) any licence held by him under Part I of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, or Part I of the Motor Vehicles (Traffic and Regulation) Act

(Northern Ireland), 1926, as amended by any other Act of the Parliament of Northern Ireland, to drive a motor vehicle shall cease to have effect, and he shall be disqualified for holding or obtaining such a licence for a period of twelve months after the conviction;

(b) he shall forthwith after the conviction deliver any such licence to the court, and the court shall forward the licence and send particulars of the conviction and disqualification to the council of the county or county borough by whom the licence was granted; and

(c) the court shall, if not required to do so by the last preceding paragraph, send such particulars to the council of the county or county borough in which the convicted person resides. [4254]

(5) If any person who is disqualified under the last preceding subsection for holding or obtaining such a licence as aforesaid applies for or obtains another such licence while he is so disqualified, he shall be guilty of an offence and any licence obtained by him while so disqualified shall be of no effect, and if any person while he is so disqualified drives a motor vehicle on a road, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act and not under section four of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, or under section three of the Motor Vehicles (Traffic and Regulation) Act (Northern Ireland), 1926. [4255]

(6) Where any person is, in consequence of his conviction for an offence, disqualified under this section for holding or obtaining a licence in respect of a private motor vehicle or for holding or obtaining a licence to drive a motor vehicle, the court by which he was convicted shall inform him of that disqualification. [4256]

(7) Any person who fails to comply with any requirement of this section as to the delivery of a licence or the production of a registration book to the court shall be guilty of an offence. [4257]

(8) Subsections (1) and (3) of this section shall not apply in relation to the conviction of any person for any offence unless either—

(a) within twenty-eight days of the commission of the offence, notice was given to that person warning him that the question of prosecuting him for an offence under section two of this Act would be taken into consideration; or

(b) within three months of the commission of the offence a summons for the offence was served on that person. [4258]

General note.—In construing this section it is important to distinguish between "car licences" (sub-ss. (1)–(3), (8)) and "driving licences" (sub-ss. (4) and (5)). Sub-ss. (6) and (7) apply to both.

Finance Act, 1920, s. 13.—16 Halsbury's Statutes 852. This section provides for the rates of excise duty on licences for mechanically propelled vehicles. The section applies to Northern Ireland and the object of the qualification "as it applies in Northern Ireland", and similar phrases, is to prevent a motorist disqualified under the present Act in England from later procuring a licence for his car in Northern Ireland which owing to the interavailability of licences he could then use in England. The converse position is also covered.

Is convicted.—For the wide definition of this term, see s. 13 (2), post.

Remains the owner of the vehicle.—Note the definition of "owner" in s. 13 (1), post. Disqualification of the car is avoided if the offender has ceased to be owner at the time of his conviction, in which case a pecuniary forfeiture is substituted.

In respect of the vehicle.—Any other cars registered in the offender's name would be unaffected, but the offender would be disqualified from driving them himself for the twelve (reducible to six) months for which his driving disqualification held good (sub-s. (4), supra).

As may be determined.—It will be for the convicting court to determine the value of the vehicle, but if the offender is dissatisfied with the determination he may appeal against it in the same way as he would against conviction (s. 6 (4), post).

Guilty of an offence under this Act.—For the penalties applicable, see s. 8 (2), post.

Roads Act, 1920, s. 13.—19 Halsbury's Statutes 97.

Council of the county or county borough.—The levying of duties on mechanically-propelled vehicles and other carriages is the responsibility of county and county borough councils (Roads Act, 1920, ss. 1 and 17; 19 Halsbury's Statutes 85, 99).

Finance Act, 1924, s. 18.—16 Halsbury's Statutes 923. This section provides that the holder of a motor licence may surrender it to the council from which it was obtained in exchange for a refund of duty.

Aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring.—See the notes to s. 4, ante.

Road Traffic Act, 1930.—23 Halsbury's Statutes 607.

Within twenty-eight days.—This subsection sets out two alternative time-limits for proceedings under sub-ss. (1) and (3), supra. It is proposed that in the vast majority of cases the procedure by notice under para. (a) of sub-s. (8) will be followed (see 451 H. of C. Official Report 497), and motorists who do not receive such notice within twenty-eight days after the alleged commission of an offence may feel reasonably (though not completely) safe against proceedings being taken.

6. Provisions as to appeals.—(1) Where any person gives notice of appeal against his conviction for an offence under section two of this Act, or of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of such an offence, the court by which he was convicted, or any court of summary jurisdiction for the same petty sessional division or place as that court or the court to which the appeal is to be made may, if it thinks fit, by order provide for suspending the operation (so far as applicable) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1), subsection (3) and subsection (4) of the last preceding section in relation to that conviction and for requiring the return to that person of any licence delivered by him to the court by which he was convicted and for cancelling any thing done or deemed to have been done under any of the said provisions. [4259]

(2) Where an order is made under the last preceding subsection and the appeal is finally dismissed or is abandoned, a court of summary jurisdiction for the same petty sessional division or place as the court by which the said person was convicted, or any justice of the peace acting for that petty sessional division or place, shall, on the application of the prosecutor, issue a summons or, in default of appearance, a warrant requiring or compelling that person to appear before a court of summary jurisdiction for that petty sessional division or place, and thereupon—

(a) if the order suspended the operation of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of the last preceding section, that subsection and subsection (3) of that section shall have effect as if the said person had just been convicted by the court before which he appears; and

(b) subsection (4) and subsection (6) of the last preceding section shall in any case have effect as if he had just been convicted by the court aforesaid:

Provided that the period of any disqualification imposed by the said paragraph (a) or the said subsection (4) shall be reduced by the period (if any) between the date of the conviction and the date of the order made under the last preceding subsection. [4260]

(3) For the purposes of this section, the bringing of proceedings before the High Court to quash a conviction by order of certiorari shall be deemed to be an appeal. [4261]

(4) Any person who forfeits a sum under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of the last preceding section may appeal against the determination of the amount to be forfeited in like manner as against the conviction. [4262]

General note.—This section is subsidiary to s. 5, ante, relating to the disqualifications applicable to private motorists convicted of an offence under s. 2. Mutatis mutandis the same principle of suspension applies in such case as is applicable to retail dealers under s. 4 (6), ante.

Against his conviction.—For definition of "conviction", see s. 13 (2), post.

Aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring.—See the notes to s. 4, ante.

Any licence delivered by him.—This includes both the "car licence" (s. 5 (3) (a), ante) and the "driving licence" (s. 5 (4) (b), ante).

7. Power to remove disability, and disqualification.—(1) Any person upon whom a disability is imposed by any of the first three subsections of section four of this Act or a disqualification is imposed by subsection (1) or subsection (4) of section five of this Act may, if the disability or disqualification has been in operation for a period of not less than six months, apply to a court of summary jurisdiction for the same petty sessional division or place as the court by which he was convicted to remove the disability or disqualification, and on any such application the court may, if having regard to the circumstances at the time of the application, the court thinks there is any good reason for shortening the term of the disability or disqualification, by order remove the disability or disqualification as from such date as may be specified in the order. [4263]

(2) Where a disqualification imposed by subsection (1) of section five of this Act in respect of a motor vehicle is removed under this section, the court shall order that particulars of the removal shall be endorsed on the registration book of the vehicle, and shall send particulars of the removal to the council of the county or county borough with whom the vehicle is registered. [4264]

(3) Where the court removes the disqualification imposed by subsection (4) of section five of this Act, the court shall send particulars of the removal to any council of a county or county borough to whom particulars of the disqualification were sent, and any such council to whom a licence held by the disqualified person was forwarded under the said subsection (4) shall, on a demand in writing by the holder, return the licence to him, and if any part of the period for which the licence was issued remains unexpired, it shall have effect for that part of the period. [4265]

General note.—This section is modelled upon s. 7 (3) of the Road Traffic Act, 1930 (23 Halsbury's Statutes 615).

Apply to a court.—Under s. 7 (3) of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, supra, it was expressly provided that in such cases application might be made "from time to time".

Good reason for shortening the term.—The corresponding phrase in s. 7 (3) of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, supra, is "as it thinks proper, having regard to the character of the person disqualified and his conduct subsequent to the conviction or order, the nature of the offence, and any other circumstances of the case". Hardship may, however, more easily be caused to third parties, including the public, by the wide disqualifications of ss. 4 and 5, ante, than by a mere personal deprivation of driving licence.

As from such date as may be specified.—The removal may be framed to operate forthwith or from a date in the future.

8. Penalties.—(1) Any person who is guilty of—

(a) an offence under section one or section two of this Act;

(b) an offence under section three of this Act except an offence mentioned in paragraph (c) or (d) of that section;

(c) an offence under subsection (7) of section five of this Act; or

(d) an offence under section ten of this Act; shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and such imprisonment. [4266]

(2) Any person who is guilty of any offence under this Act, except an offence to which the preceding subsection applies, shall be liable—

(a) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and such imprisonment; or

(b) on conviction on indictment, to a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both such fine and such imprisonment. [4267]

(3) If the person convicted on indictment of any offence under this Act is a body corporate, the amount of the fine that may be imposed on that body corporate in respect of the offence shall not be limited, and the body corporate shall be liable to a fine of such amount as the court thinks just. [4268]

(4) If the person convicted of an offence under any provision of this Act is a body corporate, every person who at the time of the commission of the offence was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or was purporting to act in any such capacity, shall be deemed to be guilty of that offence unless he proves that the offence was committed without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the offence as he ought to have exercised having regard to the nature of his functions in that capacity and to all the circumstances; and if the offence is one to which any provision of section four of this Act applies, he shall be deemed for the purposes of that provision to have been carrying on at the time of the commission of the offence the business of supplying motor spirit by retail at the premises where the offence occurred.

In this subsection, the expression "director", in relation to any body corporate established by or under any enactment for the purpose of carrying on under national ownership any industry or part of an industry or undertaking, being a body corporate whose affairs are managed by the members thereof, means a member of that body. [4269]

Not exceeding three months.—The defendant may not claim trial by jury as this applies only where the imprisonment that may be imposed on summary conviction is in excess of three months (s. 17 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879; 11 Halsbury's Statutes 329, amended as from a day to be appointed by Order in Council by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 58), s. 79 and Sched. IX).

On summary conviction or on indictment.—As from a day to be appointed by Order in Council the new procedure laid down in ss. 28 et seq., of the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 58), will apply in relation to the offences referred to in sub-s. (2), supra, being offences punishable either on summary conviction or on indictment.

Sub-s. (3).—Note that the unlimited fine is only applicable in the case of convictions of bodies corporate on indictment; the result is that such fines are limited to the offences referred to in sub-s. (2), supra, as only summary procedure is applicable to the offences in sub-s. (1).

Sub-s. (4).—It was deemed impossible for the Government effectively to enforce these penalties against bodies corporate (including bodies corporate under national ownership) unless it could render liable those persons actively concerned in the administration of such bodies. As to policy in such cases, see 155 H. of L. Official Report 1015–1016.

Unless he proves.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

Purporting to act in any such capacity.—Apart from these words formal appointment as a director, would be necessary (Dean v. Hiesler, [1942] 2 All E. R. 340, D. C.).

Consent or connivance; Reasonable diligence.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

In relation to any body corporate, etc.—Members of central corporations under nationalisation schemes, as, for instance, the National Coal Board under the Coal Industry Nationalisation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 251), and the British Electricity Authority under the Electricity Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 409), are liable as "directors" of that body, though the second paragraph of sub-s. (4), supra, under which this is provided, may be merely declaratory of the effect of the first paragraph of that subsection.

So far as divisional or regional boards of nationalised industries are concerned, however, a distinction must be observed: are such local boards bodies corporate? Under the nationalisation of the coal industry Divisional Coal Boards are merely informal unincorporated bodies and accordingly liability under the present provision does not attach to their members. Aliter in the case of electricity, gas and transport (see 451 H. of C. Official Report 499–502).

9. Institution of proceedings.—Proceedings for an offence under this Act, except subsection (4) of the last preceding section, shall not be instituted in England and Wales except by a constable or by or with the consent of the Minister of Fuel and Power or the Director of Public Prosecutions, and proceedings for an offence under the said subsection (4) shall not be instituted except by or with the consent of the Minister of Fuel and Power or the Director of Public Prosecutions. [4270]

General note.—With the object of preventing irresponsible or improper prosecutions, this section prohibits the institution of proceedings under the Act except by the police or by or with the consent of the authorities named. Some limited uniformity of policy in such matters may thus be introduced.

Consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions.—A document purporting to be the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions is, by s. 34 of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 417), admissible as prima facie evidence of such consent without further proof.

10. Power of entry and taking of samples.—(1) Any constable authorised by an officer of police of a rank not lower than that of superintendent and any person authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power shall have a right, on producing, if so required, a duly authenticated document showing his authority, to enter at all reasonable hours any premises, other than premises used for the purposes of a private dwelling, for the purpose of ascertaining whether an offence under this Act is being or has been committed on or in connection with the premises or in connection with any motor vehicle or motor spirit on the premises. [4271]

(2) Any constable may, and any person authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power as aforesaid, on producing, if so required, a duly authenticated document showing his authority, may, take samples of any motor spirit which is on premises which he has a right to enter under this section or is in a motor vehicle in any public place. [4272]

(3) Where a sample is taken by any person in the exercise of powers under this section, then—

(a) if the sample is taken from a motor vehicle, he shall if practicable take it in the presence of the owner or person for the time being in charge of the vehicle;

(b) if the sample is taken on premises which he has a right to enter under this section but not from a motor vehicle, he shall if practicable take it in the presence of the occupier of the premises or the person for the time being in charge thereof; and shall, in either case, on taking the sample, then and there divide it into three parts, each part to be marked and sealed or fastened up, and shall—

(i) deliver one part to the owner or person in charge of the vehicle or, as the case may be, the occupier or person in charge of the premises, if he so requires it;

(ii) retain one part for future comparison; and

(iii) if he thinks fit to have an analysis made, submit one part to an authorised analyst. [4273]

(4) Where it is not practicable to comply with the requirements of paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of the last preceding subsection in taking a sample, notice shall be served in the prescribed manner on the owner or person in charge of the vehicle or, as the case may be, the occupier of the premises or the person for the time being in charge thereof informing him that the sample has been taken and that one part thereof is available for delivery to him, if he requires it, at such time and place as may be specified in the notice. [4274]

(5) Where the result of an analysis of a sample taken under this section is given in evidence in any proceedings in respect of an offence under this Act, the part of the sample retained for future comparison shall be produced at the hearing. [4275]

(6) The result of an analysis of a sample taken under this section shall not be admissible as evidence unless the requirements of the three last preceding subsections have been complied with in relation thereto. [4276]

(7) Any person who obstructs any person exercising powers under this section shall be guilty of an offence. [4277]

Document showing his authority.—Note that there is no express provision for the authority to be a general authority, as in s. 343 (1) of the Public Health Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 536). But the power to give a general authority seems to be implied.

Other than premises used for the purposes of a private dwelling.—As regards garages attached to houses difficult marginal questions may arise as to the premises included in this exception.

The taking of samples.—Compare the rights given by ss. 68–70 of the Food and Drugs Act, 1938 (10 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 442 et seq.).

Notice shall be served in the prescribed manner.—"Prescribed" means by regulations of the Minister of Fuel and Power under the present Act (s. 13 (1), post). See reg. 6 of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post.

Shall not be admissible as evidence.—As to the admission as evidence of an analyst's certificate, see s. 11, post.

Any person who obstructs.—Note the omission of the word "wilfully", which appears, for instance, in reg. 83 of the Defence (General) Regulations, 1939, S. R. & O., 1939, No. 927, as amended. At the Committee Stage of the Bill in the House of Lords on May 25, 1948, the Government spokesman gave an assurance that, when a car was in a public car park, having a lock on its petrol tank would not be regarded as obstruction. On the same occasion he expressed the view that the addition of the word "wilfully" would not add anything to the word "obstructs" (155 H. of L. Official Report 991).

Guilty of an offence.—Obstruction is punishable by fine or imprisonment or both on summary conviction under s. 8 (1) (d), ante.

Definitions.—For definitions of "motor vehicle", "motor spirit", "owner" and "authorised analyst", see s. 13 (1), post.

11. Analyst's certificate to be evidence.—In any proceedings in respect of an offence under this Act, a certificate purporting to be signed by an authorised analyst and certifying the ingredients of any such sample of motor spirit as may be specified in the certificate shall, subject as hereinafter provided, be evidence of the facts therein stated:

Provided that such a certificate shall not be admissible as evidence—

(a) unless a copy thereof has, not less than seven days before the hearing or trial, been served in the prescribed manner on the person charged with the offence; or

(b) if that person, not less than three days before the hearing or trial or within such further time as the court may in special circumstances allow, serves notice in the prescribed manner and form on the prosecutor requiring the attendance at the hearing or trial of the person by whom the analysis was made. [4278]

General note.—This section sets out the circumstances in which a certificate of an authorised analyst (as defined in s. 13 (1), post) may be accepted in evidence, but it is important to distinguish the acceptance of such a certificate from the admission as evidence of "the result of an analysis of a sample" (s. 10 (6), ante) which refers both to oral and written evidence of the analysis.

The hearing or trial.—"Hearing" refers to summary proceedings and "trial" to proceedings on indictment.

In the prescribed manner; In the prescribed manner and form.—See the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post.

12. Regulations.—(1) The Minister of Fuel and Power may by statutory instrument make regulations prescribing anything required by any provision of this Act to be prescribed. [4279]

(2) Regulations made for the purpose of defining the vehicles which are to be private motor vehicles for the purposes of this Act may provide for excluding therefrom any vehicle of a prescribed class or description if and so long as the prescribed conditions are complied with in respect of that vehicle. [4280]

(3) Any statutory instrument made under this section shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament. [4281]

By statutory instrument.—Statutory instruments are governed by the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 783), the main provisions of which came into operation on January 1, 1948 (see S.I. 1948 No. 3). As to the laying before Parliament of statutory instruments under the present Act, see sub-s. (3), supra, ss. 4 and 5 of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, supra, and the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act, 1948, title STATUTES AND STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, post.

Make regulations.—Under the powers conferred upon him by the present section the Minister of Fuel and Power on May 28, 1948, the date of the Royal Assent, made the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1127), which came into operation on June 1, 1948; and on November 11, 1948, the same Minister made the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2442), which came into operation on December 1, 1948.

Private motor vehicles.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

Prescribed.—See s. 13 (1), infra.

May provide for excluding therefrom, etc.—The power of exclusion on conditions was not exercised by the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post, but difficulties arose in relation to dual purpose vehicles, such as the so-called "utility vans". The number of applications to transfer dual purpose vehicles from the category of private to that of commercial vehicles was very much larger after June 1, 1948, than before, and accordingly the Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2442), substituted as from December 1, 1948, a new and wider definition of "private motor vehicle" making temporary use of the power of exclusion on conditions. The Motor Spirit (Amendment) Regulations, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 406) excludes from the definition of "private motor vehicle" ambulances exempted from licence duty under the Finance Act, 1920.

13. Interpretation.—(1) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say:—

"authorised analyst" means the Government Chemist, any chemist authorised by the Minister of Fuel and Power to make analyses for the purposes of this Act, or any other person appointed under section sixty-six of the Food and Drugs Act, 1938, or section fifteen of the Food and Drugs (Adulteration) Act, 1928, as a public analyst or deputy public analyst;

" motor spirit " has such meaning as may be prescribed;

" motor vehicle " means a mechanically-propelled vehicle constructed or adapted for use on roads;

" owner ", in relation to a private motor vehicle, means the person in whose name the vehicle is for the time being registered under the Roads Act, 1920, except that, if that person has sold or otherwise disposed of the vehicle and the change of ownership has been notified in writing to the council of the county or county borough with whom the vehicle is registered, the person so notified as the owner of the vehicle or, if there has been more than one change of ownership, the last person so notified shall be deemed to be the owner;

" prescribed " means prescribed by regulations made by the Minister of Fuel and Power under this Act;

" pump " includes the tank or other receptacle from which motor spirit is drawn by the pump. [4282]

(2) References in this Act to the conviction of a person shall be construed as including references to a person being found or pleading guilty or admitting the truth of the information or to the court deciding (for the purposes of subsection (1) of section one of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907) that the charge has been proved. [4283]

(3) References in this Act to any enactment shall be construed as references to that enactment as amended by any subsequent enactment. [4284]

Food and Drugs Act, 1938, s. 66.—10 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 441. Under this section every Food and Drugs Authority as defined in s. 64 of the same Act is required to appoint one or more persons to be public analysts of food and drugs within their area, and power is given to appoint a deputy public analyst when only one public analyst has been appointed by such an authority.

Food and Drugs (Adulteration) Act, 1928, s. 15.—8 Halsbury's Statutes 894. This section made general provision for the appointment of analysts similar to that referred to above, but the whole of the Food and Drugs (Adulteration) Act, 1928, was repealed as from October 1, 1939, on the coming into force of the Food and Drugs Act, 1938 (10 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 384), and the said s. 15 was replaced as from that date by s. 66 of the Act of 1938, supra, subject to various provisions validating appointments, etc., already made.

Motor spirit.—See reg. 2 (1) of the Motor Spirit Regulations, 1948, post.

Roads Act, 1920.—19 Halsbury's Statutes 85.

Prescribed by regulations.—See s. 12, ante, and the notes thereto.

14. Application to Scotland. [4285]

15. Application to Northern Ireland. [4286]

16. Short title, extent and duration.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Motor Spirit (Regulation) Act, 1948. [4287]

(2) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of June, nineteen hundred and forty-eight, and shall continue in force until such date as His Majesty may by Order in Council appoint, and shall then expire, subject to such provisions as may be contained in the Order as respects things previously done or omitted to be done. [4288]

And shall then expire.—The expiry of an Act is to be distinguished from its repeal, one of the differences being that the provisions of s. 38 of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (18 Halsbury's Statutes 1005), relating to things done before the repeal of a statute have no effect on a simple expiry. Hence it is usual to make express provision in this connection: sometimes this takes the form of applying the Interpretation Act, 1889, supra, as if the expiry had been in fact a repeal.

ORDERS, CIRCULARS AND MEMORANDA

MOTOR VEHICLES (VARIATION OF SPEED LIMIT) REGULATIONS, 1947

S. R. & O., 1947, No. 2192

October 13, 1947

Whereas by subsection (2) of section 121 of the Road Traffic Act, 1930 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), as amended by the Road Traffic Act, 1934, the Minister of Transport (hereinafter referred to as "the Minister") is empowered by regulations, subject to such conditions as may be specified in the regulations, to vary in relation to motor vehicles owned by the Admiralty, the War Department or the Air Ministry and used for naval, military or air force purposes or to vehicles so used while being driven by persons for the time being subject to the orders of any member of the armed forces of the Crown or to motor vehicles used for salvage purposes pursuant to Part IX of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the provisions of the First Schedule to the Act (which specifies the maximum speeds at which vehicles of certain classes or descriptions may be driven);

And whereas in exercise of the said powers the Minister made the Motor Vehicles (Variation of Speed Limit) Provisional Regulations, 1940, dated April 1st, 1940, varying the provisions of the said First Schedule in such manner as to impose no speed limit in relation to the said vehicles;

And whereas it is expedient that the said Provisional Regulations should be revoked and that the provisions of the said First Schedule should be varied in such manner as to impose no speed limit in relation only to certain of the said vehicles;

Now therefore, the Minister in exercise of the powers conferred upon him as aforesaid and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf hereby makes the following Regulations:—

1. These Regulations shall come into force on the twenty-third day of October, 1947, and may be cited as "The Motor Vehicles (Variation of Speed Limit) Regulations, 1947". [4289]

2. The Motor Vehicles (Variation of Speed Limit) Provisional Regulations, 1940, dated April 1st, 1940, are hereby revoked. [4290]

3. The provisions of the First Schedule to the Act are hereby varied in manner following, that is to say, they shall have effect as though they imposed no speed limit in relation to:—

(a) motor vehicles of the types specified in the Schedule to these Regulations which are owned by the Admiralty, the War Department or the Air Ministry and used for naval, military or air force purposes or which are so used whilst being driven by persons for the time being subject to the orders of any member of the armed forces of the Crown; or

(b) motor vehicles used for salvage purposes pursuant to Part IX of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894. [4291]

4. The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4292]

6.—(1) As regards each of the securities, the Commission shall with all convenient speed apply to the Tribunal for the determination of the value thereof by filing at the Office a statement containing, or having attached thereto, the particulars hereinafter specified, and shall at the time of the filing of such statement leave at the Office (a) four additional copies thereof and of all attachments thereto and (b) a schedule of the names and registered addresses of each of the persons appearing from the books of the company or other body of persons to have been at a date specified in such schedule (not being earlier than 14 days before the date of the filing of the statement) to be the holders of each of the securities to which the statement relates, and of the amount of the holding of each such person: Provided that, where several securities of one company or other body of persons are specified in Part II of the Fourth Schedule to the Act, the statement to be filed under this Rule shall, unless the Tribunal on the application of the Commission or of the Minister or of any other interested person or of its own motion otherwise directs, be a combined statement relating to all the securities of such company or other body of persons so specified.

(2) Every such statement shall be headed in the matter of the Act and of the securities to which the same relates. [4299]

7. The particulars to be contained in or attached to the statement to be filed under Rule 6 shall include the following:—

(2) Every such endorsement shall be sealed with the seal of the Tribunal and the copy of the statement bearing such sealed endorsement shall be retained by the Clerk in the Office. [4301]

9.—(1) As soon as may be after the sealing of the endorsement aforesaid, the Commission shall serve upon the Minister a copy of the said statement having endorsed thereon a copy of the said endorsement, and shall also serve upon every holder of any of the securities to which such statement relates a notice having endorsed thereon a copy of the said endorsement. Every such notice shall be to the effect that the statement referred to in Rule 6 has been filed at the Office and has been endorsed as aforesaid and that a full copy of such statement will be supplied by the Commission on demand free of charge and such notice shall also set out the particulars specified in paragraphs (1) (2) (8) and (9) of Rule 7. A copy of every such notice shall forthwith be filed by the Commission at the Office.

(2) The Commission shall upon demand by any holder of any of the securities supply to such holder free of charge a full copy of the statement relating to such securities filed under Rule 6 with all attachments thereto, and, if any such demand shall be made within 10 days after service of the notice referred to in this Rule, the time for putting in an answer to such statement shall, without further application to the Tribunal, be extended until the expiration of 10 days from the service on such holder of such full copy of the said statement and of all attachments thereto. (2) In such answer such holder shall state whether it is the desire of such holder to be heard by the Tribunal on the hearing of the application of the Commission, and shall specify which (if any) of the allegations of fact contained in such statement are denied or not admitted, and shall also state any further or other facts or circumstances appearing to such holder to be relevant to the determination in accordance with the provisions of the Act of the value of the securities to which the statement relates and generally set out the contentions and claim of such holder.

(3) Every such answer shall specify an address at which any further proceedings or notices may be served upon such holder. [4303]

11. If the holder of any securities of any company or other body of persons appoints the directors thereof to act as his representatives pursuant to proviso (c) to section 17 (3) of the Act, such holder shall forthwith give to the Tribunal and to the Commission notice in writing of such appointment and shall specify therein an address at which any further proceedings or notices may be served upon such directors, and shall at the same time file at the Office the consent in writing of such directors to act as such representatives, and thereafter the proceedings shall be carried on by such directors as the representatives of and on behalf of such holder but otherwise in all respects as if they were themselves the holders of such securities. [4304]

12.—(1) If it shall appear to the Commission that, with regard to any of the particulars required to be contained in or attached to a statement to be filed or schedule to be left at the Office under Rule 6, it is impossible or impracticable without undue delay to furnish such particulars, the Commission may either (a) apply to the Tribunal for directions before filing any such statement, or (b) file a statement containing or having attached thereto such particulars as the Commission may be able to furnish and at the same time apply to the Tribunal for directions.

(2) Any such application for directions shall be served upon the Minister, but shall not be served upon any other person unless the Tribunal otherwise directs.

(3) Any such application for directions made before the filing of a statement shall be headed in the same manner as if the same were a statement filed under Rule 6.

(4) With every application for directions under this Rule there shall be filed a statement of the circumstances in which the application is made.

(5) Where any such application for directions is made after the filing of a statement under Rule 6, no notice shall be served under Rule 9 upon any holder of any of the securities to which such statement relates until the Tribunal so directs. [4305]

PART III

Other Proceedings before the Tribunal

13. Rules 14 to 19 (inclusive) of these Rules relate solely to proceedings before the Tribunal other than proceedings for the determination of the value of the securities under section 17 of the Act. [4306]

14.—(1) All proceedings before the Tribunal for the determination of any question or dispute, or for obtaining the approval by the Tribunal of any agreement, shall be commenced by filing at the Office an originating application in writing to the Tribunal signed by the applicant or by the solicitors or (in the case of a company or corporation) the secretary or other proper officer of the applicant on behalf of the applicant.

(2) Every such application shall name as a respondent every party to the question, dispute or agreement, or other person appearing to be directly interested in the subject of the application and shall also contain a certificate that the application does not relate to proceedings which under Part VIII of the Act are to be treated as Scottish proceedings.

(3) If any such proceedings shall be for obtaining the approval by the Tribunal of any agreement, the applicant shall at the time of filing such originating application also file at the Office the agreement together with four copies thereof, and shall also serve upon the Minister a copy of the said agreement.

(4) Every applicant shall state in his originating application an address at which any notice, order, or other document in the proceedings may be served upon him. [4307]

15. An originating application shall be in the form of Form No. 1 in the Appendix to these Rules or as near thereto as circumstances will admit. [4308]

16.—(1) The applicant shall at the time of filing such originating application leave at the Office five additional copies thereof, and shall as soon as may be thereafter serve upon each respondent named therein a copy of the originating application having endorsed thereon a notice in the following terms :—

" To the respondent (naming the respondent served).

" You will in due course be served with a statement setting out the facts alleged by and contentions of the applicant, and it is not necessary for you to take any step in these proceedings until after service of such statement upon you."

(2) Every such endorsement shall be sealed with the seal of the Tribunal.

(3) One copy of the originating application shall forthwith be served by the Clerk upon the Minister. [4309]

17.—(1) The Tribunal may at any time upon the application of any person, whether an applicant or respondent or not, or of its own motion, direct that any person appearing to the Tribunal to be directly interested in the subject of the application be added as a respondent, and thereupon the applicant shall forthwith serve upon such person a copy of the originating application having endorsed thereon a notice in the terms set out in the preceding Rule and sealed with the seal of the Tribunal.

(2) The Tribunal may likewise, upon any such application as aforesaid, or of its own motion, order that any respondent named in the originating application or subsequently added, who shall appear to the Tribunal not to have been or to have ceased to be directly interested in the subject matter of the application, be dismissed from the proceedings upon such terms as the Tribunal may think fit. [4310]

18.—(1) Within 14 days from the filing of an originating application the applicant shall serve upon each respondent a statement in writing, signed by or on behalf of the applicant, of the facts alleged by the applicant and of such other matters as may appear to the applicant to be relevant to the application and of the contentions of the applicant, and the applicant shall at the same time deliver at the Office six copies of such statement, whereof one copy shall forthwith be served by the Clerk upon the Minister.

(2) Every such statement served upon a respondent shall have endorsed thereon a notice in the following terms :—

" To the Respondent (naming the respondent served)

If you do not admit or wish to deny any of the facts alleged or do not agree with any of the contentions put forward in this statement, or if you wish to allege any additional or other facts or to put forward any other contentions, you should within 14 days after service of this statement upon you, or within such extended period as the Tribunal may allow, serve upon the applicant at the applicant's address for service an answer to this statement and also deliver to the Tribunal at its Office at 39, Belgrave Square, London, S.W.1, six copies of your answer. Your answer should conform to the provisions of the Transport Arbitration Tribunal Rules, 1947, and should state an address at which any further notices, orders or other documents in these proceedings may be served upon you."

(3) Every such endorsement shall be sealed with the seal of the Tribunal. [4311]

19.—(1) Every respondent may within 14 days after service upon him of the statement of the applicant so endorsed serve upon the applicant an answer to the statement of the applicant. Such answer shall be in writing signed by or on behalf of the respondent.

(2) In such answer the respondent shall state which (if any) of the facts alleged in the statement of the applicant are denied or are not admitted by the respondent, and such answer shall include a statement of any additional or other facts alleged by the respondent and of such other matters as may appear to the respondent to be relevant to the proceedings and of the contentions of the respondent.

(3) Any fact alleged in the statement of an applicant, and not expressly denied or not admitted in an answer served by a respondent, shall as against such respondent be taken to be admitted, but without prejudice to the power of the Tribunal to require proof thereof.

(4) The respondent shall at the time of serving such answer deliver at the Office six copies thereof, whereof one copy shall be served by the Clerk upon the Minister.

(5) Every respondent shall state in his answer an address at which any notice, order or other document in the proceedings may be served upon him. [4312]

21. The Clerk shall make and keep a list or lists of all applications to the Tribunal with the distinctive numbers thereof and the dates thereof and such list or lists may be inspected at the Office during office hours. [4314]

22. Every application, notice, statement, answer order or other document relating to any matter shall be filed by the Clerk under the distinctive serial number thereof, and the file relating to any such matter may be inspected at the Office during office hours by the Minister or by any person appearing to the Clerk to have an interest in the matter or by their respective agents thereto authorized. If any dispute or question arises as to whether any person ought to be permitted to inspect any such file, such dispute or question shall be determined by the Tribunal on the application of the person seeking such inspection. [4315]

23. Except by special leave of the Tribunal and subject to the provisions of these Rules, no further step in any proceedings before the Tribunal shall be taken until after the expiration of the time limited for service of an answer by every respondent or of such extension of such time as the Tribunal may allow. [4316]

24.—(1) Any party to any proceedings before the Tribunal may at any time, subject to the provisions of Rule 23 hereof, apply to the Tribunal for directions of an interlocutory nature, including directions for delivery of further and better particulars of any allegation, for leave to serve any reply or rejoinder or to amend any statement, answer, or other pleading, for discovery of documents and interrogatories, for the extension or abridgement of the time for taking any step in the proceedings, for fixing the day of the hearing, or for any other purpose.

(2) Any such application shall be heard and determined by the Clerk: provided always that the Clerk may, and shall at the request of any party to the application, made either at the hearing of the application or within such time (not being less than four days) as the Clerk may fix at the hearing of the application, adjourn the application to be heard and determined by the Tribunal or by a single member thereof.

(3) Any application so adjourned to be heard by a single member of the Tribunal may likewise, and shall at the request of any party to the application, made either at the hearing of the application or within such time (not being less than four days) as such member may fix at the hearing of the application, be adjourned to be heard and determined by the Tribunal.

(4) Any order made by the Clerk or a single member of the Tribunal under this Rule shall be deemed to be the order of the Tribunal. [4317]

25.—(1) The party making an application of an interlocutory nature shall obtain from the Clerk an appointment for the hearing thereof and shall give to every other party not less than seven days' notice of the appointment. Such notice shall be in the form of Form No. 2 in the Appendix to these Rules.

(2) Before making any such application, the party seeking the order shall, if it is reasonably possible so to do, endeavour to obtain the consent thereto of every other party. Where such consent is obtained, the application may be made by letter addressed to the Clerk and enclosing the consent in writing signed by or on behalf of the other parties, and the Tribunal may thereupon make the order and notify the parties thereof: provided that if the Tribunal desires to hear the parties the Clerk shall inform the parties in writing accordingly, and give not less than seven days' notice of an appointment for the hearing. [4318]

26. The Tribunal may of its own motion at any stage of any proceedings before it, give any directions of an interlocutory nature after hearing the parties at a meeting of the Tribunal whereof not less than seven days' notice in writing shall be given to the parties by the Clerk or may communicate with the parties in writing and may require answers to such inquiries as the Tribunal may think fit to make. [4319]

27.—(1) Every notice or other document which in pursuance of these Rules is required to be given or served shall, unless otherwise directed by the Tribunal, be served:—

(ii) unless otherwise directed by the Tribunal, service of any notice required under Rule 9 (1) to be served upon the holder of any securities may be made by sending the same by post addressed to the person appearing from the schedule left at the Office under Rule 6 to be the holder of such securities at the address of such person appearing in such schedule.

(2) The filing (by any person other than the Clerk) or delivery of any document required by these Rules to be filed or delivered at the Office may be effected by leaving the same at the Office or by sending the same by post as a registered letter addressed to the Clerk at the Office.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in these Rules contained it shall not be necessary, unless the Tribunal otherwise directs, to serve any notice upon any person (other that the Minister) who shall have made default in the service of an answer within the time limited by these Rules or any extension thereof allowed by the Tribunal, and any notice which ought otherwise to be served upon such person shall be filed at the Office, if not so served.

(4) It shall not be necessary, unless the Tribunal otherwise directs, to serve upon the Minister notice of any application for, or meeting held by the Tribunal for the purpose of giving, directions of an interlocutory nature, in any proceedings unless the Minister shall previously have filed at the Office, and shall not have withdrawn, notice of his desire to be heard in such proceedings. [4320]

28. If it shall appear to the Tribunal that any respondent or other person interested in the subject of any application cannot be found, or has died and has no personal representative, or is out of the United Kingdom, or that for any other reason service upon any respondent or other such person cannot readily be effected in accordance with the foregoing Rules, the Tribunal may dispense with service upon any such respondent or other person, or make an order for substituted service upon any other person, or appoint any other person to represent such respondent or person or his estate, or direct that an advertisement in such form and in such newspaper as the Tribunal shall think proper shall be deemed to be good service upon such respondent or other person. [4321]

29. Any party to any proceedings may at any time by notice in writing served upon the Tribunal and every other party to that proceeding change his address for service under the provisions of these Rules. [4322]

30. The sittings of the Tribunal for the hearing of all matters which are to be determined by the Tribunal shall be held at dates, times and places to be from time to time determined by the Tribunal and announced by them. Not less than 24 hours before the hearing of any application the applicant, or in the case of an interlocutory application the party or person making such application, shall lodge with the Clerk at the Office such number of copies of any relevant documents as the Clerk shall reasonably require. [4323]

31. Upon the hearing of any application or other matter at any stage of any proceedings the Tribunal may determine the order in which the parties thereto shall be heard, and may allow any amendment of any notice, statement, answer or other document, and, subject to the provisions of the Act, may dispense with the observance of any of the provisions of these Rules, or extend or abridge the time for taking any step in the proceedings, on such terms as may seem just. [4324]

(a) Any applicant, respondent, or other party to the proceedings, not being a company or corporate body ;
(b) A barrister retained by or on behalf of any party ;

(d) Any other person allowed by leave of the Tribunal to appear instead of any party :

Provided that in proceedings before the Clerk, a managing clerk in the employ of a solicitor acting generally in the proceedings for any party may appear and address the Clerk. [4325]

33. Evidence before the Tribunal may be given orally, or, if the parties to the proceedings consent or the Tribunal so orders, by affidavit, but the Tribunal may at any stage of the proceedings make an order requiring the personal attendance of any deponent for examination and cross-examination. [4326]

34. In dealing with the costs of any proceedings, or of any application in any proceedings, the Tribunal may take into account any failure or refusal on the part of any person to consent to any proposed interlocutory direction, or to admit any document or fact specified in any notice to admit documents or facts served upon that person. [4327]

35. Non-compliance with any of these Rules shall not render any proceeding in any matter referred to the Tribunal void, unless the Tribunal shall so direct, but such proceeding may be set aside either wholly or in part as irregular, or amended, or otherwise dealt with in such manner and upon such terms as the Tribunal shall think fit. [4328]

36. All orders of the Tribunal shall be sealed with the seal of the Tribunal. [4329]

CASES

Street traffic—Omnibus service—Powers of Transport Executive—Service started by Executive in competition with private transport operator—Power of Executive to provide service where London Passenger Transport Board not so empowered—Road Traffic Act, 1930 (c. 43), s. 72 (1)—Transport Act, 1947 (c. 49), ss. 2 (1), 3 (1), 65 (1).

By the Transport Act, 1947, s. 1, there was set up a public authority called the British Transport Commission with power, under s. 2, inter alia, to carry goods and passengers by road within Great Britain. By s. 3, the duty was imposed on the Commission of providing or securing an efficient, adequate, economical and properly integrated system of public inland transport. S. 5 provided that there should be public authorities, known as "Executives", to assist the Commission, and that each Executive should, as agents for the Commission exercise such functions of the Commission "as are for the time being delegated to them by or under a scheme made by the Commission and approved by the Minister" of Transport. As respects matters falling within the scope of any such delegation, any rights, powers and liabilities of the Commission should be treated as rights, powers and liabilities of the Executive only, and every Executive was to have power at the request of the Commission to do, as agent for the Commission, anything which the Commission had power to do.

The defendants, the London Transport Executive, were an Executive constituted under the Act of 1947. On January 1, 1948, under s. 12 of the Act and Sched. III thereto, the undertaking of the London Passenger Transport Board vested in the Commission, which, under s. 14 (2), had thenceforward all the rights and was subject to all the liabilities of the Board. The Board had been set up under the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, with power to provide road services in specified areas, to one of which, known as "the special area", the Road Traffic Act, 1930, ss. 72–76, did not apply. S. 72 of the Act of 1930 provided: "(1) Subject to the provisions of this section the [Traffic] Commissioners may grant to any person applying therefor a licence . . . to provide such a road service as may be specified therein, and a vehicle shall not be used as a stage carriage . . . except under such a licence." The plaintiff held a licence under s. 72 and ran a motor omnibus service between H. and W., a route not within "the special area". The defendants began to run a service of omnibuses in competition with the plaintiff's service, and the plaintiff claimed to restrain them from so doing, or a declaration that in so doing they were acting ultra vires. S. 65 (1) of the Act of 1947 provides: "Sections seventy-two to seventy-six of the Road Traffic Act, 1930 . . . shall not apply to any passenger road transport service provided, whether under a scheme under . . . this Act or otherwise, by the Commission or by any person acting as agent for the Commission, but neither the Commission nor any such person as aforesaid shall use any public service vehicle for the conveyance of passengers for hire or reward at separate fares except—(a) on a route approved, as respects so much thereof as falls within any traffic area, by the licensing authority for public service vehicles for that area; and (b) in accordance with such restrictions as may be imposed by that authority . . ." with regard to certain matters. Route approval under s. 65 had been secured by the defendants.

The British Transport Commission in exercise of the powers conferred by s. 5 of the Act of 1947, made a Scheme of Delegation of Functions which provided: "(1) . . . 'the Executive' means the London Transport Executive. . . . (2) This Scheme applies to . . . (a) activities which the Commission are empowered to carry on by virtue of the transfer to them . . . of the undertaking of the London Passenger Transport Board; (b) activities which the Commission are empowered to carry on by virtue only of the powers conferred upon them by s. 2 (1) of the Act so far as those activities are carried on in connection with the activities referred to in sub-para. (a) of this paragraph or are ancillary to such activities; . . . (3) Subject to the provisions of this Scheme, the Commission hereby delegate to the Executive the functions of the Commission in relation to their activities set out in sub-paras. (a) and (b) of para. 2 of this Scheme to the intent that . . . all the rights, powers and liabilities of the Commission in connection with those activities shall be exercisable and dischargeable by the Executive . . . " :—

Held: the provision of road services between H. and W. was within the powers of the British Transport Commission, and, having regard particularly to para. (2) (b) of the Scheme, those powers were effectively delegated under para. 3 by the Commission to the defendants.—SMITH v. LONDON TRANSPORT EXECUTIVE, [1948] Ch. 652; [1948] 2 All E. EXPLANATORY NOTE

These Regulations modify the classification of certain insured persons in specified employments with the result that, according to circumstances, persons who would otherwise be employed persons are treated either as self-employed persons or non-employed persons, and persons who would otherwise be self-employed persons are treated either as employed persons or non-employed persons. Non-employed persons are not reclassified (regulation 2 and First Schedule).

Provision is made for continuing the status of a self-employed person until the happening of certain specified events (regulation 3 and Second Schedule).

Provision is also made for the special classification of persons following a decision of the High Court or a revised decision of the Minister so as to enable the original classification to stand where this would be in the interests of the person concerned (regulation 4).

The remaining provisions are of a consequential character.

LAYING OF DOCUMENTS BEFORE PARLIAMENT (INTERPRETATION) ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 59)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

This short Act, which came into operation on July 30, 1948, the date of the Royal Assent, was passed for two purposes: first, to remove any doubt there might be as to the meaning of the term "laying" in relation to the laying of documents before Parliament under the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 783), and otherwise; and secondly, as a minor matter to provide that where statutory instruments are to be brought into immediate operation under the proviso to s. 4 (1) of the Act of 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 785) and notification to the Lord Chancellor or the Speaker of the House of Commons is impossible because of a vacancy in either of those offices, it is to be sufficient for notification to be given after the vacancy has been filled.

However, simple as these provisions are, they must be read in the light of the somewhat controversial constitutional circumstances in which they became law, the position being briefly as follows. S. 4 (1) of the Act of 1946, supra, provided that where any statutory instrument was required to be laid before Parliament after being made, a copy of that instrument was to be laid before each House of Parliament, and, subject to a saving proviso, was to be so laid before the instrument came into operation. The proviso in question was intended to meet the exceptional case where this procedure could not conveniently be followed: if it was essential for any instrument to come into force before copies thereof could be so laid, it could be made to come into operation before it had been so laid, in which case notification was forthwith to be sent to the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker drawing attention to the fact that copies of the instrument had yet to be laid before Parliament and explaining why such copies had not been so laid before the instrument came into operation. However, there was in the Act no definition of the term "laying". The provisions of s. 4 (1) were brought into operation with the principal provisions of the Act as from January 1, 1948 (Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (Commencement) Order, 1947, S.I. 1948 No. 3, post).

It therefore became necessary for each House of Parliament to adopt Standing Orders laying down the procedure to be adopted in the laying of instruments under the section. By resolution of the House of Commons the following new Standing Order, No. 94, was adopted on November 4, 1947 (443 H. of C. Official Report 1785–1786):

"Presentation of statutory instruments

"Where, under any Act of Parliament, a statutory instrument is required to be laid before Parliament, or before this House, the delivery of a copy of such instrument to the Votes and Proceedings Office on any day during the existence of a Parliament shall be deemed to be for all purposes the laying of it before the House."

Further, on December 17, 1947, this Standing Order was, by a similar resolution, amended by the addition of the following proviso (445 H. of C. Official Report 1830–1831):

"Provided that nothing in this Order shall apply to any Statutory Instrument being an Order which is subject to special Parliamentary procedure or to any other instrument which is required to be laid before Parliament, or before this House for any period before it comes into operation."

No objection was taken in the House, either to the Standing Order as originally adopted or to the amendment.

The effect of Standing Order No. 94 was to enable copies of instruments to be laid, for the purposes of s. 4, even though the House were not sitting at the time: for instance, during a recess it would be possible for instruments to be laid before the House of Commons, and, subject to similar arrangements being operative in the House of Lords, for instruments to be then brought into operation without recourse to the special machinery of the proviso, though it is important to note that in any period of forty days such as is referred to in ss. 5 and 6 of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 786, 787), no account is to be taken of any time during which Parliament is dissolved or prorogued or during which both Houses are adjourned for more than four days (ibid., s. 7) and that this safeguard is unaffected by the present Act.

There was, nevertheless, in the House of Lords a sharp cleavage of opinion as to how far such a course was proper, and indeed, legal. On December 18, 1947, a new Standing Order, No. CV, in the following terms was moved by the Lord Privy Seal (153 H. of L. Official Report 331 et seq.).

> "Laying of Statutory Instruments
> "13.—Statutory Instruments
>
> "CV.—(1) Where, under any Act of Parliament, a statutory instrument is required to be laid before Parliament, the deposit of a copy of the instrument in the Office of the Clerk of the Parliaments in accordance with this Order at any time during the existence of a Parliament when the House is not sitting for public business shall be deemed to be for all purposes the laying of it before the House:
>
> Provided that nothing in this Order shall apply to any statutory instrument being an order which is subject to special Parliamentary procedure or to any other instrument which is required to be laid before Parliament for any period before it comes into operation.
> "(2) For the purposes of this Order, a statutory instrument may be deposited on any day except a Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday or a Bank Holiday between eleven and one of the clock on a Saturday or eleven and five of the clock on any other weekday.
> "(3) The Clerk of the Parliaments shall cause to be published, either in the Minutes of Proceedings or in some other manner, particulars of the deposit of statutory instruments under this Standing Order."

This proposal was attacked by Viscount Simon, a former Lord Chancellor, who claimed that it was not possible for the House by its Standing Orders to amend an Act of Parliament and that, particularly in view of the use of the phrase "shall be deemed to be" in para. (1), supra, the House was proposing to substitute some other and less stringent procedure for the laying before Parliament envisaged by the Act. The proviso to s. 4 (1), Lord Simon submitted, had been inserted to meet just the type of case which this particular form of Standing Order was designed to cover. If it were essential to confer immediate operation upon instruments made when the House was not sitting, the proper course was to notify the Lord Chancellor under that proviso, drawing attention to the fact that copies of the instrument had yet to be laid before Parliament and explaining why such copies had not been laid before the House prior to the instrument's coming into operation. Lord Simon's submissions, which received much support, were strenuously resisted by the Lord Chancellor who nevertheless admitted that there was a conflict of legal opinion in the matter. He said (153 H. of L. Official Report 339 et seq.):

> "Standing Order CV is drafted on the assumption, which I believe to be correct, that it is for each House to say for itself and to provide by its Standing Orders what constitutes 'laying'. There is no definition of 'laying' in the Act or anywhere else, but, if the Courts had to determine what did constitute 'laying' an Order, they would, in my submission to your Lordships—I am not being dogmatic about this: I am stating what my own view is after careful consideration—at once say: 'What are the requirements of the House? If we are going to be asked to determine whether an Order is laid or not, we shall want to know what the domestic requirements of the House are as to laying.'"

In the circumstances it was within the competence of the House to define for itself what it meant by the "laying" of instruments, and there were still cases, the Lord Chancellor stated, even under the operation of the proposed Standing Order, where the machinery of the proviso would need to be invoked. It was finally agreed by the House to refer the matter to a Select Committee.

On further consideration, as it was felt undesirable to have any doubt in the matter, the Bill which led to the present Act was introduced, appropriately enough in the House of Lords, to provide that references to the laying of documents before either House should be construed as references " to the taking, during the existence of a Parliament, of such action as is directed by virtue of any Standing Order, Sessional Order or other direction of that House for the time being in force to constitute the laying of that document before that House, or as is accepted by virtue of the practice of that House for the time being as constituting such laying, notwithstanding that the action so directed or accepted consists in part or wholly in action capable of being taken otherwise than at or during the time of a sitting of that House." This, in wide and comprehensive language were the circumstances of laying documents to be left to the internal arrangements of each House of Parliament.

Accordingly, on July 28, 1948, in anticipation of the Royal Assent, the Select Committee appointed on the previous December 18, to consider the question of Standing Orders in the House of Lords was discharged (157 H. of L. Official Report 1285–1289), and a new Standing Order, No. CV, was adopted without division in the terms of that proposed on the earlier date, subject to the substitution for the words " shall be deemed to be for all purposes " in para. (1) thereof of the words " shall constitute " in relation to the laying of documents before the House. No further motion was required in the case of the House of Commons. [4387]

An Act to declare the meaning of references in Acts of Parliament and subordinate legislation to the laying of instruments or other documents before Parliament or before either House of Parliament, and the effect during a vacancy in the office of the Lord Chancellor or of the Speaker of the House of Commons of the requirement in section four of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, to send notification forthwith to each of them of an instrument's being made so as to operate before it has been laid before Parliament. [4388] [30th July, 1948.]

1. Meaning of references to laying before Parliament.—(1) For the removal of doubt it is hereby declared that a reference in any Act of Parliament or subordinate legislation, whether passed or made before or after the passing of this Act, to the laying of any instrument, report, account or other document before either House of Parliament is, unless the contrary intention appears, to be construed as a reference to the taking, during the existence of a Parliament, of such action as is directed by virtue of any Standing Order, Sessional Order or other direction of that House for the time being in force to constitute the laying of that document before that House, or as is accepted by virtue of the practice of that House for the time being as constituting such laying, notwithstanding that the action so directed or accepted consists in part or wholly in action capable of being taken otherwise than at or during the time of a sitting of that House; and that a reference in any such Act or subordinate legislation to the laying of any instrument, report, account or other document before Parliament is, unless the contrary intention appears, to be construed accordingly as a reference (construed in accordance with the preceding declaration) to the laying of the document before each House of Parliament. [4389]

(2) It is hereby further declared that nothing in section four of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, is to be taken as indicating an intention that any reference in that section to the laying of copies of certain statutory instruments as therein mentioned is to be construed otherwise than in accordance with the preceding declaration. [4390]

General note.—For a short explanation of the background of this, the principal section of the Act, see the Preliminary Note, ante.

Or subordinate legislation.—These words, introduced into the Bill by amendment in the House of Lords (157 H. of L. Official Report 901 et seq.), cover the possibility of ecclesiastical Measures providing for the laying of subordinate instruments. Though approved by both Houses and receiving the Royal Assent, such Measures are not themselves Acts, notwithstanding the provisions of s. 4 of the Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act, 1919 (7 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 54), whereby such Measures have the force and effect of Acts of Parliament on the Royal Assent being signified.

Passing of this Act.—July 30, 1948.

The laying of any instrument.—See, in particular, the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, s. 4 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 785), referred to in the Preliminary Note, ante.

Or other document.—It may be that the term " document " here used should be construed ejusdem generis with the words " instrument", " report " and " account " that precede it.

Before either House of Parliament.—This phrase is in contrast to the phrase " before Parliament " later in the subsection.

During the existence of a Parliament.—During a dissolution the interpretation of " laying " laid down by the present Act has no application. This is readily understandable in the elective House of Commons but it applies equally to the hereditary Upper House. The only way in which instruments which require to be laid before Parliament can be brought into operation during a dissolution is therefore by means of the proviso to s. 4 (1) of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (see the Preliminary Note, ante), though the present provisions are fully applicable in all cases where Parliament is not sitting except by reason of a dissolution.

Standing Order.—See now Standing Order No. CV of the House of Lords and Standing Order No. 94 (as amended) of the House of Commons, the adoption of each of which is referred to in the Preliminary Note, ante.

The practice of that House.—This provision is inserted because much of the procedure of both Houses rests not upon written Orders but upon unwritten practice and precedent.

Or is accepted . . . as constituting.—This covers the use in Standing Orders of such phrases as " shall be deemed to be for all purposes the laying of it in the House", though the word " constitute " is now preferred in Standing Order No. CV of the House of Lords.

Otherwise than at or during the time of a sitting.—This disposes of any possible objection to the laying of instruments during a parliamentary recess : but there must be a Parliament in being (see the notes supra).

And that a reference, etc.—This is in contrast to the provisions applicable to the laying " before either House of Parliament " earlier in the subsection, and under the present part of the subsection a general refererence to " laying before Parliament " is to be construed as a laying before each House of Parliament.

Sub-s. (2).—This subsection makes assurance doubly sure by specifically referring to the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, s. 4 ; sub-s. (1), supra, is couched in general terms.

2. Notification under 9 & 10 Geo. 6, c. 36, s. 4, during vacancy of office of Lord Chancellor or of Speaker.—It is hereby declared that the requirement imposed by subsection (1) of section four of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, to send notification forthwith to the Lord Chancellor and to the Speaker of the House of Commons where a statutory instrument required to be laid before Parliament has been made so as to come into operation before it has been so laid, is to be treated as having been complied with, in a case in which notification forthwith is impossible by reason of a vacancy for the time being in the office of the Lord Chancellor or of the Speaker, whether occurring by death, resignation, dissolution of Parliament or otherwise, if the notification is sent to him immediately after the vacancy is filled. [4391]

General note.—This section modifies the procedure to be followed in the case of notifications under the proviso to the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, s. 4 (1) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 785), to cover possible vacancies in the offices of Lord Chancellor and Speaker of the House of Commons. As to the procedure under this proviso, see the Preliminary Note, ante.

To send notification forthwith.—In the discussion on the Bill and on the relevant Standing Orders in the House of Lords, an important point was raised in regard to the procedure under the proviso to s. 4 (1) of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, supra, whereby essential instruments can be brought into force before copies have been laid before Parliament on notification of the fact being sent to the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker " explaining why such copies were not so laid before the instrument came into operation". Hitherto the practice has been to state that copies had not been so laid because Parliament was not in session, but whilst this appeared correct on the wording of the proviso it was thought that the intention of the Legislature had been that some justification should be made in the explanation of the reasons why immediate operation was essential (see 157 H. of L. Official Report 902–903). In the House of Lords on July 28, 1948, the Lord Chancellor stated that he had been in touch with the Treasury and hoped that in future it would be possible to give an explanation more in accordance with the spirit of the Statute (157 H. of L. Official Report 1286–1287).

Where a statutory instrument.—This section is not general, as is s. 1 (1), ante, but is specifically limited in application to s. 4 (1) of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, supra.

Dissolution of Parliament.—S. 1 (1), ante, has no application in the case of a dissolution but, as explained in the notes to s. 1, ante, recourse must then be had in appropriate cases to the machinery of the proviso to s. 4 (1) of the Act of 1946, supra. The present section, however, applies even on a dissolution because it is the machinery of such proviso that is being modified.

3. Short title.—This Act may be cited as the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act, 1948. [4392]

Numbering, Printing and Sale

3. Numbering.—All statutory instruments received by the King's printer of Acts of Parliament under subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act shall be allocated to the series of the calendar year in which they are made and shall be numbered in that series consecutively as nearly as may be in the order in which they are received:

Provided that where any such instrument—

(a) will not take effect unless it is confirmed or approved by Parliament or the House of Commons, or

(b) is subject to special parliamentary procedure, or will become subject thereto in certain events, the instrument may be allocated and numbered as if it had been made and received on the date on which the responsible authority notifies the King's printer that the instrument has become operative or will become operative; and

Provided also that any statutory instrument made before the commencement of the Principal Act* shall be allocated to the series of the calendar year in which that Act commences*. [4395]

4. Classification.—(1) For the purpose of these Regulations, statutory instruments shall be classified as local or general according to their subject matter.

(2) Unless there are special reasons to the contrary in any particular case, a statutory instrument which is in the nature of a local and personal or private Act shall be classified as local, and a statutory instrument which is in the nature of a Public General Act shall be classified as general.

(3) The responsible authority shall, on sending a statutory instrument to the King's printer of Acts of Parliament, certify it as local or general, as the case may be; and, unless the Reference Committee otherwise direct under these Regulations, the instrument shall be classified accordingly. [4396]

5. Exemption for local instruments and instruments otherwise regularly published.—The following statutory instruments shall, unless the Reference

* The Statutory Instruments Act, 1946, commences January 1st, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 3).

Committee in any particular case otherwise direct under these Regulations, be exempt from the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act with respect to the printing and sale of copies, that is to say :—

(a) any local instrument, and

(b) any general instrument certified by the responsible authority to be of a class of documents which is or will be otherwise regularly printed as a series and made available to persons affected thereby :

Provided that the responsible authority may, on sending to the King's printer of Acts of Parliament any statutory instrument certified by that authority as local, request him to comply with the requirements aforesaid. [4397]

6. Exemption for temporary instruments.—If the responsible authority considers that the printing and sale of copies of a statutory instrument in accordance with the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act is unnecessary having regard to the brevity of the period during which that instrument will remain in force and to any other steps taken or to be taken for bringing its substance to the notice of the public, he may, on sending it to the King's printer of Acts of Parliament, certify accordingly ; and any instrument so certified shall, unless the Reference Committee otherwise direct under these Regulations, be exempt from the requirements aforesaid. [4398]

7. Exemption for certain schedules, etc.—If the responsible authority considers that the printing and sale in accordance with the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act of any schedule or other document which is identified by or referred to in a statutory instrument and would, but for the provisions of this Regulation, be required to be included in the instrument as so printed and sold, is unnecessary or undesirable having regard to the nature or bulk of the document and to any other steps taken or to be taken for bringing its substance to the notice of the public, he may, on sending it to the King's printer of Acts of Parliament, certify accordingly ; and any instrument so certified shall, unless the Reference Committee otherwise direct under these Regulations, be exempt from the requirements aforesaid so far as concerns the document specified in the certificate. [4399]

8. Exemption for confidential instruments.—If the responsible authority considers that the printing and sale of copies of a statutory instrument in accordance with the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act would, if effected before the coming into operation of that instrument, be contrary to the public interest, he may, on sending it to the King's printer of Acts of Parliament, certify accordingly ; and any instrument so certified shall, so long as it has not come into operation, be exempt from the requirements aforesaid :

Provided that if at any time after the instrument has been so certified and before the instrument has come into operation it appears to the said authority that the printing and sale of copies of the instrument as aforesaid would no longer be contrary to the public interest, he shall notify the King's printer of Acts of Parliament to that effect, and thereupon the foregoing provisions of this Regulation shall cease to apply to that instrument. [4400]

List of Statutory Instruments and Annual Editions

9. Statutory Instrument Issue Lists.—For the purposes of subsection (1) of Section 3 of the Principal Act, His Majesty's Stationery Office shall from time to time publish a list to be known as the " Statutory Instrument Issue List ", showing the serial number and short title of each statutory instrument which has been issued for the first time by that Office during the period to which that list relates, and the date on which each such instrument was so issued. [4401]

10. Annual Edition.—(1) As soon as possible after the end of each calendar year the Treasury shall cause to be prepared from the series of statutory instruments up to the end of that year an edition of statutory instruments (in the Regulation called the "annual edition") including (inter alia) the following matter:—

(a) copies of so much of all statutory instruments as has, at the time of the completion of the annual edition been printed in compliance with the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act and not been included in any previous annual edition;

Provided that copies of instruments which have ceased to be in operation at the time of the completion of the annual edition, and copies of local instruments which have been so printed, may be omitted:

(b) an Annual Numerical and Issue List of Public Statutory Instruments showing, except for such local instruments as are exempt from the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act with respect to the printing and sale of copies and instruments in respect of which a certificate under Regulation 8 of these Regulations is in force, the serial numbers of all statutory instruments which during that year either were made or were issued for the first time by His Majesty's Stationery Office, and in respect of the latter the date of such issue:

(c) a classified list of local instruments:

(d) tables showing the effect on statutes and previous statutory rules or statutory instruments of the statutory instruments included in that edition: and

(e) an index.

(2) The annual edition shall be printed by the King's printer of Acts of Parliament and shall be published by His Majesty's Stationery Office; and so much of the Annual Numerical and Issue List of Public Statutory Instruments therein as refers to the date upon which any statutory instrument was first issued by the Stationery Office shall be deemed to be published in accordance with subsection (1) of Section 3 of the Principal Act. [4402]

The Reference Committee

11. Constitution and powers of Reference Committee.—(1) There shall be a Committee to be known as the Statutory Instruments Reference Committee consisting of such two or more persons as the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker of the House of Commons may nominate.

(2) The quorum of the Committee shall be such as the Lord Chancellor and the Speaker may determine; and subject to that determination the Committee shall regulate their own procedure.

(3) Where, under Regulation 6 or 7 of these Regulations, the responsible authority gives any certificate in respect of a statutory instrument, that authority shall notify the Committee; and the Committee may, if they consider that the requirements of subsection (1) of Section 2 of the Principal Act with respect to the printing and sale of copies ought to be complied with direct that the instrument shall not be exempt from those requirements or, as the case may be, shall not be exempt therefrom so far as concerns the document specified in the certificate:

Provided that the Committee may direct that the notification required by this paragraph need not be given in respect of any specified class of instrument.

(4) Without prejudice to the provisions of the last foregoing paragraph, it shall be the duty of the Committee to determine any question referred to them—

(a) as to the numbering, printing or publication of any statutory instrument or class or description of such instruments ;

(b) whether any statutory instrument or any class or description of statutory instruments is in the nature of a Public General Act or of a local and personal or private Act ; and

(c) whether any document whereby is exercised after the commencement of the Principal Act * any power conferred by or under any Act of Parliament passed before the commencement of that Act * does or does not constitute such a statutory rule as is referred to in subsection (2) of Section 1 of that Act. CRIMINAL JUSTICE ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 58)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

It is only in certain aspects that the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act, 1948, which received the Royal Assent on July 30, 1948, impinge upon the functions of local authorities. The principal sections of the Act to be included in the present title are ss. 24 and 45–49. The first named provision, which was brought into operation on December 27, 1948, by Order in Council under s. 83 (2) of the Act (S.I. 1948 No. 2349), empowers courts of summary jurisdiction to direct persons to be detained in institutions for those of unsound mind where the Bench are satisfied of such persons' guilt and accept evidence of insanity by at least two medical practitioners. Officers of the local health authority or the police may be authorised to convey persons to the institutions. The effect of such orders is similar to that of summary reception orders under s. 16 of the Lunacy Act, 1890 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 25).

The provisions of ss. 45–49, on the other hand, relate principally to the administrative side of the probation system. Ss. 45–47 and 49 were brought into operation on August 1, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 1045) and s. 48 on December 27, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2349). By s. 45 the detailed provisions of Sched. V to the Act as to probation areas, probation committees, case committees and probation officers are applied to petty sessional divisions, subject to a strictly limited power of adaptation and modification vested in the Secretary of State. The next section empowers the same Minister to approve premises for use as " approved probation hostels " and " approved probation homes", the former term being applicable where the premises are used for accommodating persons, in respect of whom a probation or supervision order has been made, who work outside the premises. The Secretary of State is further empowered to make rules for the running of such hostels and homes. Other premises in which persons are required to reside are subject to official inspection and investigation, penalties being applicable in the event of obstruction (s. 47).

The succeeding section enables the Secretary of State in general terms to provide remand centres, detention centres, Borstal institutions and attendance centres, each of those terms being briefly defined. It may well be, however, that considerable time will elapse before the system envisaged by the Act becomes fully operative, for there is a grave shortage of suitable buildings and the need for personnel sufficiently trained to ensure fair chances of success is pressing. Such progress as circumstances permit is, however, being made.

S. 49 is concerned with remand homes. As from a date to be specified, premises are not to be used as a remand home without a certificate of approval from the Secretary of State, who may by rules apply to remand homes the provisions of ss. 79 and 106 (3) of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 218, 238), subject to any adaptations and modifications necessary. The appointment of persons to be in charge of remand homes is also subject to approval. In addition, s. 49 allows county and city borough councils to provide facilities for observation in remand homes with a view to the issue of reports as to the physical or mental condition of persons detained.

S. 76 contains general provisions as to rules and orders, and repeals affecting the law in England are effected by s. 83 and Sched. X, Part I.

The other sections appearing in this title are of a more general character. Other provisions of the Act are included in the title INFANTS, CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS, ante. [4413]

PART I

POWERS AND PROCEEDINGS OF COURTS

* * * * *

Reception orders

24. Power to make reception order.—(1) Where a person is charged before a court of summary jurisdiction with any act or omission as an offence punishable on summary conviction with imprisonment, and the court—

(a) is satisfied that the person did the act or made the omission charged; and

(b) is satisfied on the evidence of at least two duly qualified medical practitioners that the person is of unsound mind; and

(c) is also satisfied that he is a proper person to be detained,

the court may, in lieu of dealing with him in any other manner, by order direct him to be received and detained in such institution for persons of unsound mind as may be named in the order, and may further direct the duly authorised officer of the local health authority in whose area the court is situated, or any constable, to convey the person of unsound mind, forthwith to that institution; and the provisions of the Lunacy and Mental Treatment Acts, 1890 to 1930, shall have effect as if an order made under this section were a summary reception order made under section sixteen of the Lunacy Act, 1890. [4415]

(2) The court by which an order is made under this section shall send to the institution named in the order such information in the possession of the court as it considers likely to be of assistance in dealing with the person to whom the order relates. [4416]

(3) The Costs in Criminal Cases Act, 1908, shall apply in relation to any duly qualified medical practitioner who gives evidence for the purposes of this section notwithstanding that the proceedings in which the evidence is given are not proceedings to which section one of that Act applies. [4417]

Commencement of section.—This section is brought into force as from December 27, 1948, by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (Date of Commencement) (No. 3) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2349).

Offence punishable . . . with imprisonment.—See s. 80 (4), post.

Evidence of . . . medical practitioners.—There is here no provision corresponding to that of s. 4 (7) of the Act, whereby a report in writing as to the mental condition of any person purporting to be signed by a duly qualified medical practitioner experienced in the diagnosis of mental disorders may, in certain circumstances, be received in evidence, and it will be necessary in all cases for the medical witnesses to be called. " Duly qualified " is not defined ; it means, presumably, " registered " and not specially qualified for the purposes of mental examination and treatment (cf. s. 42 of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 198).

In lieu of dealing with him in any other manner.—See s. 80 (6), post.

Local health authority.—This is not defined in the Act. The local authority for the purposes of the Public Health Acts is dealt with for London in s. 1 of the Public Health (London) Act, 1936 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 446) ; and elsewhere the definition is found in s. 1 of the Public Health Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 322), and is the council of the borough, urban district or rural district. In s. 19 (1) of the National Health Service Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 536), " local health authority " is defined for the purposes of Part III of that Act as the council of a county or county borough.

Lunacy and Mental Treatment Acts, 1890 to 1930.—These Acts comprise the Lunacy Acts, 1890, 1891, 1908 and 1922 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 17, 144, 151, 199), and the Mental Treatment Act, 1930 (23 Halsbury's Statutes 154).

Lunacy Act, 1890, s. 16.—11 Halsbury's Statutes 25.

No notice to defendant or to his parent or guardian.—It is to be noted that there is no provision in this section corresponding with that of s. 8 (5) of the Mental Deficiency Act, 1913 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 167), whereby the police are required, if they have knowledge of the alleged mental deficiency, to notify the local authority and to give notice to the defendant and to his parent or guardian if known.

Application of costs in Criminal Cases Act, 1908 (5 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 942 et seq.).—This makes provision for the payment of witnesses' allowances to doctors who give evidence for the purposes of this section. Whether this applies to a medical witness called by the defence to resist the making of an order under the section is not clear.

Definition.—For definition of " Court of summary jurisdiction ", see s. 80 (1), post.

PART II

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS AND PROVISIONS AS TO TREATMENT OF PRISONERS, ETC.

Arrangements for probation

45. Probation areas, probation committees and case committees, and probation officers.—(1) The provisions of the Fifth Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to—

(a) the constitution of probation areas, of probation committees for those areas and of case committees for petty sessional divisions ;

(b) the functions of probation committees and case committees ; and

(c) the appointment, functions, remuneration and conditions of service of probation officers. [4418]

(2) For the purposes of this section, and of the provisions of Part I of this Act relating to probation, each of the following places shall be deemed to be a petty sessional division that is to say—

(a) the City of London ;

(b) a division of the metropolitan police court area ; and

(c) any area, not being a petty sessional division, for which a stipendiary magistrate is appointed or other special court of summary jurisdiction is constituted, and which, by order of the Secretary of State, is declared to be a petty sessional division for the purposes aforesaid. [4419]

(3) An order made by the Secretary of State under paragraph (c) of the last foregoing subsection may provide that in its application to the area to which the order relates the Fifth Schedule to this Act shall have effect subject to such adaptations and modifications as may be specified in the order, and may contain such consequential and supplemental provisions as appear to the Secretary of State to be expedient. [4420]

General note.—The Probation of Offenders Act, 1907 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 365 et seq.), except as to Scotland, and the whole of Part I of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 395–401) are repealed; see s. 83 and Sched. X, post. S. 78 and Sched. VIII, para. 7 of the Act make provision for the transitory period.

Sub-s. (1), supra, serves merely to apply the detailed provisions of Sched. V, post, which sub-s. (2) defines the term "petty sessional division" by the reference to areas, with power for the Secretary of State in specified circumstances to restore additional areas to the petty sessional divisions, the relevant provisions of Sched. V, post, being adapted or modified as occasion may require (sub-s. (3)).

The section has been brought into operation as from August 1, 1949 by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (Date of Commencement) (No. 3) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 1045).

Provisions of Part I of this Act relating to probation.—See ss. 3–12 of the Act.

City of London.—See generally the title CITY OF LONDON in Vol. 3, at p. 178.

Definitions.—For definitions of "metropolitan police court area" and "court of summary jurisdiction, see s. 80 (1) and the notes to s. 80, post. Provisions as to the construction of other terms in this section are contained in Sched. V, post.

46. Approved probation hostels and homes.—(1) The Secretary of State may approve premises for the reception of persons who may be required to reside therein by a probation order or a supervision order, and such premises shall be known—

(a) if the persons so residing are employed outside the premises, or are awaiting such employment, as "approved probation hostels";

(b) in any other case, as "approved probation homes". [4421]

(2) The Secretary of State may make rules for the regulation, management and inspection of approved probation hostels and of approved probation homes; and such rules may in particular provide that no person shall be appointed to be in charge of an approved probation hostel or home unless the Secretary of State has consented to his appointment:

Provided that the rules shall not prohibit the making of such an appointment in case of emergency without the previous consent of the Secretary of State, but may in that case require notice of the appointment to be given immediately to the Secretary of State and enable him, if he thinks fit, to require the appointment to be terminated. [4422]

General note.—By virtue of s. 5 (3) of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (11 Halsbury's Statutes 398) (as to the repeal of this subsection, see s. 83 (3) and Sched. X, post) the Secretary of State, with Treasury approval, has contributed towards the maintenance of persons in probation homes and hostels approved by him. This new section contains statutory recognition of the terms "approved probation hostels" and "approved probation homes" and gives the Secretary of State direct authority as to their management.

As to the inspection of other "institutions" used for the residence of probationers, see s. 47, infra.

This section has been brought into operation as from August 1, 1949 by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (Date of Commencement) (No. 3) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 1045).

If he thinks fit.—This phrase gives the Secretary of State unfettered discretion subject only to his acting in good faith.

Definitions.—For definitions of "probation order" and "supervision order", see s. 80 (1), and the notes to s. 80, post.

47. Inspection of institutions for residence of probationers.—(1) Any institution, not being an approved probation hostel or an approved probation home, in which a person is required by a probation order or a supervision order to reside otherwise than for the purpose of his submitting to treatment for his mental condition as a resident or voluntary patient shall, so long as he resides there, be subject to inspection by the Secretary of State unless it is, as a whole, otherwise subject to inspection by a Government department. [4423]

(2) A person appointed by the Secretary of State to inspect any such institution as aforesaid shall have power to enter the institution and to make such investigation of the treatment of any persons residing there as he thinks fit; and any person who obstructs him in the exercise of the power aforesaid shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds. [4424]

Commencement of section.—This section has been brought into operation as from August 1, 1949 by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (Date of Commencement) (No. 3) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 1045).

Institution.—This expression is not defined in the Act.

Mental treatment.—Power to make probation orders requiring treatment for mental condition is conferred upon courts by s. 4 of the Act.

Powers of inspection.—The occasion of the inspection may be that a single probationer resides on the premises, but it would seem that the inspector is entitled to investigate the treatment of "any person residing there", even if not probationers.

Obstructs.—It is not necessary to allege wilful obstruction, but it may be that the omission of the word "wilful" makes little difference to the meaning.

Definitions.—For definitions of "probation order" and "supervision order", see s. 80 (1) and the notes to s. 80, post.

Institutions for offenders

48. Remand centres, detention centres and Borstal institutions.—(1) The Secretary of State may provide—

(a) remand centres, that is to say places for the detention of persons not less than fourteen but under twenty-one years of age who are remanded or committed in custody for trial or sentence;

(b) detention centres, that is to say places in which persons not less than fourteen but under twenty-one years of age who are ordered to be detained in such centres under this Act may be kept for short periods under discipline suitable to persons of their age and description; and

(c) Borstal institutions, that is to say places in which offenders not less than sixteen but under twenty-one years of age may be detained and given such training and instruction as will conduce to their reformation and the prevention of crime. [4425]

(2) The Secretary of State may provide attendance centres, that is to say places at which offenders of not less than twelve but under twenty-one years of age may be required to attend, in pursuance of orders made under section nineteen of this Act, on such occasions and at such times as will avoid interference so far as is practicable with their school hours or working hours, and be given under supervision appropriate occupation or instruction; and for the purpose aforesaid the Secretary of State may make arrangements with any local authority or police authority for the use of premises of that authority. [4426]

(3) The Secretary of State shall provide in remand centres facilities for the observation of any persons detained therein on whose physical or mental condition a medical report may be desirable for the assistance of the court in determining the most suitable method of dealing with his case. [4427]

(4) Where any person under seventeen years of age is committed to, or ordered to be detained in, a remand centre under this Act for the purpose of obtaining a medical report on his physical or mental condition, the council of the county or county borough who would be responsible for his maintenance if he were detained in a remand home shall pay to the Secretary of State, in such manner as the Secretary of State may with the approval of the Treasury determine, such sums in respect of the maintenance of that person as the Secretary of State may with the like approval direct. [4428]

(5) The Prison Acts, 1865 to 1898, shall, subject to such adaptations and modifications as may be made by rules of the Secretary of State, apply to remand centres, detention centres and Borstal institutions, and to persons detained therein, as they apply to prisons and prisoners. [4429]

(6) The appropriation of a prison vested in the Prison Commissioners under the Prison Act, 1877, for use as a remand centre, detention centre or Borstal institution shall not be deemed, for the purposes of sections thirty-three and thirty-four of that Act, to be a discontinuance of the prison. [4430]

(7) Section six of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, and section eight of the Penal Servitude Act, 1891 (which relate to the registration, measurement and photographing of prisoners) shall have effect as if references therein to prisons and prisoners included references to remand centres, detention centres and Borstal institutions, and to persons detained therein. [4431]

Commencement of section.—This section has been brought into operation as from December 27, 1948 by the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (Date of Commencement) (No. 3) Order 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2349).

Remand centres.—S. 27 of the Act specifies the occasions on which remand centres are to be used. Their use in certain circumstances where "interim orders" are made by courts is dealt with in s. 75 of the Act.

Detention centres.—The power of courts to order detention in a detention centre is dealt with in s. 18 of the Act. The shortage of suitable accommodation is likely to be particularly keenly felt in the provision of such centres.

Borstal institutions.—The new provisions as to sentences of borstal training are set out in s. 20 of the Act, and in Sched. II thereto.

Sub-s. (1) (c), supra, refers to Borstal institutions as places in which persons between 16 and 21 "may be detained". In fact, those are the ages between which they may be sentenced to such detention, and the actual detention may continue long after they have attained the higher age.

Responsibility for maintenance.—By s. 77 of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933 (26 Halsbury's Statutes 216), it is the duty of county councils and county borough councils to provide remand homes for their area, and the section permits the establishment of "joint remand homes" and the use of certain other institutions as remand homes. The responsibility for maintenance referred to in sub-s. (3), supra, will normally rest on the authority in whose area the remanding court is situated.

Remand home.—See ss. 49 and 80 (1), post.

Prison Acts, 1865 to 1898.—The Acts comprised in this collective short title are the Prison Act, 1865 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 326); the Prison Act, 1877 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 337); the Prison (Officers Superannuation) Act, 1878 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 352); the Prison Act, 1884 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 354); the Prison (Officers Superannuation) Act, 1886 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 363); the Prison (Officers Superannuation) Act, 1893 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 368); and the Prison Act, 1898 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 369).

STATUTES

SUPERANNUATION (MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS) ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 33)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

This Act, which received the Royal Assent on May 28, 1948, comprises a miscellaneous collection of provisions, many of which have little in common save that they relate to some branch of the law of superannuation. In nearly all cases these provisions take effect by amendment or application of the existing law. Most of the sections came into force on May 28, 1948, the date of passing of the Act, but a few are given retrospective or other special operation. The territorial application of the Act is for the most part related to that of the existing statutes which are amended or applied. There are fourteen principal sections and one Schedule, the remainder of the Act being merely ancillary. Various points of interest to local authorities in regard to the Act are touched upon in Circular 86/48, reproduced later in this title.

In moving the Second Reading of the Bill in the House of Commons on February 27, 1948, the Financial Secretary to the Treasury stated that it was hoped to introduce another Superannuation Bill, covering a wider field than the present measure, in the near future (447 H. of C. Official Report 2318 et seq.).

The main object of the present Act is to carry over into peace-time the practice of authorising civil servants, local government employees and teachers to count, for the purpose of reckoning periods of pensionable service, time spent in compulsory national service under the National Service Acts, 1939 to 1947 (now consolidated in the National Service Acts, 1948), the Act so some extent completing the provisions of the National Service Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1142), extending the principle of compulsory service after the period of transition into peace-time proper.

In the case of civil servants' pensions, the Government had made arrangements during the recent war to make up the balance of pay while civil servants were on national service, and as they were still civil servants during their period of war service they could count such service for superannuation purposes. The Government ceased to make up their pay in this fashion as from July, 1947. Consequently, the national service of civil servants as from that date no longer counted as a pensionable period, and the present Act was passed to remedy what was felt to be a hardship (s. 1 and Sched.).

Local government employees and teachers were in a somewhat different position from civil servants. At the outbreak of the Second World War, the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1118), and the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131), authorised the war service of local government employees and teachers to count for pension purposes during the " present emergency " ; for present purposes March 31, 1949, has been declared the date on which the emergency ended ; see the Local Government Staffs (War Service) (End of Emergency) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 839) and the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) (End of Emergency) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 842). The present Act makes provision for compulsory national service to count for superannuation purposes thereafter.

The Act effects changes of lesser importance in the pensions code of the public services and teaching profession, the object of such changes being to remove particular anomalies which had occurred in practice where an individual changed his employment from one local authority to another ; from a local authority to the civil service or vice versa ; from a local authority to the teaching profession and vice versa ; and in certain other cases. In these circumstances the individual so transferring often became entitled to smaller pensions from both sources, there being no existing machinery to avoid this. In other cases, the individual might lose altogether the benefit of pensionable service with his previous employer. Under this Act the pensionable periods of individuals transferring may be " dovetailed " (s. 2).

Arrangements may also be made under s. 3 of the Act to safeguard the pension rights of officials of Approved Societies and of other organisations administering national health and unemployment schemes, who are transferred to the Ministry of National Insurance to assist with the administration of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 412).

In addition, provision is made for safeguarding the pension rights of officials of the Safety in Mines Research Board who, as a result of the Coal Industry Nationalisation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 290), are transferred to the Ministry of Fuel and Power or elsewhere, while in another sphere arrangements may be made under the Act to " dovetail " the pension rights of officials displaced on the winding-up of the War Agricultural Executive Committees under the Agriculture Act, 1947 (1 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 157), but who transfer to County Agricultural Executive Committees or elsewhere. Similar arrangements may be made under the Act to safeguard the pension rights of employees of the Meteorological Committee who were in 1920 transferred to the Air Ministry on the taking over of that Committee (s. 4).

Among the other matters dealt with by the Act and considered in detail in the notes to the individual sections is a provision for applying the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1037) (which raised the amounts of civil service pensions) to civil pensioners of the Indian and Pakistan Governments residing in the United Kingdom (s. 5). S. 6 relaxes the superannuation law in cases where local government employees are found to be redundant during a period of economic emergency through the temporary reduction of expenditure or the re-allocation of labour resources to different purposes.

Next, machinery is provided by s. 7 for admitting certain associations of local authorities to the superannuation schemes of local authorities and for remedying defects which would otherwise arise on an interchange of officials between such associations and local authorities. Associations in the nature of " trade unions", such as the National Association of Local Government Officers, are excluded from the terms of the section.

Ss. 8 to 12, inclusive, make a number of amendments to the superannuation code applicable to teachers. Certain miscellaneous cases of hardship are to be remedied in such cases, e.g. where a teacher takes up a non-teaching post and afterwards returns to teaching; where a " supplementary " teacher does the same thing; where a teacher goes abroad in a civil service post; where he takes one of certain non-teaching posts in connection with education; or where training is interrupted by national service. Explanations of these provisions appear in the notes to the sections.

S. 13 relates to probation officers who have been seconded to other service, power being given to the Secretary of State to provide for such persons in making orders under s. 1 of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1087), which made provision for the transfer of probation officers to the local government superannuation provisions. Appropriate provision has since been made by Part III of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1220), post, which provides that probation officers seconded to posts in the colonies and elsewhere are, on returning to the English probation service after July 1, 1948, to have substantially the same rights as if they had been serving in England on that date.

Finally, provision is made for the superannuation rights of officials of approved schools, both in England and Wales and in Scotland, to be adjusted where they transfer to local government or other public service (s. 14), the principle of interchangeability being held to be of great value.

Many of the provisions of the Act are to be implemented by the making of rules, by means of statutory instruments subject to annulment by either House of Parliament (s. 15), by the Department appropriate to the circumstances of the case. [4454]

[28th May, 1948.]

1. Treatment of compulsory national service for pension purposes.—(1) Where a person, immediately before he enters upon compulsory national service, either—

(a) is a civil servant or serving the State in an unestablished capacity ; or

(b) is an employee of a local authority or is in any other employment by virtue of which he is for the time being entitled to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained under Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or under Part I of the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, or under a local Act scheme ; or

(c) is employed in contributory service within the meaning of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, or is so circumstanced that he is treated for any of the purposes of those Acts as engaged in a period of contributory service ; or

(d) is employed in service as defined in the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme, or is so circumstanced that he is treated for any of the purposes of that Scheme as engaged in a period of service, rules made under this section may provide that the period of his compulsory national service and such further period, if any, after the termination thereof as may be specified in the rules, shall be treated for the purposes of the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946, as service as a civil servant or to the State in an unestablished capacity, for the purposes of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, as contributing or non-contributing service, for the purposes of any local Act scheme as service for the purposes of that scheme, for the purposes of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, or any scheme made thereunder as contributory service or approved external service, or for the purposes of the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme as a period of service as defined in that Scheme or a period during which he is so circumstanced that he is treated for any of the purposes of that Scheme as engaged in a period of service, as the case may be. [4456]

(2) Where a person who has been successful in a competitive examination for persons desiring to obtain posts in the permanent civil service of the State enters upon compulsory national service before becoming a civil servant, and that examination, or any subsequent examination for persons desiring to obtain similar posts, was one in which persons below the age of eighteen years were allowed to compete, then, where rules made under this section so provide, so much of the period of his compulsory national service as falls after the date on which the Civil Service Commissioners issue their certificate of qualification in relation to him, and such further period, if any, after the termination of his compulsory national service as may be specified in the rules, shall be treated for the purposes of the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946, as service as a civil servant. [4457]

(3) Rules under this section shall, in relation to the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946, be made by the Treasury, in relation to the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, and local Act schemes in England and Wales, be made by the Minister of Health, in relation to the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, and local Act schemes in Scotland, be made by the Secretary of State, in relation to the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, and schemes made thereunder, be made by the Minister of Education with the consent of the Treasury, and in relation to the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme, be made by the Secretary of State with the like consent, and any such rules may require the payment of contributions or transfer values, and, where the rules are made by or with the consent of the Treasury, may provide for the payment into the Exchequer or out of moneys provided by Parliament or into or out of the Education (Scotland) Fund of any sums payment of which is required or authorised by the rules. [4458]

(4) Rules made under this section with respect to the persons referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section may be so framed as to apply, and to be deemed always to have applied, in relation to any person who entered upon his compulsory national service at any time after the beginning of July, nineteen hundred and forty-seven; and rules made under this section with respect to the persons referred to in subsection (2) of this section may be so framed as to apply, and to be deemed always to have applied, in relation to any person who entered upon his compulsory national service at any time after the beginning of the year nineteen hundred and forty-six. [4459]

(5) Rules made under this section shall not apply in relation to any of the persons mentioned in paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) of subsection (1) of this section unless their compulsory national service commences, in the case of persons mentioned in the said paragraph (b), after the expiration of the present emergency as defined for the purposes of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939, in the case of the persons mentioned in the said paragraph (c), after the expiration of the present emergency as defined for the purposes of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939 and, in the case of the persons mentioned in the said paragraph (d), after the expiration of the present emergency as defined for the purposes of the Education (Scotland) (War Service Superannuation) Act, 1939; but the said Acts shall be amended in accordance with the provisions of Parts I, II and III respectively of the Schedule to this Act and, to the extent specified in those Parts of that Schedule, shall be deemed always to have had effect as so amended. [4460]

(6) The provisions of the Superannuation Schemes (War Service) Act, 1940, shall apply in relation to persons who cease to follow their employment after the period of the present emergency (as defined in the said Act) in order to undertake compulsory national service as they apply in relation to persons who cease to follow their employment during the period of the present emergency (as so defined) in order to undertake service in any of the naval, military or air forces of the Crown. [4461]

(7) In this section, the expression "compulsory national service" means service in any of the armed forces of the Crown undertaken by virtue of an enlistment notice or a training notice served under the National Service Acts, 1939 to 1947, or work or training in pursuance of an order of a tribunal under section five of the National Service (Armed Forces) Act, 1939 (which relates to conscientious objectors). [4462]

Sub-s. (1).—The subsection applies to the four particular types of employee listed in paras. (a) to (d); that is, to civil servants, established or not; to local government employees; to teachers; and to Scottish teachers. In any of these cases rules may be made to allow the compulsory national service of such persons, possibly with an additional period at the end of such service, to count for pension.

Compulsory national service.—For definition, see sub-s. (7), supra. See also Circular 86/48, post.

Civil servant.—By s. 17 (1), post, this means a person serving in an established capacity in the permanent civil service of the State within the meaning of s. 17 of the Superannuation Act, 1859 (16 Halsbury's Statutes 184). This definition distinguishes the "civil servant" (permanent and established) from the person "serving the State in an unestablished capacity", infra.

Serving the State in an unestablished capacity.—This is the case of the so-called "unestablished civil servant". The term is defined in s. 17 (1), post.

Local authority.—For definition, see s. 17 (1), post, and s. 40 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 417).

Any other employment by virtue of which he is . . . entitled to participate.—S. 5 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 391), allows employees of certain undertakers, subject to the consent of the Minister of Health, to be brought within a local authority's superannuation fund. By the same section provision is made for the continuance of "admission agreements" under s. 5 (3) of the Local Government and Other Officers' Superannuation Act, 1922 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 865), also relating to employees of undertakers. Special provision was made as to the managers of non-provided schools and their employees. In addition, certified midwives employed by voluntary organisations by arrangement with local authorities could be brought within the superannuation fund.

Superannuation fund maintained, etc.—See s. 4 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 390), or the provisions of the local Act scheme applicable.

Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—Part I comprises ss. 1 to 25 of this Act (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385 et seq.), which first made compulsory upon local authorities in England and Wales the maintenance of a superannuation fund, or a joint superannuation fund in combination with other authorities, for the superannuation of their officers and employees.

Local Act scheme.—By s. 17 (1), post, this phrase has the same meaning as in the Act of 1937, supra. In effect, this means a superannuation scheme administered by a local council who, not having adopted the Act of 1922, supra, maintains a superannuation fund under a local Act (see the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, ss. 1 (3) (b) and 40 (1); 30 Halsbury's Statutes 388, 416). An example of a local Act scheme is that applicable in Manchester under the Manchester Corporation (Superannuation) Acts, 1920 and 1946, as modified by the Manchester Corporation Superannuation Scheme, 1938, made by the Manchester City Council under s. 26 (1) of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 407). A local Act scheme is also applicable in the case of the London County Council.

Contributory service.—As regards service before April 1, 1945, the expression "contributory service" in relation to teachers has the meaning assigned to it by s. 2 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 319), as amended by the Local Government Act, 1929, Sched. X, para. 19 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 998); on and after that date a lengthy new definition was introduced by s. 1 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 54), which sets out nine different classes of full-time service ranking as contributory service. The new definition was so framed as to bring the provisions of the Act of 1925, supra, into line with the new terminology adopted under the Education Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 123). The earlier definition was also extended to cover new classes of service not previously pensionable.

Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946.—These Acts comprise the School Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1918 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 303), the School Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1922 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 314), the School Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1924 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 316), the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 317), the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1935 (28 Halsbury's Statutes 49), the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 180), the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131), the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 53), and s. 6 (1) of the Superannuation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 726), which by s. 10 (2) of the same Act may be cited as the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1946.

Treated . . . as engaged in a period of contributory service.—See s. 14 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 331) (full-time service as an organiser, and employment by the Central Welsh Board for Intermediate Education); s. 2 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 56) (educational service otherwise than as a teacher); and s. 1 of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131 (war service).

Rules made under this section.—Such rules are to be made by the Departments specified in sub-s. (3), supra. Further provisions as to the application of such rules are contained in sub-ss. (4) and (5), supra, while the general provisions applicable to rules under the Act are contained in s. 15, post. See also the notes to that section. The power to make rules is to be exercised by statutory instrument subject to annulment by resolution of either House of Parliament (s. 15 (2), post). The Minister of Education with the consent of the Treasury have made the Teachers Superannuation (National Service) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 468; the Treasury has made the Superannuation (Treatment of Compulsory National Service of Civil Servants) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 517 and the Minister of Health has made the Superannuation (Local Government Staffs) (National Service) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 545.

Such further period . . . as may be specified in the rules.—Compare with this provision that of s. 2 (5) of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939, as amended by s. 11 (6), of, and Sched. II to the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 63, 67), whereby if a person after the conclusion of his period of war service has spent a further period completing his course of training, that period is to rank as contributory service.

Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946.—These are the Superannuation Acts, 1834, 1859, 1866, 1876, 1884, 1887, 1892, 1909, 1914 (16 Halsbury's Statutes 122, 179, 238, 378, 551, 566, 686, 741, 772), the Superannuation (Prison Officers) Act, 1919 (13 Halsbury's Statutes 374), the Superannuation Act, 1935 (28 Halsbury's Statutes 295), Part I of the Foreign Service Act, 1943 (36 Halsbury's Statutes 45) and the Superannuation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 721).

Approved external service.—This term is defined for the purposes of that section in s. 13 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 328), as modified by s. 6 (1) of the Superannuation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 726).

Transfer values.—A transfer value may arise where an employee transfers from one type of employment to another. If he has been in pensionable employment and leaves it for other pensionable employment, the former employer may be required to pay to the new employer a total sum, known as a "transfer value". On payment of this amount the former employer is freed from all further obligation and the employee's pension rights become enforceable against the new employer. This procedure avoids both the return of contributions and the possible payment in the future of two pensions, one from the former, and one from the new, authority.

Sub-s. (5).—Just as sub-s. (4), supra, affects civil servants, established and unestablished, so this subsection affects the other classes of employee referred to in sub-s. (1), that is to say, employees of local authorities, teachers and teachers serving in Scotland. But the plan is different. In the case of civil servants the previous position had been to some extent administrative, but in the present cases definite principles had been laid down by emergency legislation passed at the outbreak of war, these provisions being limited to end with the expiration of the present emergency. For the purposes of the Acts in question the emergency has now been declared at an end (see note infra). The provisions of the present section substantially continue the same provisions for these classes of employee.

Expiration of the present emergency, etc.—March 31, 1949 has been declared the date on which the emergency ended for the purposes of the three enactments referred to in sub-s. (5), supra; see the Local Government Staffs (War Service) (End of Emergency) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 839) and the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) (End of Emergency) Order, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 842).

Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939.—32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131.

Sub-s. (6).—The Superannuation Schemes (War Service) Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 542), made general provision for preventing loss of benefits under superannuation schemes by persons serving in the Armed Forces or in war industry, etc., other than persons already covered by the enactments lastly before mentioned, the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1939, supra, and the Police and Firemen (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1149). In other words it applied to private superannuation schemes. It was an enabling Act and the affect of the present subsection is to empower (but not compel) the trustees, etc., of such schemes to allow compulsory national service to count for pension purposes after the end of the present emergency (defined by s. 1 (6) of the Act in the same terms as above) when the provisions of the Act would otherwise have come to an end.

Enlistment notice.—The essence of such a notice is that it signifies call-up for whole-time service. As from January 1, 1949, see s. 9 (1) of the National Service Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 64).

Training notice.—This means a notice served or to be served on a person during his term of part-time service whereby he is called up for training for a period of not less than six days. As from January 1, 1949, see s. 34 (1) of the National Service Act, 1948, supra.

National Service Acts, 1939 to 1947.—These were the National Service (Armed Forces) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1041), the National Service (Armed Forces) Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 465), the National Service Act, 1941 (34 Halsbury's Statutes 270), the National Service (No. 2) Act, 1941 (34 Halsbury's Statutes 286), and the National Service Act, 1942 (35 Halsbury's Statutes 231), the National Service (Release of Conscientious Objectors) Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 775), and the National Service Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1142). As from January 1, 1949, however, all those remaining unrepealed, with the exception of the Act of 1946, which had become largely spent, were repealed and consolidated in the National Service Act, 1948, supra, now amended as from its commencement by the National Service (Amendment) Act, 1948 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 6).

Work or training.—This refers to the alternative service of a conditionally registered conscientious objector. As from January 1, 1949, the position is largely governed by s. 17 (6) of the National Service Act, 1948, supra, as amended.

In pursuance of an order of a tribunal.—Under s. 17 of the National Service Act, 1948, supra, local and appellate tribunals for conscientious objectors are empowered to register applicants unconditionally, conditionally or for non-combatant military duties, unless they are regarded as insincere when they may be made liable for combatant military service. The present provision relates only to those who are conditionally registered for civilian service under that section. Full-time work on the land or in a hospital is frequently specified and applicants may in proper cases be registered conditionally on remaining in their present occupation.

2. Pensions of persons transferring to different employment.—(1) Where persons who have been employed in one employment become employed in another employment and either—

(a) one of the employments is, and the other employment is not, an employment of one of the classes specified in subsection (2) of this section; or

(b) one of those employments is of one of those classes and the other employment is of another of those classes, rules may be made with respect to the pensions payable to and in respect of those persons by the appropriate Minister, or, as the case may be, the appropriate Ministers acting jointly:

Provided that this subsection shall not apply unless either—

(i) both employments are pensionable employments; or

(ii) the first employment is of one of the classes specified in paragraphs (c) and (d) of subsection (2) of this section and the second employment is of such a nature as may be specified in rules to be made by the Minister of Health, or, in relation to Scotland, by the Secretary of State, and is undertaken with the approval of the local authority by which the superannuation fund concerned is maintained. [4463]

(2) The classes of employment referred to in subsection (1) of this section are the following, that is to say—

(a) employment as a civil servant; and

(b) employment as a member of the metropolitan police staff; and

(c) employment by virtue of which the person employed is or is deemed to be, or, but for any rules made under this section, would be or be deemed to be, a contributory employee or local Act contributor within the meaning of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937; and

(d) employment (not being such employment as is specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection) by virtue of which the person employed is entitled to participate in any of the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained under a local Act scheme in England or Wales; and

(e) employment in contributory service within the meaning of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, or in service as defined in the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme. [4464]

(3) Where either of the employments in question falls within one of the classes specified in subsection (2) of this section, the appropriate Minister, or, as the case may be, one of the appropriate Ministers, for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section shall be—

(i) in relation to the class specified in paragraph (a) of the said subsection (2), the Treasury;

(ii) in relation to the class specified in paragraph (b) of the said subsection (2), the Secretary of State;

(iii) in relation to the class specified in paragraph (c) of the said subsection (2), the Minister of Health or the Secretary of State;

(iv) in relation to the class specified in paragraph (d) of the said subsection (2), the Minister of Health;

(v) in relation to the class specified in paragraph (e) of the said subsection (2), the Minister of Education or the Secretary of State, acting in either case with the consent of the Treasury, and the said subsection (1) shall be construed accordingly. [4465]

(4) Rules made under this section may require the making of the following payments, that is to say—

(a) where the person who changes his employment has received any payment in respect of his pension rights upon ceasing to be employed in his former employment, payments by that person equal to all or any of the amounts so received;

(b) where either of the employments is such an employment as is mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, payments out of moneys provided by Parliament;

(c) where either of the employments is such an employment as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of the said subsection (2), payments out of the Metropolitan Police Fund;

(d) where either of the employments is such an employment as is mentioned in paragraph (e) of the said subsection (2), payments out of moneys provided by Parliament or out of the Education (Scotland) Fund; and

(e) where either of the said employments is such an employment as is mentioned in paragraph (c) or paragraph (d) of the said subsection (2), payments by a local authority or out of a superannuation fund maintained by a local authority, and may provide for any of the said payments, or any payments made in connection with the change of employment otherwise than by virtue of the rules, being made into the Exchequer, into the Metropolitan Police Fund, into the Education (Scotland) Fund, to a local authority or into a superannuation fund maintained by a local authority; and the payments mentioned in paragraphs (b), (c), (d) and (e) of this subsection may include repayments of contributions, payments of transfer values, payments towards the burden of a pension payable by another person or out of another pension fund, and payments of premiums or other payments directed to the creation or preservation of pension rights of the person in question. [4466]

(5) Any rules under this section may be so framed as to apply to persons ceasing to be employed in one employment and becoming employed in another notwithstanding that the cessation of the first employment or the commencement of the second employment was before the date of the making of the rules or before the date of the passing of this Act, and may vary or provide for the variation of pensions notwithstanding that the pensions have been granted before either of the said dates:

Provided that, subject to the provisions of subsection (7) of this section, no rules shall be framed so as to apply when the cessation of the first employment took place before the making of the rules unless—

(a) the rules are only to apply with the consent of the person ceasing to be employed or that person is by the rules given an opportunity to elect that they shall not apply to him; and

(b) where the rules provide for payment by a local authority or out of a superannuation fund maintained by a local authority, that authority has consented to the making of the rules or the rules are only to apply with the consent of that authority or that authority is by the rules given an opportunity to elect that they shall not apply. [4467]

(6) Section nine of the Superannuation Act, 1935, shall cease to have effect, but any rules made thereunder shall be treated as if they were rules duly made by the appropriate Minister or Ministers under the preceding provisions of this section. [4468]

(7) Paragraph (b) of the proviso to subsection (5) of this section shall not apply to any rules in so far as they vary any rules made under the said section nine or under section fifty-one of the Unemployment Act, 1934. [4469]

(8) Rules made under this section may provide that, in the application of the rules to Scotland, for the purposes of paragraph (d) of subsection (2) of section sixty-nine and of subsection (4) of section seventy of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1946, sums paid out of moneys provided by Parliament and sums paid into the Exchequer in pursuance of such rules in respect of employment in contributory or recognised service within the meaning of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, shall be respectively deemed to be sums spent on the superannuation of teachers under those Acts and to be sums received in respect of contributions paid by teachers and employers in England and Wales thereunder. [4470]

General note.—See Circular 86/46, post. The object of this section is to facilitate interchange of staff where desirable between civil servants, local government staff and the teaching profession, and between these employments and employment such as service with a public board. Prior to this Act, one of the obstacles to this interchange was the question of pensions of those who transferred from one service to another. This section provides wide powers for devising new arrangements which will (1) preserve all former pension rights, and (2) simplify the machinery of administration so that instead, e.g. of an individual who has changed his employment from one of these heads to another receiving a pension from both sources on retirement, he will receive such pension only from the authority in whose service he was on his retirement. This pension will be based on the entire period of pensionable service throughout his career, on his salary at date of retirement and the pension code of such employee on retirement.

Rules.—Under this section the Minister of Health has made the Superannuation (Policy and Local Government Schemes) Interchange Rules, 1948, S.I. 1948 No. 1446, post and the Superannuation (Local Act Authorities Schemes) Interchange Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 630; the Treasury have made the Superannuation (Transfer of Silicosis Medical Officers) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 168 and the Minister of Education has made the Teachers Superannuation (Approved External Service) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 1393. See Circular 125/48, post, as to the operation of S.I. 1948 No. 1446.

Metropolitan police staff.—The Metropolitan police staff were inserted into this section by amendment in Standing Committee of the House of Commons (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, col. 7), the purpose of such amendment being to remove doubt as to whether the transfer provisions under this section applied to them. For definition of "Metropolitan police staff", see s. 17 (1), post.

Sub-s. (2) (c).—The words "or, but for any rules made under this section, would be or be deemed to be" were inserted into this paragraph in order to apply its provisions to nurses who left district nursing associations to enter the employ of local health authorities when the Health Service came into being, and who desire to remain on the federated superannuation scheme for nurses instead of the local government superannuation scheme (155 H. of L. Official Report 714).

Contributory employee.—S. 17 (1), post, applies for the purposes of the present Act the definition of this term in s. 3 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 389).

Local Act contributor.—This means a person in the employment of a local Act authority who on or after the appointed day under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, is entitled to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained under a local Act scheme as defined in s. 1 of the said Act (s. 17 (1), post, and s. 40 (1) of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937; 30 Halsbury's Statutes 416).

Local Act scheme in England and Wales.—S. 17 (1), post, applies for the purposes of the present Act the definition in the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, the relevant passage of which occurs in s. 1 (3) thereof (30 Halsbury's Statutes 388).

Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946.—The Acts comprised in this series are listed in the notes to s. 1, ante.

Metropolitan Police Fund.—This means the rates, contributions and funds for the time being applicable for defraying the expenses of the Metropolitan Police Force (s. 7 of the Metropolitan Police Act, 1886; 12 Halsbury's Statutes 844). See also 12 Halsbury's Statutes 737.

Superannuation Act, 1935, s. 9.—28 Halsbury's Statutes 302. This section empowered the Treasury to make rules to dovetail the superannuation provisions in respect of persons transferred between local authorities and the civil service. Rules so made do not cease to have effect by virtue of the present Act.

Unemployment Act, 1934, s. 51.—27 Halsbury's Statutes 799. This section empowered the Treasury to make rules to dovetail the superannuation schemes in respect of persons transferred from local government to the Unemployment Assistance Board, now the National Assistance Board (s. 2 of the National Assistance Act, 1948, title PUBLIC ASSISTANCE, ante). Rules so made are preserved by the present Act.

Recognised service.—Service of specified kinds before April 1, 1926, the date of commencement of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (see s. 2 thereof; 7 Halsbury's Statutes 318), as against "contributory service", which is service as a teacher in one of certain specified capacities after the commencement of the Act. See, however, the notes on "Contributing service" to s. 1, ante.

Definitions.—For definitions of "pension", "local authority", "civil servant" and "pension rights", see s. 17 (1), post. Other definitions are referred to in the notes supra.

3. Former employees of Approved Societies, etc., becoming civil servants.—(1) Rules to be made by the Minister of National Insurance with the consent of the Treasury may make provision with respect to the pensions payable to and in respect of persons who have been employed full time—

(a) by an Approved Society; or

(b) by some other body (including a body of which the Society is a branch or section) administering the affairs of an Approved Society; or

(c) by a body administering a special scheme under section seventy-three of the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1935, and, whether before or after the passing of this Act but before such date as may be specified in the rules, become civil servants. [4471]

(2) Any such rules may include provisions—

(a) authorising or requiring persons who have received payments in respect of their pension rights to pay all or any of the amounts received into the Exchequer; or

(b) continuing, amending, repealing or revoking any pension scheme under which the persons to whom the rules apply have pension rights and any statutory provisions relating thereto and any trust deed, rules or other instrument made for the purposes thereof, and providing for the transfer in whole or in part of any pension funds or assets held for the purposes of, or any liabilities under, any such scheme, or for the winding up of any such scheme or the extinguishment of any such liabilities; or

(c) dealing in such manner as may appear appropriate with cases in which, in connection with any provision made by this Act or by the National Insurance Act, 1946, or in anticipation of the making of any such provision, pension rights have been created otherwise than in the ordinary course. [4472]

(3) Where the persons having pension rights under any pension scheme or interested in any pension fund include both such persons as are mentioned in subsection (1) of this section and other persons in respect of whom the following conditions are fulfilled, that is to say—

(a) that they have been employed full time by any such society or body as is mentioned in subsection (1) of this section; and

(b) that they have lost that employment; and

(c) that the loss of employment is directly attributable to the passing of the National Insurance Act, 1946, or the making of any regulations thereunder, the rules to be made under this section may apply in relation to pensions payable to and in respect of those other persons as if they were persons such as are mentioned in the said subsection (1), and may provide for payments out of moneys provided by Parliament in respect of the pension rights of those other persons, so, however, that nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring identical provision to be made in relation to persons who fall, and persons who do not fall, within the said subsection (1). [4473]

(4) The provisions of this section shall have effect in relation to any persons notwithstanding that provision could be made in relation to those persons under any other provision of this Act, and nothing in any such other provision shall be construed as limiting the powers exercisable under this section. [4474]

General note.—In view of the coming into operation of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 412), on July 5, 1948 (see S.I. 1948 No. 54), many of the employees of Approved Societies and similar bodies were displaced from their work and faced the alternative either of entering the service of the Ministry of National Insurance as civil servants or taking up employment of a different character. The present section provides for these two classes of case which may, and almost certainly will, be treated differently. First, in the case of full-time employees of an Approved Society or similar body who transfer to the civil service before a date to be specified, the Minister of National Insurance is empowered to make rules governing the pension position on transfer. Secondly, in the case of full-time employees of an Approved Society or similar body, displaced through the operation of the Act of 1946, who do not transfer to the civil service, provision may also be made on the same subject. The present section is additional to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of the Act which may be applicable.

Rules.—For the general provisions applicable, see s. 15, post, and the notes to s. 1, ante. Under the present section the Minister of National Insurance, with the consent of the Treasury, made the National Insurance and Civil Service (Superannuation) (Schemes and Funds) Rules, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1407), which came into operation on July 2, 1948, but on November 10, 1948, they were revoked and replaced as from November 16, 1948, by the National Insurance and Civil Service (Superannuation) Rules, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2434).

Approved Society.—An Approved Society is defined by s. 78 of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 488), to mean "a society approved under the National Health Insurance Act, 1936 [see Part III of that Act; 29 Halsbury's Statutes 1108], or a branch of such a society recognised by a Minister under that Act." Under the National Insurance Scheme it was found impossible to use the Approved Societies as organised bodies in the administration of the 1946 Act, supra, but it was the intention of the Government to use as many as possible of the experienced officials of these organisations.

Body of which the Society is a branch or section.—By the National Insurance Act, 1911, which introduced compulsory insurance on a contributory basis, any Friendly Society registered for any purpose was allowed to form a separate section as an Approved Society (see ss. 23 and 24 thereof). Even Industrial Life Offices, insurance companies and Collecting Societies engaged in industrial assurance were allowed to become or become associated with Approved Societies. For instance, four technically separate Societies with a total membership of some four million were associated with the Prudential Assurance Company, Limited.

Special scheme under s. 73 of the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1935.—See 28 Halsbury's Statutes 543. The section in question exempted from the general liability to insure under that Act persons covered by an approved scheme in force at the commencement of the said Act as regards a particular industry, e.g. banking and insurance, such schemes being applied for the purposes of the Act. The said s. 73 was repealed as from July 5, 1948, by the National Insurance Act, 1946, s. 65 and Sched. IX (39 Halsbury's Statutes 475, 498), in conjunction with S.I. 1948 No. 54. The National Insurance (Unemployment Insurance Special Schemes) Regulations, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1325) provide for the winding up of the banking and insurance schemes made under its provisions.

National Insurance Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 412.

Directly attributable to the passing, etc.—Compensation may be payable by virtue of regulations under s. 67 of the National Insurance Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 477), for loss of employment or for loss or diminution of emoluments or of superannuation or similar rights where "directly attributable to the passing of this Act [i.e. the Act of 1946] or the making of any regulations." The classes of employee affected by this provision substantially include those set out in sub-s. (1) (a) and (b), supra.

Any other provision of this Act.—See, for instance, s. 2, ante.

Definitions.—For definitions of "pensions", "civil servant", "pension rights", "pension scheme", "statutory provisions" and "pension fund", see s. 17 (1), post.

4. Special provision as to certain other transfers to the service of the State.—(1) Rules to be made by the Treasury under this subsection may make provision with respect to the pensions payable to and in respect of the following persons, namely—

(a) persons who, having been employed in one or more of the following employments, that is to say—

(i) as officers or servants of a local authority in service all or any part of which was not pensionable employment; or

(ii) in any other employment service in which was not then pensionable but was service in respect of which those persons would, if they had continued in that employment, have become entitled to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained under Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or Part I of the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, or under a local Act scheme, left any such employment, before such date before the passing of this Act as may be specified in the rules, in order to become civil servants in the department of the Assistance Board; and

(b) persons who, having been employed by the Safety in Mines Research Board, or by a War Agricultural Executive Committee, become, whether before or after the passing of this Act but before such date as may be specified in the rules, civil servants or persons employed in service to the State in an unestablished capacity; and

(c) persons who, having been employed in the body which, at the time when it ceased to exist, was known as "K" Signals Company of the Royal Corps of Signals, became, before such date before the passing of this Act as may be specified in the rules, civil servants employed in the Post Office; and

(d) persons who, having been employed by the body known as the Meteorological Committee, became at any time before the passing of this Act civil servants in the Meteorological Office of the Secretary of State, not being civil servants subject to a superannuation scheme to which section five of the Superannuation Act, 1946 (which relates to the application to persons employed in the civil service of the State of certain superannuation schemes) applies, and any such rules may provide for service in any such employment as aforesaid being reckoned, in such manner and to such extent as may be specified in the rules, as service to the State for the purposes of the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946. [4475]

(2) Rules made under the preceding subsection may, in relation to persons of the class specified in paragraph (a) of the preceding subsection who—

(a) at any time before the coming into force of the rules, whether before or after they became civil servants, and whether by reason of their becoming civil servants or for any other reason, received any payment by way of a return of contributions under any enactment, including any scheme made thereunder or in pursuance thereof, relating to the superannuation of officers and servants of local authorities, being contributions in respect of a period of service as an officer or servant of a local authority which was pensionable employment; and

(b) in the case of such payments received before their appointment to be civil servants, did not, before their said appointment, refund the contributions so returned to them, include provisions requiring those persons to pay into the Exchequer amounts equal to the whole or any part of the contributions so returned to them as a condition of their service as officers or servants of a local authority as aforesaid being reckoned, to the extent specified in the rules, as service to the State for the purposes of the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946. [4476]

(3) Rules to be made by the Treasury under this subsection may make provision to secure that benefits corresponding as nearly as may be to the benefits conferred under subsection (1) of this section on or in respect of the persons specified in paragraph (d) of that subsection are conferred on or in respect of persons who, having been employed by the aforesaid Meteorological Committee, were at any time before the passing of this Act employed in the civil service of the State in the aforesaid Meteorological Office and became, and thereafter remained, subject to a superannuation scheme to which section five of the Superannuation Act, 1946, applies. [4477]

General note.—The miscellaneous classes of persons affected by this section have one thing in common—they have all transferred to the civil service, either in an established or unestablished capacity. The effect of this section is to empower the Treasury to make rules to mitigate certain special cases of hardship resulting from an individual's transferring from a previous public employment outside the scope of s. 2, ante, and which may not be pensionable service, to a civil service post and becoming entitled to a civil service pension; it may enable him to count service in his former employment as pensionable.

Sub-s. (1), supra, sets out the categories coming within the scope of the present provisions and empowers the Treasury, as the department generally responsible for civil service matters, to make rules allowing the previous service to be counted for civil service pension purposes. Sub-s. (2) makes further provision as to the contents of such rules in the case of certain classes in category (a) of the previous subsection, while sub-s. (3) provides for an additional class of civil servants in the Meteorological Office who have become superannuable.

Rules.—For the general provisions applicable, see s. 15, post.

Superannuation fund maintained, etc.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 385 et seq.

Assistance Board.—This was formerly the Unemployment Assistance Board formed under s. 35 of the Unemployment Act, 1934 (27 Halsbury's Statutes 786). The name of the Board was altered and its powers increased by s. 10 of the Old Age and Widows' Pensions Act, 1940 (33 Halsbury's Statutes 517). The name of the Board has been further altered to the National Assistance Board (National Assistance Act, 1948, s. 2, title PUBLIC ASSISTANCE, ante).

Safety in Mines Research Board.—S. 42 of the Coal Industry Nationalisation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 290), provides that the Mining Research (Safety and Health) Endowment Fund established on April 19, 1926, to defray the expenses of research into mining dangers carried on by the above-mentioned Board is to be wound up and that the duty of research is to vest in the Minister of Fuel and Power.

"K" Signals Company.—This was a body of between one and two hundred Post Office employees who, many years ago, were drafted to the Royal Corps of Signals but who continued to do Post Office duty in the Army. Agitation for redress of what was thought to be a grievance in regard to their pensions had taken place at various times since 1902, and the question was discussed by the Holt Committee in 1913. How many of the original number remain to be affected by the present provision is problematical.

Meteorological Committee.—From 1910 to 1920 the Meteorological Committee were responsible for Government meteorology. Some of the staff came under a pension scheme run by the Committee itself, but for the rest there were no superannuation provisions. In 1920 the Meteorological Office was taken over by the Air Ministry. Those who already came under the Committee's pension scheme elected to remain thereunder. Others of the staff came under the Federated Superannuation System for Universities as applied to Government servants. Yet others became established civil servants, foregoing any rights in the Committee's scheme. Sub-s. (1) (d), supra, relates to such civil servants as were not superannuable under the F.S.S.U., etc. (see the notes infra), whilst sub-s. (3), supra, relates to those who were.

Secretary of State.—The former employees of the Meteorological Committee in question are serving with the Air Ministry, that is, the department of the Secretary of State for Air.

S. 5 of the Superannuation Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 725. By sub-s. (4) of that section the schemes to which the section applies are the superannuation schemes operated under the Federated Superannuation System for Universities, the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers, and any other scheme approved by the Treasury for the purposes of that section.

Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946.—As to this series of Acts, see the notes to s. 1, ante.

Definitions.—For definitions of "pension", "local authority", "pensionable employment", "local Act scheme", "civil servant", "War Agricultural Executive Committee" and "service to the State in an unestablished capacity", see s. 17 (1), post.

5. Pensions in respect of service to His Majesty in India.—(1) This section shall apply to any pension payable in respect of service to His Majesty out of the revenues of India or Pakistan to any person resident in the United Kingdom, or, where the pension is expressed in sterling, in any other place outside India and Pakistan, being service, whether by the recipient of the pension or some other person, either—

(a) in a civil capacity; or

(b) by virtue of which the recipient of the pension has pension rights in relation to any of the following funds, that is to say, the Bengal Military Fund and Orphans Society, the Bombay Military Fund, the Madras Military Fund, the Madras Medical Fund, or the Indian Navy Fund, and being in either case service which ended before the fifteenth day of August nineteen hundred and forty-seven, or the termination of which is attributable to the passing of the Indian Independence Act, 1947. [4478]

(2) Rules to be made by the Treasury may make provision for any pension to which this section applies being increased, in respect of any period, whether falling before or after the passing of this Act, beginning on or after the first day of December, nineteen hundred and forty-six, by a like amount to that by which it would have been increased by virtue of the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947, if it were such a pension as is specified in the First Schedule to the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1944, which had been increased in accordance with the provisions of the last mentioned Act as originally enacted. [4479]

(3) Any such rules may provide for the method of calculation of any increase and as to the manner in which the increase is to be paid, and may provide for any increase under the rules to be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament. [4480]

General note.—The Pensions (Increase) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 521), provided for an increase in various classes of public pensions to offset the higher cost of living, but the Act did not apply to Colonial or Indian employment. Nevertheless the then Government of India, after some difficulty, agreed to make corresponding increases to those of its pensioners who were living in the United Kingdom.

Later, however, the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1037), was passed authorising further increases of pension, but the Government of India declined to apply that Act to those of its pensioners living in the United Kingdom or drawing their pensions in sterling.

At this point power in India was transferred to the Dominions of India and Pakistan, which finally agreed to apply the increases to military, but not to civil pensioners resident in the United Kingdom, the basis of the distinction being that they could not politically defend a decision to give more to civil pensioners living in the United Kingdom than they were prepared to give to their own civil pensioners in India.

The British Government, however, felt that the case for including the civil pensioners in the United Kingdom in the benefits of the Act of 1947 was indistinguishable from that for their inclusion in the Act of 1944, and the present section was therefore inserted in the Bill.

The section applies to certain pensioners (a) resident in the United Kingdom whether the pension is payable in sterling or rupees, and (b) resident in any other place outside India and Pakistan; but apart from certain small funds, the pension must be a civil one. In these cases the Treasury is empowered to make rules increasing the pensions in question to the higher limits applicable under the Act of 1947.

Pension.—For definition, see s. 17 (1), post.

India or Pakistan.—As from August 15, 1947, two independent Dominions were set up in India to be known by these names (s. 1 (1) of the Indian Independence Act, 1947; 10 & 11 Geo. 6, c. 30).

August 15, 1947.—The "appointed day" for transfer of political power to the Governments of the new Dominions of India and Pakistan under the Indian Independence Act, 1947.

Rules.—On November 22, 1948, the Increase of Pensions (India and Pakistan) Rules, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 2542), were made by the Treasury under sub-ss. (2) and (3), supra. These Rules came into operation on December 1, 1948.

Beginning on or after December 1, 1946.—The date when the increases of pension authorised by the relevant provision of the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1037), first became operative.

As originally enacted.—See s. 17 (2), post. The point is that the Act of 1947, supra, amended the Act of 1944, supra, and it is not desired to refer to the latter in its amended form: hence the express provision.

6. Special provisions as to local government superannuation schemes during periods of emergency.—(1) If at any time it appears to the Minister of Health to be expedient in the national interest to encourage the taking of action for either of the following purposes (hereinafter in this section referred to as "emergency purposes"), that is to say, for the purpose of temporarily reducing expenditure or for the purpose of making persons engaged in employment by virtue of which they are contributory employees or local Act contributors under a local authority available for other employment, he may direct that such period as may be specified by him in the direction shall be treated as a period of emergency for the purposes of this section, and any period so specified is hereafter in this section referred to as "the period of emergency". [4481]

(2) The subsequent provisions of this section shall have effect in relation to any person (hereafter in this section referred to as "a person to whom this section applies") in relation to whom the following conditions are fulfilled, that is to say—

(a) that, having been engaged in employment by virtue of which he is a contributory employee or local Act contributor under a local authority, he ceases at any time during the period of emergency to be so employed; and

(b) that the local authority under whom he was such an employee or contributor certifies that the cessation of his employment is due to action taken for emergency purposes; and

(c) that he has not at any time since ceasing to be so employed made a claim under section ten of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or under any corresponding provision of a local Act scheme, for the return of contributions made by him for superannuation purposes:

Provided that where in any particular case the local authority refuse to certify as aforesaid, the person concerned may appeal to the Minister of Health, and the Minister of Health, if he thinks fit, may grant such a certificate, and the like consequences shall in that case ensue as if the certificate had been granted by the local authority. [4482]

(3) The following provisions of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, that is to say—

(a) subsection (7) of section ten (which provides that, unless a claim is made, an administering authority shall not be under an obligation to make payments by way of a return of contributions until the expiration of one year from the date of the cessation of employment);

(b) section thirteen (which relates to the reckoning of service of a contributory employee or local Act contributor under a local authority who ceases to be employed by that authority but within twelve months after so ceasing becomes a contributory employee under another local authority, or of a contributory employee under a local authority who ceases to be employed by them but within twelve months after so ceasing again becomes such an employee under them);

(c) subsection (1) of section twenty-nine (which relates to the payment of transfer values in respect of a contributory employee or local Act contributor under a local authority who ceases to be employed by them but within twelve months after so ceasing becomes such an employee or contributor under another local authority); and

(d) the definition of "disqualifying break of service" in subsection (1) of section forty,

and any corresponding provision of a local Act scheme, shall have effect as if for any reference (however expressed) to a period of twelve months from the date of cessation of employment there were substituted, in relation to a person to whom this section applies, a reference to a period of five years from the date of cessation of employment, or such longer period as the Minister of Health may, in any particular case, allow. [4483]

(4) Where at any time during the relevant period under the last preceding subsection, and without having again become a contributory employee or local Act contributor, a person to whom this section applies—

(a) is sixty or more years of age and either has, or, if he had not ceased to be such an employee or contributor, would have, completed forty years' service; or

(b) attains the age of sixty-five years and, if he had not ceased as aforesaid, would, on attaining that age, have completed ten years' service, he may apply to the local authority under whom he was last such an employee or contributor, and if that authority are satisfied that the provisions of this subsection are applicable in his case, he shall, notwithstanding that he had not at the date when he ceased to be such an employee or contributor attained the required age or completed the required service, be deemed to have become entitled to receive a superannuation allowance upon ceasing to be a contributory employee or local Act contributor under that authority, and the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or the local Act scheme shall have effect, and any benefits to or in respect of him shall be payable, accordingly :

Provided that no payment shall be made in respect of the period between the date when he ceased to be a contributory employee or local Act contributor and the date of his application under this subsection. [4484]

(5) Where a person to whom this section applies has, before the expiration of the relevant period under subsection (3) of this section, again become a contributory employee or local Act contributor under a local authority, then if—

(a) any event occurs by virtue of which a pension would but for the fact that he has not completed a specified number of years service, be payable to or in respect of him under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or the local Act scheme ; and

(b) he would, if he had not ceased to be such an employee or contributor owing to action taken for emergency purposes, have completed the aforesaid service by the date of the happening of the event,

a pension shall, notwithstanding the fact that he has not completed the aforesaid service, be deemed to be payable to or in respect of him on the happening of the said event and the said Act or scheme shall have effect accordingly. [4485]

(6) In its application to Scotland, this section shall have effect as if for references to the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, and to, or to any subsections of, sections ten, thirteen, twenty-nine and forty thereof there were respectively substituted references to the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, and to, or to those subsections of, sections ten, thirteen, twenty-four and thirty-four thereof, and as if for references to the Minister of Health there were substituted references to the Secretary of State. [4486]

General note.—The object of this section is to mitigate hardship resulting from the reduction in local government personnel arising from the nation's economic difficulties. For instance, the implementation of the proposals contained in the White Paper on Capital Expenditure (Cmd. 7268) to reduce work on highways involved the releasing of thousands of men for other types of work. The general effect can be seen from the fact that in a written answer to a question on this topic, the Minister of Transport stated in the House of Commons on March 22, 1948, that he had asked highway authorities to reduce their staffs by some 20,000 men from the numbers employed in September, 1947, the persons so released to be employed for other work more essential to national recovery (448 H. of C. Official Report 297).

If such men are away from local government service for more than twelve months they would, by virtue of the provisions noted below apart from the present section, lose their right to count their past service for pension purposes. This section therefore allows the substitution of a period of five years where the Minister of Health has certified that an " emergency " exists and displaced employees of local authorities are given a certificate from their late employers or, on appeal, from the Minister of Health to the effect that their displacement is due to the emergency.

If it appears to the Minister.—These words are inserted for the purpose of making the Minister the sole judge (subject to Parliament) of the question whether or not it is expedient that a period should be treated as a period of emergency. Certain other expressions, such as " in the opinion of the Minister", " if the Minister is satisfied " and " if it is clear to the satisfaction of the Minister", have a similar effect ; see Robinson v. Sunderland Corpn., [1899] 1 Q. B. 751, per CHANNELL, J., at pp. 756, 757 ; R. v. Comptroller-General of Patents, Ex parte Bayer Products, Ltd., [1941] 2 K. B. 306, at p. 311 ; [1941] 2 All E. R. 677, per SCOTT, L.J., at p. 681 ; Liversidge v. Anderson, [1942] A. C. 206, at pp. 232, 233 ; [1941] 3 All E. R. 338, per Lord ATKIN, at pp. 353, 354 ; Point of Ayr Collieries, Ltd. v. Lloyd-George, [1943] 2 All E. R. 546 ; and Robinson v. Minister of Town and Country Planning, [1947] 1 All E. R. 851, C. A.

Period of emergency.—The Minister of Health has directed that the period ending June 30, 1949, is to be treated as the period of emergency for the purposes of the present section (Circular 86/48, post).

Claim under s. 10 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 396. This section provides for the return of contributions in certain circumstances where contributory employees of local authorities cease to be employed by them.

The person concerned may appeal.—No leave to appeal is required either from the employing authority or the Minister of Health. No express provision is made, as in the proviso to s. 35 of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 414), for reference by the Minister to the High Court in the form of a special case.

Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 385. For ss. 10 (7), 13, 29 (1) and 40 (1), thereof, see 30 Halsbury's Statutes 398, 400, 410, 415. In the section last mentioned, " disqualifying break of service " in relation to any person is defined as meaning a continuous period of twelve months or longer during no part of which he was a contributory employee or local Act contributor or subject to the Local Government and Other Officers' Superannuation Act, 1922.

Such longer period as the Minister . . . may allow.—It was officially stated at the Committee Stage of the Bill in the House of Commons that the provision was " clearly for the really exceptional case " (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, col. 42). This may be valuable as an expression of likely policy in administration, though it should be noted that the wording of the provision contains no reference to " the exceptional circumstances " of any particular case, which it could easily have done.

Definitions.—For definitions of " local authority", " contributory employee", " local Act contributor " and " local Act scheme", see s. 17 (1), post.

7. Power to extend Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, to employees of certain associations.—(1) If any body, being either—

(a) a body representative of local authorities ; or

(b) a body representative of local authorities and officers of local authorities ; or

(c) a body representative of officers of local authorities formed for the purpose of consultation as to the common interests of those authorities and the discussion of matters relating to local government, makes application for the purpose to a local authority who are for the time being required to maintain a superannuation fund under Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or under Part I of the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, the authority may, on such terms and conditions as they think fit, and with the approval of the Minister of Health, or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State, admit any employee of that body to participate in the benefits of the fund, and in that event the said Act shall have effect in relation to the body and any employee so admitted as if the body were a local authority and the employee were a contributory employee, and the body shall have all such powers as may be necessary for the purpose of giving effect to the terms and conditions approved by the Minister of Health to the Secretary of State. [4487]

(2) Where a person who—

(a) has at any time been, for a continuous period of not less than three years, in the employment of a body any of the employees of which have been admitted under subsection (1) of this section to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained by a local authority ; but

(b) left that employment before the date when employees of that body were first admitted as aforesaid (hereinafter in this section referred to as " the date of admission "), is at the date of admission, or thereafter becomes, a contributory employee or a local Act contributor under any local authority, there shall be taken into account in reckoning his non-contributing service or his service for the purposes of the local Act scheme so much, if any, of the period of his employment by the body as the local authority under whom at the date of admission he is, as the case may be, the first local authority under whom he thereafter becomes, such an employee or contributor may, within one year from the date of admission or, as the case may be, the date upon which he becomes such an employee or contributor, determine. [4488]

(3) The last preceding subsection shall have effect in relation to an association of local authorities or of officers of local authorities any of the employees of which have been admitted under any provision of a local Act similar in effect to subsection (1) of this section to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund maintained by a local authority, subject to the following modifications, that is to say—

(a) the reference in the last preceding subsection to subsection (1) of this section shall be construed as a reference to that provision of that local Act; and

(b) in any case where the date of admission is before the date of the passing of this Act, for any reference in the last preceding subsection to the date of admission (except in paragraph (b) thereof) there shall be substituted a reference to the date of the passing of this Act. [4489]

General note.—The object of this section is to enable the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385 et seq.), and the corresponding Scottish Act, to be extended to the employees of three different types of representative associations concerned with local government. The associations may, in the first place, apply to a local authority to admit all or any of their employees to the benefits of the authority's superannuation scheme. If the authority is agreeable to the suggestion it will lay down the terms and conditions of admission and these must in England and Wales be submitted for approval to the Minister of Health.

A body representative of local authorities.—This would include, for example, such bodies as the County Councils Association, the Association of Municipal Corporations, the Urban District Councils Association and the Rural District Councils Association, though the first and second are already covered by the West Sussex and Wallasey Schemes respectively under special provisions in the local Acts applicable.

Body representative of local authorities and officers of local authorities.—This would include, for instance, the National Housing and Town Planning Council.

Bodies within para. (c).—The wording of this paragraph is based on that of s. 129 of the Local Government Act, 1948, title FINANCE, ante, allowing payment of subscriptions by local authorities to certain types of association. The intention of Parliament in agreeing to this paragraph after the earlier wording had come in for severe criticism in Standing Committee of the House of Commons was to exclude "trade unions" such as the National Association of Local Government Officers to which the present provisions were considered inappropriate.

Part I of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—This Part of the Act comprises ss. 1 to 25 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385 et seq.).

The authority may.—In addition to having a complete discretion as to the terms and conditions of admittance to its superannuation fund, the authority could, if it thought fit, decline to accept the representative body at all: the word "may" is permissive.

Terms and conditions approved, etc.—It is intended that in the case of agreements under the present section one of the terms will normally require the association concerned to share in any deficit in the superannuation fund (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, cols. 20–21).

Sub-s. (2).—This provision, which allows the same arrangements to operate as in the case of members of associations which have secured admission to local government superannuation schemes by way of local Acts (see the notes supra), gives local authorities discretion in certain cases as to how far they will allow previous service with the association to be reckoned as non-contributing service. The subsection is careful to provide (a) for the person who is already an employee of a local authority at the "date of admission" of the association of which he was formerly an employee, and (b) for the person who only becomes such an employee of the local authority after the date of admission. Hence the alternative time limit at the end of the subsection.

Sub-s. (3).—This applies, with the necessary modifications, the machinery of sub-s. (2), supra, to associations, such as the County Councils Association and the Association of Municipal Corporations, whose employees already come within the scope of a local Act scheme (see supra).

That local Act.—E.g. the Wallasey Corporation Act, 1945 (9 & 10 Geo. 6, c. xiii), in the case of the Association of Municipal Corporations (see s. 21 thereof).

Definitions.—For definitions of "local authority", "contributory employee", "local Act contributor" and "local Act scheme", see s. 17 (1), post.

8. Amendment of Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, s. 3.—(1) In subsection (1) of section three of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (which requires the Minister of Education to grant superannuation allowances as thereafter provided in that section to the teachers specified in that subsection), there shall be substituted for paragraph (c) the following paragraph, that is to say—

"(c) has attained the age of sixty years and has, either since the date of commencement of the first period during which he was employed in contributory or recognised service or since the date of commencement of any later period during which he was so employed—

(i) been employed for not less than ten years in such service; and

(ii) been so employed for periods equal in the aggregate to not less than two-thirds of the number of years between the relevant date of commencement aforesaid and the date on which he attained or will attain the age of sixty-five years; or" [4490]

(2) The said Act shall be deemed always to have had effect as amended by this section:

Provided that where, but for this proviso, by virtue of the preceding provisions of this section the date from which an annual superannuation allowance would have begun to accrue, or the date on which an additional allowance would have become due, falls before the date of the passing of this Act, the said allowance shall be deemed not to have begun to accrue, or, as the case may be, to have become payable, until the said date of the passing of this Act. [4491]

(3) Where a person who, at any time between the date of the commencement of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, and the date of the passing of this Act, has been employed in contributory service by a local authority or by the managers or governors of a school maintained by a local education authority under the Education Acts, 1944 and 1946—

(a) was employed before the date of commencement of the said Act of 1945 in any service in respect of which he was entitled to make an application under section five of the said Act of 1945 that that service should be treated for the purposes of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, as if it had been contributory service or recognised service; and either

(b) failed before the passing of this Act to make such an application; or

(c) upon making such an application, requested that his service before a date specified by him should not be so treated as aforesaid, and where, if it were so treated as aforesaid, that service before the date of the commencement of the said Act of 1945 or any part of that service, or as the case may be, that service before the said date so specified by him or any part thereof—

(i) if the preceding provisions of this section had not been passed, would or might; but

(ii) by reason of the passing of the said provisions, could not result in that person being prevented from being or becoming entitled to a superannuation allowance under section three of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, that person may, within the period of six months from the date of the passing of this Act or within such longer period as the Minister of Education may in any particular case allow, make application under the said section five, or, as the case may be, make a new application thereunder in the manner prescribed for the purposes of that section in lieu of that previously made, and the said section five shall have effect, subject to any necessary adjustments in respect of payments of appropriate contributions already made, as if the relevant period under this subsection were the time prescribed for the making of applications under that section. [4492]

General note.—The principal object of this section is to prevent hardship to a teacher who had left his teaching post for some other employment and had subsequently taken up his teaching again.

Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, s. 3 (1).—7 Halsbury's Statutes 321. This subsection sets out the classes of persons to whom superannuation allowances are to be granted by the Board (now the Minister) of Education.

Sub-s. (2).—The object of this subsection is that, in cases covered, the pension is to date from the passing of the present Act, since it would be impracticable to date such pension from a time prior to the passing of the Act (H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, col. 26).

Annual superannuation allowance.—See s. 3 (3), (4) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 322).

Passing of this Act.—May 28, 1948.

Sub-s. (3).—This complicated subsection is designed to deal primarily with the case, e.g. of a man who was a supplementary teacher in a public elementary school. Such a man was not eligible for a pension under the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 317), but he was eligible under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385). S. 1 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 53), extended the definition of contributory service contained in s. 2 of the 1925 Act (7 Halsbury's Statutes 319) to supplementary teachers pensionable under the Act of 1937 mentioned above, so that the individual in question could count previous service as a supplementary teacher under s. 5 of the 1945 Act, although under the previous legislation he could not have done so. If such individual had broken service by going into business (as in the example earlier in these notes, supra), he could not, even under the 1945 Act, have had his back service taken into account, i.e. he could not have counted his previous period of teaching. Under this Act the anomaly is removed.

Date of the commencement of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945.—April 1, 1945 (Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, s. 14 (3); 38 Halsbury's Statutes 65).

Local education authority.—The local education authority for each county is the council of the county, and that for each county borough is the council of the county borough (Education Act, 1944, s. 6; 37 Halsbury's Statutes 130).

Education Acts, 1944 and 1946.—37 Halsbury's Statutes 140; 39 Halsbury's Statutes 128.

S. 5 of the said Act of 1945.—That is, the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 59), which provided for the reckoning for pension purposes of certain service which was neither contributory nor recognised service (see the notes supra).

Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925.—This Act (7 Halsbury's Statutes 317) is the principal Act relating to the superannuation of teachers.

Recognised service.—See the notes to s. 2, ante.

S. 3 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925.—7 Halsbury's Statutes 321. This section deals with the qualifications for grant of superannuation allowances.

In any particular case.—On the face of it this provision merely precludes the Minister of Education from granting a general extension of time applicable either to all cases or to all cases of a particular class. The implication is, however, that the Minister is to examine the circumstances of each case where application is made for an extension and in practice it may well be necessary to show special circumstances amounting to "reasonable cause" for the delay. Note that there is no limit to the extension that may be granted.

Definitions.—For definitions of "contributory service" and "local authority", see s. 17 (1), post.

9. Provisions as to Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, s. 21.—(1) The purposes for which the Minister of Education may make schemes under subsection (1) of section twenty-one of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, shall include the following purpose, that is to say, for applying the provisions of Part II of the said Act, with such modifications as may seem to the Minister desirable, to persons employed, whether in England or Wales or elsewhere, in the capacity of teachers or in some other capacity connected with education which to a substantial extent involves the control or supervision of teachers—

(a) in the naval, military or air forces of the Crown or any of the women's services mentioned in the First Schedule to the Superannuation Act, 1946 (other than persons who hold a permanent commission in any of those forces or services); or

(b) in the employment of a body in respect of whose expenditure a grant is made out of moneys provided by Parliament from or by some Department of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, other than the Ministry of Education and a Department of the Secretary of State for Scotland. [4493]

(2) The said subsection (1) shall have effect and be deemed always to have had effect as if for the words "Government Departments in England or Wales" there were substituted the words "Government Departments of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom (other than a Department of the Secretary of State for Scotland)", and it is hereby declared that the power to make schemes under the said section twenty-one includes, and has always included, power to frame any such scheme so as to apply to service before the making of the scheme. [4494]

General note.—The principal effect of this section is to extend the scope of the schemes which may be made by the Minister of Education under s. 21 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 335), to cover the pension entitlements of persons employed in a teaching or other educational capacity in the armed forces of the Crown, any of the women's services or in certain grant-aided bodies. This provision does not apply to persons holding permanent commissions in the Forces.

Schemes under s. 21 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925.—This subsection lists three cases in which the Board (now the Minister) of Education is empowered to make schemes extending the operation of that Act or particular provisions thereof. To these cases is now added a fourth. Under the existing cases schemes were made applying the relevant provisions to Juvenile Unemployment and Home Training Centres and to certain schools not being grant-aided schools.

Part II of the said Act.—That is, Part II of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 318 et seq.).

With such modifications, etc.—This wording follows closely that of existing paragraphs of s. 21 (1) of the Act of 1925, supra.

Sched. I to the Superannuation Act, 1946.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 728.

Other than persons who hold a permanent commission, etc.—S. 2 of the Army and Air Force (Women's Service) Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 21), provides for the grant of commissions to women in any land or air forces.

Sub-s. (2).—The words " Government Departments in England or Wales " appear in s. 21 (1) (b) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, supra, and the effect of the present subsection appears to be to bring employment in relation to Government departments in Northern Ireland within the framework of that paragraph. The latter part of the present subsection dispels any possible doubt as to the power to apply the provisions of schemes to service prior to the making thereof.

10. Amendment of Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, s. 3.—Section three of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (which provides that a person in contributory service shall not be subject to an independent superannuation scheme, as there defined) shall, in relation to any person who becomes employed in contributory service after the passing of this Act, have effect as if for subsection (2) of that section (which relates to persons becoming employed in contributory service who, but for the said provision, would be subject to such a scheme) there were substituted the following subsection, that is to say—

" (2) Where a person who becomes employed in contributory service after the commencement of this Act—

(a) has, not more than one year before he so becomes employed in contributory service, been subject to an independent superannuation scheme ; and

(b) would, but for the fact that the service in which he so becomes employed is contributory service, be subject to such a scheme in respect of that service, the service in which he so becomes employed shall not be treated as contributory service and he shall be subject to the independent superannuation scheme accordingly :

Provided that if any person who is subject to an independent superannuation scheme by virtue of the foregoing provisions of this subsection elects, by notice in writing to the Minister and to the body administering the scheme given within three months of the date of his becoming employed in contributory service, or within such longer period as the Minister may in any particular case allow, to withdraw from the scheme, the said provisions shall not have effect in relation to any service in which he is employed after the election takes effect ". [4495]

General note.—S. 3 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 57), made provision for safeguarding the pension rights of a certain class of women teachers who " helped out " the teaching staff of certain local elementary schools. This class consisted of women with no special qualifications and who were described as supplementary teachers. By this section the definition of contributory service was extended to cover service by teachers of this kind. Supplementary teachers who were contributors to pension schemes under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385), were allowed either to continue under that Act or to transfer therefrom to the pension schemes of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts (see the notes to s. 1, ante), while supplementary teachers who were not contributors under the Act of 1937 were automatically to become contributors under the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts and were allowed to count back service for pension purposes. The effect of the present section is to secure that where a person who comes under some superannuation scheme becomes a teacher, and would be able to continue under the scheme but for the fact that his service as a teacher is contributory service under the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, he may elect either to remain with the independent scheme or to come under the teachers' superannuation scheme.

Contributory service.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

Independent superannuation scheme.—For definition, see s. 3 (5) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 57).

After the commencement of this Act.—This phrase, inserted in the substituted s. 3 (2) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, supra, refers to the date of commencement of that Act, namely, April 1, 1945, and not to the commencement of the present Act.

The Minister.—That is, the Minister of Education (s. 13 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 57).

In any particular case.—See the notes to s. 8, ante.

11. Power to extend definition of approved external service.—(1) The Minister of Education may, with the consent of the Treasury, by rules provide that, for the purposes of section thirteen of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (which relates to the treatment of approved external service as contributory service in certain circumstances), any specified employment, whether before or after the passing of this Act, in the service of the government of, or of any public authority in, any part of His Majesty's dominions (as defined for the purposes of subsection (1) of section twenty-one of that Act), being employment which is or was pensionable or in respect of which contributions are or were payable to a provident fund, shall be treated as approved external service. [4496]

(2) Any such rules may include provisions modifying the said section thirteen in its application to any particular form of employment which under the rules is to be treated as approved external service for the purposes of that section. [4497]

General note.—The effect of this section is to extend the definition of approved external service to be found in s. 13 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 328), to service by teachers who have gone abroad in civil service and similar posts. Under sub-s. (2) the Minister of Education may at his discretion exclude certain kinds of overseas service for this purpose (see H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, col. 29).

By rules.—For the general provisions applicable, see s. 15, post. Under this section the Minister of Education has made the Teachers Superannuation (Approved External Service) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 1393.

Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, s. 13.—7 Halsbury's Statutes 328.

Approved external service.—This term is defined by s. 13 (1) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, supra, but the provisions of paragraph (b) thereof have been modified by s. 6 (1) of the Superannuation Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 726), though service which is treated as approved external service by virtue of that subsection is to be disregarded in calculating the average salary of a teacher in pursuance of the provisions of Part II of the Act of 1925, supra.

Contributory service.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

His Majesty's dominions.—This term is defined by s. 21 (1) (c) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 336), as including any territory which is under His Majesty's protection or in respect of which a mandate is being exercised by the Government of any part of His Majesty's dominions. It will be noted that the definition is not exhaustive.

Employment which is or was pensionable.—For definition of "pensionable employment", see s. 17 (1), post.

12. Superannuation of certain persons serving in the educational services otherwise than as teachers.—(1) Where the Minister of Education is satisfied with respect to service in any particular appointment in an educational service that it is not service as a teacher and is not service which to a substantial extent involves the control or supervision of teachers, but that it is service in the performance of which teaching experience is of value, he may approve service in that appointment for the purposes of this subsection; and if any person is employed after the commencement of this Act in that appointment, his said employment after the commencement of this Act shall, if he makes application to the Minister of Education for that purpose within the time and in the manner prescribed by rules under section seventeen of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, be treated for the purposes of that Act as if it were employment as a teacher in contributory service, and references in the said Act to teachers and to contributory service shall be construed accordingly:

Provided that the employment of a person shall not be treated as employment in contributory service by virtue of this subsection unless he has previously been employed for not less than three years, whether in England or Wales or elsewhere and whether before or after the commencement of this Act, as a teacher in a capacity approved by the Minister of Education. [4498]

(2) Where, under the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939, a period of war service is treated for the purposes of Part II of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, as if it were a period of contributory service, or where, under the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme, a period of war service is treated as service for the purposes of that scheme, that period of war service shall also be treated as if it were a period of service as a teacher in a capacity approved by the Minister of Education for the purposes of this section, of section two of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, and of section fourteen of the said Act of 1925. [4499]

(3) The last preceding subsection shall, in relation to the said section two and the said section fourteen, be deemed to have had effect as from the passing of the said Act of 1945. [4500]

(4) Subsection (3) of section two of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, is hereby repealed. [4501]

General note.—This section allows certain service where teaching experience is of value, if approved by the Minister of Education, to rank as contributory service, but this can only apply where a person has three years' previous service as a teacher in an approved capacity. For instance, where a teacher takes a post as secretary to a regional council for further education, such employment would not count as service as a teacher in the ordinary way, nor would it rank as full-time service as an organiser under s. 14 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 331), nor would it count under the further provisions of s. 2 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 56). It would, however, come within the present section, provided the conditions applicable were satisfied.

Where the Minister is satisfied.—See the note to s. 6, ante, headed " If it appears to the Minister ".

If he makes application, etc.—These words secure that a person to whom the subsection applies is not brought automatically within the provisions of the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, but, where applicable, may continue under the terms of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (30 Halsbury's Statutes 385), if he prefers to do so.

Within the time and in the manner prescribed by rules.—See r. 7 of, and the Sched. to, the Teachers Superannuation Amending Rules, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1801, post), which came into operation on August 1, 1948.

S. 17 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925.—7 Halsbury's Statutes 333. This is a section conferring general power to make rules for carrying that Act into effect. All rules thereunder are to be laid before both Houses of Parliament and, where issued on or after January 1, 1948, are statutory instruments under s. 1 (1) of the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 784).

Employed for not less than three years, etc.—These requirements are similar to those applicable to organisers under s. 14 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, supra, and to the persons affected by s. 2 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, supra.

Sub-s. (2).—As sub-s. (1), supra, further extends the scope of employment which may be reckoned as contributory service, it is thought proper that in the present subsection the new category should also be brought within enlarged war service provisions: that is to say, not only may their employment as such rank as contributory service but approved war service will also rank in the same way (see, generally, H. of C. Official Report, S.C.C., March 16, 1948, col. 32).

Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939.—32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131.

Period of war service.—See s. 9 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 62), which substitutes a new definition for that appearing in s. 11 of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939 (32 Halsbury's Statutes 1136).

For the purposes of Part II of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925.—The effect of this phrase which replaces " under section one of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939," as appearing in s. 2 (3) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (now repealed; see infra), is to include war service of persons training or trained as teachers under s. 2 of the said Act of 1939, which is treated as contributory service for the purposes of the said Part II but did not arise under the said s. 1.

S. 2 of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945.—38 Halsbury's Statutes 56.

S. 14 of the said Act of 1925.—That is to say, the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, s. 14 (7 Halsbury's Statutes 331).

Shall be deemed to have had effect.—S. 2 (3) of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 56), provided in effect that a period of war service should be treated as equivalent to approved service under s. 2 of the Act of 1945, supra, and s. 14 of the Act of 1925, supra, in cases to which those sections applied, such provision taking effect as from April 1, 1945. The present provisions are wider in scope and the opportunity has been taken to replace s. 2 (3), supra, with retrospective operation from March 28, 1945.

Passing of the said Act of 1945.—March 28, 1945.

13. Probation Officers.—Whereas under subsection (3) of section one of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925, arrangements were made for the establishment of a superannuation fund for certain probation officers;

And whereas payments have been and, until the winding-up thereof, will continue to be made into the said fund in respect of persons who, having been such probation officers as aforesaid, are seconded to other service ;

And whereas it is expedient to make provision for securing the pension rights of such persons as aforesaid as are still seconded at the date of the making of an order under the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947, applying the provisions of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or of a local superannuation enactment, to probation officers ;

Now therefore—

(1) Notwithstanding anything in section one of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947, an order under that section may provide—

(a) for a part of the said superannuation fund being paid to a special fund to be constituted by or under the order, for the management of the said special fund and the investment of the assets thereof, and for the application thereof, in such manner as may be specified in the order, with a view to securing the pension rights of the said persons in respect of service before the date when they cease to be seconded ;

(b) for requiring such payments to be made into the said special fund by the persons aforesaid while still seconded and by their employers for the time being as may be specified in the order ;

(c) for applying the provisions of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, or of a local superannuation enactment, subject in any case to such adaptations, modifications and exceptions as the Secretary of State thinks fit, to such persons as aforesaid when they cease to be seconded ;

(d) for transferring to such superannuation funds maintained under the said Act of 1937 or under a local superannuation enactment as may be specified in or under the order the liabilities of the said special fund in respect of payments of pensions to persons who become entitled to receive them on or before ceasing to be seconded ;

(e) for the payment out of moneys provided by Parliament into the said special fund of sums necessary to make good any amount by which that fund is insufficient for the purpose of making any payment necessary for securing the pension rights of the persons aforesaid ;

(f) for the winding up of the said special fund after all the persons aforesaid have ceased to be seconded, and for the payment into the Exchequer of any amount remaining after the payment of the expenses of the winding-up :

Provided that any order providing for payments out of moneys provided by Parliament shall only be made with the consent of the Treasury.

In this subsection, the expression "local superannuation enactment" has the meaning assigned to it by subsection (5) of section one of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947. [4502]

(2) Section four of the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1944 (which, subject to the limitations imposed by the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947, enables pensions payable in respect of service as a probation officer to be increased) shall have effect as if the reference to such service included a reference to service while seconded as aforesaid. [4503]

(3) For the purposes of section two of this Act, the employment of the persons aforesaid while they are still seconded shall be deemed to be pensionable employment. [4504]

General note.—The purpose of the section is to protect the pension rights of probation officers seconded to non-probation service on the changeover from the old to the new system of superannuation for probation officers.

S. 1 (3) of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925.—11 Halsbury's Statutes 396. This subsection empowered the Secretary of State by scheme to make such arrangements as he thought fit with a view to the provision of superannuation allowances or gratuities for probation officers or their legal personal representatives and it was under this power that the Secretary of State made the Probation Officers' Superannuation Rules, 1926 (S. R. & O., 1926, No. 1354/L.36), by which detailed provision for such superannuation was made. However, the Act of 1925 contained no power to vary the scheme so made; and accordingly various defects which have from time to time appeared could be set right only by Act of Parliament.

Having been such probation officers as aforesaid.—Note that this does not apply to probation officers' clerks, as such persons became superannuable as such only under the provisions of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1080) and therefore could not come under the old scheme.

Order under the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947.—On June 9, 1948, the Secretary of State in pursuance of the powers conferred on him by s. 1 of that Act, as extended by the present section, with the consent of the Treasury, made the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1220), post, which came into operation on July 1, 1948, amended, as from July 1, 1949, by the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Order, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 1134.

Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937.—30 Halsbury's Statutes 385.

Local superannuation enactment.—By sub-s. (1), supra, this expression has the meaning assigned to it by s. 1 (5) of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 1088).

S. 1 of the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Act, 1947.—40 Halsbury's Statutes 1087. This section set out the powers of the Secretary of State in relation to orders applying the local government superannuation provisions to probation officers and their clerks. The powers in question are extended to cover seconded officers by sub-s. (1), supra.

Order under that section.—See the Probation Officers (Superannuation) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1220), post.

Sub-s. (2).—S. 4 of the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1944 (37 Halsbury's Statutes 526), allowed that Act to be extended by Order in Council to pensions payable in respect of service as a probation officer so that the pension increases for which provision was made by that Act might be made applicable to such officers. In this way the Act of 1944 was applied to probation officers by the Pensions (Increase) Act (Extension) Order, 1944 (S. R. & O., 1944, No. 934). On June 22, 1948, however, this order was revoked as from July 1, 1948, by the Pensions (Increase) Act (Extension) Order, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1343), post, which applied the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1944, supra, to pensions under the new arrangements.

Pensions (Increase) Act, 1947.—40 Halsbury's Statutes 1037. For limitations imposed, see s. 3 thereof.

Pensionable employment.—For definition, see s. 17 (1), post.

14. Approved school officers.—The power conferred by paragraph 14 of the Fourth Schedule to the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933, or by paragraph 14 of the Second Schedule to the Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act, 1937, on the managers of an approved school to pay or contribute towards the payment of superannuation allowances or gratuities to or to the dependants of certain officers, shall be construed as including power to pay or contribute towards the payment of such allowances or gratuities in the case of persons who cease to be officers in the service of the school in order to enter into pensionable employment of a class referred to in subsection (2) of section two of this Act, or to pay or contribute towards the payment of transfer values or other similar payments in respect of those persons, and the reference in the proviso to each of the said paragraphs to payments or contributions in respect of any superannuation allowance or gratuity shall be construed as including a reference to payments or contributions under this section, and the powers to make rules conferred by those provisos shall be extended accordingly. [4505]

General note.—This section is designed to facilitate the transfer of officers of approved schools to other public employment of the types specified in s. 2 (2), ante, by removing any pension difficulties that might otherwise have impeded transfer.

Para. 14, etc.—For para. 14 of Sched. IV to the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933, see 26 Halsbury's Statutes 248.

Pensionable employment.—For definition, see s. 17 (1), post.

Transfer values.—See the notes to s. 1, ante.

15. General provisions as to rules under this Act.—(1) Any rules under this Act may contain such consequential and incidental provisions as appear to the authority making the rules to be necessary or expedient, including provisions requiring the giving of information and the production of documents, and provisions repealing, revoking, varying or applying any statutory provision relating to the subject matter of the rules; and any such rules may make different provision for different cases or classes of cases. [4506]

(2) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules shall be exercisable by statutory instrument, and any statutory instrument made in the exercise of any such power shall be subject to annulment by resolution of either House of Parliament. [4507]

(3) Anything which the Secretary of State is empowered by this Act to do by rules in relation to the Scottish Teachers Superannuation Scheme may be done by such rules or by amendment of the said scheme under section one hundred and one of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1946. [4508]

Rules under this Act.—Power to make rules under the present Act is conferred on various Departments by ss. 1 to 5 and 11. Under this section, the Minister of Health has made the Superannuation (Local Government Staffs) (National Service) Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 545 and the Superannuation (Local Act Authorities Schemes) Interchange Rules, 1949, S.I. 1949 No. 630.

Exercisable by statutory instrument.—See the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 783).

16. Financial provisions.—Any increase attributable to the provisions of this Act or of any rules made thereunder in the sums which are payable out of moneys provided by Parliament under the Superannuation Acts, 1834 to 1946, the Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946, or the Education (Scotland) Act, 1946, shall be defrayed out of moneys so provided. [4509]

Teachers (Superannuation) Acts, 1918 to 1946.—For the Acts comprised in this series, see the notes to s. 1, ante.

Section 1

SCHEDULE

PART I

Amendments of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939

1. Where a person serving in any superannuable capacity specified in the first column of the Schedule to the Act ceased so to serve in order to undertake war service and had not then attained the age of eighteen years, and, if he had attained that age, any of his service before the date of the cessation would have been contributing service or service for the purposes of a local Act scheme, then, if he attains that age while in war service, he shall be entitled to reckon so much of his war service as falls after the attainment of that age as contributing service or service for the purposes of that local Act scheme, and section four of the Act shall have effect in respect of that part of his war service as if he had not ceased to serve as aforesaid in order to undertake war service until immediately after the date upon which he attains that age.

2. Where a person serving in any superannuable capacity specified in the first column of the Schedule to the Act ceased so to serve in order to undertake war service and had not then attained the age of eighteen years, and the provisions of paragraph 1 of this Part of the Schedule do not apply, the period of his war service shall be taken into account for superannuation purposes in the same manner and to the same extent, if any, as it would have fallen to be taken into account if he had continued to serve in the same superannuable capacity as aforesaid throughout the period of his war service.

3. Where a person serving in a temporary capacity as a whole time officer of a local authority, being an authority specified in Part I of the First Schedule to the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, ceased so to serve in order to undertake war service and had then attained the age of eighteen years but was not then a contributory employee or a local Act contributor, and, if he had not ceased so to serve, he would have become a contributory employee or a local Act contributor on some date falling within the period of his war service, he shall be entitled to reckon so much of his war service as falls after the said date as contributing service or as service for the purposes of the local Act scheme, and section four of the Act shall have effect in respect of that part of his war service as if he had not ceased to serve as aforesaid in order to undertake war service until immediately after the said date.

4. It is hereby declared that where, under section three of the Act, the period of a person's war service falls to be aggregated with the period of his service in his civil capacity, then, for the purposes of sections thirteen and twenty-nine of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, he shall not be deemed to have ceased to be employed by the authority by whom he was employed immediately before he undertook his war service until the expiration of his war service or, if before the expiration of his war service he makes a claim under section ten of the last mentioned Act for the return of contributions made by him for superannuation purposes, until the date on which the claim is made, and references in the said sections thirteen and twenty-nine to the cessation of his employment by that authority shall be construed accordingly.

5. Where a person who is in war service immediately before the end of the present emergency continues in the same service after the end thereof, the said service continued as aforesaid shall all be treated as war service for the purposes of the Act:

Provided that, except where the said person continues his war service in pursuance of a legal obligation so to do arising otherwise than by reason of a voluntary undertaking by him to continue it, the local authority by whom he was employed immediately before he undertook his war service may at any time by notice in writing given to him notify him that his war service for the purposes of the Act will be deemed to cease three months after the date of the service of the notice, and unless the authority withdraw their notice the said war service shall be deemed to cease accordingly.

6. The provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall be deemed always to have had effect and all necessary adjustments shall be made accordingly.

7. In its application to Scotland, this Part of this Schedule shall have effect as if for references to the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, and to sections ten, thirteen and twenty-nine thereof, there were respectively substituted references to the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937, and to sections ten, thirteen and twenty-four thereof. [4513]

General note.—S. 1 (5), ante, enacts that "the said Acts [which include the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939; 32 Halsbury's Statutes 1118] shall be amended in accordance with the provisions of Parts I, II and III respectively of the Schedule to this Act and, to the extent specified in those Parts of that Schedule, shall be deemed always to have had effect as so amended." In general, the amendments made bring the Act of 1939 into line with the general principles of the National Service Act, 1948 (11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 64), as amended by the National Service (Amendment) Act, 1948 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 6), and the present Schedule.

PART II

Amendments of the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939

1.—(1) In paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of section two (which relates to the employer's contributions which must be paid by persons undertaking war service before completing their training as teachers or before becoming employed in contributory service if their war service is to count as contributory service) after the words "such amount" there shall be inserted the words "(not exceeding two and a half per cent. of the amount of his said salary as a teacher)".

(2) Sections two and three shall have effect as if section two had been enacted as amended by this paragraph.

2. After section seven the following section shall be inserted—

"7A. Where a person employed as a teacher in contributory service ceases to be so employed by reason that he is interned by the enemy or by a neutral power, this Act shall have effect as if he had ceased to be so employed in order to undertake war service and as if his war service had continued for the period of his internment".

3.—(1) Where a person who is in war service immediately before the end of the period of the present emergency continues in the same service either with the consent of his former employer (as defined for the purposes of the Act) or in pursuance of a legal obligation so to do arising otherwise than by reason of his voluntary continuance of his service, the said service continued as aforesaid shall all be treated as war service for the purposes of the Act; and section nine of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945 shall be construed accordingly.

(2) Where a person who is in war service immediately before the end of the period of the present emergency continues in the same service after the end thereof in pursuance of a legal obligation so to do arising by reason of his voluntary continuance of his service without the consent of his former employer, nothing in section nine of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, shall be construed as enabling so much of the said service continued as aforesaid as falls after the end of the period of the present emergency to be treated as part of his period of war service.

4. The Act shall apply to a person whose employment is treated by virtue of section two of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, as if it were employment as a teacher in contributory service as it applies to such a teacher, and any reference in the Act to a teacher or to contributory service shall be construed accordingly.

5. Notwithstanding anything in section eleven of the Act, the expression "contributory service", wherever used in the Act, shall, in relation to service after the commencement of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1945, be construed, save where the context otherwise requires, as having the meaning assigned to it by subsection (1) of section one of the last mentioned Act.

6. The provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall be deemed always to have had effect, and all necessary adjustments shall be made accordingly. [4514]

General note.—S. 1 (5), ante, enacts that "the said Acts [which include the Teachers Superannuation (War Service) Act, 1939; 32 Halsbury's Statutes 1131] shall be amended in accordance with the provisions of Parts I, II and III respectively of the Schedule to this Act and, to the extent specified in those Parts of that Schedule, shall be deemed always to have had effect as so amended."

The provisions of this Part of the Schedule make a number of miscellaneous amendments, mostly of detail. Note the provisions of para. 2, supra, as to "war service" during internment. This will include internment as a civilian, prisoners of war being already covered by the existing provisions for service in the Armed Forces.

2.—(1) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(2) In these regulations the following expressions have the respective meanings hereby assigned to them :—

" the English Act " means the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 ;

" the Scottish Act " means the Local Government Superannuation (Scotland) Act, 1937 ;

PART II

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF EMPLOYEES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES SERVING IN SCOTLAND AFTER SERVICE IN ENGLAND, AND OF THE ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH LOCAL AUTHORITIES CONCERNED

Reckoning of previous service

4.—(1) This article applies to an English contributory employee or an English local Act contributor who ceases to be such an employee or contributor but within twelve months after so ceasing becomes a Scottish contributory employee or a Scottish local Act contributor.

(2) If a person to whom this article applies was an English contributory employee and is a Scottish contributory employee he shall be entitled to reckon as contributing service and non-contributing service respectively under the Scottish Act all service which in relation to his English employment he was entitled so to reckon under the English Act immediately before he ceased to hold that employment

(3) If a person to whom this article applies was an English local Act contributor and is a Scottish contributory employee he shall, in respect of the reckoning of previous service, enjoy rights and be subject to liabilities similar to those respectively conferred and imposed in relation to a Scottish local Act contributor who becomes a Scottish contributory employee by any regulations made under section 13 (1) (b) of the Scottish Act and for the time being in force, and those regulations shall apply accordingly with the necessary modifications.

(4) If a person to whom this article applies was an English contributory employee or an English local Act contributor and is a Scottish local Act contributor he shall, in respect of the reckoning of previous service, enjoy rights and be subject to liabilities similar to those respectively conferred and imposed, in relation to a Scottish contributory employee or a Scottish local Act contributor under a Scottish local authority who ceases to be such and becomes a Scottish local Act contributor under the Scottish local Act authority whose employment the person has entered, by the scheme made by that Scottish local Act authority under section 22 of the Scottish Act and for the time being in force, and that scheme shall apply accordingly, with the necessary modifications.

(5) This article shall not apply so as to enable a person to reckon any period of service as contributing service or service for the purposes of a local Act scheme unless within three months of entering upon his new employment he informs the Scottish local authority whose employment he has entered that he has previously served in the employment of an English local authority, and unless on becoming a contributory employee or local Act contributor he pays to the authority maintaining the superannuation fund relating to the employment in respect of which he is such employee or contributor an amount equal to any sum which, on his ceasing to hold his employment under the English local authority, was paid to him by way of a return, whether with or without interest, of such contributions to or additional contributory payment into a superannuation fund as are mentioned in subsection (5) of section 10 of the English Act or of moneys which pursuant to any regulations for the time being in force under that Act were treated as such contributions as aforesaid. [4552]

Payment of Transfer Values

5. Where a person who was an English contributory employee or an English local Act contributor has become a Scottish contributory employee or a Scottish local Act contributor in such circumstances that the last preceding article is applicable in relation to him, a transfer value calculated in the manner prescribed by any regulations for the time being in force under subsection (1) of section 24 of the Scottish Act or under subsections (1) and (2) of section 33 of that Act, as the case may require, shall be payable, as if the person had previously been a Scottish contributory employee or a Scottish local Act contributor, by the English local authority maintaining the superannuation fund out of which a transfer value would have been payable, had the employee become an English contributory employee or an English local Act contributor, to the Scottish local authority maintaining the superannuation fund relating to the employment which he has entered, to be by them paid into that fund, and the regulations aforesaid shall apply accordingly, with the necessary modifications. [4553]

Contributions of certain employees

6.—(1) In the case of a Scottish contributory employee or Scottish local Act contributor to whom article 4 of these regulations applies and who, had he become an English contributory employee or an English local Act contributor by virtue of the employment in respect of which he is a Scottish contributory employee or Scottish local Act contributor, would, by virtue of section 6 (1) (a) of the English Act or of any of the provisions of Part I of the Second Schedule to that Act or of such provisions contained in schemes made by English local Act authorities under subsection (1) of section 26 of the English Act as are mentioned in paragraph (b) of that subsection, have been required to contribute to the superannuation fund relating to his employment an amount not exceeding five per cent. of the remuneration or the emoluments of his employment, the percentage of the remuneration or emoluments of his Scottish employment which shall be payable by way of contribution to the superannuation fund relating to that employment shall be five per cent:

Provided that in the case of a Scottish local Act contributor subject to a local Act scheme under which the percentage contribution payable is less than five per cent., the percentage contribution payable shall be such smaller percentage contribution.

(2) A Scottish contributory employee to whom article 4 of these regulations applies shall not be required to make any contribution to the Scottish appropriate superannuation fund if, had he become an English contributory employee by virtue of the employment in respect of which he is a Scottish contributory employee, he would have been exempted from liability to contribute to the English appropriate superannuation fund by virtue of the proviso to subsection (1) of section 6 of the English Act. If any Scottish contributory employee to whom article 4 of these regulations applies had been entitled as an English contributory employee to reckon under section 17 of the English Act any such service as is mentioned in that section, that service shall be deemed to be service to which section 15 of the Scottish Act applies as if in relation to that service—

(a) references therein to the Teachers Acts as therein defined or to the Teachers Acts and Superannuation Scheme framed in pursuance thereof were references to the Teachers Acts as defined in the English Act;

(b) there were substituted for the words " if any period which, in order to avoid duplicate pensions, has not been reckoned as service for the purpose of calculating his retiring allowance, had been so reckoned " the words " but for any deduction made by the Ministry of Education under section seven of the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925 "; and

[4558]

Whole-time officers appointed in a temporary capacity officer of such a Scottish authority as is mentioned in subsection (1) of section 25 of the Scottish Act shall be deemed to have been a Scottish contributory employee or a Scottish local Act contributor for the purpose of the application in relation to him of the proviso to that subsection.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

The purpose of this Order, which comes into operation on 1st July, 1948, is to bring probation officers (including existing pensioners) and their clerks within local government superannuation schemes. Neither part-time probation officers nor the clerks have hitherto been superannuable.

The Order supersedes the existing superannuation arrangements relating to full-time probation officers set up by the Probation Officers' Superannuation Rules, 1926 (S. R. & O., 1926, No. 1354), and provides for the winding-up of the fund established under those Rules and the distribution of the assets between the superannuation funds on which the liability to pay pensions will in future rest.

Service rendered by probation officers and clerks before 1st July, 1948, will be reckonable at non-contributing rates, and the contributions of probation officers to their existing fund are to be used to purchase additional benefits at contributing rates. The necessary adaptations of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, and of the London and Manchester local Act schemes are effected in the First, Second and Third Schedules.

Special provision is made in Part III of the Order for securing the pension rights of probation officers who have been seconded to posts in the Colonies and elsewhere in connection with the organisation of social services: the purpose of this Part of the Order is to provide that these officers shall, on their return to the English probation service after 1st July, 1948, have substantially the same rights as if they had been serving in England on that date.

SCHOOLS WHICH MAY BE ACCEPTED

4. Schools which may be accepted by the Minister for the purposes of this Scheme shall not include any schools or institutions, service in which is contributory service under paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) or (i) of Section 1 (1) of the 1945 Act, but subject thereto shall include—

(a) schools of the following classes which are recognised as efficient under Rules made from time to time by the Minister relating to such recognition or under any conditions which the Minister may prescribe for the purposes of the Scheme—

(i) Primary Schools ;
(ii) Secondary Schools ;
(iii) Establishments for Further Education ; and
(iv) Training Colleges other than Training Colleges forming part of a University or University College ;

and

(b) any schools or other types specially approved by the Minister for the purpose. [4609]

5.—(1) Application for the acceptance of a school shall be made by the Governing Body or proprietors of the school and the Governing Body or proprietors shall, when application is made, give an undertaking that the payment of contributions shall be a condition of the service of all teachers, other than those excluded from contributory service as hereinafter provided, who shall be appointed to full-time service in the school after the date on which the Governing Body or proprietors of the school receive notification by the Minister of acceptance of the school.

(2) In the event of any breach of undertaking as aforesaid, future service in the school in question shall, as from such subsequent date as may be determined by the Minister, cease to be a contributory service under the Scheme, but without prejudice to the power of the Minister to accept the school again on a fresh undertaking. [4610]

6.—(1) If a school is accepted it shall become subject to the provisions of this Scheme as from the date of acceptance for that school.

(2) The date of acceptance for any school shall, unless some later date be approved for the purpose of that school by the Minister, be—

(a) in any case where application for acceptance of the school is made not later than three months after the date on which this Scheme comes into operation, the 1st January, 1948; or

(b) in any other case, the first day of the term in which application is made for acceptance, for which purpose a term shall be a period of four months beginning with the 1st January, 1st May, or 1st September as the case may be.

(3) A school which is for the time being subject to the 1926 Scheme may be accepted for the purposes of this Scheme and as from the date of acceptance the 1926 Scheme shall, notwithstanding anything to the contrary therein, without further formality cease to apply to that school. [4611]

PERSONS WITHIN SCHEME

7. As from the date of acceptance of a school, persons employed as teachers in full-time service in that school shall become subject to the provisions of this Scheme with the exception of—

(a) the proprietor of a school conducted for private profit or person who, in the opinion of the Minister, should be treated as a proprietor;

(b) a teacher subject to a pension scheme in operation in an accepted school who does not withdraw from the provisions of that Scheme; provided that the exception for which this paragraph provides shall apply to the teacher only so long as he continues in service in that school;

(c) a teacher, employed at the date of acceptance of the school, who notifies the Minister within three months after that date or within such further period as may be approved by the Minister, that he does not desire to be regarded as in contributory service;

(d) a teacher who becomes employed after the date of acceptance of the school but before the date on which the Governing Body or proprietors receive notification by the Minister of such acceptance and who notifies the Minister within three months after becoming so employed or within such further period as may be approved by the Minister that he does not desire to be regarded as in contributory service;

(e) a teacher who has been guilty of such misconduct as would, in the opinion of the Minister, have disqualified him for recognition in grant-aided service and who is for that reason excluded by the Minister from the benefit of this Scheme; and

(f) a teacher who has not previously been employed in recognised or contributory service whether under the 1926 Scheme or otherwise (including approved external service in Scotland or service which is treated in the same manner as such last-mentioned service under any Scheme made under Section 21 (1) (c) of the 1925 Act) and who fails to satisfy the Minister of his physical capacity. [4612]

APPLICATION OF ACTS AS MODIFIED

8. The provisions of Part II of the 1925 Act as amended by the 1945 Act, and such of the provisions of the 1937 Act and the 1939 Act as are expressed to apply to a Scheme made under Section 21 of the 1925 Act shall apply in the case of any person to whom this Scheme applies subject to the following modifications. [4613]

Contributions

9.—(1) Section 9 (1) of the 1925 Act which provides for the payment of contributions by teachers and employers shall have effect with the substitution in paragraphs (a) and (b) thereof of six-and-a-quarter per cent. for five per cent. being a percentage of the amount of the teacher's salary for the time being.

(2) Section 2 (1) of the 1937 Act which provides for the payment of contributions by a teacher during intervals of service, shall have effect with the substitution of twelve-and-a-half per cent. instead of ten per cent. of the amount of the teacher's salary. [4614]

Average Salary

10. Section 10 (2) of the 1925 Act shall apply with the modification that the average salary of a teacher shall be taken to be the average amount of the teacher's full salary, as calculated under that section in respect of the last five years of his employment in contributory service under this Scheme, or, if the teacher has not been so employed for five years, then the average amount of salary during the period for which he has been so employed. [4615]

Accounting and Valuation

11. In respect of service under this Scheme the following provisions shall be substituted for the provisions of Section 15 of the 1925 Act—

(1) There shall be kept in accordance with the directions contained in the Schedule to this Scheme an account in such form and prepared in such manner as may be provided for by regulations made by the Treasury, of all revenue and expenditure (including any sums which are under the said Schedule to be deemed to be revenue and expenditure) under the Scheme, and at the expiration of such period after the commencement of this Scheme as the Treasury think practicable and at the expiration of every subsequent period of seven years, the Treasury shall cause an actuarial inquiry to be made for the purpose of determining whether on the basis of the said account the contributions payable under the Scheme are sufficient, or more than sufficient or less than sufficient, to support the benefits payable thereunder in respect of those contributions.

(2) The Treasury shall cause a report of every inquiry made under these provisions to be laid before both Houses of Parliament. [4616]

Consultation

12. Section 17 (1) of the 1925 Act which provides for consultation by the Minister with representatives of Local Education Authorities and of teachers affected shall have effect with the modification that the words "employers of accepted schools" shall be substituted for the words "Local Education Authorities". [4617]

Modifications as respects Contributory Service

13.—(1) Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, contributory service under this Scheme shall be treated as if it were contributory service under the 1925 Act as amended by the 1945 Act, provided that, except so far as may be otherwise prescribed under the 1925 Act, it shall not be so treated for the purpose of—

(a) determining for the purposes of Section 2 (1) (a) (iv) of the 1925 Act whether a teacher has been in some other form of contributory service ; or

(b) calculating the amount of any superannuation allowance or gratuity in respect of recognised or contributory service under the 1925 Act, the 1945 Act, or the 1926 Scheme ; or

(c) the proviso to Section 13 (2) (b) of the 1925 Act ; or (d) determining whether a teacher died in contributory service under the 1925 Act, the 1945 Act, or the 1926 Scheme.

(2) Contributory service under the 1925 Act, the 1945 Act, or the 1926 Scheme shall not be reckoned for determining whether a teacher dies in contributory service under this Scheme. [4618]

Modifications for National Insurance

14. The modifications of the Teachers Acts and other instruments for which the National Insurance (Modification of Teachers Pensions) Regulations, 1948, provide shall apply to teachers in contributory service by virtue of this Scheme as they apply to other teachers in contributory service. [4619]

SCHEDULE

(Clause 11)

DIRECTIONS AS TO ACCOUNT

(1) The accounting periods for which the account shall be made up shall be from the 1st day of April in each year to the 31st day of March in the next year.

(2) There shall be treated as having been paid into the revenue for each accounting period—

(a) the amount of contributions attributable to the period ;

(b) a sum representing interest at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum on the mean balance, if any, of revenue over expenditure during the period ; such mean balance being calculated by adding together one half of the balance (exclusive of any interest under this paragraph) remaining at the end of the period, and one half of the balance, if any, carried forward from the last preceding accounting period ;

c) the amount of any balance of revenue over expenditure remaining at the end of the last preceding accounting period ; and

(d) any other revenue attributable to the period. [4620]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Scheme, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

The purpose of this Scheme is to enable teaching service in schools which are efficient but not grant-aided to be pensionable on a scale approximating to the benefits payable under the Teachers (Superannuation) Act, 1925, in respect of service in grant-aided schools.

The Scheme is an alternative to the Scheme for non-grant-aided schools made in 1926. Under that Scheme the contributions are, as under the Act of 1925, at the rate of 10 per cent. ; but, in order to comply with the requirement of Section 21 (1) (a) of the Act that the Scheme should be self-supporting, benefits under it are on a lower scale than those payable under the Act in respect of service in grant-aided schools.

The present Scheme provides benefits more nearly approximating to those payable under the Act in respect of service in grant-aided schools, but, in order to comply with the requirement that the Scheme should be self-supporting, the rates of contribution are fixed at 12½ per cent. instead of 10 per cent.

2. The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies for the purpose of the interpretation of these Rules as it applies for the purpose of the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4622]

3. In these Rules unless the context otherwise requires—

" the 1947 Amending Rules " mean the Teachers Superannuation Amending Rules, 1947. [4623]

4. The existing Rules shall have effect with the amendments for which these Rules provide. [4624]

5. In paragraphs (d), (e) and (f) of Rule 6 of the 1947 Amending Rules, for any reference to the Board of Control there shall be substituted a reference to the Minister of Health. [4625]

6. As from the 5th July, 1948, paragraphs (d) and (f) of Rule 6 of the 1947 Amending Rules are hereby altered in consequence of the amendments to the Teachers Acts made by Regulation 54 (b) of the National Health Service (Superannuation) Regulations, 1947, that is to say—

and

(b) the said paragraph (f) shall have effect with the addition after the words " employed within the scope of Section 1 (1) (g) of the 1945 Act " of the words " as amended by Regulation 54 (b) (ii) of the National Health Service (Superannuation) Regulations, 1947 ". [4626]

Circular 86/48

To all Local Authorities

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
WHITEHALL,
LONDON, S.W.1.
4th June, 1948

SIR,

SUPERANNUATION (MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS) ACT, 1948

I am directed by the Minister of Health to draw your attention to the passing of this Act and particularly the following provisions which affect local authorities.

" National Service "

Section 1 provides for the making of Regulations to deal with the preservation of superannuation rights during national service and the details of these and the winding up of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939, will be discussed with the Associations of Local Authorities in due course. Part I of the Schedule modifies the 1939 Act in various respects and is to be applied retrospectively (paragraph 6). Adjustments may need to be made for employees who entered on war service before the age of 18 but who would have become contributory employees had they remained with the authority; for " servants " who might have become superannuable at a certain time by reason of a resolution of the authority under section 3 (2) (b) of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, had they not gone on war service; and for temporary officers who would have completed the two year period of service but for war service. The adjustments will include recovering contributions from the employee and adjustment of transfer values if he has gone to other employment.

Paragraph 4 of Part I of the Schedule ensures that a transfer value for an employee who goes (or has gone) straight from war service to an authority other than the one with which he had previously been employed shall be payable as if he had not ceased to be employed by his old authority until the expiration of his war service which, the Minister is advised, includes demobilisation leave.

Interchange with Other Employments

Section 2 gives a wide power for Regulations to be made enabling a freer movement between local government and other services. Revised Regulations for interchange with the civil service will be made at an early date, after consultation with the Associations of Local Authorities. It is also proposed to make Regulations, to come into force before 5th July, enabling a local authority to allow an officer newly appointed by them instead of becoming a contributory employee in the local government superannuation scheme to remain subject to the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and other Hospital Officers, or an insurance policy in the Federated Superannuation System for Universities, if he was subject to such a scheme in his last employment. This will be of particular value to local health authorities in taking over staff from District Nursing Associations.

General note.—The regulations referred to, supra, were made by the Minister of Health on June 28, 1948, under the title of the Superannuation (Policy and Local Government Schemes) Interchange Rules, 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1446), ante. They came into operation on July 5, 1948. See also Circular 125/48, post.

Preservation of Rights for Staff Dismissed on Reduction of Capital Expenditure, etc.

Section 6 enables the Minister to declare a " period of emergency " and any person who ceases to be employed during this period can get the advantages afforded by this section if the local authority certify that the cessation of his employment is due to action taken for the temporary reduction of expenditure or for the purpose of making him available for other employment.

The rights referred to in subsections (3), (4) and (5) will then follow. I am to say that the Minister has directed that the period ending 30th June, 1949, shall be treated as the period of emergency for the purposes of this section.

Application of Local Government Superannuation to Employees of Associations

Section 7 enables a local authority, on terms and conditions to be approved by the Minister to admit to their superannuation scheme employees of an association of local authorities or of officers of local authorities which satisfies the description set out in subsection (1). [4630]

Circular 125/48

To all Local Authorities

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
WHITEHALL,
LONDON, S.W.1
3rd July, 1948

SIR,

THE SUPERANNUATION (POLICY AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT SCHEMES) INTERCHANGE RULES, 1948

(S.I. 1948 No. 1446)

General note.—For the text of the Rules referred to above, see ante.

1. I am directed by the Minister of Health to enclose a copy of the above-mentioned rules which have been made under section 2 of the Superannuation (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1948. Reference was made in paragraph 4 of Circular 86/48 to the fact that they were in prospect.

2. They enable local authorities to preserve the superannuation rights of employees entering their service from employment subject to the Federated Superannuation System for Universities, the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers or any other pension scheme providing benefits from contracts arranged with Assurance Companies which the Minister may approve after consultation with the appropriate associations of local authorities. The Minister has so approved the Pension Scheme for District Nurses run by the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

3. The rules also enable a local authority to pay in respect of a contributory employee or local Act contributor who ceases to be employed and takes up employment subject to any such scheme a sum not exceeding the amount of transfer value which might have become payable under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, to be invested in the scheme by way of a deferred annuity for the employee's benefit.

4. The general effect is to give the local authorities powers similar to those of the Minister in Regulations 24 and 46 of the National Health Service (Superannuation) Regulations, 1947, in relation to employees in the central health service.

5. There are essential differences between the Federated Superannuation System for Universities and the Federated Scheme for Nurses and Hospital

Officers. In the case of the latter local authorities wishing to grant the option conferred by Article 3 of the Regulations will be able to become participating institutions in that scheme. They will enter into an agreement with the scheme and will be responsible for making the appropriate contributions and payments in respect of administration expenses. Provided the numbers participating warrant it, there will also be a right to representation on the Council of the scheme. Local authorities wishing to exercise this discretion in respect of employees entering their service should make formal application to the General Manager and Secretary, Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers, Rose Hill, Park Road, Banstead, Surrey.

6. In the case of the Federated Superannuation System for Universities it is not possible to make similar arrangements; the rights of the policies are vested in the holders and local authorities will not be accepted as participants in the scheme. If the authority appoint a person who was subject to the Federated System in his previous employment he may, if the authority agree remain subject to his policies in their employment on the following arrangements. The late F.S.S.U. policies will be held by the authority subject to a trust the details of which are still under discussion. The Life Offices Association representing the Insurance Companies on the panel of the Federated System will issue incremental policies on Federated Superannuation System terms in the same way as they will issue them in respect of employees in similar circumstances in the central health service. Fuller details of the arrangements including the form of trust deed will be sent in due course. If, in the meantime the authority wish to accept an application by a newly appointed employee to remain subject to a F.S.S.U. policy you should get in touch with this office.

7. In the case of a nurse subject to the Pension Scheme for District Nurses run by the Equitable Life Assurance Society the arrangements should be made direct with the Secretary of the Society at 19 Coleman Street, London, E.C.2.

8. With regard to the payment of transfer values to enable former contributory employees or local Act contributors to be set up in policy schemes, it will, of course, be necessary for local authorities to make ad hoc arrangements with the schemes as and when applications are received from former employees under the provisions of Article 5 of the Rules.

9. A copy of this circular is enclosed for the information of the Chief Financial Officer. [4631]

I am, Sir, etc.

CASES

Local Government—Superannuation of officers—Right to annual superannuation allowance on ceasing to be employed—Question to be decided by Minister—Claim after cessation of employment—"Employee"—Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (c. 68), s. 35.

Practice—Appearance—Unconditional appearance—Defendant's right to plead that plaintiff has no cause of action—R. S. C., Ord. 25, r. 2.

W., who was employed by a local authority and was entitled, as an employee, to participate in the benefits of a superannuation fund, resigned his post on December 17, 1945, but on March 27, 1946, the local authority purported to dismiss him and decided that he was not entitled to an annual superannuation allowance under the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, s. 8 (1) (a).

In an action by W., begun on July 31, 1946, claiming a declaration that he was so entitled, unconditional appearance to the writ was entered by the local authority, but it was pleaded by para. 6 of the defence that W. had no cause of action because, under s. 35 of the Act (which provides that any question concerning the rights of an employee of a local authority under the Act shall be decided, in the first instance, by the authority concerned, and, if the employee is dissatisfied with the authority's decision, by the Minister whose decision shall be final), the question whether or not he was entitled to an allowance was to be determined only by the Minister of Health. The master ordered that the issue raised by para. 6 of the defence should be disposed of before the trial under R. S. C., Ord. 25, r. 2. At the hearing W. contended (i) that, since the authority had entered an unconditional appearance, the plea in para. 6 of the defence was bad since it denied the jurisdiction of the court; (ii) that s. 35 of the Act of 1937 did not apply to his claim because, at the material time (i.e. when the question of his rights was raised), he had ceased to be an " employee " :—

Held: (i) the court had jurisdiction to decide whether or not it could deal with the matter; by entering an unconditional appearance the defendants had submitted to that jurisdiction; but they were not thereby precluded from challenging the jurisdiction of the court to deal with the claim.

(ii) although W. had ceased to be employed by the local authority before the question of his rights was raised, s. 35 of the Act of 1937 applied to him and he had no cause of action.

Local Government—Superannuation—Amount of allowance—Area public assistance officer acting also as interim superintendent registrar of births and deaths—Inclusion of fees as registrar in calculation of average remuneration—Calculation to be based on gross fees—Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937 (c. 68), ss. 8 (5) (c), 40 (1), (3).

Statutes—Construction—Right conferred by main enacting sections of Act —Effect of provision in interpretation section.

The Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, s. 8, provides: " (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, a contributory employee of an employing authority shall be entitled, on ceasing to be employed by them, to receive an annual superannuation allowance if he . . . (b) has attained the age of sixty years and completed forty years' service. . . . (2) The superannuation allowance to be made to a contributory employee under this part of this Act shall be on the following scale, that is to say :—(a) in respect of every completed year of contributing service, one sixtieth of his average remuneration. . . . (5) For the purposes of this section, the average remuneration of a contributory employee means the annual average of the remuneration received by him in respect of service rendered during the five years immediately preceding the day on which he ceases to hold his employment, or the day on which he attains the age of sixty-five years, whichever is the earlier: Provided that—. . . (c) if a contributory employee in the whole-time employment of a single local authority becomes a contributory employee in the part-time employment of each of two or more authorities, then, if his remuneration in his whole-time employment becomes material for the purpose of calculating the superannuation allowance payable to him on his ceasing to hold one of his part-time employments, that remuneration shall for the purposes of the calculation be treated as attributable to those part-time employments and shall be apportioned between them."

By s. 40, the interpretation section, sub-s. (1) provides: " ' remuneration ' means all salary, wages, fees, poundage and other payments paid or made to an employee as such for his own use, and includes the money value of any apartments, rations or other allowances in kind appertaining to his employment, but does not include payments for overtime, or any allowance paid to him to cover cost of office accommodation or clerks' assistance, or any travelling or subsistence allowance or other moneys to be spent, or to cover expenses incurred by him, for the purposes of his employment . . . ' service ' means service rendered to any local authority . . . but does not include service in any employment if the person in question has already become entitled in respect of that service in that employment to a superannuation allowance under this or any other Act." By s. 40 (3): " Where an employee holds under a local authority two or more separate employments of such a nature that he can cease to hold one without ceasing to hold the other or others, the provisions of this Act shall, unless the context otherwise requires, apply as respects him in relation to each of those separate employments as if the other or others were an employment or employments held by him under another authority."

From April 30, 1938, to June 30, 1940, an area public assistance officer of a county council was also an interim superintendent registrar of births and deaths. He was a " contributory employee," within the meaning of the Local Government Superannuation Act, 1937, as defined in s. 3 of the Act, in respect of his post as an area officer, and as such was bound to contribute to, and entitled to participate in, the council's superannuation fund, and it was accepted that he was also a contributory employee of the council in respect of his office as interim superintendent registrar. On November 2, 1943, he retired from the post of area officer and became entitled to a superannuation allowance, under s. 8 (1) (b) of the Act. He claimed that for the purpose of computing his average remuneration during the five years immediately preceding his retirement in 1943, on which computation the amount of the superannuation allowance depended, his remuneration in respect of his office as interim superintendent registrar should be taken into account. The council contended that, by reason of ss. 8 (5) (c) and 40 (3), of the Act, the officer's remuneration as interim superintendent registrar should not be included in the computation of the allowance to which he became entitled on ceasing to be employed as area officer:—

Held: (i) on the true construction of the Act of 1937, the officer was entitled to have his remuneration as superintendent registrar of births and deaths taken into account in ascertaining his average remuneration under s. 8 (5).

(ii) on the true construction of the definition of " remuneration " in s. 40 (1) of the Act, the gross fees received by the officer as superintendent registrar were to be taken into account in calculating the superannuation allowance payable to him, and not those fees less expenditure incurred by him in the performance of his duties.

(iii) a definition section ought not to be construed as cutting down or modifying the main enacting sections of an Act unless it contains clear language to that effect.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4652]

(2) The use of any land by the acquiring or appropriating authority so long as any church or other building used or formerly used for religious worship, or any part thereof, remains on such land, shall in the case of consecrated land, be subject to the like control as imposed by law in the case of a similar use authorised by an enactment other than the Act or by a Measure, and in the case of any other land, be for such religious, charitable, educational, municipal or other purposes, as are not inconsistent with the last use of the land by the religious denomination at or before the date of acquisition or appropriation.

8. Any human remains interred in the land which have not been removed and reinterred by the personal representatives or relatives of the deceased person within the time prescribed by these Regulations shall, on removal by the person in whom the land is vested, be reinterred in such land as may be indicated as being reasonably available for the purpose by the appropriate denominational authority, and failing any such land being so indicated, shall be reinterred in any cemetery or burial ground, and the person in whom the land is vested shall in carrying out the reinterment, have due regard to the setting apart of any portion of such cemetery or burial ground for burial in connection with any particular religious denomination. [4658]

9. Any tombstone, monument or other memorial not disposed of by the personal representatives or relatives of a deceased person shall be offered by the person in whom the land is vested to the appropriate denominational authority for disposal as that authority thinks fit, and if not accepted by that authority, shall be broken and defaced before being disposed of otherwise. [4659]

11. Notwithstanding anything contained in Regulations 7 and 8 of these Regulations—

(a) In the case of consecrated land the manner of removal and reinterment of any human remains and the disposal of any tombstones, monuments or other memorials removed from the lands shall be subject to such reasonable conditions as may be imposed by the Bishop, either generally or in any particular case.

and restricted value by reference to which the Board propose to determine the development value.

Subject to the provisions of Regulations 13 and 14 and of paragraph (1) of Regulation 15 of these Regulations, the development value when so determined and notified by the Board shall be treated as conclusive for the purposes of a Section 58 scheme. [4680]

(2) The claimant shall immediately after giving notice to the Board pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Regulation send to the Reference Committee for England and Wales constituted under the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 a copy thereof and an application for the selection of an arbitrator and shall thereupon send a copy of that application to the Board.

(3) The provisions of the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Rules, 1919 and the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Fees Rules, 1931 and of any other Rules for the time being in force made under the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 shall apply to an arbitration pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Regulation so far as the same are not modified by or inconsistent with the Act or these Regulations and subject to the following modifications :—

(g) paragraphs (1) and (2) of Rule 3 of the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Rules, 1919 shall not apply ; and

(h) the following paragraph shall apply in substitution for paragraph (1) of Rule 7 of the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Rules, 1919 :—

> Provided that no such application shall be made as respects a dispute if an arbitrator has already entered on the consideration of the dispute ".

(4) The arbitrator shall by his award either confirm the development value as determined by the Board under paragraph (5) of Regulation 12 of these Regulations or direct the Board to alter the development value as so determined by them to such an amount as he thinks proper having regard to all the circumstances of the case, and such direction shall state the amounts of the unrestricted value and restricted value by reference to which the arbitrator has ascertained the altered development value.

(5) If by his award the arbitrator confirms the development value as determined by the Board such development value shall as from the date of the award, and subject to any directions of the High Court in proceedings arising out of the arbitration, be treated as conclusive for the purposes of a Section 58 scheme.

(6) If by his award the arbitrator so directs, the Board shall alter the development value so as to give effect to such direction and shall give notice in writing to the claimant of the development value as so altered, and thereupon the development value as so altered shall (subject to any directions of the High Court in proceedings arising out of the arbitration) be treated as conclusive for the purposes of a Section 58 scheme.

(7) If, at any time after the claimant shall have given notice of dispute under paragraph (1) of this Regulation and before the arbitrator has made his award or before the decision of the High Court has been made upon any case stated by the arbitrator, the Board and the claimant shall in writing agree such development value, then the Board shall determine the development value in accordance with such agreement and the same shall as from the date of such determination be treated as conclusive for the purposes of a Section 58 scheme. [4681]

General

14. If, at any time after a determination of development value by virtue of any provision in any preceding Regulation of these Regulations and before the 1st day of January, 1953, there shall come to the knowledge of the Board any matter :—

(b) by virtue of which an adjustment is required by sub-section (3) of Section 91 of the Act to be made of any calculation previously made of the restricted value or the unrestricted value of the said interest in land, then and in any such case the said determination shall be of no effect, and the provisions of Regulations 12 and 13 of these Regulations shall again come into effect. [4682]

15.—(1) If a claimant desires to question the regularity of any determination of development value on the ground that any requirements of the Act or of these Regulations (other than requirements in connection with the settlement of any dispute by reference to arbitration pursuant to Regulation 13 of these Regulations) have not been complied with in relation to that determination, he may within six weeks of such determination make an application for that purpose to the High Court and the Court, if satisfied upon the hearing of the application that the interests of the claimant have been substantially prejudiced by any such requirement as aforesaid not having been complied with, may quash the determination of the development value and give such directions as appear to the Court to be requisite for remedying the default.

(2) Subject as aforesaid and to any alteration of development value effected in conformity with paragraph (6) of Regulation 13 of these Regulations, the development value of every interest in land as determined by the Board shall be deemed to have been regularly made for the purposes of a Section 58 scheme, and the right to make satisfaction of payment in accordance with a Section 58 scheme on the basis of such determination shall not after the expiration of the said period of six weeks be questioned by prohibition or certiorari or in any other legal proceedings whatever. EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of this Order, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

The Third Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, sets out certain classes of development which an owner of land is assumed to have permission to undertake, when assessments of compensation or development charge are being made under the Act. Paragraph 6 of that Schedule provides that one of such classes shall be, in the case of a building or other land which was used on the appointed day (1st July, 1948—see S.I. 1948 No. 213) or, if unoccupied on that day, was last used since 7th January, 1937, for a purpose within any general class specified in a ministerial Order, the use of that building or land for any other purpose falling within the same general class. This Order specifies the general classes accordingly.

An Order of the same date (S.I. 1948 No. 954) made under section 12 of the Act and specifying identical classes, provides that changes of use within these classes shall not involve development. That Order, however, may at any time be amended or revoked, while, in the case of this Order, the Act provides that it shall not be amended or revoked at any time after the appointed day (see section 111 (4)).

and includes the annual value as ascertained by an actuary of any contingent right under the scheme in respect of widow's pension or any other benefit which might have become payable to his widow or to his legal personal representatives on his death had he not lost his employment, but does not include any part of such pension as aforesaid which is attributable to any remuneration enjoyed, whether before or after the appointed day, in consequence of an increase between the 7th day of January, 1947, and the appointed day in the remuneration of any employment, if it can be shown that the increased remuneration was not granted in the ordinary course of that employment or in consideration of the person's assumption of increased responsibilities or new duties in connection with the discharge of the existing functions of the body employing him ;

" accrued incapacity pension " has the same meaning as " accrued pension " except that the reference to a person's having attained normal retiring age shall be construed as a reference to his having become incapable of discharging efficiently the duties of his employment by reason of permanent ill-health or infirmity of mind or body ;

" accrued retiring allowance ", in relation to a pensionable officer who has suffered loss of employment, means any lump sum payment to which he would have become entitled in respect of his pensionable service according to the method of calculation, as modified by paragraph 18 of the schedule to these regulations, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, if at the date on which he ceased to be subject thereto he had attained

" net emoluments ", in relation to an officer who suffers loss of employment or diminution of emoluments, means the annual rate of his emoluments immediately before such loss or diminution, after deducting therefrom the like percentage thereof as the percentage of his emoluments which he was then liable to contribute under any pension scheme associated with his employment :

Provided that—

(a) if, for the purposes of the foregoing definition, account is required to be taken of any fees payable to a person as part of his emoluments, the amount thereof shall be taken to be the annual average of the fees paid to him during the three years

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they immediately preceding the loss of employment or diminution of emoluments, or, if the fees were payable in respect of a shorter period, such shorter period; and

"service" in relation to a person means any period of whole-time or part-time employment in Great Britain, after attaining the age of eighteen years, under the Crown, or under any local authority or any other body for the purposes of the local government service, or under an officer of any such authority or body for the purposes of the functions of that authority or body; and includes any period of war service undertaken on the person's ceasing to hold any such employment as aforesaid, but does not include employment of which account has been taken, or is required to be taken, in calculating the amount of any superannuation benefits to which the person has become entitled;

"tribunal" means such referee or board of referees appointed by the Minister of Labour and National Service, after consultation with the Lord Chancellor, as has jurisdiction in respect of the district in which a claimant for compensation is or was last employed;

15. Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding regulation every person who was an existing officer and who suffers loss of employment or diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the provisions of the Act or of these regulations shall be entitled to have his case considered for the receipt of compensation under these regulations, such compensation to be determined in accordance with the provisions of the schedule hereto. [4747]

16. Nothing in the last preceding regulation shall entitle a person to have his case considered for compensation unless

(a) the cause of the claim to compensation arises not later than 10 years after the appointed day and the claim is made not later than 2 years after the date on which the cause of claim arises, and

(b) one or more of the following conditions are satisfied in relation to the officer

(i) he is not offered by the local planning authority to which he is transferred on the appointed day an office or situation reasonably comparable to the office or situation which he held immediately before the appointed day ; or

(ii) his office is abolished and he is not transferred to a local planning authority ; or

(iii) his appointment is determined because his services are not required or because his duties are diminished (no misconduct being established) ; or

(iv) his emoluments are diminished.

Provided that an office or situation which an officer is offered shall not, for the purposes of this regulation, be deemed to be not reasonably comparable to that which he held immediately before the appointed day by reason only that it involves duties in connection with functions under the Act not corresponding with old planning functions or a transfer of his employment from one place to another place within England and Wales. [4748]

17. If a person who has claimed compensation under these regulations is aggrieved by the refusal of the compensating authority to accept his claim or by their failure to come to a decision on his claim within three months after the date on which it was received by them, or by a decision that no compensation should be paid to him or by the amount of compensation awarded, he may, within three months after the refusal or failure or after the date on which he received notice of the decision, as the case may be, refer the matter to a tribunal, and the tribunal shall consider any matter so referred in accordance with the provisions of these regulations and determine accordingly whether any, and if so what, compensation ought to be awarded to the claimant, and the compensating authority shall give effect to the decision of the tribunal. [4749]

(3) In any case where the compensating authority is such an authority because it is the local planning authority for the largest part of an area in which a joint planning committee formerly exercised its functions, the other local planning authority or authorities for the remainder of such area shall contribute to any compensation payable proportionately according to their areas, or on such other basis as may be agreed between them, and the compensating authority shall be entitled to recover such contributions accordingly. [4750]

Officers on War Service on the Appointed Day

19. Any person (hereinafter referred to as an " officer on war service ") who is engaged in war service immediately before the appointed day and who, if he had continued to be employed until the appointed day in the capacity in which he was employed before becoming engaged in war service, would have been an existing officer, shall be deemed to be an existing officer within the meaning of these regulations, and if at the date on which he ceased to be so employed he was subject to a pension scheme, and his war service or any part thereof would be reckonable for the purposes of that scheme if he again became subject thereto on the termination of his war service, he shall also be deemed to be a pensionable officer within the meaning of these regulations. [4751]

20. Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding regulation, if an officer on war service ceases to be engaged in war service and in consequence of the Act or of these regulations :—

(a) is not given or offered re-employment in his former office, or in any reasonably comparable office, or is not employed or offered employment in any office to which, but for his war service, he would have been transferred by these regulations, or any reasonably comparable office ; or

(b) is so re-employed or employed with reduced emoluments,

he shall be deemed for the purposes of these regulations, in the former case, to have suffered loss of employment which is attributable to the Act owing to the abolition of his office at the date of the refusal to re-employ him or employ him as aforesaid, and, in the latter case, to have suffered diminution of emoluments which is attributable to the Act. [4752]

21. No person shall, by virtue of the last preceding regulation, be entitled to have his case considered for compensation for any loss suffered by him by reason of his not being re-employed or employed as therein mentioned unless within a period of two months after the date on which he ceased to be engaged in war service he gives notice in writing to his former employer or to the authority to whom he would have been transferred by these regulations, as the case may be, that he is available for employment :

Provided that if the person is prevented from giving notice within the said period by his sickness or other reasonable cause, the notice may be given as soon as reasonably may be after the expiration of that period. [4753]

22. For the purpose of ascertaining the net emoluments of a person to whom regulation 20 applies such person shall be deemed to have continued to follow his former employment until the cause of claim arose and to have been entitled to the emoluments thereof. [4754]

23. In relation to a pensionable officer to whom sub-paragraph (a) of regulation 20 applies, the expression " accrued pension " means the pension to which he would have become entitled according to the method of calculation as modified by paragraph 18 of the schedule to these regulations prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was subject before becoming engaged in war service, if at the date on which he ceased to be engaged in war service he had been serving in his civil capacity and had attained normal retiring age, having complied with any requirement of the said pension scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service. [4755]

SCHEDULE

Determination of Compensation

I. GENERAL

1. A person desiring to make a claim for compensation under these regulations shall deliver his claim to the compensating authority in such form as they may require. The claim shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration as to the truth of the statements contained therein.

2.—(1) A claimant, if so required by the compensating authority, by notice sent through the clerk of the authority, shall attend at a meeting of the authority, or of any committee appointed by the authority for the purpose, and answer all questions asked by any member of the authority or committee touching the matters set forth in his claim, and shall further produce all books, papers and documents in his possession or under his control relating to the claim.

(2) A claimant required to attend at a meeting pursuant to sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph may further be required to make a statutory declaration as to the truth of any of the answers given by him to questions asked on the occasion of such attendance touching the matters set forth in his claim.

(3) Such a claimant as aforesaid may be accompanied by a representative who shall be entitled to address the authority, committee or person before whom the claimant is required to attend touching the matters set forth in his claim.

II. Compensation for Loss of Employment

3. On receipt of a claim for compensation in respect of loss of employment, the compensating authority shall consider forthwith whether the claimant satisfies the conditions of eligibility for the payment of compensation set out in regulations 15 and 16 and if they are satisfied that these conditions are not fulfilled, shall reject the claim and advise the claimant in writing accordingly within one month after the receipt of the claim.

A. Interim Payments of Compensation

4. If the compensating authority accept the claim, then, unless they are satisfied that the claimant has substantially made good his loss by virtue of having obtained other employment, they shall forthwith commence to make interim payments of compensation to the claimant subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding paragraph, and shall continue to make such payments until, in accordance with paragraph 6 of this schedule, they decide whether any further compensation is payable to him under these regulations.

5.—(1) Interim compensation shall be payable as from the date of claim, and shall be at a rate not exceeding two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant has lost, less two-thirds of any unemployment benefit to which the claimant may be entitled, and less any sum to which the claimant may be entitled by way of compensation under the Re-instatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944.

(2) In determining the amount of interim compensation, the compensating authority shall have regard to any payments to which the claimant becomes entitled in consequence of the loss of his employment under any contract or arrangement with the authority or body by whom he was employed (other than payments by way of a return of contributions under a pension scheme).

(3) The payments shall be made at intervals equivalent to those at which the said emoluments were previously payable, and the payments shall be reduced or terminated if the claimant obtains other employment or the compensating authority are satisfied that he is not actively seeking employment or has unreasonably refused suitable employment which has been offered to him.

(4) If the claimant obtains other employment, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(5) The compensating authority may require, as a condition of making or continuing to make interim payments, that the claimant should be registered for employment at an Employment Exchange, or the Appointments Department of the Ministry of Labour and National Service, at the option of the claimant.

B. Assessment of Compensation

6. Having determined the amount of the interim payments (if any) to be made under the preceding provisions of this schedule to a claimant whose claim has been accepted, the compensating authority shall, within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim, assess the just amount (if any) of the compensation payable under the succeeding provisions of this schedule, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

7.—(1) The compensating authority shall, within a period of two years after the date on which any decision is notified to a claimant under paragraph 6 of this schedule, or if the claimant has referred any such decision to the tribunal under regulation 17 within a period of two years after the date of the decision of the tribunal, review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, at intervals of not more than six months, and on any review the compensating authority may, in the light of any material change in the circumstances of the case, award compensation or increase or reduce the amount of any compensation awarded.

(2) If the claimant obtains other employment within the said period of two years, he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(3) A claimant to whom a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule has been notified may, within the like period as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, require the compensating authority to review their decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, if he considers that there has been a material change in the circumstances of his case.

(4) The compensating authority shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision on any review under the preceding provisions of this paragraph, and if the claimant is aggrieved by such decision he may refer the matter to the tribunal within three months after the date on which he receives notice of the decision, and the tribunal shall determine any matter so referred, and the compensating authority shall give effect to the determination of the tribunal.

Compensation payable, subject to earlier cesser in certain cases, until normal retiring age

8. For the purpose of determining whether any compensation, apart from any interim compensation paid under paragraphs 4 and 5 of this schedule, is payable to any person for loss of employment, and if so the amount of the compensation to be paid, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, the compensating authority shall have regard to—

(a) the conditions upon which his appointment was made ;
(b) the nature of his office ;
(c) the extent to which he has sought suitable alternative employment ; and
(d) all the other circumstances of the case.

9.—(1) Compensation for loss of employment shall be an annual sum, calculated in accordance with the provisions of sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, and shall be payable, subject to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, until normal retiring age, as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case, as from the date on which the claim was made or from such earlier date, not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

(2) The said annual sum shall, subject as hereinafter provided, be the aggregate of the following sums, namely—

(a) for every completed year of the claimant's service, one-sixtieth of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost ; and
(b) in the case of a claimant over the age of forty-five years at the date of loss, a further one-sixtieth of the said net emoluments for every completed year of service since he attained the age of forty-five :

Provided that—

(i) where the claimant has undertaken or obtained other work or employment in place of the employment he has lost or has been offered other suitable employment, the said annual sum shall be calculated by reference only to the amount (if any) by which the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the annual rate of the emoluments of the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered to him as aforesaid ;

(ii) if the said annual sum is required to be calculated in accordance with proviso (i) to this sub-paragraph, it shall be reduced or increased by such amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit, having regard to the relative security of tenure of the employment lost and the work or employment undertaken, obtained or offered as aforesaid, so however that the said annual sum shall not by virtue of any such increase as aforesaid be greater than if it were calculated without reference to proviso (i) and this proviso ;

(iii) the said annual sum shall also be reduced by such an amount (if any) as the compensating authority think fit having regard to the matters to which they are required to have regard by the last preceding paragraph and to any compensation payable to the claimant under the

Re-instatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944, or under or in pursuance of any other enactment ; and

(iv) the said annual sum shall in no case exceed two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant has lost.

10. There shall be deducted from any payments made under paragraph 9 of this schedule in respect of any period in respect of which interim payments have been made under paragraphs 4 and 5 the amount of such payments, so far as they do not exceed the payments due under paragraph 9 in respect of that period.

Compensation payable to pensionable officer on his becoming incapacitated or reaching pensionable age

11.—(1) If the claimant was a pensionable officer, and before attaining normal retiring age—

(a) he becomes incapacitated in circumstances in which if he had continued in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment ; or

(b) he attains an age at which had he continued to serve in the employment he has lost he would have become entitled to retire with a pension on the ground of having attained that age and completed a prescribed period of service, and compensation is not then payable to him under these regulations, or compensation by way of an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension or his accrued pension, as the case may be, together with the annual value of his accrued retiring allowance (if any), would be greater than the annual amount of any compensation to which he may then be entitled under these regulations, he shall be entitled, if he so requests at any time thereafter by notice in writing to the compensating authority, as from the date on which the compensating authority receive such notice, in lieu of any compensation to which he would otherwise be entitled under these regulations—

(i) in the case mentioned in head (a) of this sub-paragraph, to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) ; and

(ii) in the case mentioned in head (b) of this sub-paragraph, to an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension and a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any) :

Provided that if in calculating the amount of compensation payable to a person who has given such notice as aforesaid, the compensating authority, by virtue of paragraph 20 of this schedule, have credited him with additional years of service or contributions, no account shall be taken for the purpose of the foregoing provision of any number of such additional years beyond the number of years which he could have served, had he not lost his employment, before the date on which such notice as aforesaid was received by the compensating authority.

(2) On receipt of a notice under the last preceding sub-paragraph, the compensating authority shall consider forthwith whether the person giving the notice is a person to whom that sub-paragraph applies, and within three months after the date of the receipt of the notice—

(a) if they are satisfied that he is not such a person, they shall notify him in writing accordingly ; and

(b) if they accept the notice, they shall assess the amount of compensation payable to the person and notify him in writing accordingly,

and any such notification shall, for the purposes of these regulations, be deemed to be a notification by the authority of a decision on a claim to compensation.

(3) A compensating authority may require any such person as is mentioned in head (a) of sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, who gives a notice under that sub-paragraph, to submit himself to a medical examination by a registered medical practitioner selected by that authority, and, if they do so, they shall also offer the person an opportunity of submitting a report from his own medical adviser as a result of an examination by him, and the authority shall take that report into consideration, together with the report of the medical practitioner selected by them.

Compensation payable to a pensionable officer on attainment of normal retiring age

12. Subject as hereinafter provided, the compensation payable to a claimant who was a pensionable officer (not being a person to whom paragraph 11 has been applied) on his attaining normal retiring age shall be—

(a) an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension ; and (b) a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance (if any).

Supplementary provisions as to compensation payable to pensionable officer

13.—(1) Where a claimant, after suffering loss of employment, enters employment in which he participates in the benefits of the pension scheme associated with the employment he has lost, or becomes entitled to participate in any other pension scheme, in circumstances in which he is entitled to reckon for the purposes thereof service which falls to be taken into account for the purpose of assessing compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, no compensation under either of those paragraphs shall be payable unless the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments of the employment he has lost exceeds the amount of the annual rate of the emoluments to which he becomes entitled on entering such employment as aforesaid by more than 5 per cent. of the first-mentioned amount, and any compensation payable thereunder shall be calculated by reference only to the amount of the difference.

(2) If a claimant has unreasonably refused a suitable offer of such employment as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph, he shall be deemed for the purposes of that sub-paragraph to have entered the employment so offered to him.

14. The provisions of paragraphs 11 and 12 of this schedule shall not apply to a person who has been participating in a scheme for providing superannuation benefits by means of contracts or policies of insurance, and who, on losing his employment, continued to participate in that scheme, or became entitled to a benefit or prospective benefit thereunder other than a return of contributions.

15.—(1) If the claimant was a person in respect of whose service a widow's pension might have become payable under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority by notice in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of widow's pension, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to the person who as his widow might have become entitled to such widow's pension as aforesaid in the event of her surviving him—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled had he, immediately before he died, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme on grounds of ill-health of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued incapacity pension, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 17 ; and
(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age, or after giving notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of an annual sum equal to the amount of the pension to which she would have become entitled in accordance with the method of calculation prescribed by the pension scheme had he, at the date on which he attained normal retiring age, or gave the said notice, become entitled to a pension under the pension scheme of an amount equal to the amount of his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, as the case may be, less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and any part thereof surrendered under the provisions of paragraph 17.

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the annual sum payable to a widow under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 20 of this schedule :

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

(3) Any sum payable to a widow under this paragraph shall cease to be payable or shall be suspended in any circumstances in which a widow's pension under the aforesaid pension scheme would have ceased to be payable or would have been suspended.

16. If under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, the claimant would have been entitled to surrender a proportion of any pension which might have become payable to him in favour of his spouse or any dependent, then, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority in writing accordingly within one month after becoming entitled to compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule, he may surrender a proportion of so much of the said compensation as is payable by way of an annual sum on the like terms and conditions and in consideration of the like payments by the compensating authority as if the said annual sum were a pension to which he had become entitled under the said pension scheme.

17.—(1) If the claimant was a person in respect of whose service a death benefit might have become payable to his legal personal representatives under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, then, if he so desires, and informs the compensating authority in writing accordingly when making his claim, he may surrender so much of any annual sum which may become payable to him as compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule as represents the annual value of the contingent right in respect of the said benefit, in consideration of the payment by the compensating authority to his legal personal representatives—

(a) if he dies before attaining normal retiring age, and without having given a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum equal to the amount of any death benefit which would have become payable in accordance with the method of calculation, as modified by the next succeeding paragraph, prescribed by the pension scheme to which he was last subject before losing his employment, had he died immediately before the date on which he lost his employment and complied with any requirement of the said scheme as to a minimum period of qualifying service ; or

(b) if he dies on or after attaining normal retiring age or after giving a notice pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 11 of this schedule, of a sum equal to the amount of any such death benefit as aforesaid, less a sum equal to the aggregate amount of any payments made to him by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule.

(2) In the calculation of the amount of the sum payable under the preceding sub-paragraph, account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited to the claimant under paragraph 20 of this schedule :

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond the number of years which the claimant could have served before his death had he not lost his employment.

18. For the purposes of these regulations—

(a) the amount of any accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension, if the number of years of service by reference to which the pension is to be calculated is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme, shall, notwithstanding any minimum benefit prescribed by the pension scheme, not exceed such proportion of such minimum benefit as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service ; and

(b) if the amount of any death benefit falls to be ascertained, by virtue of any pension scheme, wholly or partly by reference to the emoluments or average emoluments of a pensionable officer, and the number of years of his pensionable service is less than any minimum number of years of qualifying service prescribed by the pension scheme for the receipt of a death benefit, the said amount shall not exceed such proportion of the emoluments or average emoluments of the officer as the number of years of pensionable service bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service.

19. If under the pension scheme to which the claimant was last subject before suffering loss of employment the amount of any pension to which he might have become entitled might have been increased at the discretion of the authority administering the pension scheme or of any other body or if under the said pension scheme any additional or supplementary payments might have been made to the claimant on his becoming entitled to a pension, the compensating authority may increase the compensation payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule by an annual sum not exceeding the amount by which his accrued incapacity pension on accrued pension might have been increased or the annual value of the payments which might have been made to him by way of addition to or supplementation of his accrued pension.

20. If the claimant had attained the age of forty years at the date on which he lost his employment, the compensating authority in calculating the amount of the compensation payable to him under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may credit him with additional years of service or additional contributions not exceeding one year of service or one year's contributions for each completed year between the date on which he attained the age of forty years and the date on which he lost his employment, but not in any case exceeding ten years or such number of years as the claimant could have served had he continued in his employment until attaining normal retiring age, whichever is the less.

21. In deciding whether to add any number of years under the last preceding paragraph, the compensating authority shall have regard to the considerations set out in paragraph 8 of this schedule, and also to the claimant's rights under any pension scheme associated with any employment which he may have obtained in place of the employment he has lost.

22.—(1) If the claimant was such an officer as is mentioned in paragraph 14 of this schedule, the compensating authority may make such payments to or in respect of him, whether by way of the payment of premiums or otherwise, as are actuarially equivalent to the compensation which could have become payable to him by virtue of paragraph 19 or 20 of this schedule if he had been a person to whom paragraph 11 or 12 applied.

(2) If the claimant is such an officer as aforesaid, and he becomes entitled to a benefit under such a scheme as is mentioned in paragraph 14 of this schedule before reaching normal retiring age, the compensating authority may reduce any compensation payable to him under paragraph 9 of this schedule accordingly.

23.—(1) Compensation shall not be payable or shall cease to be payable under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule to a person who has received any sum by way of a return of contributions under the pension scheme to which he was last subject on his ceasing to be subject thereto, unless forthwith on receiving such sum he pays to the compensating authority an amount equivalent thereto, such amount to be held by the compensating authority subject to the condition that if the pension scheme made no provision for death benefit and he dies before he has received in the aggregate by way of compensation under paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule a sum equal to the amount so paid as aforesaid to the compensating authority, together with compound interest thereon, calculated at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, with half-yearly rests, up to the date of his death, as from the first day of April or the first day of October following the half year in which the amount was paid, there shall be paid to his legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount received by way of compensation and the said sum:

Provided that—

(a) if a sum becomes payable to his widow on his death under paragraph 15 of this schedule and on her re-marriage or death the sum ceases to be payable, and the aggregate amount of the payments which were made to her or her husband under these regulations is less than a sum equal to the amount so paid to the compensating authority by her husband as aforesaid on account of contributions, after the addition thereto of interest thereon as aforesaid, there shall be paid to her or to her legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount of the payments made to her or her husband as aforesaid and the said sum ;

(b) this paragraph shall not apply to a person to whom paragraph 13 of this schedule applies, and in the event of a claimant becoming such a person after having made a payment under this paragraph, the amount of the sum so paid shall be returned to him by the compensating authority ; and

(c) this paragraph shall not apply to a person who has been an officer on war service to whom regulation 20 applies, and who received a return of contributions before ceasing to be engaged in war service.

(2) A person to whom paragraph 11 or 12 of this schedule may become applicable shall on or before the date on which compensation may become payable to him thereunder be entitled, if he so desires and informs the compensating authority in writing accordingly, to receive from the compensating authority in lieu of any such compensation—

(a) if the person has paid any sum to the compensating authority under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, an amount equivalent thereto, together with interest thereon, calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme as from the date of payment of the said sum ; and

(b) if the person has not received a return of contributions under the pension scheme, and if, being entitled to such a return he has relinquished that right, an amount equivalent to the amount of such contributions together with interest thereon, calculated in manner provided by the pension scheme ;

and any liability of the compensating authority under paragraph 15 or 17 of this schedule shall cease in the event of his giving such notice as aforesaid.

Compensation payable to non-pensionable officer after attainment of normal retiring age

24.—(1) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer, the compensating authority may, on his attaining normal retiring age, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a substantial period beyond that age, continue to pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half its former rate.

(2) If the claimant was not a pensionable officer and suffers loss of employment on or after attaining normal retiring age, the compensating authority may, if they are satisfied that he would in the normal course have continued in the employment he has lost for a further substantial period, pay compensation to him for the remainder of his life at half the rate to which he would have been entitled under paragraph 9 of this schedule had he not attained normal retiring age at the date on which he lost his employment.

III. COMPENSATION FOR DIMINUTION OF EMOLUMENTS

25. On receipt of a claim for compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment the compensating authority shall within a period of three months after the date of receipt of the claim decide whether any compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, and shall forthwith notify the claimant in writing of their decision.

26. A decision under the last preceding paragraph shall be subject to review in like manner as a decision under paragraph 6 of this schedule :

Provided that—

(a) no review shall take place after the date on which the claimant loses that employment, except a review as at that date ; and

(b) while the claimant continues to hold that employment, there shall be no limit to the period within which a review may take place.

27. In determining whether compensation is payable and, if so, the amount of that compensation, the compensating authority shall have regard to the conditions upon which the claimant's appointment was made, the nature of his office, and all the other circumstances of the case. No compensation shall be payable where the diminution is less than 5 per cent. of the net emoluments of the claimant.

28. Compensation for diminution of emoluments shall be an annual sum payable as from the date of loss, if the claim was made within three months thereafter, and in any other case as from the date on which the claim was made, or from such earlier date, not being more than three months before the date on which the claim was made, as the compensating authority may in their discretion allow.

29. Compensation to a person for diminution of the emoluments of any employment shall be payable for the same period or periods as compensation for loss of employment and shall not during any period exceed a sum bearing the same proportion to the maximum amount of compensation which could have been awarded in respect of that period had he lost his employment as the amount by which his net emoluments are diminished bears to their amount before diminution :

Provided that the compensation shall cease if the person voluntarily relinquishes his employment without the consent of his employer otherwise than on reaching pensionable age.

30. A person entitled to compensation for diminution of emoluments shall have the like rights in relation to such compensation as are conferred by paragraphs 15, 16 and 17 upon a person entitled to compensation for loss of employment.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS

31.—(1) A notification of a decision by a compensating authority to a claimant for compensation under these regulations shall contain a statement directing the attention of the claimant to his right, if he is aggrieved by the decision, to refer the matter to the tribunal, and giving him the address of the office to which the reference should be sent.

(2) The proceedings on any reference under these regulations to the tribunal shall not be deemed to be an arbitration to which anything in the Arbitration Acts, 1889 to 1934, applies.

(3) On any such reference the tribunal may, if it thinks fit, appoint a person having special knowledge or experience in relation to the subject matter of the reference to sit with the tribunal as an assessor.

32. For the purpose of determining the amount of any compensation payable in respect of the loss of a whole-time office or of any two or more offices which in the aggregate involved the whole-time employment of an officer, any previous period of part-time employment shall be treated as though it were whole-time employment for a proportionately reduced period.

33. For the purpose of making any calculation under these regulations in respect of the service of an officer all periods of his service shall be aggregated, and if the aggregated service includes a fraction of a year, that fraction shall, if it equals or exceeds six months, be treated as a year, and in any other case be disregarded.

34. If in determining the amount of any compensation payable to a person under these regulations account is taken of any employment prior to the first world war and that person was temporarily absent from that employment during that war whilst serving in His Majesty's Forces or the Forces of the Allied or Associated Powers, either compulsorily or with the sanction or permission of the authority in whose employment he was immediately before such temporary absence, such period of temporary absence shall be reckoned as a period of service :

Provided that, in the case of a person who after the 11th day of November, 1918, voluntarily extended his term of service in such Forces, no period of absence during any such extension shall be reckoned.

35.—(1) Where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of the employment he has lost otherwise than on losing such employment or where a person to whom compensation is payable under these regulations for loss of employment or diminution of emoluments has become or becomes entitled to a pension in respect of any employment the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and in calculating the amount of such pension account is taken of any service which was taken into account in calculating the compensation payable, then, if the compensation does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the compensation shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(2) Where a claimant's widow to whom an annual sum is payable under paragraph 15 or 30 of this schedule has become or becomes entitled to a widow's pension in respect of any employment of her husband the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and any part of such widow's pension is attributable to service of her husband of which account was taken in calculating his accrued pension or accrued incapacity pension by reference to which the said annual sum was calculated, then if the said annual sum does not exceed such part of the pension as is attributable solely to that service, the said annual sum shall cease to be payable, and if it exceeds such part of the pension as aforesaid, it shall be reduced by an amount equal to that part.

(3) Where a claimant's legal personal representatives to whom a sum is payable on the claimant's death under paragraph 17 or 30 of this schedule have become entitled to receive a death benefit under a pension scheme associated with any employment of the claimant the remuneration of which was payable out of public funds and which he had obtained in place of the employment he had lost or in place of or in addition to the employment the emoluments of which were diminished, and as one of the factors in the calculation of the amount of such benefit account fell to be taken of any service which fell to be taken into account as one of the factors in the calculation of the said sum, the said sum shall be reduced by an amount equal to such proportion of the amount of the death benefit as the number of years of the said service bears to the total number of years of service of which account fell to be taken as aforesaid in the calculation of the death benefit.

(4) Where any compensation, annual sum or lump sum is reduced in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, such compensation, annual sum or lump sum shall be further reduced by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any additional years of service or contributions credited in accordance with paragraph 20 of this schedule and by an amount equal to such part thereof (if any) as is attributable to any minimum benefit prescribed by a pension scheme.

(5) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person in whose case paragraph 13 of this schedule has been applied, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit to which the person, his widow or his legal personal representatives have become or become entitled as aforesaid is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments to which the person became entitled on entering the employment referred to in that paragraph.

(6) This paragraph shall not apply to or in respect of a person to whom compensation is or was payable for diminution of emoluments and who has become entitled to a pension in respect of employment which he had obtained in place of the employment the emoluments of which were diminished or whose widow has become entitled to a widow's pension or whose legal personal representatives have become entitled to a death benefit in respect of such employment, except to the extent to which the amount of the pension, widow's pension or death benefit is attributable to annual emoluments of a greater amount than the amount of the annual emoluments of the person's former employment after their diminution.

36.—(1) If a person receiving compensation for loss of employment obtains other employment in place of the employment he has lost and the remuneration thereof is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation in respect of such loss than would make up the amount (if any) by which the net emoluments

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the employment he has lost.

(2) If a person receiving compensation for diminution of the emoluments of any employment loses that employment in circumstances in which he does not become entitled to compensation in respect of that loss and thereupon or thereafter he obtains in place of that employment other employment the remuneration of which is payable out of public funds, he shall not, so long as he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any greater sum by way of compensation than would make up the amount (if any) by which the net emoluments of that employment fall short of the net emoluments of the former employment before diminution.

37.—(1) If a person becomes subject to the provisions of either of the two last preceding paragraphs he shall immediately notify the compensating authority in writing accordingly.

(2) A person who has become subject to the provisions of the last preceding paragraph shall also notify the compensating authority in writing of any increase in the remuneration of the employment he has obtained in place of the employment he lost.

38.—(1) Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this schedule, if the annual sum which has been or might be awarded under those provisions does not exceed twenty-six pounds, the compensating authority may at their discretion discharge their liability in respect thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of the annual sum, and if any lump sum has been or might be awarded in addition to such annual sum under the provisions of paragraph 12 of this schedule, the compensating authority may likewise discharge their liability in respect thereof by an immediate lump sum payment.

(2) If the annual sum which has been or might be so awarded exceeds twenty-six pounds and the claimant is not entitled to any lump sum in respect of accrued retiring allowance under these regulations, the compensating authority, if so requested by the claimant, may discharge their liability in respect of one quarter thereof by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of one quarter of the annual sum :

Provided that if the remaining three-quarters thereof does not exceed twenty-six pounds the compensating authority may discharge their liability as aforesaid in respect of the whole of the said sum.

(3) Any lump sum payable under the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall be of such amount as shall be certified by an actuary to be appropriate. [4756]

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport. Paragraph numbers refer to the Schedule.)

These Regulations provide for the transfer to local planning authorities for the purposes of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947 (normally county or county borough councils), of property held and liabilities incurred for planning purposes before the coming into force of the Act by county district councils and joint planning committees which bodies will cease to be local planning authorities on the appointed day (1st July, 1948). Officers of these bodies who were in whole-time employment on planning business are also transferred by the regulations to the employment of the new local planning authorities.

The regulations also provide machinery for compensating persons who lose employment or remuneration as a result of the transfer of functions effected by the Act, similar to the machinery set up for the purposes of the National Health Service Act, 1946. A claimant must have served for at least eight years in central or local government employment (see definition of " existing officer " in regulation 14). If he has not refused a reasonably comparable office offered by a local planning authority to which he has been transferred (regulation 16) or made good his loss by obtaining other employment (paragraph 4) he will be eligible for "interim" payments of two-thirds of his net emoluments, with deductions if he gets other employment or unemployment benefit, for a period of up to three months (paragraphs 4 and 5). During this period his claim will be assessed. He will be expected to look for and take other suitable employment (paragraphs 5 (5) and 8). Compensation will be payable to him up to normal retiring age, and will be an annual sum based on a percentage of his net emoluments and the length of his service. The amount will be adjusted, in the light of the circumstances of the case, regard being had to any other emoluments which have or could have been obtained and the other factors mentioned in paragraphs 8 and 9. The award will be subject to review for a period of two years. If pensionable in his old employment, he will have a right to a payment equivalent to his accrued pension rights as from the age at which he would have retired, and in this payment account will be taken of any rights that may have existed under the pension scheme in respect of widow's pension, death benefit or incapacity pension (paragraphs 11, 12, 15, 16 and 17). For persons over 40, an addition may be made in recognition of their loss of future pensionable service (paragraph 20).

If the claimant was not pensionable, compensation will cease at normal retiring age unless he had expected to continue for a substantial period thereafter, in which case he will receive compensation after that age, for life, at half the rate he was getting up to that age (paragraph 24). Overlap with pension or remuneration from public funds is avoided (paragraphs 13, 35 and 36). A claimant who is aggrieved by a decision of a compensating authority may appeal to referees appointed by the Minister of Labour and National Service after consultation with the Lord Chancellor (regulation 17).

June 30, 1948

The Minister of Town and Country Planning in exercise of the powers conferred on him by Section 82 (1) (c) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, and all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following regulations:—

1.—(1) These regulations may be cited as the Town and Country Planning (Local Authorities' Land: Exceptions to Section 82) Regulations, 1948, and shall come into force on the appointed day.*

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(3) In these regulations—

(a) "the Act" means the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947; and "the appointed day" means the day appointed for the coming into force of the Act;

* See S.I. 1948 No. 213.

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they

(b) "land held for commercial purposes" means land held for the purpose of any activity (including restaurants, theatres, concert-halls, holiday camps and airfields) with the intention of making profit therefrom, whether that intention is the main object of that activity or not. [4803]

2. The following classes of land shall be excepted from the provisions of Section 82 of the Act :—

(1) Land held for commercial purposes.
(2) Land held solely or mainly for the revenue derived therefrom.
(3) Land held for industrial estates.
(4) Land held by local highway authorities for working and winning minerals for highway purposes.
(5) Land acquired by a local authority—

(a) before the appointed day in pursuance of a notice to treat served after the passing of the Act, or in pursuance of a contract (not being a contract which excludes the application of sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 91 of the Act) made after the passing of the Act ;

(b) on or after the appointed day in pursuance of a notice to treat served or a contract made after the passing of the Act ; and not for the time being developed by that authority.

Provided that classes (1) to (4) shall not include the following land :—

(i) land acquired by a local authority—

(a) in pursuance of a notice to treat served, or a contract made, before the passing of the Act ; or

(b) before the appointed day in pursuance of a contract made after the passing of the Act, being a contract which excludes the application of subsections (2) and (3) of Section 91 of the Act ;

under an express statutory power to acquire land for the benefit of the area of the local authority, or for development or recoupment or other general purposes not more particularly identified (including land acquired for the improvement or development of frontages under Section 83 of the Public Health Act, 1925) which is for the time being not developed by that authority or appropriated to any more particular purpose ;

(ii) land held for the purpose of any enactment relating to housing ;
(iii) land held for the purpose of—a gymnasium, public library, museum or art gallery ; a cemetery, burial ground, crematorium or mortuary ; the burial of carcases. [4804]

* * * * *

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of these Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

By section 82 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, land held at the appointed day (1st July, 1948) by a local authority for the purposes of their functions is excluded from the provisions of Part VI of the Act and no development charge is payable if the land is developed or if it is appropriated or sold or leased for another purpose with a planning permission. Where land held by a local authority at any time for the purposes of their functions is compulsorily acquired from that authority the compensation on such acquisition is to be assessed on the basis that no development charge would be payable for any development by which the use of the land is made to correspond with the generally prevailing use of contiguous or adjacent land.

Certain land is excepted from the benefit of this section, including land of any class excepted by these regulations.

Class (5) refers to land which a local authority has acquired at restricted value and which is not developed by that authority. The object of taking it out of this section is that upon any compulsory acquisition from that authority, the latter (having acquired it at restricted value) shall not reap the benefit of "prevailing use value" referred to above.

On the other hand the effect of the proviso is that the land therein mentioned (all of which will have been acquired at unrestricted value) falls back into the section and is thus excluded both from a claim under Part VI and from a development charge.

Provided that an enforcement notice shall not be served by virtue of the provisions of this Section in respect of any works or use (not being works or a use carried out or begun during the war period as defined by the Building Restrictions (War-Time Contraventions) Act, 1946) at any time after three years from the appointed day.

In this Section the expression "building law" means any restriction in force before the appointed day by virtue of Section 1 or Section 2 of the Restriction of Ribbon Development Act, 1935.

(2) Where any such works as aforesaid were carried out, or any such use as aforesaid was begun, during the war period as defined by the Building Restrictions (War-Time Contraventions) Act, 1946, then—

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of these Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

Section 75 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, provides for the application of the enforcement provisions contained in Part III of that Act to breaches, occurring before the appointed day, of previous planning control under the Town and Country Planning Acts of 1932 and 1943, which are repealed. These Regulations adapt the provisions of that Section so as to make it applicable to breaches, occurring before the appointed day, of the control exercised by highway authorities under Sections 1 and 2 of the Restriction of Ribbon Development Act, 1935, which are also repealed. The power of enforcement is given by the Regulations to local planning authorities, as if the restrictions imposed by that Act were part of previous planning control (Regulation 3).

The Building Restrictions (War-Time Contraventions) Act, 1946, confers on authorities responsible for enforcing building laws or planning control power to sanction war-time non-compliance with such laws or control, and certain other powers. Regulation 4 of these Regulations makes necessary amendments in this Act in order to apply its provisions to the enforcement machinery created by Regulation 3, in substantially the same manner as it formerly applied to the enforcement of the repealed sections of the Restriction of Ribbon Development Act, 1935.

May 13, 1948

The Minister of Town and Country Planning (hereinafter called "the Minister") in exercise of the powers conferred on him by Sections 81 (1) and 111 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf hereby with the consent of the Treasury makes the following Regulations.

PART I

(2) In these Regulations—

(a) "the Act" means the "Town and Country Planning Act, 1947";

(b) "mining operations" means the winning and working of minerals in, on or under land, whether by surface or underground working, and "mineral undertaker" means any person engaged in mining operations;

PART II

Adaptations and modifications of the Act

2. In relation to development consisting of the winning and working of minerals, the provisions of the Act shall have effect subject to the adaptations and modifications prescribed by the following Regulations. [4810]

3.—(1) For the purposes of the Act, "use" in relation to land does not include the use of land by the carrying out of mining operations, provided that in the following provisions of the Act, viz., subsection (2) (b) of Section 14, subsections (2) and (3) of Section 23, subsection (3) of Section 24, and subsection (2) of Section 72 references to the use of land shall include the carrying out of mining operations and references to the continuance or discontinuance of a use of land shall include the continuance or discontinuance of mining operations.

(2) Subsection (1) of Section 22 of the Act (which provides for the payment of compensation in the event of a revocation or modification of permission to develop) shall have effect subject to the following modifications :—

(a) The compensation awarded under that subsection shall not include compensation for loss of minerals the winning and working of which has been prevented by the revocation or modification of the permission referred to in that subsection, but the claimant shall be at liberty to prove that any sum paid by him in respect of development charge (or any part of such sum) is expenditure which has been rendered abortive by the revocation or modification and is not otherwise recoverable and thereupon compensation shall be payable in respect of that expenditure ; but save as aforesaid the proviso to the said subsection shall apply as if (a) and (b) of the proviso to that subsection had not been excepted therefrom.

(b) A claim for expenditure or loss shall not be entertained under that subsection in respect of buildings plant or machinery unless the claimant can prove that he is unable to use such buildings plant or machinery or (as the case may be) to use them except at the loss claimed and for this purpose the arbitrator may give directions that such claim be severed from the remainder of the claim and be dealt with at such later date as may be fixed by the arbitrator either in such directions or subsequently on application by either party.

(3) Where minerals have been won and worked after the appointed day in breach of any condition subject to which the permission to develop was granted, an enforcement notice in respect of that breach may be served under Section 23 of the Act at any time within four years after the breach has come to the knowledge of the local planning authority. [4811]

4.—(1) Where at the appointed day a mineral undertaker has any interest in land which entitles him (whether subject to the consent of another person or not) to win and work the minerals therein (or has a right to acquire such an interest), no development charge shall be payable in respect of the winning and working of minerals in that land during the period of three years from the appointed day.

(2) The restricted and unrestricted values of an interest in any such land as aforesaid shall be calculated for the purposes of Part VI of the Act as if any operations carried out for the winning and working of minerals therein during the period referred to in the preceding paragraph had been carried out before the appointed day ; provided that it shall not be assumed that any other operations would have been advanced thereby, and in all other respects the value shall be calculated as if this Regulation had not been made.

(3) No claim for compensation on compulsory acquisition of land or on the revocation or modification of any permission to develop land shall be increased by reason of the provisions of this Regulation. [4812]

5. In assessing compensation under Section 51 of the Act for the compulsory acquisition of an interest in any land in respect of which a planning permission to win and work minerals is in force at the date of the notice to treat—

(a) any sum (or any part of a sum) which has been paid under Part VII of the Act by way of development charge in respect of that permission shall, if it can be shown that it is expenditure which has been rendered abortive by the acquisition of the interest and that it is not otherwise recoverable, be recoverable by way of compensation;

(b) for the purpose of assessing the value of any buildings, plant or machinery on the land regard shall be had to that permission;

(c) in so far as that permission has diminished the value of the surface of the land by rendering it liable to subsidence or otherwise, regard shall be had to that diminution;

but save as aforesaid the value of the interest to which the notice to treat relates shall (notwithstanding that any sum has been paid under Part VII of the Act as mentioned in (a) of subsection (4) of the said Section, or that no such charge as is mentioned in (b) of that subsection is payable) be calculated as if the said permission had not been granted. [4813]

6. Subsection (3) of Section 60 of the Act (which provides that a claim for a payment under the Treasury Scheme referred to in Part VI of the Act may be made in respect of any interest in land being an interest in fee simple or a leasehold interest as defined by the Act) shall have effect as if the interests therein specified included an interest in land under a mining lease as defined by the Act. [4814]

7. For the purposes of Section 61 of the Act (which provides for the ascertainment of development values of land) in calculating the restricted and unrestricted values of an interest in any land used for the purpose of winning and working minerals regard shall be had to any increase in the value of the interest arising from the presence of any buildings plant and machinery used for such purpose but the value of the buildings plant and machinery as such shall be excluded. [4815]

8.—(1) Without prejudice to anything contained in Section 71 of the Act the Central Land Board may, after taking into account any representations made by the applicant, calculate the amount (or any part of the amount) of the development charge payable under Part VII of the Act in respect of any development consisting of the winning and working of minerals by reference to the amount of minerals got from time to time, and for this purpose the amount of minerals got may be measured by reference to the amount of the manufactured article produced or by any other method recognised as appropriate to the type of minerals concerned.

(2) The Central Land Board may require the mineral undertaker to furnish in such form as the Board may prescribe such periodical returns and other information (including an auditor's certificate) as may be necessary in order to ensure that payment is made in accordance with the Board's determination of the development charge and the Board may, in any case where a mineral undertaker neglects to furnish any such information as aforesaid to their satisfaction, require the mineral undertaker to permit such examination of his books and accounts as may be necessary for the said purpose.

(3) Information obtained by the Board under the preceding paragraph shall be treated as confidential by the Board and the Minister. [4816]

9.—(1) Where a development charge is payable under Part VII of the Act in respect of the winning and working of minerals comprised in a mining lease which was in force on the appointed day, the royalty or other payment required to be made under the lease may be varied by the tribunal prescribed by paragraph (4) of this Regulation so far as may be just having regard to the amount of the development charge.

(2) Where a development charge is payable under the said Part VII in respect of the winning and working of minerals authorised by an Order made under Part I of the Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923, the provisions of the Order may be varied by the Railway and Canal Commission so far as may be just having regard to the amount of the development charge.

(3) The powers of the tribunal under paragraph (1) and of the Railway and Canal Commission under paragraph (2) of this Regulation may, with the consent of the appropriate authority, be exercised in relation to any interest of the Crown in Crown land.

(4) The tribunal referred to in paragraph (1) of this Regulation shall consist of a member or members of the panel constituted under Part I of the Schedule to these Regulations, being a member or members selected in accordance with the provisions of Part II of that Schedule, and the provisions of Part III of that Schedule shall have effect in relation to any reference to that tribunal under the provisions of this Regulation. [4817]

10.—(1) Where an application is made under Part III of the Act, or is treated as having been so made—

(a) for permission to carry out such mining operations as are mentioned in paragraph 1 of Class XIX of the First Schedule to the Town and Country Planning (General Development) Order, 1948, and the application is made, or is treated as having been made, within the period specified in that paragraph; or

(b) for permission to resume any mining operations by an undertaker who suspended such operations—

(i) at any time during the war period in consequence of any arrangement for the concentration of production approved, or in consequence of any order for that purpose made, by a Government department in the exercise or purported exercise of emergency powers;

(ii) at any time since the seventh day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty-seven, in the normal course of his operations, where such suspension was ordinarily incidental to the particular class of mining operations in which he is engaged;

Section 79 of the Act (which provides for compensation for abortive expenditure on refusal of permission for certain development authorised before the appointed day) shall apply as if the operations in respect of which the application is made, or is treated as having been made, were buildings or works to which that Section applies and as if the reference in paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of that Section to expenditure in carrying out work which is rendered abortive included expenditure or loss in respect of buildings plant and machinery required for the purposes of the said mining operations:

Provided that a claim for expenditure or loss in respect of buildings plant and machinery shall be subject to the provisions set out in Regulation 3 (2) (b) of these Regulations.

(2) In this Regulation—

(a) the expression "the war period" means the period beginning with the third day of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine and ending with the twenty-sixth day of February, nineteen hundred and forty-six;

(b) the expression "emergency powers" means powers conferred by Defence Regulations. [4818]

PART II

General Provisions

Control of advertisements to be exercised in the interests of amenity and public safety

4.—(1) The powers conferred by these Regulations with respect to the grant or refusal of consent for the display of advertisements, and to the revocation or modification of such consent, shall be exercisable only in the interests of amenity and public safety.

(2) When exercising such powers a local planning authority,

(a) shall, in the interests of amenity, determine the suitability of the use of a site for the display of advertisements in the light of the general characteristics of the locality, including the presence therein of any feature of historic, architectural, cultural or similar interest; and when assessing the general characteristics of a locality the authority may disregard any advertisements therein being displayed;

(b) shall, in the interests of public safety, have regard to the safety of persons who may use any road, railway, inland waterway, dock, harbour or airfield affected or likely to be affected by any display of advertisements; and shall in particular consider whether any such display is likely to obscure, or hinder the ready interpretation of, any road traffic sign, railway signal, or signal for the control or safety of navigation by water or air;

but without prejudice to their power to have regard to any other material factor.

(3) In the determination of an application for consent for the display of advertisements (other than an application pursuant to a notice served under Regulation 8 of these Regulations with respect to an advertisement of a specified class), or where the revocation or modification of a consent is under consideration, regard may be had to any material change in circumstances likely to occur within the period for which the consent is required or granted.

It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-

(4) Save as hereinafter provided, and subject to the provisions of these Regulations, express consent for the display of advertisements shall not contain any limitation or restriction relating to any particular subject matter or class of subject matter or to the consent or design of any subject matter to be displayed, but shall take effect as consent to the use of a site for the purpose of displaying advertisements in the manner authorised by the consent whether by the erection of structures on the site or otherwise as the case may be :

Provided that where an application for consent relates to the display of a particular advertisement the local planning authority may have regard to the effect on amenity and public safety of the display of such advertisement. [4831]

Consent required for the display of advertisements

5.—(1) No advertisement may be displayed without consent granted by the local planning authority or by the Minister on application in that behalf (hereinafter referred to as " express consent "), or deemed by virtue of the next following paragraph to be granted.

(2) Consent shall be deemed to be granted for any advertisement displayed in accordance with a provision of these Regulations whereby advertisements of that description may be displayed without express consent; and where the display of such advertisements is allowed subject to the power in Regulation 8 of these Regulations to require application for express consent to be made, the consent so deemed to be granted shall be consent limited until such application is finally determined, or, if no application is made within the period allowed for that purpose, until the expiry of that period; without prejudice however to the provisions of Regulation 7 and Regulation 11 hereafter, in relation respectively to periods of grace for existing advertisements and to the removal of advertisements which are being displayed in an area defined as an area of special control.

(3) In so far as the nature of the consent permits, consent for the display of advertisements shall enure for the benefit of the land to which the consent relates and of all persons for the time being interested in that land, but without prejudice to the provisions of these Regulations with respect to the revocation or modification of consents granted hereunder.

(4) Save only as hereinafter excepted, it shall be a condition of every consent under these Regulations (whether expressly imposed or not) that before any advertisement is displayed on land in pursuance of the consent the permission of the owner of that land or of a person entitled to grant such permission shall be obtained; except where an advertisement of the description specified in sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph (1) of Regulation 14 of these Regulations is required to be displayed notwithstanding that such permission is not obtained. [4832]

The standard conditions

6. Without prejudice to the power of the local planning authority to impose additional conditions upon a grant of consent under these Regulations, the standard conditions set out in the First Schedule hereto shall, subject to the provisions of these Regulations, apply without further notice—

(a) in the case of the conditions set out in Part I of that Schedule, to the display of all advertisements; and

(b) in the case of the condition set out in Part II thereof, only to advertisements being displayed with consent deemed to be granted under these Regulations, or granted under Regulation 26 thereof. [4833]

Existing advertisements

7.—(1) Advertisements which are being displayed on the date on which these Regulations come into force (hereafter in these Regulations called "existing advertisements") shall be exempt from the provisions thereof until the expiry of a period of three months from that date, and may then continue to be displayed without express consent, subject to the standard conditions and subject, after the appropriate period of grace hereinafter granted, to the power of the local planning authority, by notice served under the next following Regulation, to require application for express consent to be made.

(2) No such application shall be required until after the expiry of the appropriate period of grace hereby granted, namely,

(a) in the case of existing advertisements which were being displayed on the seventh day of January, 1947, three years from the date on which these Regulations come into force;

(b) in the case of any other existing advertisement, one year from that date.

(3) Subject to this Regulation, a notice under the next following Regulation purporting to require an application for express consent to be made for the continuance of the display of an existing advertisement before the expiry of a period of grace to which that advertisement is entitled, shall not take effect in the manner specified in paragraph (2) of Regulation 5 of these Regulations to bring to an end the consent in force for the display of that advertisement; and where a local planning authority are satisfied, whether on a claim made to them in that behalf or otherwise, that any person on whom they have served such a notice is, by virtue of the last foregoing paragraph, relieved of the obligation to comply with the requirement thereof, then, subject to the subsequent provisions of this Regulation, they shall forthwith inform that person accordingly and shall withdraw the notice.

(4) Except where the authority are satisfied as aforesaid, they may determine any application made to them in pursuance of the notice, and if the display to which the notice relates is continued without express consent they may exercise their powers to secure the discontinuance thereof; and any consent in force for the display of an advertisement shall be deemed to have been duly brought to an end by a notice served under the next following Regulation and not withdrawn, unless it is shown to the court in enforcement or summary proceedings, taken in respect of continuance of the display either despite such notice or notwithstanding refusal of consent on an application made thereunder, that the notice failed by virtue of this Regulation to take effect as aforesaid.

(5) Nothing in this Regulation shall restrict the exercise by a local planning authority of any power hereinafter conferred on them to decide an application voluntarily made to them or to take action in respect of any contravention of these Regulations.

(6) Reference in this Regulation to the display of advertisements shall be construed as reference also to the use of a site for the display of advertisements:

Provided that consent, deemed in consequence to be granted for the continued use for the purpose of displaying advertisements of any site which is being used for that purpose on the date on which these Regulations come into force, shall be subject to the following conditions and limitations—

(a) there shall be no substantial increase in the extent, or substantial alteration in the manner, of the use of the site for that purpose on that date;

(b) where a building or structure on which advertisements are being displayed on the date on which these Regulations come into force is

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they [illegible] no contribution to the life of the little com-required under any enactment to be removed, consent under this Regulation shall not extend to the erection of any building or structure on which to continue the display of such advertisements without substantial alteration in the manner of the display. [4834]

Power to require application to be made for express consent

8.—(1) Subject to these Regulations, where it appears expedient to the local planning authority so to do, they may serve on any person displaying an advertisement with consent deemed to be granted, other than an advertisement of a description specified in Regulation 14 hereafter, a notice requiring application for express consent for the continuance of such display to be made within the time (not being less than twenty-eight days) specified in the notice; and the authority shall send together with such notice a copy of the application form referred to in Regulation 15 of these Regulations, or instructions as to the manner in which an application should be made.

(2) A notice under this Regulation may be served in respect of the use of land for the display of advertisements as aforesaid, and in that event it shall not be necessary to specify any advertisement to the display of which such notice relates.

(3) The provisions of Part V of these Regulations relating to applications for consent and to appeals to the Minister from the determination of such applications shall apply to the submission and determination of applications made in pursuance of a notice served under this Regulation. [4835]

Liability to fine for contravention of the Regulations

9.—(1) The amount of the fine to which a person who displays an advertisement in contravention of these Regulations is liable on summary conviction under subsection (3) of Section 32 of the Act is fifty pounds and in the case of a continuing offence, forty shillings for each day during which the offence continues after conviction.

(2) Failure to observe any condition relating to the maintenance of an advertisement or of the site used for the display thereof, or to the satisfactory removal of an advertisement, shall not be a contravention of these Regulations for the purpose of subsection (3) of Section 32 of the Act in so far as concerns any person who is only deemed, by virtue of subsection (4) of that Section to display such advertisement, unless within the time allowed for complying with an enforcement notice served on such person under Regulation 23 of these Regulations steps required by the notice to be taken to remedy such failure are not taken. [4836]

PART III

Areas of special control

Definition of areas of special control

10.—(1) As soon as may be after the coming into force of these Regulations, and subject to any direction given by the Minister, every local planning authority shall consider what part, if any, of their area should be selected for definition as an area of special control in the manner hereinafter prescribed, with a view to restricting the display of advertisements therein to the extent specified in the next following Regulation.

(2) By virtue of subsection (3) of Section 31 of the Act, rural areas or areas other than rural areas which appear to the Minister to require special protection on grounds of amenity may be defined by order as areas of special control; and the provisions of sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph (2) of Regulation 4 of these Regulations shall apply with respect to the exercise by a local planning authority of their powers under this Regulation, as if those provisions related to the display in any such area of advertisements in general and to the general characteristics of such an area.

(3) In the selection of areas under this Regulation a local planning authority shall consult—

(a) where it appears to them that the order is likely to affect any part of the area of a neighbouring local planning authority, with that authority ;

(b) with the council of any county district or metropolitan borough in whose area any land they propose to define as aforesaid is situate ;

(c) with such other authorities, associations or persons as the Minister may direct.

(4) An area of special control shall be defined by an order made by the local planning authority and approved by the Minister in accordance with the provisions of the Second Schedule to these Regulations.

(5) Without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph (1) of this Regulation, every local planning authority shall from time to time consider whether any part, or additional part, of their area should be defined as an area of special control, and whether, in the light of circumstances then obtaining, any order under this Regulation in force in relation to land in their area should be modified or revoked. [4837]

Display of advertisements in areas of special control

11.—(1) No display of advertisements may be undertaken in an area of special control except in the case of—

(a) advertisements of the classes and descriptions specified in Part IV of these Regulations ;

(b) advertisements of the descriptions specified in Regulations 26 and 27 hereafter ;

(c) advertisements of the descriptions specified in the next following paragraph.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of these Regulations with respect to advertisements of the descriptions referred to in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) of the last foregoing paragraph, advertisements of the following descriptions may be displayed in an area of special control with express consent granted in accordance with these Regulations—

(a) hoardings or similar structures to be used only for the display of notices relating to local events, activities or entertainments ;

(b) roadside advertisements for the purpose of indicating the presence in the vicinity of any hotel, inn, guest house or garage which cannot, in the opinion of the local planning authority or of the Minister on appeal, adequately be made known solely by the display of advertisements of specified classes II or IV ;

(c) any advertisement which, in the opinion of the local planning authority or of the Minister on appeal, is required in the interests of public safety to be displayed, and which is not an advertisement of any other description specified in this Regulation ;

(d) any advertisement which could be displayed as an advertisement of a specified class but for some infringement of a condition or limitation as respects size, height from the ground, number or illumination, imposed in the next following Regulation in relation to the display thereunder of advertisements of that class :

Provided that a local planning authority shall not grant consent for the display in an area of special control of any advertisement of the last mentioned description, unless they are satisfied that there is a special reason

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-

why the display thereof should not be required to conform with the relevant provisions of the next following Regulation.

(3) The power conferred on local planning authorities by Regulation 17 of these Regulations to grant consent for the display of advertisements shall in relation to the display of advertisements in an area of special control, be limited to advertisements of the descriptions mentioned in the last two foregoing paragraphs, including (but without prejudice to the proviso to the last foregoing paragraph) illuminated advertisements of those descriptions.

(4) On the coming into force of an order defining an area of special control, advertisements then being displayed in accordance with these Regulations in the area may continue to be displayed as follows :—

(a) advertisements of the descriptions specified in Regulations 14, 26 and 27 hereafter may continue to be displayed in accordance with the provisions of those Regulations respectively ;

(b) advertisements of the specified classes and advertisements of the description specified in sub-paragraph (d) of paragraph (2) of this Regulation may continue to be displayed with or without express consent, subject, after the term of any express consent has expired, to service of a notice under Regulation 8 of these Regulations in respect of the continuance of the display of any such advertisement :

Provided that the provisions of Regulation 7 of these Regulations shall restrict, within the periods of grace and in the manner therein mentioned, the exercise of powers under Regulation 8 aforesaid in respect of the continued display of any existing advertisement being displayed without express consent in an area of special control ;

(c) any other advertisement may continue to be displayed

(i) for a period of six months from the date on which the order defining the area comes into force or for the remainder of the term of any express consent, whichever is the longer, or

(ii) where no such consent has been granted, for a period of six months from the date on which the order defining the area comes into force or for the unexpired part of any period of grace to which such advertisement may be entitled under Regulation 7 of these Regulations, whichever is the longer, and then, in every case, for a further two months within which the advertisement shall without further notice be removed, unless express consent is granted for the continued display thereof in accordance with this Regulation.

(5) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this Regulation shall—

(a) affect a notice served under Regulation 8 of these Regulations before the coming into force of the order defining an area of special control, but without prejudice to the aforesaid provisions of Regulation 7 ;

(b) override any condition attached to a consent whereby an advertisement is required to be removed ;

(c) restrict the powers of a local planning authority, or of the Minister, in regard to any contravention of these Regulations ;

(d) restrict the power of the local planning authority, or of the Minister, to consent to the display in an area of special control of advertisements of the specified classes in respect of which a direction under Regulation 13 of these Regulations is in force. [4838]

PART IV

(b) Advertisements relating to the sale of goods or livestock, or the carrying out of building or similar work on the land on which they

It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Provided that the space which may be occupied by such advertisements on any external face of a building in an area of special control shall not exceed one twelfth of the overall area of that face up to a height of twelve feet from ground level; and the area occupied by any such advertisement, howsoever affixed to a building, shall be computed as if the said advertisement as a whole were displayed flat against the face of the building.

(2) Consent deemed to be granted by virtue of these Regulations for the display of advertisements of the foregoing descriptions shall be subject to the following conditions in addition to the standard conditions—

(a) no such advertisements, other than an advertisement of Class I, shall contain letters, figures, symbols, emblems or devices of a height exceeding two feet six inches, or, in an area of special control, one foot;

(b) no such advertisement, other than an advertisement of Class I, shall be displayed so that the highest part of the advertisement is above fifteen feet from ground level, or, in an area of special control, above twelve feet from ground level; provided that an advertisement relating to the sale or letting of any part of a building above such height limit may be displayed on or below that part of the building at the lowest level above that limit at which it is reasonably practicable to display the advertisement;

(c) no such advertisement shall be illuminated except as follows—

(i) advertisements of Class I, illuminated in a manner reasonably required to achieve the purpose of the advertisement;

(ii) advertisements of Class II or Class IV for the purpose of indicating that medical or similar services or supplies are available at the premises on which they are displayed, and illuminated in a manner reasonably required for that purpose;

(d) save as hereinafter provided, no advertisement of Class III relating to a sale or other matter which is due to start or take place on a specified date shall be displayed earlier than twenty-eight days before that date, and every advertisement of that Class shall be removed within fourteen days after the conclusion of the event or other matter to which it relates: provided that an advertisement of Class III relating to the carrying out on land of building or similar works may be displayed only while such works are in progress.

(3) In this Regulation the following expressions have the meanings hereinafter respectively assigned to them, namely—

(a) " business premises " means any building normally used for the carrying on of any professional, commercial or industrial undertaking, or any undertaking for the provision of services for profit, and without prejudice to the generality thereof includes public restaurants, licensed premises and places of public entertainment; but in the case of any building used principally for residential purposes includes only that part of the building normally used as business premises;

(b) in relation to the display of advertisements on any building, " ground level " means the ground-floor level of that building;

(c) " recreational " in relation to an institution or organisation shall not apply to any institution or organisation for the carrying on of sports, games or physical training primarily as a commercial undertaking.

(4) On the determination of an application for express consent made in respect of an advertisement of a specified class, whether in pursuance of a notice served under Regulation 8 of these Regulations or otherwise, the provisions of this Regulation whereby advertisements may be displayed without express consent shall cease to apply with respect to that advertisement; and, in the event of refusal of consent, or of the grant of consent subject to conditions in the nature of restrictions as to the site on which, or the manner in which, the display may be undertaken, or both, the provisions of this Regulation whereby the display of advertisements may be undertaken without express consent shall not apply to the subsequent display on the same land of any advertisement in contravention of that refusal or of those conditions, by, or on behalf of, the person whose application was so refused or granted subject to conditions.

(5) The conditions and limitations in this Regulation apply only to the display without express consent of advertisements of the descriptions therein mentioned, and shall not restrict the powers of a local planning authority in regard to the determination in accordance with these Regulations of any application for express consent. [4839]

Power to exclude application of Regulation 12

13.—(1) If the Minister is satisfied, whether upon representations made to him by the local planning authority or otherwise, that the display of advertisements of a class or description specified in the last foregoing Regulation should not be undertaken in any particular area or in any particular case without express consent, he may direct that the provisions of that Regulation shall not apply to the display of such advertisements in that area or in that case.

(2) Notice of any direction given by the Minister under this Regulation with respect to an area shall be published by the local planning authority in at least one newspaper circulating in the locality in which the area is situate, and, unless the Minister otherwise directs, on the same or a subsequent date in the London Gazette; and such notice shall contain a concise statement of the effect of the direction and name a place or places in that locality where a copy thereof and of a map defining the area to which it relates may be seen at all reasonable hours.

(3) Notice of any direction given by the Minister under this Regulation in a particular case shall be served by a local planning authority on the owner and on any occupier of the land to which the direction relates, and on any other person who, to the knowledge of the authority, proposes to

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-display on such land an advertisement of the class or description referred to in the direction.

(4) A direction given under this Regulation with respect to an area shall come into force on the date specified in the notice relating thereto, being a date not less than fourteen, and not more than twenty-eight days after first publication of the notice; and a direction given under this Regulation in a particular case shall come into force on the date on which notice thereof is served on the occupier, or if there is no occupier, on the owner of the land. [4840]

(a) any advertisement relating specifically to a pending parliamentary or local government election, not being an advertisement to which the next following sub-paragraph applies;

(b) advertisements required to be displayed by any enactment for the time being in force, or by Standing Orders of either House of Parliament, including (but without prejudice to the generality hereof) advertisements the display of which is so required as a condition of the valid exercise of any other power, or proper performance of any function, given or imposed by an enactment;

(c) advertisements in the nature of traffic signs employed wholly for the control, guidance or safety of traffic, and displayed in accordance with an authorisation given by the Ministry of Transport or by the appropriate local highway or police authority.

(2) Consent deemed to be granted by virtue of these Regulations for the display of advertisements of the foregoing descriptions shall be subject to the following conditions in addition to the standard conditions:—

(a) Where advertisements of the description specified in sub-paragraph (b) of the last foregoing paragraph could, apart from this Regulation, be displayed as advertisements of a specified class, they shall conform with any provision of Regulation 12 of these Regulations as respects size, number or height in relation to the display of advertisements of that class, and otherwise shall not exceed in those respects what may reasonably be considered necessary to achieve the purpose for which the display is required; without prejudice however, to the express requirements in regard to size, number or height as aforesaid of any enactment or Standing Orders under which such advertisements are displayed.

(b) An advertisement of the description specified in sub-paragraph (a) of the last foregoing paragraph shall be removed within fourteen days after the close of the poll in the election to which the advertisement relates; and any other advertisement displayed for a temporary purpose in accordance with this Regulation shall be removed as soon as may be after the expiry of the period during which such advertisement is required or authorised to be displayed, or, if no such period is specified, shall be removed within a reasonable time after the purpose for which such advertisement was required or authorised to be displayed is satisfied.

(3) With respect to the display of advertisements of the description specified in sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph (1) of this Regulation, standard condition 1 shall not apply. [4841] advertisements to which the application relates may affect the safety of persons using—

(i) any trunk road, with the Minister of Transport;

(ii) any railway, inland waterway, dock, harbour or airfield, with the British Transport Commission or other authority, statutory undertaker, body or person responsible for the operation thereof;

(d) with such other authorities, persons or bodies as the Minister may direct.

(2) The local planning authority shall give to any authority, person or body with whom they are required to consult as aforesaid, not less than fourteen days' notice that an application is to be taken into consideration and shall, in determining the application, take into account any representation made by such authority, person or body. [4843]

Power of local planning authority to deal with application

17.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations, where application for consent for the display of advertisements is made to the local planning authority, that authority may grant consent subject to the standard conditions specified in Part I of the First Schedule hereto and to such additional conditions (if any) as they think fit, or may refuse consent:

Provided that where the application relates to the display of an advertisement of a specified class the authority shall not refuse consent, or impose a condition more restrictive in effect than any provision of Regulation 12 of these Regulations in relation to advertisements of that class, unless they are satisfied that such refusal or condition is required to prevent or remedy a substantial injury to the amenity of the locality or a danger to members of the public.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing paragraph, and subject always to the provisions of Regulation 4 of these Regulations, conditions may be imposed on the grant of consent hereunder—

(a) for regulating the display of advertisements to which the consent relates, or the use of land by the applicant for the display of advertisements (whether or not it is land in respect of which the application was made), or requiring the carrying out of works on any such land, so far as appears to the local planning authority to be expedient for the purposes of or in connection with the display of advertisements authorised by the consent;

(b) for requiring the removal of any advertisement authorised by the consent, or the discontinuance of any use of land so authorised, at the expiration of a specified period, and the carrying out of any works required for the reinstatement of land at the expiration of that period.

(3) The power to grant consent for the display of advertisements under these Regulations shall include power to grant consent for the retention on land of any advertisement being displayed thereon before the date of the application or for the continuance of any use of land for the display of advertisements begun before that date; and reference in these Regulations to consent for the display of advertisements and to applications for such consent shall be construed accordingly. [4844]

Consent to be limited

18.—(1) Every grant of express consent shall be for a fixed term, which shall normally (but without prejudice to the discretion of the consenting authority, subject to the next following paragraph) be three years; and any such consent granted without the imposition of a term shall take effect as consent for the period for which application was made or for three years, whichever is the shorter, unless any other term is agreed between the applicant and the consenting authority as the term intended to be imposed.

(2) Express consent shall not be granted for a term longer than three years without the approval of the Minister.

(3) Provision may be made, in granting consent, for the term thereof to run from the subsequent inception of the display to which the consent relates or from a subsequent date not later than six months after the date on which the consent is granted, whichever is the earlier.

(4) At any time within a period of six months before the expiry of a consent granted under these Regulations, application may be made for the renewal thereof, and the provisions of these Regulations relating to applications for consent and to the determination thereof shall apply where application is made for such renewal.

(5) Except where the local planning authority direct otherwise when granting consent, or where renewal of consent is applied for as aforesaid and is refused, advertisements displayed with express consent granted under these Regulations may on the expiry of the term thereof continue to be displayed, subject to service by the local planning authority of a notice under the foregoing Regulation 8, but without prejudice to the exercise of any other power in these Regulations to require the removal of such advertisements.

(6) Consent deemed by virtue of paragraph (2) of Regulation 5 of these Regulations to be granted in respect of the continuance of such display shall be subject to the like conditions as those to which the express consent immediately preceding it was subject, and, unless previously brought to an end under these Regulations, shall expire when the site ceases to be used for such display of advertisements. [4845]

Notification of local planning authority's decision

19.—(1) The grant or refusal by a local planning authority of consent for the display of advertisements shall be in writing and, where the authority decide to grant consent subject to conditions in addition to the standard conditions, or to refuse consent, the reasons for their decision shall be stated in writing.

(2) The local planning authority shall, within two months from the date of receipt of the application, give notice to the applicant of their decision or, if the application has been referred to the Minister in accordance with directions given by him under Regulation 28 of these Regulations, shall within two months as aforesaid notify the applicant accordingly:

Provided that such period of two months may, at any time before the expiration thereof, be extended by agreement in writing made between the authority and the applicant. [4846]

Appeals to the Minister

20.—(1) Where, on application being made for consent under these Regulations, consent is refused by the local planning authority or is granted by them subject to conditions, the applicant may appeal to the Minister.

Provided that the Minister shall not be required to entertain an appeal under this Regulation if it appears to him, having regard to the provisions of these Regulations, that consent for the display of advertisements in respect of which application was made could not have been granted by the local planning authority, or could not have been granted otherwise than subject to the conditions imposed by them.

(2) Any person who desires to appeal under this Regulation shall give notice of appeal in writing to the Minister within one month from the receipt transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-

of notification of the local planning authority's decision, and shall forthwith notify the authority that an appeal has been made and shall furnish to the Minister a copy of the following documents :—

(i) the application made to the local planning authority ;
(ii) all relevant plans and particulars submitted to them ;
(iii) the notice of the decision, if any ;
(iv) all other relevant correspondence with the authority.

(3) The Minister may, if he thinks fit, require the applicant or the local planning authority to submit within a specified period a further statement in writing in respect of any of the matters to which the appeal relates, and if, after considering the grounds of the appeal and any such further statement, the Minister is satisfied that he is sufficiently informed for the purpose of reaching a decision as to the matters to which the appeal relates, he may decide the appeal without further investigation : but otherwise the Minister shall, if either party so desire afford to each of them an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

(4) Where an appeal is brought under this Regulation from a decision of the local planning authority the Minister may allow or dismiss the appeal or may reverse or vary any part of the decision of the local planning authority, whether or not the appeal relates to that part, and deal with the application as if it had been made to him in the first instance.

(5) Where the local planning authority fail to notify the applicant as required in the last foregoing Regulation within two months from receipt of the application, or within such extended period as is agreed between them, the provisions of paragraphs (1) and (2) of this Regulation shall apply in relation to the application as if consent had been refused by the local planning authority and as if notification of their decision had been received by the applicant at the expiration of the said period of two months or the extended period agreed upon as aforesaid, as the case may be.

(6) The decision of the Minister on an appeal under this Regulation shall be final. [4847]

PART VI

Provisions as to revocation and modification of consent

Revocation and modification of consent

21.—(1) Subject to the provisions of Regulation 4 above and of this Regulation, if it appears to the local planning authority that it is expedient that any express consent for the display of advertisements should be revoked or modified, they may by order revoke or modify the consent to such extent as appears to them to be expedient as aforesaid :

Provided that no such order shall take effect unless it is confirmed by the Minister, and the Minister may confirm any order submitted to him for the purpose either without modification or subject to such modifications as he considers expedient.

(2) Where a local planning authority submit an order to the Minister for his confirmation under this Regulation, that authority shall serve notice on the person on whose application the consent was granted, on the owner and on the occupier of the land affected, and on any other person who in their opinion will be affected by the order ; and if within such period as may be specified in that behalf in the notice (not being less than twenty-eight days from the service thereof) any person on whom the notice is served so requires, the Minister shall, before confirming the order, afford to him and to the local planning authority an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

(3) The power conferred by this Regulation to revoke or modify consent for the display of advertisements may be exercised :—

(a) where the consent relates to a display which involves the carrying out of building or similar operations, at any time before those operations have been completed ;

(b) where the consent relates to a display which involves no such operations as aforesaid, at any time before the display is begun :

Provided that the revocation or modification of consent for a display which involves the carrying out of building or similar operations shall not affect so much of those operations as has been previously carried out. [4848]

Supplementary provisions as to revocation and modification

22.—(1) Where consent for the display of advertisements is revoked or modified by an order made under the last foregoing Regulation then if, on a claim made to the local planning authority in writing and served in the manner indicated in paragraph (3) hereof within six months after confirmation of the order, it is shown that any person has incurred expenditure in carrying out, in connection with the display in question, work which is rendered abortive by the revocation or modification, or has otherwise sustained loss or damage which is directly attributable to the revocation or modification, that authority shall pay to that person compensation in respect of that expenditure, loss or damage :

Provided that no compensation shall be payable under this paragraph in respect of loss or damage consisting of the depreciation in value of any interest in the land by virtue of the revocation or modification.

(2) For the purposes of this Regulation, any expenditure incurred in the preparation of plans for the purposes of any work or upon other similar matters preparatory thereto shall be deemed to be included in the expenditure incurred in carrying out that work, but except as aforesaid no compensation shall be paid under this Regulation in respect of any work carried out before the grant of the consent which is revoked or modified, or in respect of any other loss or damage arising out of anything done or omitted to be done before the grant of that consent.

(3) A claim for compensation made to a local planning authority under paragraph (1) of this Regulation shall be served on that authority by delivering it at the offices of the authority addressed to the Clerk thereof or by sending it by pre-paid post addressed as aforesaid. [4849]

PART VII

Provisions as to enforcement

Enforcement of advertisement control

23.—(1) If it appears to the local planning authority that any advertisement has been displayed on land after the coming into force of these Regulations without consent required in that behalf, or that any conditions subject to which such consent was granted have not been complied with, then, subject to any directions given by the Minister, the local planning authority may serve on the owner and occupier of the land, and also on any other person known to the local planning authority to be displaying the advertisement without such consent, or to have displayed it in contravention of such conditions, a notice under this Regulation.

(2) Any notice served under this Regulation (hereinafter called " an enforcement notice ") shall specify the display of advertisements which is alleged to have been begun or continued without such consent as aforesaid

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they or, as the case may be, the matters in respect of which it is alleged that any such conditions as aforesaid have not been complied with, and may require such steps as may be specified in the notice to be taken within such period as may be so specified for restoring the land to its condition before the display was begun or for securing compliance with the conditions, as the case may be; and in particular any such notice may, for the purpose aforesaid, require the demolition or alteration of any buildings or works, the discontinuance of any use of land, or the carrying out on land of any building or other operations.

(3) Subject to the provisions of the next following paragraph, an enforcement notice shall take effect at the expiration of such period as may be specified therein, being a period not less than—

(a) seven days in any case where the local planning authority consider it urgently necessary in the interests of public safety that the advertisement to which the notice relates should be altered or removed, or where they are satisfied that any steps required by the notice to be taken can be taken without the removal or substantial modification of any structure or the carrying out of any building or similar operations on land;

(b) in any other case, twenty-eight days:

Provided that if within the period specified as aforesaid an appeal is made to the court under the following provisions of this Regulation by a person on whom the enforcement notice was served, the notice shall be of no effect pending the final determination or withdrawal of the appeal.

(4) If any person on whom an enforcement notice is served under this Regulation is aggrieved by the notice, he may, at any time within the specified period mentioned in the last foregoing paragraph, appeal against the notice to a court of summary jurisdiction for the petty sessional division or place within which any advertisement to which the notice relates is being displayed; and on any such appeal the court—

(a) if satisfied that the advertisement to which the notice relates is being displayed with consent under the Regulations, or that it is not an advertisement to which these Regulations apply or, as the case may be, that the conditions subject to which such consent was granted have been complied with, shall quash the notice to which the appeal relates;

(b) if not so satisfied, but satisfied that the requirements of the notice exceed what is necessary for restoring land to its condition before the display was begun, or for securing compliance with the conditions, as the case may be, shall vary the notice accordingly;

(c) in any other case shall dismiss the appeal:

Provided that where the enforcement notice is varied or the appeal is dismissed, the court may, if they think fit, direct that the enforcement notice shall not come into force until such date (not being later than twenty-eight days from the determination of the appeal) as the court think fit.

(5) Any person aggrieved by a decision of a court of summary jurisdiction under the last foregoing paragraph may appeal against that decision to a court of quarter sessions. [4850]

Supplementary provisions as to enforcement

24.—(1) If within the period specified in an enforcement notice, or within such extended period as the local planning authority may allow, any steps required by the notice to be taken (other than the discontinuance of any use of land) have not been taken, the local planning authority may enter on the land and take those steps and, save as hereinafter provided, may recover as a simple contract debt in any court of competent jurisdiction from the person who is then the owner of the land any expenses reasonably incurred by them in that behalf; and if that person having been entitled to appeal to the court under the last foregoing Regulation, failed to make such an appeal, he shall not be entitled in proceedings under this paragraph to dispute the validity of the action taken by the local planning authority upon any ground which could have been raised by such an appeal:

Provided that where the person who is then the owner of the land would have been entitled, under subsection (2) of Section 32 of the Act, to compensation in respect of any expenses reasonably incurred by him in removing the advertisement, the local planning authority shall be entitled to recover from that person only such part (if any) of their expenses as they may claim on account of establishment charges by virtue of the provisions of paragraph (3) of this Regulation.

(2) Any expenses incurred by the owner or occupier of any land for the purpose of complying with an enforcement notice served under the last foregoing Regulation in respect of any display of advertisements, and any sums paid by the owner of any land under the foregoing paragraph in respect of the expenses of the local planning authority in taking steps required to be taken by such a notice, shall be deemed to be incurred or paid for the use and at the request of the person who displayed such advertisements in contravention of these Regulations.

(3) The provisions of Sections 276, 289, 292 and 294 of the Public Health Act, 1936, shall apply in relation to steps required to be taken by an enforcement notice under the last foregoing Regulation as if for references to a local authority or a council there were substituted references to a local planning authority, for references (in whatever form) to the execution of works under the said Act there were substituted references to the taking of steps required to be taken under such a notice, and for the reference in Section 294 to "expenses under this Act" there were substituted a reference to expenses incurred in the taking of such steps as aforesaid. (a) consent shall be deemed to be granted for the display of any such advertisement, subject to the standard condition in Part II of the First Schedule hereto, and in the event of a breach of that condition, to the provisions of Part VII of these Regulations relating to contraventions ;

(b) except where such advertisement is an advertisement of a description specified in Regulation 14 of these Regulations, the display thereof shall be subject to the power of the local planning authority to serve a notice under the foregoing Regulation 8 as if it were an advertisement of a specified class ; and where such a notice is served, the display of advertisements to which it relates shall become subject to the full control of these Regulations, save as hereinafter provided :

Provided that the standard conditions in Part I of the First Schedule hereto may be waived in a grant of express consent for the display of advertisements to which this Regulation relates, and where the local planning authority, or the Minister on appeal, consider it expedient so to do they may, instead of granting express consent for the display of such advertisements, declare that the display thereof may continue as before, subject only to the provisions of this Regulation. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools

(This Note is not part of these Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These are the Regulations which the Minister of Town and Country Planning is required by Section 31 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, to make for the purpose of restricting and regulating the display of advertisements in the interests of amenity and public safety. Regulation 3 applies the provisions of the Regulations to the display on land in England and Wales of all advertisements except those displayed in the circumstances specified in that Regulation. Part II of the Regulations requires that any display of advertisements must have consent, granted either by the local planning authority or by virtue of the provisions of the Regulations (Regulation 5); attaches standard conditions to the display of all advertisements (Regulation 6 and the First Schedule); and allows the display of existing advertisements to continue undisturbed unless, after an initial period of complete exemption and a further stage of minimum control, the consent of the local planning authority is in any particular case required by notice to be obtained (Regulations 7 and 8). Part III empowers local planning authorities to submit for the Minister's approval orders defining areas of special control (Regulation 10 and the Second Schedule) in which the display of advertisements will be governed by the special provisions of Regulation 11. Part IV deals with advertisements which may be displayed without the consent of the local planning authority. Advertisements of the descriptions specified in Regulation 14 may be displayed subject only to the conditions laid down in that Regulation, but the local planning authority may (by virtue of Regulation 8 and the proviso to Regulation 17 (1) read together with Regulation 12) bring under their control advertisements of the classes specified in Regulation 12 in order to prevent such advertisements from being displayed in a manner which is considered dangerous or substantially injurious to amenity. Parts V, VI, and VII provide respectively for the submission of applications for consent to the local planning authority and appeals from their decisions to the Minister, for the revocation and modification of express consent, and for enforcement of the Regulations, and for that purpose apply certain provisions of Part III of the Act in the manner referred to in Regulation 33 and the Fourth Schedule. By virtue of subsection (3) of Section 32 of the Act, a person who displays an advertisement in contravention of the Regulations is liable to a fine, the amount of which is prescribed in Regulation 9. Regulation 30 prescribes the time and manner in which compensation under subsection (2) of Section 32 of the Act may be claimed in respect of expenses incurred in the removal of an existing advertisement.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing subsection, conditions may be imposed on the grant of ..... consent thereunder—

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools and any consent granted subject to any such condition as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of this subsection is ..... referred to as consent granted for a limited period only.

15.—(1) The Minister may give directions to the authority ..... requiring that an application for consent under this order or all such applications of any class specified in the directions, shall be referred to the Minister instead of being dealt with by the authority, and any such application shall be so referred accordingly.

(2) Where an application for consent under this order is referred to the Minister under this section, the provisions of subsection (1) of the last foregoing section shall apply, subject to any necessary modifications, in relation to the determination of the application by the Minister as they apply in relation to the determination of such an application by the authority :

Provided that before determining any such application the Minister shall, if either the applicant or the authority so desire, afford to each of them an opportunity for appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

(3) The decision of the Minister on any application referred to him under this section shall be final.

(2) Where an appeal is brought under this section from a decision of the authority the Minister may allow or dismiss the appeal or may reverse or vary any part of the decision of the authority, whether or not the appeal relates to that part, and deal with the application as if it had been made to him in the first instance ; and the provisions of the last foregoing section shall apply, subject to any necessary modifications, in relation to the determination of an application by the Minister on appeal ..... as they apply in relation to the determination by the Minister of an application referred to him under that section.

(3) Unless within two months from the date of the receipt of an application for consent under this order, or within such extended period as may at any time be agreed upon in writing between the applicant and the authority, the authority either—

(a) give notice to the applicant of their decision on any application for consent under this order ..... or

(b) give notice to him that the application has been referred to the Minister in accordance with directions given by him under the last foregoing section, the provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall apply in relation to the application as if the consent ..... to which it relates had been refused by the authority and as if notification of their decision had been received by the applicant at the expiration of the said period of two months or the extended period agreed upon as aforesaid, as the case may be.

18.—(1) The power to grant consent under this order shall include power to grant consent for the retention on land of any buildings or for the execution or retention of works of demolition or other works prohibited by this Order, constructed or carried out thereon before the date of the application, ... (whether without consent granted under this order or in accordance with consent so granted for a limited period only) and references ..... to consent under this order and to applications for such consent shall be construed accordingly.

(2) Any such consent as is mentioned in the foregoing subsection may be granted so as to take effect from the date on which the buildings or works were constructed or carried out ..... or from the expiration of the said period as the case may be.

(4) Where consent is granted under this order then, except as may be otherwise provided by the consent, the grant of consent shall enure for the benefit of the land and of all persons for the time being interested therein .....

19.—(1) Where consent under this order is refused, whether by the authority or by the Minister, on an application in that behalf ....., or is granted by that authority or by the Minister subject to conditions, then if any owner of the land claims—

(b) in a case where consent under this order was granted as aforesaid subject to conditions, that the land cannot be rendered capable of reasonably beneficial use by the carrying out of the permitted works in accordance with those conditions ;

(c) in any case, that the land cannot be rendered capable of reasonably beneficial use by the carrying out of any other works for which consent has been ..... granted ....., or for which the local planning authority or the Minister have undertaken to grant such consent,

he may, within six months from such refusal, serve on the council of the county borough or county district in which the land is situated a notice (hereinafter referred to as a " purchase notice ") requiring that council to purchase his interest in the land in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) Where a purchase notice is served on any council under this section that council shall forthwith transmit a copy of the notice to the Minister, and subject to the following provisions of this section the Minister shall, if he is satisfied that the conditions specified in paragraphs (a) to (c) of the foregoing subsection are fulfilled, confirm the notice, and thereupon the council shall be deemed to be authorised to acquire the interest of the owner compulsorily in accordance with the provisions of Part IV of this Act, and to have served a notice to treat in respect thereof on such date as the Minister may direct :

Provided that—

(a) if it appears to the Minister to be expedient so to do, he may, in lieu of confirming the purchase notice, grant consent for the works in respect of which the application was made or, where consent for those works was granted subject to conditions, revoke or amend those conditions so far as appears to him to be required in order to enable the land to be rendered capable of reasonably beneficial use by the carrying out of those works ;

(b) if it appears to the Minister, that the land, or any part of the land, could be rendered capable of reasonably beneficial use within a reasonable time by the carrying out of any other works for which consent ought to be granted, he may, in lieu of confirming the notice, or in lieu of confirming it so far as it relates to that part of the land, as the case may be, direct that such consent shall be so granted in the event of an application being made in that behalf ;

(c) if it appears to the Minister having regard to the probable ultimate use of the land, that it is expedient so to do, he may, if he confirms the notice, modify it either in relation to the whole or in relation to any part of the land to which it relates by substituting any other local authority for the council on whom the notice is served, and in any such case the foregoing provisions of this subsection shall have effect accordingly,

(3) If within the period of six months from the date on which a purchase notice is served under this section the Minister has neither confirmed the notice nor taken any such other action as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of the last foregoing subsection nor notified the owner by whom the notice was served that he does not propose to confirm the notice, the notice shall be deemed to be confirmed at the expiration of that period, and the council on whom the notice was transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-

served shall be deemed to be authorised to acquire the interest of the owner compulsorily in accordance with the provisions of Part IV of this Act, and to have served notice to treat in respect thereof at the expiration of the said period.

(4) The power conferred by subsection (2) of section five of the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919, to withdraw a notice to treat shall not be exercisable in the case of a notice to treat which is deemed to have been served by virtue of this section.

(5) Before confirming a purchase notice, or taking any other action in lieu thereof, under this section, the Minister shall give notice of his proposed action—

(a) to the person by whom the notice was served ;

(b) to the council on whom the notice was served ;

(c) to the local planning authority for the area in which the land is situated ; and

(d) to any other local authority whom the Minister proposes, under the foregoing provisions of this section, to substitute for the said council ; and if within the period prescribed by the notice under this subsection (not being less than twenty-eight days from the service thereof) any person or authority on whom that notice is served so requires, the Minister shall, before confirming the purchase notice or taking any such other action as aforesaid, afford to those persons and authorities an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

23.—(1) If it appears to the authority that any works of demolition or other works prohibited by this order have been carried out after the making of this order without the grant of consent required in that behalf under this order, or that any conditions subject to which such consent was granted in respect of any such works have not been complied with, then, subject to any direction given by the Minister, the authority may within four years of such works being carried out, if they consider it expedient so to do having regard to the provisions of the development plan and to any other material considerations, serve on the owner and occupier of the land a notice under this section.

(2) Any notice served under this section (hereinafter called an " enforcement notice ") shall specify the works which are alleged to have been carried out without the grant of such consent as aforesaid or, as the case may be, the matters in respect of which it is alleged that any such conditions as aforesaid have not been complied with, and may require such steps as may be specified in the notice to be taken within such period as may be so specified for restoring the land to its condition before the works of demolition or other works prohibited by this order took place or for securing compliance with the conditions, as the case may be ; and in particular any such notice may, for the purpose aforesaid, require the demolition or alteration of any building or works ..... or the carrying out on land of any building or other operations.

(3) Subject to the provisions of the next following subsection an enforcement notice shall take effect at the expiration of such period (not being less than twenty-eight days after the service thereof) as may be specified therein :

Provided that—

(a) if within the period aforesaid an application is made to the authority under this order for consent for the retention on the land of any buildings or the execution or retention of any works, ..... to which the enforcement notices relates shall be of no effect pending the final determination of that application, and if such consent as aforesaid is granted on that application, the notice shall not take effect ;

(b) if within the period aforesaid an appeal is made to the court under the following provisions of this section by a person on whom the enforcement notice was served, the notice shall be of no effect pending the final determination or withdrawal of the appeal.

(4) If any person on whom an enforcement notice is served under this section is aggrieved by the notice, he may, at any time within the period mentioned in the last foregoing subsection, appeal against the notice to a court of summary jurisdiction for the petty sessional division or place within which the land to which the notice relates is situated ; and on any such appeal the court—

(a) if satisfied that consent was granted under this order for the works to which the notice relates, or that no such consent was required in respect thereof, or, as the case may be, that the conditions subject to which such consent was granted have been complied with, shall quash the notice to which the appeal relates ;

(b) if not so satisfied, but satisfied that the requirements of the notice exceed what is necessary for restoring land to its condition before the works took place, or for securing compliance with the conditions, as the case may be, shall vary the notice accordingly ;

(c) in any other case shall dismiss the appeal :

Provided that where the enforcement notice is varied or the appeal is dismissed, then, without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph (a) of the proviso to subsection (3) of this section, the court may, if they think fit, direct that the enforcement notice shall not come into force until such date (not being later than twenty-eight days from the determination of the appeal) as the court think fit.

(5) Any person aggrieved by a decision of a court of summary jurisdiction under the last foregoing subsection may appeal against that decision to a court of quarter sessions.

24.—(1) If within the period specified in an enforcement notice, or within such extended period as the authority may allow, any steps required by the notice to be taken ..... have not been taken, the authority may enter on the land and take those steps, and may recover as a simple contract debt in any court of competent jurisdiction from the person who is then the owner of the land any expenses reasonably incurred by them in that behalf ; and if that person, having been entitled to appeal to the court under the last foregoing section, failed to make such an appeal, he shall not be entitled in proceedings under this subsection to dispute the validity of the action taken by the authority upon any ground which could have been raised by such an appeal.

(2) Any expenses incurred by the owner or occupier of any land for the purpose of complying with an enforcement notice served under the last foregoing section in respect of any works, and any sums paid by the owner of any land under the foregoing subsection in respect of the expenses of the authority in taking steps required to be taken by such a notice, shall be deemed to be incurred or paid for the use and at the request of the person by whom the works were carried out.

(3) Where, by virtue of an enforcement notice, ... any conditions are required to be complied with in respect of ..... the carrying out of any operations thereon, then if any person, without the grant of consent in that behalf under this order ..... carries out or causes or permits to be carried out those operations, in contravention of the notice, he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds

(This Note is not part of these Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations deal with the form and content of development plans prepared under Part II of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, and with the procedure to be followed for bringing them into operation. By virtue of the definition of "Development Plan" in regulation 2, they apply also to proposals for alterations or additions to a development plan.

Part II of the regulations specifies the maps and written statement which make up the development plan, and, with the First Schedule, indicates their contents. Part III deals with procedure, and contains provision (in regulation 24) for the placing on sale of copies of development plans when they become operative. Part IV provides for the procedure in relation to development plans being carried out at the same time as that in relation to the making of orders relating to trunk roads under the Trunk Roads Act, 1946, or new towns under the New Towns Act, 1946.

CASES

Town and country planning—New town—Duties of Minister—Consultation —New Towns Act, 1946 (c. 68), s. 1 (1).

By the New Towns Act, 1946, s. 1 (1): "If the Minister [of Town and Country Planning] is satisfied, after consultation with any local authorities who appear to him to be concerned, that it is expedient in the national interest that any area of land should be developed as a new town by a corporation established under this Act, he may make an order designating that area as the site of the proposed new town."

On July 10, 1946, three weeks before the Act received the Royal Assent, a meeting took place between the Minister and his assistants and the local authorities who appeared to him to be concerned at which the Minister proposed to "outline the main factors which . . . led him to consider the Crawley-Three Bridges area especially suitable to be the site of a new town. . . ." The local authorities were informed at that meeting of the general nature of the proposal, the area, the size of the proposed town and what the Minister wished and intended to bring about. Discussion was invited and a number of questions was put by the representatives of the authorities and answered by the Minister and his assistants, a minute was prepared, and a Press notice was issued stating what had happened. On October 7, 1946, a second meeting was held between representatives of the Minister and the local authorities, at the latter's request, "to explain the considerations which the Minister had in mind in arriving at the boundaries of the area." Objections were raised to the proposed order and on November 4, 5 and 6, 1946, a public inquiry was held:—

Held: regarding as a whole the events which occurred between July 10 and the holding of the public inquiry in November, the local authorities throughout were aware of the effect of the provisions of the Act and had full opportunity to put forward any criticism or suggestion which they wished, and, therefore, the requirements of s. 1 (1) of the Act had been complied with.

Per Lord GREENE, M.R.: there was no need for the Minister to complete his "consultation" with local authorities before he published the draft order.

Per BUCKNILL, L.J.: consultation in the sub-section means that, on the one hand, the Minister must supply sufficient information to the local authority to enable them to tender advice, and, on the other hand, a sufficient opportunity must be given to the local authority to tender that advice.

Town and country planning—Town planning scheme—Industrial building—Factory—Premises used for testing concrete—Factories Act, 1937 (c. 67), s. 151 (1).

A consulting engineer, specialising in the testing of materials used in building and engineering construction, and, in return for fees, advising builders and others engaged in constructional work, in the course of one process made and crushed concrete blocks to test their properties, for which purpose he used a laboratory concrete mixer, six feet, six inches high and three feet wide, and a crushing machine twelve feet high by four feet square. He employed persons in manual labour to conduct these operations. The premises on which the process was carried out were within an area designated as wholly residential by the local authority in pursuance of a town planning scheme under the Town and Country Planning Act, 1932. The scheme defined "industrial building" as "a building . . . designed for use as a factory . . . within the meaning of" the Factories Act, 1937:—

Held: although the main object of the process was the testing of materials, the building constituted "premises in which . . . the work is carried on by way of trade or for the purposes of gain," within s. 151 (1) of the Act of 1937, and it was, therefore, a factory within the meaning of that Act and an "industrial building" for the purpose of the scheme.

Nash v. Hollinshead, [1901] 1 K. B. 700, explained.

Per VAISEY, J.: the building might also be held to be a factory within s. 151 (1) (xii).—HENDON CORPN. v. STANGER, [1948] 1 All E. R. 377; 112 J. P. 199, C. A. [4907]

Advertisement—Advertising sign of sheet metal fixed to wall of old theatre—"Wooden or other structure or erection"—Manchester Corporation Act, 1891 (c. ccvii), s. 18 (1).

By the Manchester Corporation Act, 1891, s. 18 (1), which is included in a part of the Act dealing with matters relating to buildings, it is (with certain exceptions) unlawful "to erect or set up in the city in any place any wooden or other structure or erection of a movable or temporary character" except under licence from the corporation. The appellants fixed to the wall of a building in Manchester an advertising sign consisting of a sheet of metal, sixty feet long, on which the advertisement was painted and which was nailed to a wooden frame which, in turn, was fixed to the wall by means of nails driven into plugs in the wall and by wall hooks. The legs of the frame rested on wooden steps and the bottom of the sign was two feet above ground level:—

Held: the advertising sign was not a "wooden or other structure or erection" within the meaning of s. 18, which applied only to structures in the nature of buildings.

Town and Country planning—Interim development agreement between landowners and local authority—Permission to develop lands in accordance with specified method—Permission relating to period after planning scheme in force—Authority's planning scheme not yet in force—Revocation of permission for interim development—Town and Country Planning Act, 1932 (c. 48), ss. 10, 34—Town and Country Planning (Interim Development) Act, 1943 (c. 29), s. 4 (1), (2).

The plaintiffs were the present owners of certain land in Chessington forming part of the Chessington Hall estate and the borough council was the interim development authority for the area for the purpose of the Town and Country Planning Acts. In 1938, the council had made a planning scheme under the Act of 1932 and submitted it to the Minister, but it had not yet been approved. On May 11, 1934, the Minister of Health, in exercise of powers conferred by s. 10 (5) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1932, allowed an appeal from the refusal of the council to grant permission for the development of the land in question under the Town and Country Planning (General Interim Development) Order, 1933, and gave permission for its development in accordance with the original lay-out plan or any lay-out plan approved by the council or the Minister. On May 19, 1939, the plaintiffs entered into two agreements with the council, one known as the development agreement and the other known as the roads and sewers agreement. The development agreement was supplemental to and in consideration of the roads and sewers agreement by which the plaintiffs agreed (inter alia) to dedicate certain lands to the public for highways, to convey certain other lands to the council, and to expend money on the construction of sewers.

The development agreement stated that it was intended to be made under s. 34 of the Act of 1932 (which is stated to empower "authorities and owners to enter into agreements restricting use of land") and that it was to be scheduled to the council's planning scheme. By cl. 3 of the agreement: "The lands described in the first and second parts of sched. I hereto may be used for the purposes mentioned in and subject to the restrictions set out in sched. II hereto and in accordance with the lay-out in plan No. 2 hereto annexed." The schedules and plan provided for the erection on the plaintiffs' lands of a limited number of dwelling-houses, shops or business premises, as specified. Clause 4 (a) provided: "Until the scheme shall come into force this agreement shall operate as if the owners and the development company had submitted an amended lay-out plan for the approval of the council and the council by this agreement had approved the said plan and had granted permission to the owners . . . to develop by virtue of s. 10 of the Act and the Town and Country Planning (General Interim Development) Order, 1933." Section 10 of the Act of 1932 deals with the interim development of land. Pursuant to the development agreement and the roads and sewers agreement the plaintiffs withdrew objections they had lodged against the council's proposed planning scheme which included the Chessington Hall estate, and they dedicated certain lands as public highways, conveyed land to the council, and expended money on the construction of sewers, but, owing to the outbreak of the war, they were unable to start the development of their land.

In January, 1946, one of the plaintiffs applied to the council for permission to proceed with part of the development, but was refused on the ground that the proposed development would contravene the proposals of the Greater London Plan of 1944. By the Town and Country Planning (Interim Development) Act, 1943, s. 4, permissions for interim development may be revoked or modified by order made with the consent of the Minister, and by s. 4 (2) the Minister may initiate proceedings for the revocation of any permissions. By the Surbiton Town and Country Planning (Interim Development) Direction, dated July 12, 1946, the Minister, under s. 4 (2) of the Act of 1943, directed the council to submit for his consent under s. 4 (1) of the Act an order revoking the permission granted on May 19, 1939, to the plaintiffs for the development of part of the Chessington Hall estate. The council agreed to make this order and, on Aug. 8, 1946, wrote to the plaintiffs informing them of the fact. In an action against the council claiming damages for breach of contract, the plaintiffs contended that, under the development agreement, and, particularly, under cl. 3 thereof, the council had assumed a contractual obligation that it would not at any time thereafter exercise any existing or future statutory powers so as to restrict the development of the plaintiffs' lands to a greater extent than was provided for by the agreement :—

Held: (i) on the true construction of the development agreement, cl. 3 applied only to the period after the proposed scheme came into force, while cl. 4 applied to the interim period. The effect of cl. 3 was that, under s. 34 of the Act of 1932, the council contractually debarred itself from interfering after the scheme came into force with the specified method of development by requiring, under s. 13 of the Act, the plaintiffs to pull down or alter buildings erected in conformity with that method. The agreement contained no undertaking by the council that it would in no circumstances avail itself of subsequent legislation to cancel the permission given under cl. 4 (i.e. in reference to the interim period), and, therefore, there was no breach by the council of the plaintiffs' contractual rights under cl. 3, as the council's order revoking the permission granted on May 19, 1939, was made during the interim period under s. 4 of the Act of 1943.

(ii) the development agreement was, on its true construction, not merely restrictive, but both permissive and restrictive, and, although s. 34 of the Act of 1932 was primarily restrictive, agreements containing permissive as well as restrictive provisions were within its scope, and, therefore, the development agreement was authorised by the section and the council was empowered by the section to incur the obligation under s. 3 of the agreement, which it could not have undertaken in the absence of statutory authority.

Town and country planning—Interim development—Enforcement of interim development control—Proposed prohibition of use of land—Appeal by occupier—Powers of court of summary jurisdiction—Town and Country Planning (Interim Development) Act, 1943 (c. 29), s. 5 (2), Sched. I, para. 3.

The Town and Country Planning (Interim Development) Act, 1943, s. 5 (1), provides: "If while a resolution to prepare or adopt a scheme under the principal Act is in force with respect to any area, any development of land within that area is carried out after the commencement of this Act otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the interim development order or of permission granted under that order, then . . . the interim development authority may, if they are satisfied that it is necessary or expedient so to do having regard to the provisions then proposed to be included in the scheme . . . (b) where the development consists of any use of the land or any building thereon, by order prohibit that use, and, where necessary, reinstate the land." By s. 5 (2) and Sched. I, para. 3, on an appeal in respect of a notice of such proposed order, a court of summary jurisdiction, if "satisfied that the interim development authority are entitled to take the proposed action on the grounds specified in the notice . . . shall dismiss the appeal . . . but, if they are not so satisfied, they shall allow the appeal."

An interim development authority gave notice to the occupier of certain land and buildings of their intention to prohibit the use of the premises for the purposes of a second-hand motor vehicle business on the ground that the use was " not in accordance with provisions now proposed to be included in the scheme under which the said use of the land and buildings requires the consent of the interim development authority, which consent has been refused on the ground that such use is injurious to the amenities of the neighbourhood which is mainly residential in character." In allowing an appeal by the occupier, the court of summary jurisdiction had regard to the reasons which had led the authority to serve the notice, and, particularly, to whether the use of the land was injurious to the amenities of the neighbourhood. On appeal, Quarter Sessions upheld this decision :—

Held: the justices were not entitled to consider the reasons which led the authority to come to the conclusion that it was necessary or expedient to prohibit the development, but could only decide whether the conditions precedent to their giving the notice had been complied with.

WATER ACT, 1948

(11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 22)

PRELIMINARY NOTE

The Water Act, 1948, which came into force on receiving the Royal Assent on March 24, 1948, amends the " principal Act ", that is to say, the Water Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 491), so as to remove a number of difficulties and defects which experience of its working has revealed. The amending Act is itself not without difficulties, as is evidenced by the fact that, during its passage through the legislature, all but two of its eleven original clauses were amended, in some cases very extensively, and four additional clauses and a Schedule were added. Many of these amendments were designed, without altering the substance, to simplify the wording of the Act so as to make it more readily comprehensible, but the Act remains, by its very nature, one of some difficulty.

The amendments made by the Water Act, 1948, to the principal Act fall broadly into two groups. In the first group are those contained in ss. 1–3 of the Act, which remove a technical impediment to the formation of new statutory water undertakings and accelerate the process whereby new undertakings, including newly-formed combinations of existing undertakings, may secure the powers they need.

The second group consists of a number of detailed amendments of miscellaneous sections of the principal Act, among which the opportunity has been taken to include two small amendments to Part IV of the Public Health Act, 1936 (29 Halsbury's Statutes 407), dealing with water supply.

Only the first of these groups is dealt with in this Preliminary Note; for a general exposition of the effect of the amendments in the second group, reference should be made to the notes to the sections.

The right to supply water in any area can be conferred by means of an order of the Minister of Health under s. 23 of the principal Act on any persons proposing to become statutory water undertakers. The powers necessary to the discharge of this function, such as the right to acquire land, water rights, etc. can, however, be conferred only on "statutory water undertakers." This term as originally defined in s. 59 (1) of that Act was limited (except in one instance) to a person (including a company, local authority, etc.) actually supplying water under an enactment. Thus newly authorised undertakers would not become statutory water undertakers until they were actually supplying water, and could not acquire the necessary powers to supply water until they became statutory water undertakers. This impasse is now resolved by s. 1 of the present Act which substitutes a new definition of "statutory water undertakers" in the said s. 59 (1), under which the term covers any person authorised by a local enactment (which includes an order made under the principal Act) to supply water.

A difficulty of a somewhat similar nature is dealt with by ss. 2 and 3 of the Act. Hitherto the procedure for the establishment of a new statutory water undertaking has required two or more orders: first, an order under s. 23 of the principal Act authorising the giving of a supply (whereby the undertakers now become statutory water undertakers), and, secondly, one or more orders under various other sections of that Act conferring the necessary powers. A similar duplication of orders was caused where under s. 9 of the principal Act a joint board or committee of two or more existing statutory water undertakers was constituted or an amalgamation of any such undertakers effected, if, as was frequently the case, the new undertaking required powers additional to those inherited from its constituent bodies. The machinery for the making of orders, which is contained in Sched. I to the principal Act, is elaborate, including the service of notices on interested bodies, the publication of advertisements and, in some cases, the holding of local inquiries and the adoption of special parliamentary procedure, and its duplication has caused serious delay and handicapped the efficiency of undertakings. Ss. 2 and 3 of the present Act, accordingly, seek to eliminate the necessity for a second order by empowering the Minister to make a portmanteau order under s. 9 or s. 23 conferring a variety of powers which have hitherto required separate orders under other sections of the principal Act. An Act to amend the Water Act, 1945, and for purposes connected therewith. [4912] [24th March, 1948.]

1. Amendment of definition of "statutory water undertakers."—Section fifty-nine of the principal Act (which provides for the interpretation of that Act) shall have effect as if for the definition of the expression "statutory water undertakers" contained in subsection (1) of that section there were substituted the following definition:—

"'statutory water undertakers' means any company, local authority, board, committee, or other person authorised by a local enactment to supply water and any local authority or board supplying water under the Public Health Act, 1936, and also includes, for the purposes of Part II of this Act only, any local authority authorised to supply water by the said Act of 1936 but not actually supplying water under that Act, but the said expression does not include a railway company or navigation authority having statutory power to sell surplus water or any body or person supplying water solely for the purpose of producing motive power by hydraulic pressure." [4913]

General note.—For the effect of this section, see the Preliminary Note, ante.

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For s. 59 thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534.

Public Health Act, 1936.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 309.

Civil defence.—S. 3 (1) of the Civil Defence Act, 1948 (12 & 13 Geo. 6, c. 5), allows the making of regulations for payment of grants towards expenses of statutory undertakers (as defined in the present section), not being local authorities, incurred in connection with civil defence. In some cases, the whole of the expenses may be reimbursed (ibid., s. 3 (2)).

Definitions.—For definitions of "local authority" and "local enactment" see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act, supra.

2. Combination of certain orders under principal Act.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, an order under section twenty-three of the principal Act, made on the application of persons who propose to become statutory water undertakers and authorising those persons to supply water, may provide—

(a) for transferring to the applicants, whether by agreement or compulsorily, the undertaking or part of the undertaking of any water undertakers, whether statutory or not;

(b) for requiring any statutory water undertakers to give to the applicants, or the applicants to give to any such undertakers, a supply of water in bulk (whether within or outside their limits of supply), and for requiring the applicants or those undertakers, as the case may be, to take such a supply;

(c) for authorising the compulsory acquisition by the applicants of such rights to take water from any stream or other source as may be specified in the order. [4914]

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section, an order under section nine of the principal Act, providing for the constitution of a joint board or joint committee of two or more statutory water undertakers or for the amalgamation of the undertakings or parts of the undertakings of two or more statutory water undertakers, may make provision, in relation to the undertakers constituted by the order, for any purpose authorised by the last foregoing subsection in relation to the applicants for an order under section twenty-three of the principal Act, and may provide—

(a) for authorising the undertakers to construct, acquire by agreement, alter or continue, and to maintain, waterworks and works connected therewith;

(b) for authorising the undertakers to raise capital or borrow money for any purposes of their water undertaking. [4915]

(3) An order under section twenty-three or section nine of the principal Act which makes provision for any purpose authorised by this section may contain such incidental, consequential and supplementary provisions as the Minister thinks necessary or expedient for that purpose, including provisions for the amendment or repeal of any local enactment and for the transfer of property and liabilities :

Provided that no such order shall, except as provided by section three of this Act, empower the undertakers to acquire compulsorily any land, or shall vary compulsorily the amount of compensation water required by any enactment to be discharged into any water course or the periods during which or the manner in which such compensation water is required to be discharged. [4916]

(4) Where application is made under the said section twenty-three or section nine, as the case may be, for an order requiring any statutory water undertakers to give or take a supply of water in bulk, a copy of the notice of the application required by Part I of the First Schedule to the principal Act (which regulates the procedure for making orders under the sections aforesaid) shall be served in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 3 of that Schedule—

(a) on these undertakers ; and

(b) on the catchment board for any catchment area, the fishery board for any fishery district, and any river board having jurisdiction over any water-course, from which water is taken by the persons who are to give the bulk supply. [4917]

(5) Subsections (3) to (5) of section twenty-six of the principal Act (which provide for securing the provisions of compensation water, and for restricting the taking of water, in relation to the acquisition of rights under that section) shall have effect as if references therein to the acquisition of rights under that section included references to the acquisition of the like rights by an order made under section nine or twenty-three of that Act. [4918]

(6) Notwithstanding anything in section twenty-three of the principal Act, paragraph 8 of the First Schedule to that Act (which provides that in certain circumstances an order shall be subject to special parliamentary procedure) shall apply to any order under that section which makes provision for any of the matters specified in subsection (1) of this section. [4919]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 9, 23, 26 (3)–(5), thereof, and Sched. I thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 498, 512, 515, 536. S. 23 is amended by ss. 3, 4, and 14 (7), post ; s. 9 is amended by s. 14 (5), post.

General note.—For the effect of this section, see the Preliminary Note, ante. This section provides for combining in one order under either s. 9 or s. 23 of the principal Act, matters previously requiring to be dealt with by separate orders under certain other provisions of that Act. These combinations are as follows : (i) an order under either s. 9 or s. 23 may include matters pealt with by ss. 12 (3) and 26 (2) of the principal Act (see respectively sub-s. (1) (b) and 1 (c), supra) ; (ii) an order under s. 23 may include the matter dealt with by s. 9 (1) (d) as extended by s. 9 (2) (see sub-s. (1) (a), supra) ; and (iii) an order under s. 9 may include the matters dealt with by paras. (a) and (c) of sub-s. (1) of s. 23 (see respectively sub-s. (2) (a) and (2) (b), supra).

This section is, in effect, extended by s. 3, post, to enable an order under s. 9 or s. 23 to include the matter dealt with by s. 24 (4) of the principal Act.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act ; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Variations with regard to compensation water.—No order under the Acts may compulsorily vary any provisions regarding compensation water, but orders for variation by agreement may be made either under s. 23 of the principal Act or under s. 33 thereof as now amended by s. 14 (3), post.

Supply of water in bulk.—See s. 4, post.

Notwithstanding anything in s. 23 of the principal Act.—This refers to sub-s. (2) of the said section, which in applying Sched. I, Part I to the principal Act, specifically excepts para. 8 thereof. The effect of providing that that paragraph shall apply is to make the orders in certain circumstances subject to special parliamentary procedure. The exception of para. 8 is also negatived in the case of orders under the said s. 23 made by virtue of s. 4 (2), post.

Special parliamentary procedure.—As to special parliamentary procedure, see the Statutory Orders (Special Procedure) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 439).

River board.—As to river boards, see the River Boards Act, 1948, title LAND DRAINAGE, ante. It would seem, however, that a reference to a rivers board is intended here, since para. 3 of Sched. I to the principal Act requires a copy of a notice under that Schedule to be served on, among others, "any rivers board having jurisdiction over any watercourse". For definition of "rivers board" see s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Definitions.—For definitions of "catchment board", "catchment area", "enactment," "fishing board", "fishery district", "local enactment", "supply of water in bulk" and "watercourse", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (supra); for definition of "statutory water undertakers", see s. 1, ante. As to "enactment", see also s. 15 (4), post.

3. Compulsory acquisition of land for construction of waterworks.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, an order under section twenty-three or section nine of the principal Act authorising any persons to construct or alter waterworks or works connected therewith may authorise those persons to acquire compulsorily any land required for the construction or alteration of those works, being land which they could be so authorised to acquire by means of a compulsory purchase order made under section twenty-four of the principal Act, or under that section as amended by the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946, as the case may be. [4920]

(2) The provisions of the Schedule to this Act shall shave effect in relation to an order under the said section twenty-three or the said section nine which authorises any such acquisition as aforesaid. [4921]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 9, 23 and 24 thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 498, 512, 513. S. 23 is amended by s. 2, ante, and ss. 4 and 14 (7), post.

General note.—For the affect of this section, see Preliminary Note, ante.

This section, which extends the principle of "portmanteau" orders inaugurated by s. 2, ante, enables an order under either s. 9 or s. 23 of the principal Act to include the matter dealt with by s. 24 (4), thereof.

Order.—No order had been made by virtue of this section at the date of going to press.

Land.—"Land" includes any interest in land and any easement or right in, to or over land (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946.—3 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 975. For the amendments made by the Act to s. 24 of the principal Act, see s. 6 of, and Sched. IV to the Act of 1946.

4. Supply of water in bulk.—(1) Subsection (1) of section twelve of the principal Act (which authorises the making of agreements between statutory water undertakers and other persons for the supply of water in bulk) shall have effect as if for the words "Any statutory water undertakers may enter into an agreement with any other persons" there were substituted the words "An agreement may be made between any statutory water undertakers and any other persons." [4922]

(2) An order made under subsection (1) of section twenty-three of the principal Act on the application of persons who propose to become statutory water undertakers may authorise the applicants to supply water in bulk only. [4923]

(3) Any order made by virtue of the last foregoing subsection shall specify the area which, for the purposes of any provisions of the principal Act, is to be deemed to be the limits of supply of the undertakers; and without prejudice to any other powers exercisable by means of an order under the said section twenty-three or under section twelve of the principal Act, the order may authorise or require the applicants to give a supply of water in bulk to any statutory water undertakers specified in the order, being undertakers authorised to supply water in any part of the said area, and may authorise or require those undertakers to take such a supply from the applicants:

Provided that—

(a) where the order requires the giving and taking of such a supply as aforesaid, paragraph 8 of the First Schedule to the principal Act (which provides that in certain circumstances an order shall be transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools to which they go are of higher standards, but the

subject to special parliamentary procedure) shall apply thereto notwithstanding anything in section twenty-three of the principal Act; and

(b) where the order authorises the giving and taking of such a supply, paragraph 23 of that Schedule (which provides that in certain other circumstances an order under section twelve of the principal Act approving an agreement for a bulk supply shall be subject to special parliamentary procedure) shall apply thereto as it applies to an order under the said section twelve approving an agreement to the like effect. [4924]

(4) Paragraph (ii) of the proviso to subsection (1) of the said section twenty-three (which requires the consent of certain local authorities and statutory water undertakers for an order under that section authorising applicants to supply water in any area) shall not apply to an order made by virtue of subsection (2) of this section. [4925]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 12, 23 thereof, and Sched. I, paras. 8, 23, thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 501, 512, 537, 539. S. 23 is amended by ss. 2, 3, ante, and s. 14 (7), post.

General note.—This section clears up two doubts that have arisen with regard to the supply of water in bulk. Sub-s. (1) makes it clear that persons who are not water undertakers can enter into agreements to supply statutory water undertakers with water in bulk. Sub-s. (2) removes any doubt that the Minister may make an order under s. 23 of the principal Act (supra) establishing statutory water undertakers for the purpose of supplying water in bulk only. Such a contingency would arise, for example, where it was desired to form an undertaking to construct head works and a reservoir and to sell the water to the local authorities. The contents of, and procedure for making, any such orders is dealt with in sub-ss. (3) and (4). The provisions of the principal Act governing the making of orders under the said s. 23 will apply thereto together with one of two alternative paragraphs of Sched. I to the principal Act under which the order will in appropriate cases and in slightly different circumstances according to its nature, be subject to special parliamentary procedure. The said provisions are, by sub-s. (2) of the said s. 23, those laid down in Sched. I, Part I, other than para. 8. The additional paragraphs are, in the case of an order under which the giving and taking of a bulk supply is obligatory, the exclusive para. 8, and in the case of an order which is permissive only, para. 23, which provides for the application of special parliamentary procedure to similar orders under s. 12 of the principal Act confirming agreements for bulk supplies.

A further departure from the requirements of the said s. 23 is that the consent of local authorities and statutory water undertakers required by proviso (ii) to sub-s. (1) thereof, will not be necessary in the case of orders under the present section.

Special parliamentary procedure.—As to special parliamentary procedure, see the Statutory Orders (Special Procedure) Act, 1945 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 439).

Notwithstanding anything in s. 23 of the principal Act.—This refers to sub-s. (2) of the said section, which in applying Sched. I, Part I, to the principal Act, specifically excludes para. 8 thereof. The effect of providing that that paragraph shall apply is to make the orders in certain circumstances, subject to special parliamentary procedure. The exception of para. 8 is also negatived in the case of orders under s. 23 which make provision for any of the matters specified in s. 2 (1), ante (see s. 2 (6), ante).

Definitions.—For definition of "statutory water undertakers", see s. 1, ante, for "limits of supply" and "supply of water in bulk", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Order.—No orders had been made by virtue of sub-s. (2), supra, at the date of going to press.

5. Amendments of s. 14 of principal Act.—(1) No licence shall be required under subsection (3) of section fourteen of the principal Act (which prohibits the construction of boreholes for the purpose of abstracting underground water in certain areas except with the licence of the Minister) in respect of the carrying out of any experimental boring or other work for the purpose of ascertaining the presence of underground water or the quality or quantity of such water, if the work is carried out, with the consent of the Minister and in accordance with any conditions subject to which that consent is given, by a person who has applied for a licence under the said subsection (3). [4926]

(2) Subsection (5) of the said section fourteen (which, amongst other things, restricts the abstraction of underground water from certain wells, boreholes or works authorised by subsection (4) of that subsection, except for the purpose for which they were constructed) shall have effect as if the references therein to paragraphs (a) and (c) of the said subsection (4) included a reference to subsection (1) of this section. [4927]

(3) References in the said section fourteen to the construction or extension of any well, borehole, or other work for the purpose of abstracting underground water shall be deemed to include references to the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus for the purpose of abstracting additional quantities of such water:

Provided that no statutory water undertakers shall be required by virtue of this subsection to obtain a licence under the said section fourteen authorising the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus for the purpose of abstracting underground water from a well, borehole or other work if the quantity of water which may be so abstracted is limited by any local enactment. [4928]

(4) Subsection (10) of the said section fourteen shall have effect as if after the word "recoverable" there were inserted the word "summarily". [4929]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For s. 14 thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 504.

General note.—Under s. 14 of the principal Act (supra) no well, borehole or other work for the purpose of abstracting underground water may be constructed in areas to which that section applies except by licence of the Minister of Health. The present section now enables an applicant for a licence to carry out certain preliminary work, such as experimental boring to ascertain the presence of water, without a licence provided he obtains the Minister's consent and complies with any conditions the Minister imposes. This provision, without any lessening of Ministerial control, will obviate the necessity for obtaining a second licence where a first boring proves unsatisfactory and a new site has to be chosen.

In addition, the section stops up a loop-hole in the licensing system by extending it to cover the installation of new or modified machinery in existing wells, etc. for the purpose of abstracting greater quantities of water.

Licence.—As to the procedure for obtaining licences, and the form of application therefor, see the Underground Water (Controlled Areas) Regulations, 1949 (S.I. 1949 No. 881).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Definitions.—For definition of "local enactment", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (supra); for "statutory water undertakers", see s. 1, ante.

6. Amendment of s. 16 of principal Act.—Section sixteen of the principal Act (which empowers statutory water undertakers to prohibit or restrict temporarily the use of hosepipes in certain circumstances) shall have effect as if at the end of the section there were added the following subsection:—

"(5) During any period when a prohibition or restriction imposed under this section is in force, any officer of the undertakers shall, on producing if so required some duly authenticated document showing his authority, have a right at all reasonable hours to enter any premises to which the prohibition or restriction applies for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is or has been any contravention of the prohibition or restriction; and the section of this Act relating to entry of premises shall apply to any such right of entry." [4930]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For s. 16 thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 507.

General note.—This section, which was inserted by amendment in the committee stage of the Bill, gives officers of statutory water undertakers power to enter premises for the purpose of ascertaining whether any prohibition or restriction on the use of hosepipes during water shortages imposed by them under s. 16 of the principal Act, supra, is being observed.

Premises.—"Premises" includes land (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Section of this Act relating to entry of premises.—See s. 48 of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 530).

7. Amendments of s. 42 of principal Act.—(1) Subsection (1) of section forty-two of the principal Act (which requires statutory water undertakers being companies to prepare annual abstracts of the accounts of their undertakings) shall have effect as if the words "in such form as the Minister may direct," were omitted, and as if at the end of the subsection there were added the following paragraph:—

"The Minister may give directions as to the form of the abstracts to be prepared by statutory water undertakers under this subsection, and transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools to which they go are of higher standards, but the amongst the younger school teachers to live, not the small villages in which they teach, but in nearb towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little comsuch directions may be given either in relation to any particular undertakers or in relation to all undertakers of any specified class." [4931]

(2) Subsection (2) of the said section forty-two (which requires such undertakers as aforesaid to transmit to the Minister and to certain local authorities copies of the abstracts prepared under that section) shall have effect as if after the word "certified" there were inserted the words "and a copy of the balance sheet of the undertakers for the year to which the abstract relates." [4932]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1)). For s. 42 thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 538.

General note.—This section effects two small amendments to s. 42 of the principal Act, supra, dealing with the accounts of statutory water undertakers which are companies, in order to bring it into line with accepted practice. Sub-s. (1) makes it clear that companies must prepare an annual abstract of their accounts whether or not the Minister gives directions as to the form in which they are to be prepared. Sub-s. (2) requires companies when sending a copy of the abstract to the local authorities concerned to send also a copy of their balance sheet.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), post; and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Statutory water undertakers.—For definition, see s. 1, ante.

8. Power to survey and search for water on land proposed to be purchased.—(1) The Minister may, on application made to him by any local authority or statutory water undertakers who propose to acquire any land for the purposes of their water undertaking or proposed water undertaking, authorise them to survey that land in accordance with the provisions of this section:

Provided that notice of any such application shall be given by the authority or undertakers to the owner and occupier of the land, and the Minister shall, before giving his authority under this subsection, consider any representations made to him by any such owner or occupier within fourteen days after the receipt of the notice. [4933]

(2) Where any local authority or statutory water undertakers are authorised as aforesaid to survey any land under this section, any officer of the authority or undertakers authorised for the purpose shall, on producing if so required some duly authenticated document showing his authority, have a right at all reasonable hours to enter on and survey the land; and section forty-eight of the principal Act (which makes provision with respect to the exercise of certain powers of entry conferred by that Act) shall apply to any right of entry conferred by this section. [4934]

(3) The power to survey land conferred by this section shall include power to carry out experimental borings or other works for the purpose of ascertaining the nature of the subsoil or the presence of underground water therein, or the quality or quantity of such water, and to reinstate the land after carrying out any such works:

Provided that a person shall not carry out any works authorised by this subsection on land which is occupied unless at least twenty-four hours notice of his intention so to do has been given to the occupier of the land; and if the land is held by any statutory undertakers and those undertakers object to the proposed works on the ground that the carrying out thereof would be seriously detrimental to the carrying on of their undertaking, the works shall not be carried out except with the authority of the appropriate Minister. [4935]

(4) Where any land on which entry is made in pursuance of this section is damaged in the exercise of any power thereby conferred, any person interested in the land may recover compensation in respect of that damage from the local authority or undertakers on whose behalf the entry was effected; and where in consequence of the exercise of such a power any person is disturbed in his enjoyment of any land, he may recover compensation in respect of the disturbance from that local authority or those undertakers. [4936]

(5) If any damage or injury is caused by the escape of water from any land on which works have been carried out in pursuance of this section (not being damage in respect of which compensation is payable under the last foregoing subsection) nothing in this section shall be construed as exonerating the local authority or undertakers on whose behalf the works were carried out from any liability in respect of that damage to which they would be subject if the works had been carried out otherwise than in the exercise of statutory powers. [4937]

(6) Any question of disputed compensation under subsection (4) of this section shall be determined by arbitration in the manner provided by section ninety-one of the Third Schedule to the principal Act. [4938]

(7) Nothing in this section shall be construed as authorising the carrying out of works, or the abstraction of water, in contravention of restrictions imposed by section fourteen of the principal Act. [4939]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 14 and 48 thereof, and Sched. III, s. 91, thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 504, 530, 569. Note that s. 14 is amended by s. 5, ante, and s. 48 is applied both by sub-s. (2), supra, and the new s. 16 (5) of the principal Act inserted by s. 6, ante.

General note.—This section empowers the Minister of Health to authorise local authorities and statutory water undertakers to survey and search for water on land which they propose to purchase for their undertaking so that they may ascertain that it is suitable for the purpose for which it is required. This provision will overcome the difficulty that, hitherto when compulsory powers of acquisition had to be invoked, no survey could be made until the compulsory purchase order had been made and confirmed, and the undertakers might, as a result, be compelled to purchase land which subsequently proved unsuitable.

Owners and occupiers of the land are given a right to make representations to the Minister before he gives his authority, and compensation will be payable in respect of damage and disturbance.

A similar power of survey and search for planning purposes is conferred by the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, s. 103 (40 Halsbury's Statutes 842).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Arbitration.—The manner laid down for arbitration by s. 91 of Sched. III to the principal Act, supra, is by a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the Minister.

Definitions.—For definition of "statutory water undertakers", see s. 1, ante; for "appropriate Minister", and "statutory undertakers", see s. 15 (1), post; for "land", "local authority" and "owner", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

9. Subscriptions to associations of water undertakers.—Without prejudice to any enactment authorising the payment of contributions by a local authority to any association of local authorities, any statutory undertakers, whether a local authority or not, may pay reasonable subscriptions whether annually or otherwise to the funds of any association of water undertakers formed for the purpose of consultation as to the common interests of those undertakers and the discussion of matters relating to the supply of water. [4940]

Any enactment authorising, etc.—See, for example, the County Councils Association Expenses Acts, 1890 to 1947 (10 Halsbury's Statutes 772; 30 Halsbury's Statutes 383; 40 Halsbury's Statutes 595), which authorise payments by county councils to the County Councils Association.

Definitions.—For definition of "statutory undertakers", see s. 15 (1), post; for "enactment" and "local authority", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534). As to "enactment", see also s. 15 (4), post.

10. Amendment of definition of "communication pipe," etc.—(1) Where any main is laid alongside and within sixty feet of the middle of a street, then, for the purposes of the definition of "communication pipe" contained in section one of the Third Schedule to the principal Act, the land in which the main is laid, and any land between the main and the street, shall be deemed to form part of that street, and references in that definition to the part of the street in which the main is laid, and to the boundary of the street in which the main is laid, shall be construed accordingly:

Provided that where the premises supplied with water lie between any such main as aforesaid and the street, only that land in which the main is laid together with any land between the main and those premises shall be deemed to form part of the street. [4941]

(2) Where any main is laid as mentioned in the foregoing subsection, the power of the undertakers to lay service pipes, stop-cocks and other fittings under section twenty-one of the said Third Schedule shall include power, with the consent of every owner and occupier of the land, and subject to payment of compensation for any damage done by the undertakers, to lay such pipes, stopcocks and fittings in, on or over any land which is deemed to form part of a street for the purposes specified in the foregoing subsection. [4942]

(3) Any consent required for the purposes of the last foregoing subsection shall not be unreasonably withhheld, and any question whether such consent is, or is not, unreasonably withheld shall be referred to and determined by the Minister; and any dispute as to the amount of compensation to be paid under the last foregoing subsection shall be determined by arbitration in the manner provided by section ninety-one of the said Third Schedule. [4943]

(4) For the avoidance of doubt it is hereby declared that the provisions of section forty-four of the said Third Schedule (which relates to the vesting in the undertakers of communication pipes) apply to any pipe laid before the commencement of this Act which, by virtue of this section, is deemed to be a communication pipe. [4944]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 1, 21, 44 and 91 of Sched. III thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 544, 552, 557, 569.

General note.—This section effects a small but very necessary enlargement of the power of laying communication pipes (i.e. in general terms, pipes joining a main to the premises supplied) possessed by water undertakers to whom Sched. III to the principal Act (supra) containing "the Waterworks Code" applies. Under s. 19 of that Schedule, undertakers are empowered to lay mains in land not forming part of a street but bordering thereon, and under s. 22 they have power to break open streets for the purpose of laying mains, pipes, etc. They have, however, hithereto had no power, in default of the landowner's consent, to break open land not forming part of a street for the purpose of laying communication pipes, and thus where the main was outside the boundary of a street they might be legally unable to connect a householder with the main although under s. 41 of the Schedule he required them to do so. The present section by the somewhat oblique method of amending the definition of "communication pipe" contained in s. 1, so that, in the given conditions, the land between the main and the street (or, where the premises lie between the main and the street, the land between the main and the premises) is deemed to form part of the street, confers the power necessary to overcome this difficulty.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Arbitration.—The manner laid down for arbitration by s. 91 of Sched. III to the principal Act, supra, is by a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the Minister.

Definitions.—For definitions of "land" and "street", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534); for "main", "owner", "service pipe" and "undertakers", see s. 15 (5), post, and Sched. III, s. 1, to the principal Act.

11. Other amendments of Third Schedule to principal Act.—(1) Section seven of the Third Schedule to the principal Act (which enables the undertakers to acquire easements for underground works) shall have effect as if for subsection (1) of that section there were substituted the following subsection:—

> "(1) Where the undertakers are authorised by the special Act to acquire any land compulsorily for the purpose of executing any underground works, they may, instead of purchasing the land, purchase only such easements and rights over or in the land as may be sufficient for the said purpose, and the Lands Clauses Acts, and the enactments relating to the compensation payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition of land, shall apply accordingly subject to any exceptions and modifications with which those enactments are incorporated with the special Act and to any other necessary adaptations." [4945]

(2) Subsection (1) of section thirty of the Third Schedule to the principal Act (which confers on owners or occupiers of premises the right on certain conditions to demand and receive a supply of water for domestic purposes) shall have effect as if, at the end of the proviso to that subsection, there were added the words " or as requiring the undertakers to supply water for any premises in which any of the water fittings are not in accordance with the requirements of any byelaws made under section seventeen of the Water Act, 1945, or of any byelaws or regulations made under any other enactment for purposes similar to those for which byelaws may be made under the said section seventeen, being byelaws or regulations applicable to those premises." [4946]

(3) Section sixty-three of the Third Schedule to the principal Act (which enables the undertakers to repair supply pipes) shall have effect as if for subsection (2) of that section there were substituted the following subsection :—

" (2) Where several houses or other buildings in the occupation of different persons are supplied with water by one common supply pipe belonging to the owners or occupiers of the houses or buildings, the amount of any such expenses as aforesaid and any expenses reasonably incurred by the undertakers in the maintenance of that pipe may be recovered in manner aforesaid from the owners of those premises in such proportions as, in case of dispute, may be settled by the court, but without prejudice to the rights and obligations, as between themselves, of the owners and occupiers of those premises respectively." [4947]

(4) Subsection (1) of section sixty-four of the said Third Schedule (which imposes penalties for waste of water by non-repair of water fittings) shall have effect as if for the words " If any person " there were substituted the words " If the owner or occupier of any premises," and for the words " water supplied to him " there were substituted the words " water supplied to those premises." [4948]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For s. 17 thereof, and Sched. III, ss. 7, 30 (1), 63, 64 (1), thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 497, 547, 554, 562. Note that Sched. III, s. 64, is clarified by s. 10 (4), ante.

As to the construction of references to Sched. III, see s. 15 (2), post.

General note.—This section makes a number of minor and miscellaneous amendments to Sched. III to the principal Act. A further amendment is made by s. 10, ante.

Sub-s. (1) amends s. 7 of the Schedule so as to enable undertakers who are authorised by this special Act to acquire land compulsorily for the purpose of underground works to purchase only such easements and rights as may be sufficient for that purpose, instead of purchasing the land. This is a provision frequently incorporated in local Acts authorising the compulsory purchase of land.

Sub-s. (2) amends s. 30 of the Schedule which entitles owners and occupiers of premises within the limits of supply of an undertaking who comply with certain conditions to demand and receive a supply of water for domestic purposes. The effect of the amendment is to impose a new condition, that the water fittings of the premises comply with the appropriate bye-laws.

Sub-s. (3) clarifies the position as to the recovery by undertakers of the cost of repairs done by them to common supply pipes serving several premises in different occupation. The owner or occupier of premises is responsible for laying supply pipes, which are, in general terms, the internal water pipes of a building, and their maintenance and repair is his responsibility. Under s. 63 (1) of the Schedule the undertakers have power to execute repairs in certain cases of emergency without being requested to do so and to recover the cost from the owner, he being left free to exercise any right of recourse he may have against any occupier. The original sub-s. (2) of the said s. 63 which deals with the case of repairs to a common supply pipe belonging to the owners or occupiers of several buildings in different occupation did not confine the persons from which the undertakers might recover their expenses to the owners, but empowered them to recover from the owners or occupiers in proportion. A new sub-s. (2) is now substituted bringing it into line with sub-s. (1), the undertaking's right being limited to recovery from the owners in such proportions as, in case of dispute, may be settled by the court but without prejudice to the rights and obligations of the owners and occupiers inter se.

Sub-s. (4) clarifies the position as to responsibility under s. 64 of the Schedule for waste of water due to non-repair of water fittings.

Definitions.—For definitions of "building", "enactment", "house", "owner", "special Act", "supply pipe", "undertakers", and "water fittings", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 1 of Sched. III to the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 544). As to "enactment", see also s. 15 (4), post.

12. Amendment of Public Health Act, 1936.—(1) Where, under subsection (3) of section one hundred and sixteen of the Public Health Act, 1936, the Minister approves the construction by a local authority of works for taking or intercepting water, he may by order (to be made by statutory instrument)

transported to a senior school some miles away. Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools to which they go are of higher standards, but the

amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little com-equity and the loss to the villages, in many places, impose on that authority such restrictions or obligations as appear to him to be expedient for the purpose of or in connection with the carrying out of those works. [4949]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (2) of section one hundred and twenty-seven of the Public Health Act, 1936, (which empowers local authorities to require that water supplied by them to certain premises shall be taken by meter) a local authority who supply water under that Act shall not be entitled to require that water supplied for domestic purposes to premises used as a house shall be taken by meter by reason only that part of the premises is used by the same occupier for purposes of a profession. [4950]

Public Health Act, 1936, ss. 116 (3), 127 (2).—29 Halsbury's Statutes 409, 416.

General note.—Sub-s. (1), supra, simplifies the procedure whereby the Minister in giving his consent under the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 116 (2), supra, to a local authority constructing works for the purpose of supplying water under that Act, can impose conditions as to the manner in which the works are to be carried out.

Sub-s. (2), supra, deals with the power of local authorities to require that water shall be supplied by meter. Under the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 127 (2), a local authority, who have fixed a maximum charge for a supply of water by meter under sub-s. (1) of that section, may require that all water supplied by them to, inter alia, any premises used as a house whereof a part is used by the same occupier for any trade, business or manufacturing purpose for which water is required, shall be taken by meter. Sub-s. (2), supra, now abolishes this requirement so far as concerns water supplied for domestic purposes to a house of which part is used by the same occupier for professional purposes. Compare the Water Act, 1945, Sched. III, s. 49 (38 Halsbury's Statutes 559).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 343 (1); 29 Halsbury's Statutes 538).

Order.—No order under sub-s. (1) had been made at the date of going to press.

Statutory instrument.—As to statutory instruments generally, see the Statutory Instruments Act, 1946 (39 Halsbury's Statutes 783).

Definitions.—For definitions of "house", "local authority" and "premises", see the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 343 (1) (29 Halsbury's Statutes 538).

13. Provisions relating to New Towns development corporations.—(1) Subsection (4) of section twenty-four of the principal Act (which relates to the compulsory acquisition of land by local authorities and statutory water undertakers) and the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946, in its application to the acquisition of land under the said subsection (4) shall have effect as if references therein to a local authority included references to a development corporation established under section two of the New Towns Act, 1946. [4951]

(2) Notwithstanding anything in paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of section twenty-three of the principal Act, a development corporation established as aforesaid shall not be authorised by means of an order under the principal Act to raise capital or borrow money for any purpose. [4952]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 23 (1) (6), 24 (4) thereof, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 512, 513.

Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946.—3 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 1064.

New Towns Act, 1946, s. 2.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 665.

General note.—Sub-s. (1), supra, places the development corporations of New Towns who are or propose to become water undertakers in the same position as local authorities and statutory water undertakers in regard to the compulsory acquisition of land for the purpose of their undertaking. The procedure for the authorisation of such of an acquisition is that laid down in the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946 (3 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 1064). Exceptionally, however, development corporations are not given the temporary powers for speedy acquisition in urgent cases possessed by local authorities under s. 2 of the 1946 Act.

For the provisions regarding the acquisition of land by development corporations for the provisions of services for the purposes of a new town, see the New Town Act, 1946, s. 4 (1) (c) (39 Halsbury's Statutes 667).

Sub-s. (2), supra, provides that development corporations may not be authorised by an order under the principal Act to raise capital or borrow money. This is in conformity with s. 2 (2) of the New Towns Act, 1946, which prohibits the corporations borrowing otherwise than by means of advances from the Minister under s. 12 of that Act.

14. Miscellaneous provisions and consequential amendments.—(1) Every statutory water undertaker, not being a local authority or a joint committee or joint board appointed jointly by two or more local authorities, shall make to the Minister such reports and returns and give him such information with respect to their functions as he may require, or as may be required by either House of Parliament. [4953]

(2) The power conferred on the Minister by section thirty-three of the principal Act to repeal or amend, on the application of any statutory water undertakers, any local enactment relating to the supply of water by those undertakers shall include power to consolidate any such local enactments as aforesaid, with or without amendments. [4954]

(3) Paragraph (a) of the proviso to subsection (1) of the said section thirty-three (which provides that an order under that section shall not vary the quantity of compensation water required by any local enactment to be discharged into any water-course) shall have effect as if, after the word "vary," there were inserted the word "compulsorily". [4955]

(4) Section thirty-seven of the principal Act (which requires statutory water undertakers to provide a domestic supply for new buildings) shall have effect as if references therein to the laying or providing of mains included references to the construction of service reservoirs. [4956]

(5) Subsection (6) of section nine of the principal Act (which precludes the constitution under that section of any joint board which could be constituted under section six of the Public Health Act, 1936) and paragraph 10 of the Second Schedule to the principal Act (which restricts the right of appeal to the House of Lords from a decision of the Court of Appeal on application made under that Schedule) shall cease to have effect. [4957]

(6) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of any order made under the principal Act after the commencement of this Act as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament, and for the purposes of section thirty-eight of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (which relates to the effect of repeals) any such order and any order repealed thereby shall be deemed to be an Act of Parliament. [4958]

(7) In accordance with the foregoing provisions of this Act, section twenty-three of the principal Act shall have effect subject to the following amendments :—

(a) at the beginning of paragraph (i) of the proviso to subsection (1), there shall be inserted the words "except as otherwise provided by the Water Act, 1948," and the words "land or" in that paragraph shall be omitted ;

(b) in subsection (2) the words "other than paragraph 8," shall be omitted and at the end of the subsection there shall be added the following proviso :—

"Provided that paragraph 8 of that Schedule shall not apply except in the cases provided by the Water Act, 1948." [4959]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), post). For ss. 9 (6), 23, 33, 37 thereof. and Sched. II, para. 10, thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 499, 512, 520, 524, 541.

Public Health Act, 1936, s. 6.—29 Halsbury's Statutes 326.

Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 38.—18 Halsbury's Statutes 1005.

General note.—This section contains a number of miscellaneous provisions and amendments consequential upon the earlier provisions of this Act.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health, see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Sub-s. (3).—S. 33 (1) of the principal Act, supra, empowers the Minister on the application of any statutory water undertakers by order to repeal or amend any local enactment relating to the supply of water. This provision is, however, subject to proviso (a) thereto, under which no order under the section may vary the quantity of compensation water required by any local enactment to be discharged into any watercourse or the period during which or the manner in which such compensation water is required to be discharged. Sub-s. (3), supra, by inserting the word "compulsorily" enables the Minister to effect such variation by an order under the section where the interested parties agree thereto. This amendment brings orders under s. 33 of the principal Act into line with orders under s. 23 thereof, under which it has always been possible for the Minister to effect an agreed variation.

Sub-s. (4).—Under s. 37 of the principal Act statutory water undertakers may be required to provide a supply of water for domestic purposes to new buildings if the owner is willing to undertake to make certain annual payments in respect of the expense of providing and laying the necessary mains. Sub-s. (4), supra, is designed to make it clear that the expense of constructing service reservoirs is to be included in these payments.

Definitions.—For definition of "statutory water undertakers", see s. 1, ante; for "local authority", "local enactment" and "watercourse", see s. 15 (5), post, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

15. Interpretation, citation, construction and extent.—(1) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say :—

"principal Act" means the Water Act, 1945;

"statutory undertakers" means persons authorised by any enactment to carry on any railway, light railway, tramway, road transport, water transport, canal, inland navigation, dock, harbour, pier or lighthouse undertaking, or any undertaking for the supply of electricity, gas, hydraulic power, or water;

"appropriate Minister" means—

(a) in relation to statutory undertakers being statutory water undertakers, the Minister;

(b) in relation to statutory undertakers carrying on an undertaking for the supply of electricity, gas or hydraulic power, the Minister of Fuel and Power;

(c) in relation to any other statutory undertakers, the Minister of Transport. [4960]

(2) References in this Act to the Third Schedule to the principal Act shall include references to that Schedule as incorporated by section one hundred and twenty of the Public Health Act, 1936, or by any other enactment in force at the commencement of this Act. [4961]

(3) This Act may be cited as the Water Act, 1948, and the principal Act and this Act may be cited together as the Water Acts, 1945 and 1948. [4962]

(4) Except where the context otherwise requires, references in this Act to any enactment shall be construed as references to that enactment as amended by any subsequent enactment, including this Act. [4963]

(5) This Act shall be construed as one with the principal Act, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, references in the principal Act to any provision of that Act shall be construed as references to that provision as amended by this Act. [4964]

(6) This Act shall not extend to Scotland or Northern Ireland. [4965]

Water Act, 1945.—38 Halsbury's Statutes 491. For Sched. III thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 541.

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (sub-s. (5), supra, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

Public Health Act, 1936, s. 120.—A new s. 120 for that originally enacted (see 29 Halsbury's Statutes 412) was substituted by s. 31 of, and Sched. IV to, the principal Act (38 Halsbury's Statutes 519, 570).

Enactment.—"Enactment" is defined by s. 59 (1) of the principal Act to mean any Act of Parliament, whether public general, local or private, any statutory order, or any provision in an Act of Parliament or statutory order.

Section 3 SCHEDULE

ORDERS UNDER S. 23 OR S. 9 OF PRINCIPAL ACT AUTHORISING COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND

1. The order shall incorporate the Lands Clauses Acts, and those Acts and the enactments relating to the compensation payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition of land shall apply accordingly subject to the exceptions and modifications specified in Parts I and III of the Second Schedule to the Act of 1946, and to such other exceptions and modifications (if any) as may be specified in the order:

Provided that where the undertakers are not a local authority within the meaning of the Act of 1946, paragraphs 3 and 4 of the said Second Schedule shall not apply.

2.—(1) A copy of the notice of the order required by paragraph 2 or paragraph 11 of the First Schedule to the principal Act to be published shall be served in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 3 or paragraph 12 of that Schedule on every owner, lessee and occupier (except tenants for a month or for any period less than a month) of any land authorised by the draft order to be compulsorily acquired.

(2) Where any such land as aforesaid is ecclesiastical property (that is to say land belonging to any ecclesiastical benefice, or being or forming part of a church subject to the jurisdiction of the bishop of any diocese or the site of such a church, or being, or forming part of a burial ground subject to such jurisdiction) a copy of the notice aforesaid shall also be served as aforesaid on the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

3. Where any such objection as is mentioned in paragraph 7 or paragraph 16 of the First Schedule to the principal Act relates to the compulsory acquisition of land, the Minister may require the objector to state in writing the grounds thereof, and if it is certified by the Minister that the objection relates exclusively to matters that can be dealt with by the tribunal by whom compensation for the compulsory acquisition is to be assessed—

(a) the Minister may disregard the objection for the purposes of the said paragraph 7 or paragraph 16, as the case may be; and

(b) where paragraph 8 or paragraph 17 of the said First Schedule applies to the order, the objection shall be disregarded for the purposes of that paragraph.

4. Notwithstanding anything in paragraph 6 or paragraph 15 of the First Schedule to the principal Act, the order as made by the Minister shall not, unless all persons interested consent, authorise the undertakers to acquire compulsorily any land which they would not have been so authorised to acquire if it had been made in terms of the draft submitted to or prepared by him.

5. Subject as hereinafter provided, Part III of the First Schedule to the Act of 1946 (which makes special provision with respect to land of local authorities and statutory undertakers, common land, inalienable land of the National Trust and ancient monuments) shall apply to the order, whether or not the undertakers are a local authority within the meaning of that Act, as it applies to a compulsory purchase order:

Provided that—

(a) nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as authorising the compulsory acquisition by undertakers not being such a local authority as aforesaid of any such land as is mentioned in subsection (6) of section twenty-four of the principal Act; and

(b) where paragraph 8 or paragraph 17 of the First Schedule to the principal Act applies to the order, this paragraph shall have effect as if for the reference to Part III of the First Schedule to the Act of 1946 there were substituted a reference to paragraph 10 of the last-mentioned Schedule.

6. As soon as may be after the order has been made, the undertakers shall publish in one or more local newspapers circulating in the locality in which the land authorised to be acquired is situated a notice describing the land and stating that the order has been made authorising the undertakers to acquire it compulsorily, and naming a place where a copy of the order as made may be inspected at all reasonable hours; and shall serve a like notice and copy of the order on any persons on whom notices with respect to the land were required to be served by virtue of paragraph 2 of this Schedule.

7. Part IV of the First Schedule to the Act of 1946 (which relates to the validity and date of operation of compulsory purchase orders under that Act) shall apply to the order as if it were a compulsory purchase order and as if this Act were included among the enactments specified in subsection (1) of section one of that Act; and sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph 15 of that Schedule shall have effect accordingly, in relation to the order, as if for the words "this Act," in the third place where those words occur, there were substituted the words "the Schedule to the Water Act, 1948," and as if after the words "this Schedule," in the second place where those words occur, there were inserted the words "or the Schedule to the Water Act, 1948":

Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit or restrict the taking of legal proceedings for questioning the order so far as it relates to matters other than the compulsory acquisition of land.

8.—(1) In this Schedule the expression " the Act of 1946 " means the Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946, and the expression " the undertakers " means the persons authorised by the order to acquire land compulsorily.

(2) The provisions of this Schedule shall apply to a development corporation established under section two of the New Towns Act, 1946, as if it were a local authority within the meaning of the Act of 1946. [4966]

Principal Act.—The Water Act, 1945 (s. 15 (1), ante). For ss. 9 and 23 thereof, and Sched. I thereto, see 38 Halsbury's Statutes 498, 512, 536.

Lands Clauses Acts.—These Acts are defined by the Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 23 (18 Halsbury's Statutes 1001) to mean, as respects England and Wales, the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845; the Lands Clauses Consolidation Acts Amendment Act, 1860; the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1869; and the Lands Clauses (Umpire) Act, 1883 (for which, see 3 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 890 et seq.), and any Acts for the time being in force amending the same.

Act of 1946.—The Acquisition of Land (Authorisation Procedure) Act, 1946 (para. 8 (1), supra). For that Act, see 3 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 1064.

Ecclesiastical Commissioners.—The Ecclesiastical Commissioners were dissolved on April 1, 1948, and their property and functions transferred to the Church Commissioners (see the Church Commissioners Measure, 1947; 7 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 1170).

The Minister.—The Minister of Health (see s. 15 (5), ante, and s. 59 (1) of the principal Act; 38 Halsbury's Statutes 534).

New Towns Act, 1946, s. 2.—39 Halsbury's Statutes 665.

General note.—This Schedule contains provisions having effect in relation to an order under s. 9 or s. 23 of the principal Act authorising the compulsory acquisition of land required for the construction or alteration of waterworks or works connected therewith (see s. 3 (2), ante).

ORDERS, CIRCULARS AND MEMORANDA

WATER ABSTRACTION REGULATIONS, 1947

S. R. & O., 1947, No. 2342

October 31, 1947

The Minister of Health, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 6 of the Water Act, 1945, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following regulations :—

1. These regulations may be cited as the Water Abstraction Regulations, 1947, and shall come into operation on the first day of November, 1947. [4967]

2.—(1) In these regulations—

" underground work " means a well, borehole, adit or other underground work used for obtaining a supply of water;

" the Minister " means the Minister of Health.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament. [4968]

3.—(1) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (a) of the proviso to subsection (1) of the said section 6 (which provides that regulations made under that section shall not apply in a case where water is abstracted by an individual for the domestic purposes of his household only) any person who abstracts water from an underground work shall keep such records as are specified in paragraph (2) of this regulation :

Provided that a person who abstracts water from an underground work by means of pumping shall not be required to keep such records in respect of that work unless either—

(a) the work is capable of yielding, if situated in an area mentioned in the first schedule to these regulations at least 20,000, and if situated elsewhere at least 50,000 gallons of water a day; or

(b) the work is one of two or more underground works which supply or may be used to supply water to the same premises by means of pumping and are capable of yielding in the aggregate, if the work is situated in an area mentioned as aforesaid at least 20,000, and if situated elsewhere at least 50,000 gallons of water a day.

(2) The records to be kept by a person for the purpose of these regulations shall, in respect of each underground work to which these regulations apply from which he abstracts water,—

(a) show the quantity of water abstracted each day;

(b) show the rest level, if ascertainable, and the pumping level, as ascertained at some time in the month of October in each year;

(c) include certified copies of any analyses of the water made on his behalf.

(3) For the purposes of this regulation—

(a) the rest level of the water in an underground work means the normal water level therein when no abstraction of water is taking place, measured from the surface of the ground or from the top of the well casing;

(b) the pumping level of the water in an underground work means the water level when abstraction of water therefrom is taking place, measured as aforesaid;

(c) an underground work from which water is or may be abstracted by means of pumping shall be deemed to be capable of yielding so much water a day as the pumping equipment installed in connection therewith is capable under normal working conditions of pumping in a day.

(4) Any record kept for the purposes of these regulations shall be preserved for a period of five years. [4969]

4. A person who is required by the last foregoing regulation to keep the records therein mentioned shall, in respect of each period of twelve months ending on the 31st day of October in which on each of seven or more days he abstracts from any underground work, or from two or more underground works supplying water to the same premises, a greater quantity of water than in the case of works situated in an area mentioned in the first schedule to this order, 20,000 gallons, and in any other case 50,000 gallons, furnish to the Minister in respect of each of the works within twenty-one days of the end of the period a return in the form shown in the second schedule to these regulations. [4970]

5.—(1) The Minister may require any person who is required by these regulations to keep records—

(a) to cause an analysis to be made of any water abstracted by him, in the state in which it is abstracted, and to furnish a copy of the analysis to the Minister; or

(b) to furnish to the Minister a sample, of such quantity as the Minister shall require, of any water abstracted by him, in the state in which it is abstracted.

(2) An analysis for the purposes of this regulation shall be in the form shown in the third schedule to these regulations. [4971]

6. Any officer of the Ministry of Health or the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research authorised for the purpose may, on producing if so required some duly authenticated document showing his authority, at all reasonable hours—

(a) inspect any records kept under these regulations and any apparatus used for the purpose thereof;

(b) take copies of and extracts from any such records;

(c) enter any premises for the purpose of exercising any of the powers aforesaid. [4972]

Often, too, there are not enough children left, under 11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed. It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools to which they go are of higher standards, but the change is not all gain. What the children lose amongst the younger school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little community, and the loss to the villages, in many places,

II, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed.
It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools to which they go are of higher standards, but the change is not all gain. What the children lose, particularly the little ones, by having to undertake these amongst the younger-school teachers to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some

11, to justify a junior school, so these little ones have also to go elsewhere, and the village school is closed.
It is generally agreed that the education and training which both groups thus receive in the bigger schools
to which they go are of higher standards, but the change is not all gain. What the children lose, particularly the little ones, by having to undertake these daily journeys [illegible] amongst the younger school children to live, not in the small villages in which they teach, but in nearby towns or larger villages from which they can travel daily to their work and return, at its close, to some sort of companionship in the evenings. Thus, they make no contribution to the life of the little community, and the loss to the villages, in many places, is even greater than this. Before the general adoption
